After a 2010 season that failed to end in Omaha, Neb. the Tar Heels were determined to return to the College World Series in 2011 and accomplished the feat after flying under the radar throughout the season.

The 2012 season will be a return to form for this group of Tar Heels as several publications have listed the Tar Heels among the top 10 teams in the country once again.

The ACC coaches pegged Carolina as the favorite to claim the league title in 2012 thanks in large part to one of the best bullpens in the country mixed with experienced field players and a talented group of potential starters.

Freshmen All-Americas left-hander Kent Emanuel and third baseman Colin Moran should lead the Tar Heels in 2012, while senior catcher Jacob Stallings provides a veteran presence. Junior closer Michael Morin anchors the bullpen after racking up 10 saves a year ago.

The starting rotation has the chance to feature three underclassmen as several of the newcomers have pushed the returners for starts this season.

The bullpen will feature some of the top arms in the country allowing the coaching staff to mix and match as they please thanks to very little drop off from one guy to the next.

Carolina's infield should be one of the tops in the country with the combination of offensive prowess and ability to keep runners at a minimum.

The outfield will take a few weeks to come together as players battle for starting spots at the corner positions but each spot should have a competition go down to opening day.

The Tar Heels will open the season with three straight weekend series at Boshamer Stadium as Xavier and Horizon League Champion Wright State come to Chapel Hill before 12-time National Champion Southern California makes the trip across the country for a three-game set before ACC play kicks off.

Carolina faces another tough test in conference play as it travels to Clemson, Miami and Virginia. The Tar Heels also host Coastal foe Georgia Tech along with rival NC State.

Starting Pitching

• The Tar Heels return a pair of starters from the weekend rotation but will need to replace Friday night starter Patrick Johnson who became just the fourth pitcher in school history to win 13 games.
• Freshman All-America Kent Emanuel will move into Johnson's Friday night role after a 9-1 debut season.
• Emanuel posted a team-low 2.33 ERA in his first year and capped it off with an impressive shutout of Texas in a College World Series elimination game.
• Entering the season Carolina has several different options for the other three spots in the rotation with freshmen Benton Moss (Enfield, N.C.), Chris O'Brien (Drexel Hill, Pa.) and Luis Paula (McLeansville, N.C.) battling an experienced trio of juniors Chris Munnelly, R.C. Orlan and sophomore Andrew Smith.
• Munnelly comes in with the most experience among the possible starters with 22 starts during his first two years in Chapel Hill.
• Orlan could make the move to the starting rotation after working out of the bullpen the last two seasons but showed off his potential by working 3.2 shutout innings against Vanderbilt at the College World Series.
• Smith made 24 appearances as a freshman posting a 3-1 record with a 2.77 ERA.
• Moss was a heralded recruit out of Rocky Mount High School who earned the prestigious Morehead-Cain Scholarship and proved deserving by making the Dean's List in his first semester on campus.
• O'Brien has added velocity to an already impressive fastball and will push for starts throughout the year.
• Paula is in the mold of several of Carolina's top pitchers as he is very athletic on the mound and possesses four pitches.
• Other Tar Heels who could see spot starts throughout the year are sophomores Shane Taylor and Hobbs Johnson and talented freshman Chris McCue.

Relief Pitching

• Carolina returns all but one pitcher who made more than 10 relief appearances a year ago from a bullpen that was one of the best in the country.
• The back end will be anchored by NCBWA Stopper of the Year Watch List member Michael Morin.
• Morin became the first Tar Heel since Andrew Carignan in 2007 to reach double-digits in saves when he closed out 10 ball games in 2011 for the Tar Heels.
• The eighth inning set up role looks to be filled by talented freshman Mason McCullough (Shelby, N.C.) who displayed a power arm during the fall and an ability to get timely outs.
• The Tar Heels have plenty of matchup options in the bullpen with a pair of left-handers that appeared a combined 64 times in 2011 with junior R.C. Orlan and sophomore Tate Parrish.
• Fellow southpaw Hobbs Johnson increased his velocity in the fall and should see plenty of opportunities this spring.
• Freshman right-hander Chris McCue (Charlotte, N.C.) has a quick, loose arm and should push for innings early in the season.
• Freshmen George Carter (LHP, Mayodan, N.C.), Peter Hendel (LHP, Waxhaw, N.C.) and Trevor Kelley (RHP, Wilmington, N.C.) should all battle for innings as well.

Catcher

• Senior Jacob Stallings returns for his third season as the Tar Heel backstop after starting 65 of 67 games behind the plate a year ago.
• Stallings was tabbed in the 42nd round of the 2011 MLB Draft by the Cincinnati Reds but turned down the opportunity to turn pro to come back for his final campaign.
• Stallings showed off his defensive prowess a year ago as he set UNC's single-season record for caught stealings as he cut down 32 runners on the year.
• The Brentwood, Tenn., native finished third on the team with a .292 average and led the Tar Heels in hitting throughout the fall season.
• Sophomore Matt Roberts suffered through an injury-plagued freshman season but will provide relief for Stallings when needed this year.
• Roberts worked on his hitting approach this summer and fall and should factor into the lineup somewhere in 2012.
• Brian Holberton saw a lot of time at designated hitter as a freshman and should see time there again this season but if necessary could provide backup at the catcher position.

First Base

• Junior college transfer Cody Stubbs displayed an impressive power stroke throughout the fall and looks to be the opening day starter at first base for the Tar Heels.
• Stubbs hit .403 at Walters State in 2011 with 16 doubles, 17 home runs and 75 RBI to lead to the team before getting drafted by the Washington Nationals in the 14th round of the 2011 MLB Draft.
• Stubbs turned down the Nationals offer to come to Chapel Hill and should provide a power bat in the lineup for the Tar Heels.
• Sophomores Tom Zengel and Parks Jordan could also spell Stubbs at times during the year after seeing time during the 2011 season.
• Freshman Grayson Atwood (Mt. Pleasant, N.C.) will battle for time at first base as well.

Second Base

• Junior Tommy Coyle will make the move to shortstop this year, leaving the second base position open to competition.
• Freshman Mike Zolk (Philadelphia, Pa.) was the leader after the fall thanks to his display of defensive and offensive ability.
• Zolk should see plenty of competition from freshmen middle infielders Shell McCain (Fort Mill, S.C.) and Josh Ake (Flemington, N.J.).
• McCain can play all over the infield and showed off his versatility during the fall season.
• Ake was a 29th round selection by the New York Mets in the 2011 MLB Draft and provides a solid bat and reliable glove for the Tar Heels.

Third Base

• Entering the 2011 season the hot corner was a question mark for the Tar Heels as no one emerged out of the fall season.
• Sophomore Colin Moran had a quiet fall but immediately showed he was more than capable to hold down the starting spot as he hit .409 in the opening month of the season and did not slow down from there.

Jacob Stallings

• The Rye, N.Y., native became the first freshman since Dustin Ackley in 2007 to earn All-America honors and also picked up Baseball America Freshman of the Year and ACC Freshman of the Year honors.
• Moran paced the Tar Heels with a .335 average and led the ACC with 71 RBI as a freshman.
• Freshmen Mike Zolk and Shell McCain could spell Moran at third base if necessary.

Shortstop

• Carolina will look to replace a first round draft pick in its infield once again in 2012 as junior Levi Michael was tabbed 30th overall by the Minnesota Twins in the 2011 MLB Draft.
• Junior Tommy Coyle will step into the spotlight after starting at second base the last two seasons.
• Coyle was second on the team with a .311 average and scored a team-high 57 runs a year ago and has been the model of consistency since his time in Carolina Blue.
• Coyle hit over .300 at the Cape Cod Summer League and continued showing off an impressive stroke during the fall as well.
• The Chalfont, Pa., native started five games at shortsop a year ago in place of an injured Michael and looked very comfortable in the position.
• Freshman Josh Ake could also provide depth behind Coyle at shortstop.

Outfield

• Junior Chaz Frank makes the move to centerfield for the 2012 season after starting in left field as a sophomore.
• Frank came on late in the year to spark the offense and finished with a .411 on-base perecentage for the season.
• The corner outfield competition will be one of the most watched ones this spring as several different Tar Heels could see time in the starting lineup.
• Left field could see sophomore Parks Jordan claim the starting spot after opening the 2011 season as the starter while making 33 appearances as a freshman.
• Freshman Michael Russell (Huntersville, N.C.) had a solid fall and could see time in left thanks to his defense and power stroke.
• If Stubbs is not starting at first base he could also find himself in the outfield.
• Sophomore Tom Zengel started several games in right field a year ago and could see time there again this season after driving in 23 runs as a freshman.
• Freshman two-way player Adam Griffin (Clemmons, N.C.) should factor into the right field discussion as he hit well during the fall and displayed one of the top arms in the outfield.
• Another freshman, Bradley Morton (Winston-Salem, N.C.), should also battle for playing time in the outfield.

Designated Hitter

• Holberton came on late in the year and earned the starts at designated hitter throughout the postseason and hit nearly .300 for the tournament.
• With a bevy of left-handed hitters in the lineup, Carolina is sure to see plenty of left-handed pitchers throughout the year which will have Matt Roberts in the lineup to counter.
• Roberts could also earn the position outright after battling injuries a year ago.

Mike Fox

Head Coach • 14th Season At Carolina
North Carolina, 1978

Entering his 14th season as head coach at the University of North Carolina, Mike Fox has guided his alma mater to the most successful period in school history and firmly established the Tar Heels as one of the nation's preeminent college baseball programs. Capped by five trips to the College World Series in the last six years, Carolina has made 12 appearances in the NCAA Tournament and posted a 589-246-1 record in Fox's 13 seasons in Chapel Hill.

Fox, who ranks first among the game's active leaders in career winning percentage, has been recognized by several outlets as one of the nation's top coaches in recent years. Baseball America honored Fox as its national coach of the year in 2008, and Fox's peers - the American Baseball Coaches Association - selected him as the Atlantic Region Coach of the Year in three of the last four seasons.

Fox's leadership and vision were instrumental in the construction of the $25.6-million Boshamer Stadium, which opened in 2009 to rave reviews as one of the finest collegiate baseball facilities in the nation.

One of only six men to play in and then coach his alma mater to the College World Series, Fox has led Carolina to 10 consecutive trips to postseason play for the first time in school history.

Fox has coached his teams to NCAA tourney play in 26 of his 28 seasons as a head coach, including a combined 13 trips to the NCAA Division I and Division III World Series. Fox, who has led Carolina to 13 College World Series victories over the last six seasons, has either played or coached in all 15 CWS wins by the Tar Heels.

But just as important as the on-field success Fox has found at UNC is the type of program that he has built. On Feb. 28, 2007, while the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 by Baseball America, they also claimed the top spot when USA Today re-ranked its preseason top 25 based on the NCAA's Academic Progress Rate (APR). Fox's players are regulars on the Atlantic Coast Conference's Academic Honor Roll, including 20 honorees over the last five seasons, and he has coached four ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District III selections in the last seven years, including Adam Warren, who was an Academic All-America pick in 2009.

Fox became the 24th head coach in Carolina history on May 7, 1998, when Athletic Director Dick Baddour selected the former UNC player and North Carolina Wesleyan College head coach to lead the Tar Heels into the 21st century. Fox is just third head coach in Chapel Hill since 1947.

Fox has set a high standard of success in his first 13 years on the job, averaging more than 45 wins per season and guiding the Tar Heels to 50 or more victories in four of the last six seasons. Fox collected his 700th career college coaching victory in 2002, his 800th career win in 2005 and his 900th win in 2007. He reached the 1,000-win mark with a 10-3 victory over Gardner-Webb March 4, 2009 and notched his 1,100th win last year.

Overall, 58 Tar Heels to play for Fox over the past 13 years have been drafted by Major League Baseball organizations, including 10 first-round or supplemental selections: Levi Michael in 2011, Matt Harvey in 2010, Dustin Ackley and Alex White in 2009, Andrew Miller and Daniel Bard in 2006, Russ Adams in 2002, Tyrell Godwin in 2000 and Mike Bynum and Kyle Snyder in 1999.

Twenty-six of Fox's former Tar Heels were on professional rosters in 2011. The 2011 MLB season was a season of firsts for several of Fox's former players as five Tar Heels made their major league debuts. Dustin Ackley and Kyle Seager debuted for the Seattle Mariners, while Andrew Carignan (Oakland Athletics), Tim Federowicz (Los Angeles Dodgers) and Alex White (Cleveland Indians) all played in the majors in 2011.

Fox has coached 24 first-team All-ACC selections, including third baseman Colin Moran last season. Tar Heels have earned 20 different All-America honors under Fox, including the most recent Moran and right-hander Patrick Johnson in 2011.

Moran became the fourth Tar Heel under Fox's tutelage to be named ACC Freshman of the Year as he joined Adam Greenberg (2000), Daniel Bard (2004) and Dustin Ackley (2007). Moran also joined Ackley as Baseball America's Freshman of the Year in 2011.

The Tar Heels advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the 10th consecutive year under Fox in 2011 as the team racked up 51 wins and another trip to the College World Series. The College World Series appearance made Carolina the 13th school in NCAA history to appear in five College World Series in a six-year span. Carolina is just one of three teams in the ACC to earn a trip to the NCAA Tournament 10 straight seasons.

Carolina became the first school in ACC history to make four straight trips to the College World Series in 2009. The Tar Heels featured Dustin Ackley who would finish as UNC's career leader in average, hits, runs and total bases. Ackley was the Tar Heels' top individual performer in 2009, as he posted an ACC-best .417 average and 22 home runs, while also adding 111 hits, 75 runs and 73 RBI. He was named Rivals.com National Player of the Year and became the first three-time All-America in school history.

Paced by the first All-America quartet in school history (Alex White, Kyle Seager, Dustin Ackley and Tim Fedroff), the Tar Heels went 54-14 and reached the College World Series for the third straight season in 2008, placing third. Despite not playing on campus with Boshamer Stadium under construction, Carolina hosted both NCAA regionals and super regionals in Cary and went 5-0 en route to yet another trip to Omaha. Following a series win at then-No. 1 Miami, the Tar Heels earned the first consensus No. 1 ranking in school history May 19. Chad Flack completed his career as Carolina's career leader in hits, games, at-bats and total bases in 2008.

After breaking through with a CWS runner-up finish in 2006, the Tar Heels matched that feat in 2007 despite losing a pair of first-round selections on the mound in Miller and Bard. Carolina won a school record and NCAA-best 57 games and brought home its second straight ACC Coastal Division title and first ACC tournament title since 1990 in the process. In Omaha, Carolina dropped its second game before winning three straight to reach the finals for the second straight season. In 2006, the Tar Heels captured the ACC's Coastal Division title and reached the College World Series for the first time since 1989. Carolina won a then-school record 54 games, including a record 38 at home, and hosted its first NCAA Regional at Boshamer Stadium since 1983. The Tar Heels won their second regional under Fox and then captured the Tuscaloosa Super Regional in dramatic fashion to punch their fifth ticket to Omaha. There, Carolina won its first four games before falling to Oregon State in the championship series, two games to one.

Miller won Baseball America National Player of the Year honors and the Roger Clemens Award as the nation's top pitcher, and he joined Horton as an All-America selection. Senior Jonathan Hovis led the nation in ERA at 1.17, while Flack set Carolina's single-season hit record with 112.

From 2002-05, the Tar Heels won 40-plus games in each season and reached the NCAA Tournament every year. The 2003 squad was at its best in the postseason, sweeping through the NCAA Starkville Regional with a 3-0 record, including a pair of wins over host Mississippi State. The regional victory was the first for Carolina since the 1989 team reached the College World Series.

Carolina also earned top-10 national rankings in 2005 and in 2004 with a team that was led by All-Americas Marshall Hubbard and Chris Iannetta. Hubbard drove in a school-record 83 runs, while Iannetta, who made his major league debut with the Colorado Rockies in 2006, was one of three finalists for the Johnny Bench Award, presented annually to nation's top collegiate catcher. In a record-setting 2000 season, Carolina posted a 46-17 mark, the second-most victories in a season in school history. Carolina earned the No. 2 seed at the NCAA Regional at Upper Montclair, N.J., and came just one win away from advancing to the NCAA Super Regional.

In his first year on the job, Fox led Carolina to a school-best 16 straight wins to open the 1999 season and, in the midst of going 22-2 to start the year, the Tar Heels peaked at No. 3 the Baseball America rankings. Carolina went on to earn the No. 3 seed in the NCAA Tournament Palo Alto Regional.

Fox came to Carolina after 15 seasons as the head coach at N.C. Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, where he led the Battling Bishops to 14 NCAA Tournament appearances, eight Division III College World Series appearances and the 1989 NCAA Division III national championship. His teams posted 15 consecutive top-20 finishes in the national polls and won 11 Dixie Conference championships.

Fox's career record of 540-141-4 at N.C. Wesleyan ranked second in career winning percentage (.792) among all active Division III head coaches at the time of his return to Carolina.

Fox was a three-year letterwinner at Carolina as a second baseman from 1976-78, helping lead the Tar Heels to the 1978 College World Series. As a senior, he hit .277, tied for the team lead with six home runs and was named to the College World Series all-tournament team. Fox also played on the Tar Heel junior varsity basketball team under Eddie Fogler in the 1975 and `76 seasons.

The 55-year old native of Asheville, N.C., is a 1978 graduate of Carolina with a degree in physical education. He earned his Master of Arts in teaching at UNC in 1979. Fox served as a graduate assistant at Carolina during the 1979 season and was the head coach at Millbrook High School in Raleigh in 1980 and `81 before taking over as N.C. Wesleyan's head coach in September of 1982. He also had served as the Battling Bishops' athletic director since 1985.

Fox was named the American Baseball Coaches Association Division III National Coach of the Year in 1989 after leading the Battling Bishops to the national title. He has been named the NCAA South Region Coach of the Year and the Dixie Conference Coach of the Year seven times each. He coached 29 All-Americas at N.C. Wesleyan and 92 percent of his players graduated.

The 1974 graduate of East Mecklenburg High School in Charlotte, N.C., played independent professional baseball for a year after graduating from Carolina before returning to his alma mater as a graduate assistant in 1979.

Scott Forbes

Associate Head Coach - Seventh Season At Carolina
North Carolina Wesleyan, 1998

Collegiate Baseball newspaper's 2008 National College Pitching of the Year, Scott Forbes is in his seventh season mentoring North Carolina's pitching staff and his third as the Tar Heels' associate head coach.

Forbes, who has totaled a record of 621-259 in 14 seasons as an assistant coach, has been an instrumental part of the Tar Heels' run to the College World Series in five of the last six seasons.

Under his guidance, the Carolina pitching staff has ranked among nation's top 35 in earned run average in each of the last six seasons.

On the recruiting front, Forbes played in an integral role in landing some of the nation's top talent as every class brought in to Carolina during his time has been ranked among the top 10 in the country.

Forbes, who is in his second stint in Chapel Hill, was an assistant at UNC from 1999-2002 and served as an assistant at Winthrop University for three seasons before returning to Carolina prior to the 2006 season.

Forbes has watched over the top three strikeout pitchers in UNC history as Andrew Miller, Alex White and Patrick Johnson are the only hurlers to eclipse 300 strikeouts in a career.

Johnson was the latest Tar Heel hurler to earn All-America honors under Forbes as the senior picked up 13 wins and posted a sub-3.00 ERA.

In Chapel Hill, 17 of Forbes' pitchers have either been drafted or signed professional contracts over the last five seasons, including first-round picks Daniel Bard (2006), Andrew Miller (2006), Alex White (2009) and Matt Harvey (2010). Forbes and the rest of the UNC staff have gained a reputation of putting the health and future of their pitchers first and foremost, and Miller said it best during the 2006 College World Series: "I appreciate the coaches basically taking care of me. I've seen a lot of pitchers get abused in the postseason. They have my best interests at heart."

Miller blossomed under Forbes and was named Baseball America's National Player of the Year, the Roger Clemens Award winner, first-team All-America and the Atlantic Coast Conference Pitcher of the Year, while setting UNC records for single-season and career strikeouts in 2006. The No. 6 overall pick by the Detroit Tigers, Miller made his major league debut Aug. 30, 2006, and is currently with the Boston Red Sox with fellow first round pick Daniel Bard.

Bard had an outstanding rookie season with the Boston Red Sox in 2009 and has made more than 200 appearances during his time in the big leagues. White was the No. 15 overall selection by the Cleveland Indians in 2010 and made his MLB debut in 2011 before getting traded to the Colorado Rockies.

Harvey was the most recent success story under Forbes, the Mystic, Conn., native was drafted in the third round coming out of high school and developed his craft even more at Carolina en route to becoming the No. 7 overall pick in the 2010 draft.

After working with Forbes and dropping his arm slot prior to the 2007 season, Milwaukee Brewers prospect Rob Wooten emerged as one of the nation's top relievers with 91 appearances over his final two seasons.

White anchored the Tar Heels' staff for the second straight season in 2009 and earned first-team All-ACC honors for the second straight season. He was joined on the all-conference team by Brian Moran and Adam Warren, who finished his career second in school history with 32 victories. Additionally, Moran became the fourth pitcher to earn All-America honors under Forbes, joining Carignan, Miller and White.

In 2008, White was also named ACC Pitcher of the Year and - along with Wooten - claimed All-ACC honors. Additionally, freshmen right-handers Matt Harvey and Colin Bates earned freshman All-America honors in 2008.

In 2007, right-hander Robert Woodard completed his decorated career as the Tar Heels' career leader in wins and is the only pitcher to rank in the UNC's top 10 in wins, winning percentage, innings and strikeouts. In Miller, Woodard and Warren, Forbes has coached the Tar Heels' career leaders in strikeouts, wins and winning percentage, respectively.

Additionally, Forbes has mentored a pair of relievers to NCAA-best performances, as Jonathan Hovis led the nation with a 1.17 ERA in 2006, and Carignan shared the NCAA lead with 18 saves in 2007.

In his final season at Winthrop, Forbes helped guide the Eagles to one of the finest seasons in program history in 2005, as they won the Big South title, earned the No. 2 seed in the NCAA Knoxville Regional and posted a 44-22 record. He helped coach five All-Americas and five Major League Baseball draft picks while at Winthrop.

Forbes, who was promoted to assistant head coach prior to the 2005 season, served as the Eagles' recruiting coordinator and third base coach. He also worked as the position coach for catchers, outfielders and first basemen and coordinated the Eagles' strength and conditioning program, academic advising, community service and team travel. Forbes joined the Winthrop staff in July 2002.

Prior to his stint with the Eagles, Forbes was on Fox's staff at Carolina for four seasons, helping the Tar Heels to NCAA Regional appearances in 1999, 2000 and 2002. While in Chapel Hill, he assisted long-time pitching coach Roger Williams with instruction for the Tar Heels' hurlers and served as position coach for Carolina's catchers and corner infielders. Forbes also assisted with recruiting and served as director of Carolina's summer camps.

While at UNC, Forbes spent two summers as head coach and pitching coach of the Coastal Plain League's Wilmington Sharks. In 1999, he guided his team to the CPL title and earned the league's Coach of the Year award and tallied a 59-34 overall record in two summers with the team.

After a standout playing career for Fox at North Carolina Wesleyan, Forbes broke into coaching as an assistant with the Battling Bishops during the 1998 season. He served as the team's pitching instructor and called pitches, helping Wesleyan to a 42-9 record and a sixth-place finish at the NCAA Division III College World Series. Forbes also worked as the team's strength coordinator and first base coach.

As a player, Forbes hit .321 at Wesleyan from 1995-97 and led the team to a pair of Dixie Conference titles and a fifth-place finish at the 1997 Division III CWS. As a senior, he hit .387 with 61 RBI and 27 doubles, which set the NCAA Division III single-season record. That season, he earned second-team all-region honors and was named most valuable player of the Dixie Conference Tournament, as well as Wesleyan's MVP. Forbes also earned a spot on the regional all-tournament squad. He spent the 1994 season at Middle Georgia College, where he helped the team to the Georgia junior college state title.

Forbes earned a Bachelor of Science degree in business administration from North Carolina Wesleyan in May 1998. He is married to the former Mandy Passwaters, and the couple has two daughters, Hannah and Ally.

Scott Jackson

Assistant Coach - Fourth Season At Carolina
Campbell, 1998

Scott Jackson is entering his fourth year as an assistant baseball coach and the recruiting coordinator at the University of North Carolina in 2012. Jackson, who joined the Tar Heels in July 2008 after one season at Liberty, works with the offense, including hitting and base running, as well as infield play.

The Tar Heels have a record of 136-56 during Jackson's time in Chapel Hill and have turned in three consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances, including a pair of College World Series showings.

Despite the change in NCAA bat regulation in 2011 the Tar Heels turned in one of the top scoring seasons in school history. Carolina finished 10th in the nation in runs scored by putting up 452 for the season. A big reason for Carolina's run scoring was its ability to draw walks and get on base as the Tar Heels' 358 walks ranked second in the country.

Jackson's work with the Carolina infield came to fruition in 2011 as the Tar Heels finished fifth in the country and set a new school record with a .979 fielding percentage. Not a single player on the squad committed more than nine errors in 67 games.

Jackson was a big part of Levi Michael's development since stepping on campus. Michael was a Freshman All-America as a second baseman before making the move to third base in 2010 and to shortstop for the 2011 campaign. Michael's versatility appealed to the Minnesota Twins who selected the infielder 30th overall in the 2011 MLB Draft.

A pair of infielders turned in banner seasons a year ago under Jackson's watch as third baseman Colin Moran and Tommy Coyle each earned All-ACC honors.

Moran came to Carolina as an unheralded recruit but has developed into one of the top hitters in the country as he earned All-America honors and was named the Baseball America Freshman of the Year in 2011.

In his first season in Chapel Hill, Jackson helped guide the Tar Heels to their fourth consecutive College World Series appearance, a .313 team batting average and a .970 fielding percentage.

Jackson helped coach three-time All-America Dustin Ackley to Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year honors and also mentored all-conference selection Kyle Seager and freshman All-America Levi Michael. Both Ackley and Seager were selected in the top three rounds of the 2009 Major League Baseball First-Year Player Draft.

Jackson's efforts on the recruiting trail have also paid off for the Tar Heels pulling in three straight top-10 classes, the 2010 group of newcomers ranked No. 7 nationally, while the 2011 class was ranked No. 6 and the latest group was ranked No. 4 in the country.

Prior to joining the staff at UNC, Jackson served as pitching coach at Liberty and UNC Wilmington over the last six years but has worked with hitters in coaching stops at Campbell, Barton and Wofford. He also served as head coach of the Wilmington Sharks of the Coastal Plain League in 2002 and earned the league's Coach of the Year Award.

In 2008 at Liberty, Jackson helped guide the Flames to a 35-26-1 record and a runner-up finish in the Big South Tournament to Cary Super Regional participant Coastal Carolina. Two of his pitchers were chosen in the 2008 Major League Baseball First-Year Player Draft, and his staff recorded a school record 508 strikeouts.

Jackson helped guide UNC Wilmington to one of the most successful periods in school history from 2003-07. He was an integral part of a staff that posted three straight 40-win seasons, won Colonial Athletic Association titles in 2004 and 2006 and reached the NCAA Tournament in 2003, 2004 and 2006.

Under Jackson's tutelage, six Seahawk pitchers were selected in the MLB Draft after going undrafted out of high school. His pitching staff established a number of school records at Wilmington, including strikeouts and saves.

Jackson also had coaching stints at Campbell (2002), Barton (2001) and Wofford (2000). In addition to his collegiate work, Jackson also spent two seasons with the Wilmington Sharks, where he was an assistant to fellow North Carolina assistant Scott Forbes in 2000. He led the Sharks to a league-best 31-17 mark in 2002 as head coach and coached five MLB draft picks.

Jackson is a 1998 graduate of Campbell with a bachelor's degree in physical education and he earned a master's degree in education in 2000, also from Campbell. During his playing days with the Camels, he played seven different positions and posted a career .268 batting average in 182 games.

He also ranks among top 10 in Atlantic Coast Conference history in victories and innings pitched.

The right-hander led Carolina to back-to-back appearances in the championship round of the College World Series in 2006 and 2007. Woodard graduated from UNC in December of 2008 with a bachelor's degree in management and society.

LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

Developing World-Class Leaders for a Lifetime of Service and Success

UNC student-athletes have the opportunity to participate in the Carolina Leadership Academy. As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Carolina Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world-class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Carolina Leadership Academy provides comprehensive and cutting-edge leadership development programming through interactive workshops, 360-degree feedback, one-on-one coaching, peer mentoring and educational resources.

The Carolina Leadership Academy consists of three programs:

CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the freshman year. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore freshmen are taught skills to effectively lead themselves. Training consists of monthly meetings featuring keynote speakers and small group discussion. Upperclass student-athletes serve as peer mentors and discussion leaders. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices, ethics and character building.

Rising Stars Program

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn and reinforce leadership principles and share successes, frustrations and lessons.

Chris Munnelly and Jacob Stallings represent the baseball team on the Student-Athlete Advisory Council

BOSHAMER STADIUM

With the 2009 opening of the state-of-the art Boshamer Stadium, the University of North Carolina baseball program can now call one of the finest facilities in all of collegiate baseball home.

The completely new facility, built within the same footprint as the old Boshamer Stadium, brings incredible upgrades to the program, and the changes allow Tar Heel student-athletes to compete at the highest level in an atmosphere unlike any other venue in collegiate baseball.

Located on Ridge Road in the heart of the Carolina campus, the site of Boshamer Stadium has been the home of the Diamond Heels since the late 1960s when Emerson Field was razed due to University expansion. Ground was broken on the new stadium in October 2007 and the team moved into its brand-new home in February 2009.

The original Boshamer was opened in 1972 and hosted five Atlantic Coast Conference Tournaments, as well as NCAA regionals in 1983, 2006 and 2007. The Tar Heels closed "The Bosh" in style with a Super Regional victory over South Carolina in 2007 to advance to the program's sixth College World Series.

Boshamer Stadium was a gift from 1917 Carolina graduate and textile industrialist Cary C. Boshamer of Gastonia, N.C.

Listed capacity of 4,100 with room for overflow crowds of more than 5,000. There is chairback seating throughout the facility, and fans can enjoy clean sightlines throughout the facility, a wider concourse and vastly improved restroom, concession and merchandise facilities.

The concourse level also features a Hall of Honor space on the third base line that offers stunning views of the action. Additionally, 10 picnic tables will be scattered throughout the facility, and a small grass area, reminiscent of the grassy bank at the old stadium, is located on the first base line.

Both dugouts are 75 feet long and completed with padded benches and cubbies for each player. The dugouts feature poured rubber floors with camera wells on each end.

The stadium also features a new lighting system that exceeds AAA minor league standards and is on par with the finest professional stadiums.

THE HOME OF THE TAR HEELS

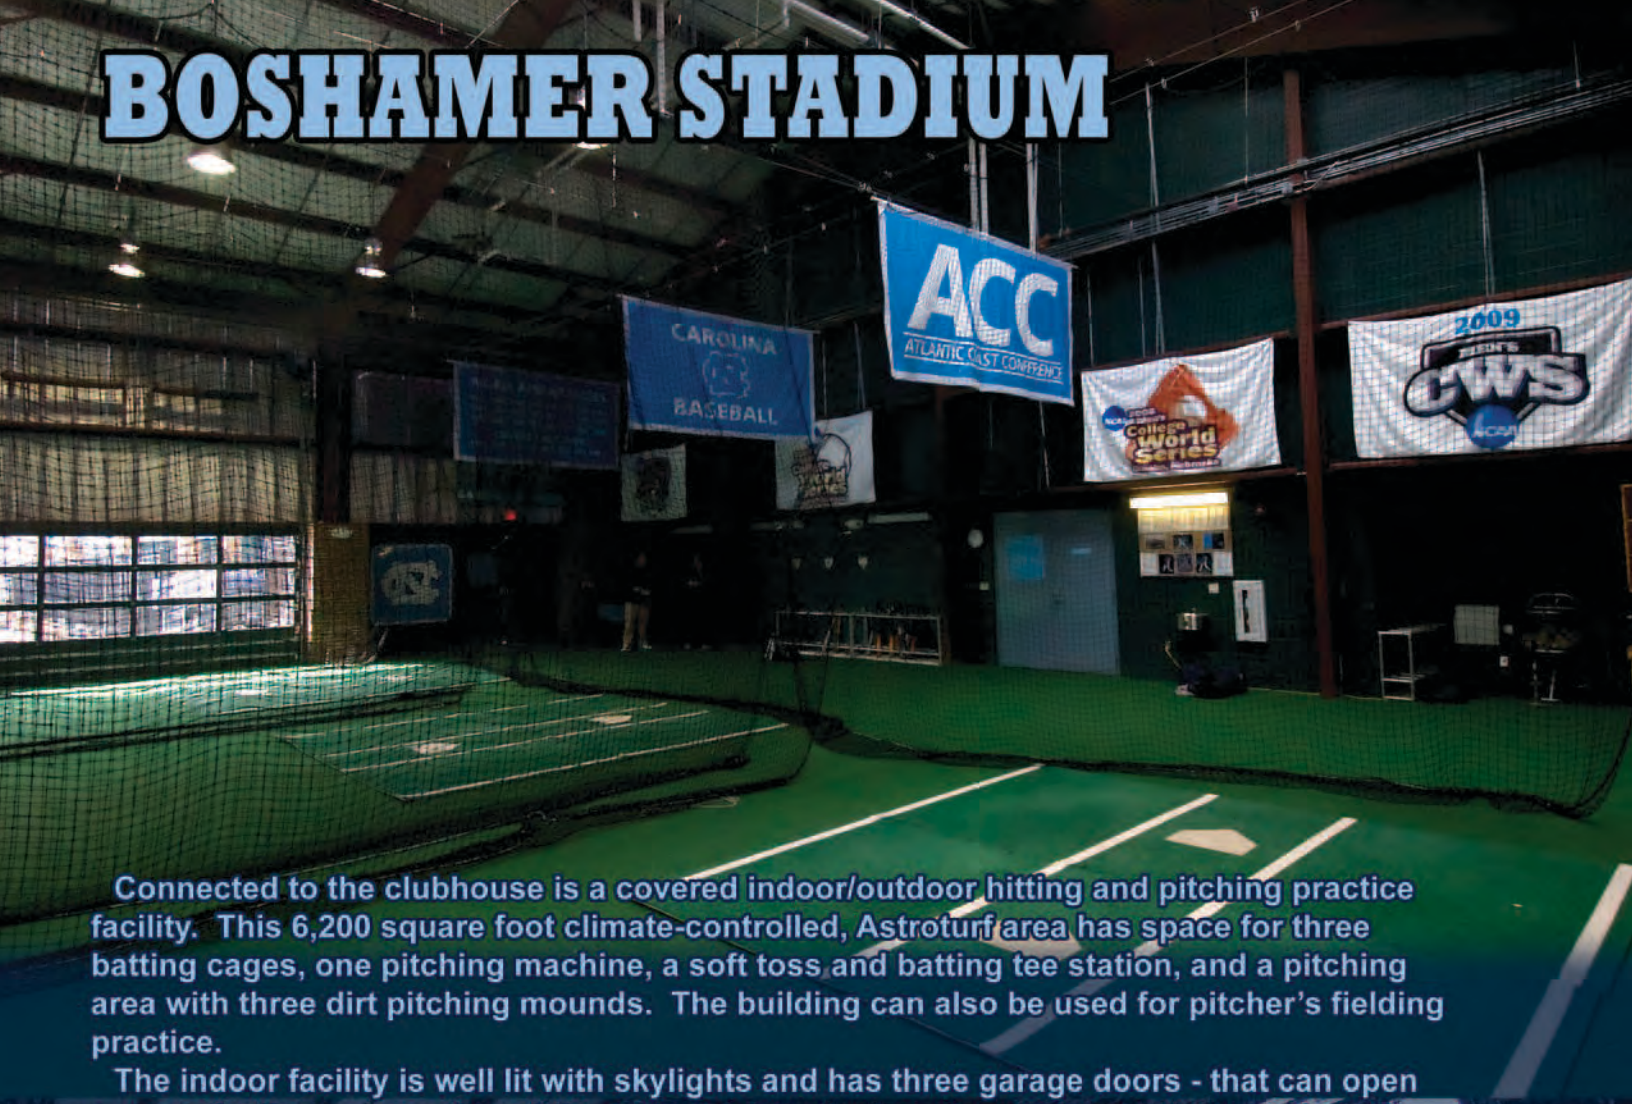

In addition to the clubhouse area, playing surface and seating bowl, the uper deck was added to join the elite facilites in college baseball. Housed down the third base line are offices for the Carolina coaches and staff along with a reception area. Each office features a view of the stadium, as well as a balcony that overlooks the field.

Just off the coaches' offices area is an 800-square foot patio facing the front of the stadium and Ridge Road. This spot is ideal for entertaining and is available for cookouts and meals on both game days and for football games in the fall.

BOSHAMER STADIUM

Connected to the clubhouse is a covered indoor/outdoor hitting and pitching practice facility. This 6,200 square foot climate-controlled, Astroturf area has space for three batting cages, one pitching machine, a soft toss and batting tee station, and a pitching area with three dirt pitching mounds. The building can also be used for pitcher's fielding practice.

The indoor facility is well lit with skylights and has three garage doors - that can open automatically - on one side of the facility for fresh air and sunlight. It sits just 20 yards from the locker room and is accessible via a hallway for players on rainy days without going outside.

THE HOME OF THE TAR HEELS

Bryson Field at Boshamer Stadium includes a new infield playing surface, new grass, new irrigation and drainage systems, padded outfield walls and a new batters' eye. The drainage system is state-of-the-art and is capable of handling upwards of 15 inches of rain per hour.

New Astroturf bullpens, located off the field, were also installed, as was a 10-foot rubberized warning track around the outside of the playing field. A brick wall behind home plate and down each line adds to the classic look of the bullpen.

In the video room, the Tar Heels can view footage from every practice, scrimmage, at-bat and pitch. The stadium features three permanently mounted cameras that record all the action from a different angle. Additionally, there is wireless access throughout the clubhouse.

THE RAMS CLUB — A NEED FOR GROWTH

The cost of competing at the highest level and educating outstanding student-athletes continues to climb. The Rams Club must grow its membership and level of support to keep Carolina as one of the nation's premier athletics programs both athletically and academically.

The Rams Club has witnessed impressive growth over the past several years—51% of members have joined within the last 10 years. Membership in The Rams Club is available through endowment and annual gifts. Gifts of all sizes are important—47% of all Annual Fund gifts are between $100 and $1,000. This growth must continue to meet the escalating needs of Carolina's 28 varsity sports and its student-athletes.

Rams Club members provide a vital component to the success of Tar Heel student-athletes. Donations provide Carolina student-athletes the opportunity to proudly say, "I'm a Tar Heel."

Annual Fund

Donations through the Annual Fund offers The Rams Club the opportunity to meet immediate funding needs-primarily the funds needed to bridge the difference between the endowment's yield and the actual scholarship costs and other important projects for Carolina's student-athletes.

Carolina Forever — Planned Giving

As the Rams Club's planned giving program, Carolina Forever offers donors an opportunity to make a lasting impact by involving Carolina Athletics in their estate planning. Carolina Forever's mission is to ensure that the university continues to provide in perpetuity the unique opportunity to experience what it means to be a Tar Heel student-athlete in a broad-based athletics program.

Scholarship Endowment

The Rams Club's Scholarship Endowment Trust is the largest athletic scholarship endowment in the nation. The Scholarship Endowment Trust is built upon gifts from Carolina supporters who have endowed Full or Half Scholarships in support of student-athletes which provide in perpetuity the support to a broad-based athletics program.

Sports Endowments

The Sport Endowments program provides additional funding for the operating budgets of each of the 28 sports. Donors can make gifts to an individual sport with the yield from that trust made available to the appropriate coach for use in budget-enhancing activities like recruiting, team travel, assistant coaches' salaries and more. With the gifts designated into an endowment, these gifts will provide a continuous stream of usable income in perpetuity.

The 2011 North Carolina baseball season saw the Tar Heels end the year in a familiar location with a return to the College World Series and Omaha, Neb.
Carolina notched a 51-16 overall mark and went 5-0 in Regional and Super Regional action en route to a trip to the College World Series and a fifth-place finish.

National Seed Once Again

• The Tar Heels earned the No. 3 national seed after their 45-14 regular season, marking the fourth time in the last five seasons that the Tar Heels were a top eight national seed.
• The four times that Carolina has been named a national seed the Tar Heels have never been lower than a 4 seed.
• The 2008 squad was the No. 2 seed, the 2009 group was a No. 4 seed and the 2007 and 2011 teams are No. 3 seeds.
• All four teams that earned a national seed advanced to the College World Series.

Back Again

• Carolina made its fifth CWS appearance in the last six years becoming the 13th team in CWS history to make five appearances in a six year period.
• The Tar Heels join Arizona, Arizona State, Florida State, LSU, Miami, Northern Colorado, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Southern California, Stanford, Texas and Wichita State.

Johnson Closes Career In Impressive Fashion

• Senior right-hander Patrick Johnson finished his career on a phenomenal run as he posted a 7-1 record from early April until the end of the season.
• The right-hander's run began with a shutout of No. 1 Virginia to close out the regular season before tossing six no-hit innings against Wake Forest in the ACC Tournament, an outing that was cut short due to a rain delay.
• Johnson finished the season with a 13-2 record, becoming the fourth pitcher in school history to record at least 13 wins in a season.
• The Conover, N.C., native became the third Tar Heel to ever record 300 strikeouts in a career as he finished with 311 after a 125 strikeout season.

Patrick Johnson turned in a stellar senior season with a 13-2 mark. Johnson became just the fourth pitcher in school history to register at least 13 wins in a season.

Emanuel Joins Rare Company

• Freshman southpaw Kent Emanuel opened the NCAA Tournament with a 4-0 win over Maine becoming just the seventh freshman in school history to notch a postseason win.
• Emanuel was the first freshman since Matt Harvey in 2008 to earn the first start of the tournament when he started against Maine (6/3).
• With the Super Regional clinching win over Stanford Emanuel became the first UNC freshman to ever record two NCAA Tournament wins.
• Emanuel eventually was named a Baseball America Freshman All-America after posting a team-low 2.33 ERA with a 9-1 record.
• Emanuel saved the best outing of the season for his last as he became the first pitcher since Robert Woodard in 2006 to toss a shutout at the CWS with a 3-0 win over Texas.

Picking It

• Carolina's defense was stellar all year long as the Tar Heels posted a .979 fielding percentage which ranked fifth in the country.
• The .979 mark goes down as the top fielding percentage in school history outdoing the 2007 squad that turned in a .974 fielding percentage.
• UNC has posted a .970 or better fielding percentage in each of the last five seasons

50 Wins Once Again

• The 2011 Tar Heels became the fifth team in school history to register 50 wins in a season, joining the 2006 through 2008 squads and the 1990 group.

Tar Heel Teams With 50 Wins
2007 - 57-16
2008 - 54-14
2006 - 54-15
1990 - 51-14
2011 - 51-16

Another Successful Draft

• For the fourth time in the last six years the Tar Heels had a player taken in the first round of the MLB Draft as junior shortstop Levi Michael was taken No. 30 overall by the Minnesota Twins.
• Michael became the sixth Carolina player drafted in the first round since 2006, giving the Tar Heels the most first round picks over that time.

First Round Draft Picks Since 2006
2011 - Levi Michael - 30th overall (Twins)
2010 - Matt Harvey - 7th overall (Mets)
2009 - Dustin Ackley - 2nd overall (Mariners)
Alex White - 15th overall (Indians)
2006 - Andrew Miller - 6th overall (Tigers)
Daniel Bard - 28th overall (Red Sox)

• A trio of seniors were drafted on day two of the draft as Greg Holt was drafted in the eighth round by the Washington Nationals to lead the bunch.
• First baseman Jesse Wierzbicki was taken in the 24th round by the Houston Astros and less than a round later right-handed pitcher Patrick Johnson was selected by the Colorado Rockies in the 25th round.
• Junior catcher Jacob Stallings was taken in the 42nd round by the Cincinnati Reds.

• Carolina has had 65 players taken in the MLB First Year Player Draft since head coach Mike Fox took over the program in 1999, including 12 in the first and supplemental rounds.

Moran The RBI Machine

• Freshman Colin Moran made quite a first impression for the Tar Heels as he tallied 71 RBI an average of 1.06 per contest.
• Moran lead the ACC in RBI and became the first freshman since Jamie D'Antona of Wake Forest in 2001 to lead the conference in RBI outright. Dustin Ackley tied Miami's Yonder Alonso for the ACC RBI lead during his freshman campaign in 2007.
• Moran became the first ACC freshman since Ackley in 2007 to record at least 70 RBI in a season.

Freshman Of The Year Moran Leads Four All-ACC Picks

• North Carolina freshman third baseman Colin Moran was named the 2011 Atlantic Coast Conference Freshman of the Year for his first campaign as a Tar Heel as voted on by the league coaches. Moran was also named to the All-ACC First Team, while the trio of Tommy Coyle, Levi Michael and Patrick Johnson were named to the second team.
• Moran becomes the fifth Tar Heel to be named the ACC Freshman of the Year and first since Dustin Ackley in 2007. Moran currently leads the ACC with 67 RBI during the regular season, 10 more than his next closest competitor. The Rye, N.Y., native leads the Tar Heels with a .355 average on the year and owns a team-best .464 on base percentage.

2004 - Daniel Bard (1st round MLB pick)
2000 - Adam Greenberg (9th round MLB pick)
1997 - Brian Roberts (1st round MLB pick)

• In addition to the Freshman of the Year award, Moran was also named First Team All-ACC becoming the first freshman to be named to the squad since Virginia's Danny Hultzen in 2009.
• Also earning All-ACC honors were infielders Tommy Coyle and Levi Michael as Carolina is the only team in the conference with three infielders on the two teams.
• Patrick Johnson was also named to the All-ACC Second Team.

Awards Roll In For Tar Heels

• Colin Moran had a breakthrough debut season for the Tar Heels and earned several awards for his efforts on the field.
• Moran was named the Baseball America Freshman of the Year along with being named the Perfect Game Freshman Hitter of the Year.
• The Rye, N.Y., third baseman also earned All-America honors from Baseball America, the ABCA and Perfect Game.
• Senior right-hander Patrick Johnson became the second Tar Heel All-America as he picked up second team honors from Perfect Game.

Seniors Cap Off Memorable Careers

• Six seniors saw their careers come to an end in 2011 as pitchers Patrick Johnson, Bryant Gaines, and Greg Holt along with first baseman Jesse Wierzbicki, outfielder Ben Bunting and catcher Chase Jones all reached the CWS for the third time in their four-year careers.
• Johnson turned in the best year of his career with a 13-2 mark and was drafted in the 25th round by the Colorado Rockies.
• Holt was a constant fixture out of the pen as he appeared in a team-high 33 games before getting drafted in the 14th round by the Washington Nationals.

Tar Heels In Summer Baseball

Each year, Carolina has a long standing tradition of placing its players in the most prestigous wooden bat summer leagues in the country, including the Cape Cod League and the Coastal Plain League. This past summer, the Tar Heels placed three players with the famed Chatham A's on the Cape.

"(Carolina) has been gracious enough to make sure we get quality kids," Chatham manager John Schiffner said. "We reciprocate by treating them well. There's Carolina blue in Chatham blue and vice versa."

"(The Cape) is such a classy league," UNC head coach Mike Fox said. "The coaches up here really understand what their purpose is and why the kids are here. They don't abuse them and they treat them with respect. There really are no negatives to the Cape Cod League."

The Tar Heels also place a number of players in the Coastal Plain League, which features teams throughout North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia. Carolina also sends players to the Northwoods League which features teams throughout Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan and Canada.

LETTER WINNERS SINCE 1947

CAROLINA OLD LEAGUERS

The Carolina Old Leaguers is a group of former UNC baseball monogram winners whose primary goal is to encourage support of the University and the Tar Heel baseball program. The Old Leaguers have established an endowed scholarship for baseball in honor of former head coach Walter Rabb and in memory of his wife Amy.

The Old Leaguers meet annually on a fall weekend in Chapel Hill where they play golf, attend a football game and have a lunch picnic at Boshamer Stadium. It's always a great opportunity to mingle and see old friends.

Please contact Dave Arendas in the UNC Baseball Office by phone (919-962-6999) with address changes or information.

ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE BASEBALL - A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE

Consistency. It is the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now, in its 59th year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 123 national championships, including 65 in women's competition and 58 in men's. In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 140 times in men's competition and 99 times in women's action.

ACC Baseball again made its mark nationally in 2011. The conference saw six teams – Clemson, Florida State, Georgia Tech, Miami, North Carolina and Virginia– ranked nationally throughout the season. That produced a stellar field for the 38th annual ACC Baseball Championship, which was held May 25-29 at Durham (N.C.) Bulls Athletic Park. The championship game came down to a battle of division winners – Coastal co-champion Virginia and Atlantic champion Florida State. Virginia scored a 7-2 win over the Seminoles in the title game with the help of a three-run home run by Championship MVP Steven Proscia. The ACC Championship was the third for the Cavaliers in the 38-year history of league tournament play, with all three ironically coming at Durham Bulls Athletic Park.

Virginia saw junior left-hander Danny Hultzen voted ACC Pitcher of the Year, while the Cavaliers' Brian O'Connor was voted the league's Coach of the Year for a second year in a row. Clemson shortstop Brad Miller, whose .419 batting average during the regular season was 61 points higher than any other league hitter, was voted the ACC Player of the Year. North Carolina third baseman Colin Moran, who hit .389 in ACC games and became just the fourth freshman in school history to drive in 60 or more runs, earned Freshman of the Year honors.

Hultzen finished career at Virginia with a three-year record of 32-5 and a 2.08 ERA, the lowest among conference pitchers with 100 or more career innings from 2009 through 2011. Florida State pitcher Sean Gilmartin's 32 career wins at the end of the regular season were the fifth-most among active NCAA pitchers, and he added one more in postseason play. Florida State outfielder James Ramsey, a first-team All-ACC selection and a Major League draft choice who also excelled in the classroom, was named the ACC Baseball Scholar-Athlete of the Year. National honors went to Clemson's Miller, who received the Brooks Wallace Award as the nation's top shortstop, and Virginia's Hultzen, the John Olerud Award recipient as the nation's top two-way player.

The regular season was also highlighted by Virginia pitcher Will Roberts' perfect game against George Washington on March 29. It was just the second perfect game thrown by an ACC pitcher (and the first since 1959) and only the eighth nine-inning perfect game in NCAA history.

The Major League Baseball Draft in June saw 58 student-athletes from Atlantic Coast Conference schools selected, the third-most in conference history. Four ACC student-athletes – Virginia's Hultzen (second overall), Georgia Tech pitcher Jed Bradley (15th overall), Florida State's Gilmartin (28th overall) and North Carolina shortstop Levi Michael (30th overall) – were selected in the first round.

At least 50 ACC players have been selected in each of the last six MLB Drafts, and the ACC has had multiple first-round selections in 10 of the last 11. The ACC has produced four No. 1 overall picks in North Carolina's B.J. Surhoff in 1985, Florida State's Paul Wilson in 1994, Clemson's Kris Benson in 1996 and Miami's Pat Burrell in 1998. The current 12 ACC schools have had 826 players selected in the MLB Draft since 1994, including 61 first-round picks. The conference's four student-athletes chosen in the first round in 2011 extended the ACC's streak of at least one player selected in the first round to 20 consecutive years.

Clemson's Miller, Florida State's Gilmartin, North Carolina's Moran and Virginia's Hultzen and Branden Kline were each named to at least one All-America first team, and four other players – Georgia Tech's Mark Pope, Florida State's Ramsey, and Virginia's Roberts and John Hicks – were each named second- or third-team All-America by at least one publication.

Seven ACC teams earned spots in the 2011 NCAA Championship. It marked the sixth time in the last seven years that the ACC had placed at least seven teams among the 64-team field. The conference boasted three of the top five national seeds, as Virginia was seeded No. 1 overall, North Carolina was at No. 3 and Florida State at No. 5. Those teams were joined in postseason play by Clemson, Georgia Tech, Miami and NC State. All three of the ACC's nationally-seeded teams advanced to Super Regional play, with Virginia and North Carolina moving on to the 65th College World Series at Omaha, Neb.

The Tar Heels' trip to the College World Series was their ninth overall and their fifth in six years under head coach Mike Fox. Virginia made its second CWS trip to Omaha, both of which have come in the last three seasons. The ACC, which placed multiple teams to the College World Series for the fourth straight year and the fifth time in six seasons, has sent 14 teams to Omaha since 2006.

The ACC Championship will be held in either Durham or Greensboro (pictured) each year through 2013.

In addition to Nike products, the agreement provides $100,000 annualy to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund for undergraduate teaching and $100,000 annually to the UNC Department of Athletics to reward Olympic sport programs and coaches for academic and athletic excellence.
