The University of North Carolina women's soccer program is one of the most successful sport programs in the history of college athletics. In its first 22 years, Carolina has won 17 national championships and played in all 20 national Final Fours sanctioned by the AIAW and NCAA.

Under head coach Anson Dorrance, who began the varsity program in 1979, the Tar Heels have staked a claim as one of the great dynasties in intercollegiate athletics history.

Heading into the 2001 season, the Tar Heels have posted a 487-22-11 record. Carolina won the first official national championship, the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) title, in 1981 and has since won NCAA championships in 1982, 1983, 1984, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1996, 1997, 1999 and 2000. The only three years since 1981 (the year of the first ever championship in the sport) in which the Tar Heels did not win the national crown were 1985 when they lost to George Mason the NCAA championship game, 1995 when they lost to eventual NCAA champion Notre Dame in the NCAA semifinals and 1998 when they fell to Florida in the NCAA championship game.

Carolina's women's soccer program has won 16 NCAA titles, more NCAA Division I women's national championships than any other Division I women's athletics sport program in the nation.

The Tar Heels' 17 total national championships are more than any other sports program has won, men's or women's, in Atlantic Coast Conference history. In addition, UNC women's soccer teams have won 13 of the 14 Atlantic Coast Conference championships decided since league play started in 1987.

Nearly seventy different Tar Heel players in the past 21 years have earned the distinction of being named All-Americans as either first-, second- or third-team choices or honorable mention selections. Eleven players—April Heinrichs, Shannon Higgins, Kristine Lilly, Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Debbie Keller, Staci Wilson, Cindy Parlow, Robin Confer, Lorrie Fair and Meredith Florance—have been named the National Player of the Year. Lori Henry, Shannon Higgins, Kristine Lilly, Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Cindy Parlow and Lorrie Fair have been saluted as the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year. Carolina has had a total of 89 selections to the first- or second-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference squads since the league began sponsorship of the sport in 1987, long outflanking any other league school. UNC has also boasted the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament in 12 of the 13 tournaments held since 1988.

The numbers continue to boggle the mind.. Four Tar Heels have been named ACC Rookie of the Year and five have been named National

The 1981 Carolina women's soccer team, in only its third varsity year, got the championship fever stirred up in Chapel Hill when it won the first of the University's 16 national crowns in the sport. The Tar Heels claimed the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) national crown by defeating Central Florida 1-0 at Kenan Stadium.

Freshman Player of the Year. Anson Dorrance has been named national coach of the year on four occasions and ACC coach of the year five times.

Still more numbers illustrate the dominance of this program. Seven Carolina women's soccer players have won the Patterson Medal as Carolina's outstanding senior athlete, the latest being Lorrie Fair in 2000. The recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the Outstanding Female Athlete of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference has been a Tar Heel women's soccer player five times. UNC has had 108 players named as All-Tournament selections at the AIAW or NCAA national tournaments. The Tar Heels have boasted the offensive, defensive or overall Most Valuable Player at the NCAA Tournament 25 times. Forty-six Tar Heels have been tapped as All-ACC Tournament selections since that honor team was started in 1991.

As anyone can easily see, the numbers simply do not lie. Carolina's women's soccer is all about the pursuit excellence and it is all about dominance.

Many Carolina players have continued their playing careers as members of the United States National Team. Since the founding of that National Team program by the United States Soccer Federation, a total of 38 different Carolina players have earned spots on the National Team through the conclusion of the 2000 season. Several other former Tar Heels have gone on to play for foreign national teams, including those of Canada, Denmark, The Netherlands, Iceland and Norway. Dorrance is not only the coach of the most successful women's collegiate program in the United States, he is also the chief architect behind the success of the United States Women's National Team, having coached that squad from its second year of existence in 1986 until he stepped down in 1994 to concentrate solely on his duties at North Carolina.

Under Dorrance's brilliant coaching guidance, the United States won the first-ever Women's World Cup Championship in China in November of 1991. Half of the 1991 USA roster, nine of the 18 players, played collegiately in Chapel Hill. Seven players who toiled collegiately at Chapel Hill were on the 1995 USA Team which captured third place at the World Cup Championships. During the summer of 1996, at the Centennial Olympic Games in Athens, Ga., the U.S. roster was filled with Tar Heel connections as the Americans captured the gold medal. Both of the team's assistant coaches, seven of the 16 players and three of the alternates were all Tar Heels, giving that gold medal a pronounced Carolina Blue tint. In the summer of 1999, eight more UNC players competed for the United States team which recaptured the Women's World Cup title by beating China on penalty kicks in the Rose Bowl. Just last year, seven more Tar Heels played for the 2000 U.S. Olympic Team which won the silver medal in Sydney, Australia. They were Lorrie Fair, Mia Hamm, Kristine Lilly, Siri Mullinix, Carla Overbeck, Cindy Parlow and Jenni Branam. The 2000 Olympic Team was coached by UNC alumna April Heinrichs.

Having players compete in the World Cup and the Olympics was hardly a thought when the program first began playing on a varsity level in 1979. The Tar Heels played their first game, a 12-0 win over Duke, on September 20, 1979. The first season saw Carolina compile a 10-2 overall record, losing only twice to a club team, the McLean Grasshoppers. Janet Rayfield, still the Tar Heels' third all-time leading scorer with an amazing 223 points and 93 goals, was the first Carolina superstar. She scored 30 goals in just 12 games in that initial season.

In 1980, the Tar Heels won 21 of 26 games and were again led in scoring by Rayfield, who had 25 goals. Midfielder Nancy Clary became the first Tar Heel player to earn first-team All-America honors during that season.

The 1981 season was an exciting year for the women's college game as the national champion was crowned during a 12-team tournament in Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels provided many exciting moments during the course of the season, scoring a school record 172 goals. Led by 36-goal scorer Stephanie Zeh and getting 30 more tallies from Rayfield and 18 scores from Wendy Greenberg, UNC averaged an astounding 7.48 goals per game. Goalkeepers Marianne Johnson and Beth Huber allowed just eight goals in 23 games.

Following a 19-0 regular season and a win over Virginia in the AIAW regionals, the Tar Heels swept through the 12-team field at the Chapel Hill.

Carolina defeated Massachusetts 6-0, Connecticut 5-0 and Central Florida 1-0 to take the championship. In the title game, the Tar Heels outshot the Golden Knights 30-8, but could score just once, on a Diane Beatty goal off a Kathy Kelly corner kick with 19:36 left in the first half.

The NCAA became the sport's governing body in 1982 and the Tar Heels celebrated by winning their second national championship in a row. Carolina opened the season with 10 consecutive victories to run its winning streak to 33 games, but then it dropped back-to-back decisions to Missouri-St. Louis and Cortland State. Following that second loss, the Tar Heels won their next nine games, culminating in an NCAA title with a 2-0 win over Central Florida in Orlando, Fla. Amy Machin's 22 goals and 59 points led the team in scoring and she scored one of the two goals in the championship game victory. Betsy Johnson came off the bench to score off a rebound late in the first half for the title-winning goal.

The 1983 campaign brought the arrival of April Heinrichs to the Carolina campus. The first great women's soccer player in the game and now coach of the U.S. Women's National Team, Heinrichs was the most dominant player of the mid-1980s in collegiate soccer and on the U.S. National Team. In her freshman season, Heinrichs led the Tar Heels to their third straight national title as she scored 18 goals and totaled 47 points on the season. Machin was again amongst the team's leaders in scoring with 19 goals and she added seven assists as well. Only a loss at Connecticut in the opening game of the season prevented UNC from having another perfect season. Carolina claimed its third national title in a row as Heinrichs scored two goals in a convincing 4-0 win over George Mason in Orlando, Fla.

In 1984, the Tar Heels were the #1-ranked team in the nation from season's start to season's finish and they capped their fourth straight national title campaign with a 2-0 win over Connecticut at Fetzer Field. It was the first of seven times when UNC would play host to the NCAA Final Four at Fetzer Field. Heinrichs, the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America (ISAA) National Player of the Year, led the team with 23 goals and 13 assists and Joan Dunlap-Seivold was second on the squad with 21 goals and 10 assists. Carolina went 24-0-1 in 1984 and won its first 17 games to run its consecutive game winning streak to a then NCAA record 36 games. That mark of excellence stood until the 1992 season.

George Mason, which would stop a streak of a different kind the following year, ended the 36-game winning streak by forcing a 1-1 tie during the 1984 regular season. The Tar Heels were again taken to overtime in the national semifinals by California, but a Machin goal with 9:05 left in the second extra period propelled the Heels into the NCAA finals against Connecticut. The championship game was played in front of 3,500 fans at Fetzer Field. Heinrichs and Dunlap-Seivold scored late second half goals to provide the Tar Heels with a 2-0 victory and a fourth straight national title.

The dynasty that is Carolina women's soccer took a one-year hiatus in 1985 as the Tar Heels lost the national championship game to host George Mason 2-0. Despite a 50-point season from Heinrichs and a team-leading 19 goals from Carrie Serwetnyk, the Tar Heels were "only" 18-2-1 during the course of the season. It was one of the five seasons out of 21 campaigns in which Carolina actually failed to win 20 games in a season. Ironically, Carolina still won the national championship in three of the five seasons in which it hasn't reached the 20-win plateau. After opening the 1985 season with a 3-3 draw against George Mason, Carolina ran off 12 straight wins and raised its record unbeaten streak to 57 games. Massachusetts ended the streak with a 2-0 win in Amherst, Mass. Carolina rebounded from that defeat with six consecutive wins and it advanced to the NCAA final to meet George Mason in Fairfax, Va. The Patriots scored a goal in each half and sent the Heels home without the first-place trophy for the first time since the national tournament concept was first played out in 1981. At that time no one suspected that Carolina would not lose another game for five years and over 100 games. In fact, the Tar Heels would never taste defeat again in the 1980s after that title game loss to George Mason.

The 1986 campaign proved to be a season of redemption for the Tar Heels as seniors April Heinrichs and Marcia McDermott were determined to go out as winners. Ironically, 15 years later those senior teammates are both significant coaches in the college game. Heinrichs is of course the head coach of the U.S. National Team while McDermott just finished her first season as head coach of the Carolina Courage in the Women's United Soccer Association.

In 1986, Heinrichs again was named National Player of the Year, scoring a career-best 28 goals and totaling 69 points. McDermott set what was then the Carolina single-season record with 23 assists.

The Tar Heels avenged both of their 1985 defeats by shutting out Massachusetts 4-0 in UNC assistant coach Bill Palladino and head coach Anson Dorrance have built a true soccer dynasty in Chapel Hill as Carolina has won 17 of the past 20 national championships and 13 of the past 14 Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

AIAW National Tournament, which was held at both Kenan Stadium and Fetzer Field in the season opener in Chapel Hill and then defeating George Mason 4-2 in a September meeting. The Heels and the Patriots met again in the national semifinals, for the second straight year in the NCAA Tournament in Fairfax, Va., and this time Carolina came out on top, 3-2 in overtime. Wendy Gebauer had two goals for Carolina and Heinrichs tallied the winner 5:50 into the first overtime. Gebauer and Tracey Bates scored a goal apiece in the title game the next day, a 2-0 victory over Colorado College. The Tar Heels found themselves back in familiar territory—atop the victory stand at the NCAA championship.

The 1987 campaign was the year of the defense in women's soccer—specifically a stifling Carolina unit which allowed only two goals during the entire season and posted an NCAA record 22 shutouts, a record equaled only once--by the 1997 UNC team. Defensive leader and Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year Lori Henry, sweeper Carla Werden Overbeck and goalkeeper Anne Sherow anchored a defense which allowed only 52 shots on goal and two scores in 24 games en route to posting a 23-0-1 record. Only a tie with William & Mary marred the perfect record.

Midfielder Wendy Gebauer's 15 goals and 40 points led the Tar Heel offense in 1987, but it was a second-half goal by sophomore midfielder Shannon Higgins which proved to be the margin of victory in a 1-0 win over Massachusetts in the NCAA final. That game and the semifinal win over California, were played in near-Arctic weather conditions at Amherst, Mass., making it one of the most memorable NCAA Tournaments Final Fours to date. The wind was so strong that it made attacking offensively against the gusts a futile proposition. Fortunately for Carolina the Tar Heels went against the wind in the first half of championships game and they were able to play the Minutewomen to a standstill. UNC received the benefit of the wind in the second half, scored the crucial goal and then hung on for dear life to capture yet another NCAA championship. Higgins' game-winning goal would be the first of three in a row she would score in NCAA championship games.

The 1988 season proved to be a challenging one for the Tar Heels as Atlantic Coast Conference rival NC State threatened to steal the glory of college women's soccer and relocate the championship down I-40 to Raleigh. The teams battled to a pair of dramatic 1-1 ties, one in the regular season game at Raleigh and another in the ACC Tournament championship game on the Wolfpack's home field at Method Road Soccer Stadium. NC State actually won the ACC title on penalty kicks, but the game was officially recorded as a tie. It is the only time in history that the Tar Heels have failed to win the Atlantic Coast Conference title.

In mid-season, Carolina set NCAA records for collegiate soccer unbeaten streaks. First, the Tar Heels topped their own women's record of 57 games without a loss and then it bettered the Penn State men's team's 65-game record unbeaten streak for all of college soccer.

The 1988 Soccer America National Player of the Year, Shannon Higgins was a dominant force on the squad, directing playmaking duties and setting up goal both for herself and for teammates from her attacking center midfield position. In the national championship game versus NC State, Higgins scored three goals in a 4-1 Carolina victory. That match was played in front of 4,500 fans at Fetzer Field, the largest collegiate women's soccer crowd to that time.

In 1989, Higgins again was the number one player in the nation and she led the Tar Heels to yet another unbeaten finish and national title. Higgins was named the National Player of the Year by Soccer America. She won the Hermann Trophy and the Honda Award, was the ACC Player of the Year and she became the first-ever recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the Atlantic Coast Conference Female Athlete of the Year. She also led the team in scoring with 48 points.

Incredibly, she scored the game-winning goal in the NCAA championship game for the third consecutive year against Colorado College in a 2-0 Tar Heel win.

Freshmen Mia Hamm and Kristine Lilly scored 21 and 20 goals, respectively, for Carolina, although at that time it was a mere glimpse of that duo's future greatness in the world of women's soccer. Seniors Shannon Higgins, Julie Guarnotta, Ava Hyatt and Carla Werden Overbeck closed out their four-year careers with a stunning 89-0-6 record and a quartet of NCAA championship rings.

In 1990, Carolina again won the national championship, but did so with a mark in the loss column for the first time since November 24, 1985. On September 22, 1990, Connecticut ended the Tar Heels' national record unbeaten streak at 103 games by defeating the Tar Heels 3-2 in overtime at Storrs, Conn. Ironically, the Tar Heels would go on to avenge that defeat by routing the same Huskies' team 6-0 in the NCAA championship game at newly renovated Fetzer Field later in the year.

Following the loss at Connecticut, the Tar Heels fell out of the number one spot in the ISAA poll for the first time since the second week of the 1986 season. Carolina regained the top spot, however, by knocking off #1-ranked Virginia 3-0 late in the regular season at Chapel Hill and it then beat the Cavaliers again 2-0 in the ACC Tournament title game at Charlottesville, Va.

The 1990 national quarterfinals matched the Tar Heels against old nemesis NC State in what would be one of the most exciting and dramatic games ever played in the sport's history. The Wolfpack held one-goal leads late in regulation time and again in the first overtime period, but both times the Tar Heels came back to tie the game on goals by Kristine Lilly. Finally, with just over two minutes left before penalty kicks would have been called upon to decide the outcome of the game, Hamm lofted a curving corner kick which forward Rita Tower redirected with her head for the game-winning goal.

After that dramatic game, which Soccer America called the "Greatest Game in Women's Soccer History," the NCAA Final Four seemed almost like an emotional let-down. Tower and Lilly each scored in the 2-0 semifinal round win over Colorado College and six different Tar Heels scored in the championship game rout of Connecticut. The Tar Heels finished that season with a 20-1-1 record, having also tied a game with Central Florida four games after the loss at UConn.

In 1991, the Tar Heels had to defend their title minus a host of spectacular players and its head coach. The top four leading scorers from the year before were not available to the team for much of the season. Kristine Lilly played the first 19 games of the season but departed prior to the ACC and NCAA Tournaments to play in the 1991 Women's World Cup in China. Mia Hamm, also on the World Cup Team, decided to claim a red-shirt year in 1991 and did not play at all. Forward Rita Tower and midfielder Jill Jakowich were rehabilitating knee injuries and neither of them ever stepped on the field during the 1991 season.

Defender Linda Hamilton (left) and midfielder Kristine Lilly (right) assist forward Mia Hamm off the field after UNC's dramatic 4-3 overtime win over N.C. State in the 1990 NCAA Quarterfinals at Fetzer Field. Soccer America has called that contest the "Greatest Game in Women's Soccer History."

Nevertheless, led by freshman midfield sensation Tisha Venturini and senior forward Pam Kalinoski, who herself had battled back from a serious knee injury, Carolina prevailed once again. UNC won 24 consecutive games, including the last 10 of the campaign with assistant coach Bill Palladino at the controls after Dorrance left to coach the U.S. National Team in the World Cup in China. The Tar Heels swept to the ACC regular-season title as well as the conference tournament championship. Lilly was the consensus National Player of the Year and ACC Player of the Year. Venturini was the National Freshman of the Year and ACC Tournament Most Valuable Player. Venturini and Kalinoski split MVP honors in the NCAA Tournament. Kalinoski set what was then the national record for assists in a season with 28 and Venturini led the nation in scoring with 21 goals and 58 total points.

The 1992 Tar Heels were what many observers have called the best team in the history of collegiate women's soccer. It would be extremely difficult to argue to the contrary. Carolina rolled to a 25-0 record, a seventh consecutive NCAA title and established the NCAA record for consecutive wins at 58 games by season's end.

The Tar Heels outscored their opposition 132-11 and trailed on just two occasions, once in the regular season victory at NC State and again in the NCAA final versus Duke. Both opponents' leads were very short-lived. In fact in the NCAA championship game against Duke the Tar Heels rattled off nine successive goals after the Blue Devils drew first blood.

Hamm led the nation with a school record 97 points on 32 goals and 33 assists, the latter mark comprising yet another school record. She was the unanimous choice as National Player of the Year and she also was the ACC Player of the Year as well as the Most Valuable Player of both the ACC and NCAA Tournaments. Lilly and Venturini added 65 and 46 points, respectively, and joined Hamm as first-team All-Americans.

The Tar Heels won the NCAA championship during a surreal 9-1 victory over Duke at rain-soaked and muddy Fetzer Field as Hamm became only the second player to ever score three goals in an NCAA final. But the most remarkable feat of the season may have been a mid-season West Coast road trip in which Carolina won four games in as many days by a combined margin of 22-2, including wins over three ranked opponents. The Tar Heel victims were UC-Santa Barbara 5-1, Portland 6-1, Saint Mary's 6-0 and Stanford 5-0.

In 1993, Hamm was again a unanimous selection as the National Player of the Year as she led the country in scoring with 68 points on 26 goals and 16 assists. She helped lead the Tar Heels to a 23-0 record as Carolina outscored the opposition, 92-15. Carolina hosted the NCAA Final Four at Fetzer Field for the fourth successive year and walked away with yet another national championship.

Hamm finished her career with 103 goals, 72 assists and 278 points, each a school record. She also set NCAA Tournament scoring records for career and single tournament points and in 1994 she was named the recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's Top Female Athlete for the second consecutive year.

Tisha Venturini missed several weeks at midseason with a broken bone in her foot but returned in time to reap Most Valuable Player honors at the ACC Tournament. The Tar Heels claimed their fifth straight league crown by virtue of a 4-1 win over Duke. Venturini was named first-team All-America for the third time.

Chapel Hill played host to the NCAA Final Four for the fourth year in a row and before an overflow and then NCAA record crowd of 5,721, UNC dismantled George Mason 6-0 in the final after the Tar Heels had whipped Massachusetts 4-1 in the semifinals.

The 1994 season was another remarkable and triumphant campaign as the Tar Heels went 25-1-1 and won the NCAA championship for an amazing ninth straight year. Venturini was the game's most dominant attraction as she reaped virtually every major award possible. She was unanimously selected the National Player of the Year by seven different organizations and received first-team All-America honors for the fourth time in her career. Venturini and Lilly are the only two players in college women's soccer history to be named first-team All-Americans all four years of their collegiate careers.

Venturini, who led the Tar Heels with 21 goals and 13 assists for 55 points, was the ACC Player of the Year, MVP of the ACC Tournament and Most Outstanding Offensive Player of the NCAA Tournament. It was the third time in her career in which she was named the ACC Tournament MVP and the second time she earned MVP honors in the NCAA Tournament.

Freshman Staci Wilson earned first-team All-America honors, was the National Freshman of the Year and the Most Outstanding Defensive Player in the NCAA Tournament. Senior Angela Kelly was named first-team All-America and senior Danielle Egan and sophomore Debbie Keller were named second-team All-Americans.

The Tar Heels had two incredible streaks of consistency and excellence snapped in the regular season. An NCAA record consecutive game winning streak hit 92 contests before Carolina and Notre Dame battled to a 0-0 tie in St. Louis, Mo. on October 2, 1994.

On October 19, 1994, Duke handed the Tar Heels a 3-2 defeat at Fetzer Field. That loss snapped a 101-game unbeaten streak for the Tar Heels dating back to September 22, 1990 when the Tar Heels lost at Connecticut, 3-2 in overtime. The setback was also Carolina's first home loss at Fetzer Field since 1980.

The Tar Heels and Blue Devils met twice more during the 1994 campaign, however, and Carolina came away with a 4-2 win in the ACC Tournament championship game and a 3-1 win in the NCAA Tournament South Regional title match.

Venturini had three goals in the ACC final, the first hat trick in the seven-year history of the Tournament, and Kelly netted a pair of

The national semifinals and final were held in Portland, Ore., where Venturini stole the show in the final two games of her college career. She capped her brilliant four years at Carolina by leading the Tar Heels to a 3-0 win over Connecticut in the semifinals and a 5-0 triumph over top-seeded Notre Dame in the final. Venturini scored twice in the championship game as Carolina outshot the Fighting Irish 25-8.

The senior class of Tisha Venturini, Danielle Egan, Angela Kelly, Keri Sanchez Raygor, Roz Santana, Shelley Finger, Dawn Crow, Susie Green, Alison Brooks and Jenn Eames finished its career with a record of 97 wins, one loss, one tie and four national championships.

The 1995 season saw the Tar Heels' national championship streak end at nine seasons in a row. It's regretful that the 1995 season ended that way since it marred one of Dorrance's finest coaching jobs of his 22-year tenure at Carolina. The previous year's senior class of 10 individuals was one of the most dominant in the history of the game. Carolina entered the 1995 campaign an extremely inexperienced team with only three senior players and with a host of new starters on the field.

Dorrance molded the young players into a cohesive unit very quickly, however, and somehow the Heels reeled off 25 successive wins while playing the nation's toughest schedule. Carolina won its eighth ACC title in nine years by sweeping through the tournament field and outscoring their opponents 16-0 in the three games.

UNC quickly dispatched Vanderbilt 4-0 in the NCAA second round after getting a bye in the first round as the tournament's top seed. Seventh-ranked Santa Clara fell victim to the Tar Heels 2-0 in the quarterfinals at Fetzer Field before UNC was beaten in the semifinals on an own goal in a 1-0 loss to fourth-ranked Notre Dame. What was then a women's soccer record crowd of 7,212 watched that Tar Heel loss, only the sixth loss at home in school history dating back to 1979. Notre Dame went on to beat Portland two days later for the NCAA title on a golden goal.

Standout performances abounded during the 1995 campaign. Four Tar Heels earned first-team All-America honors—forward Debbie Keller, forward Cindy Parlow, defender Staci Wilson and goalkeeper Tracy Noonan Ducar. Forward Robin Confer and defender Nel Fettig were second-team All-America selections, while midfielder Tiffany Roberts was an honorable mention choice. Keller and Wilson were named co-National Players of the Year by Soccer Digest.

During the summer of 1996, Carolina's soccer fame grew during the Olympic Games with the women's soccer competition being held at the University of Georgia's Sanford Stadium in Athens, Ga. The U.S. won the gold medal, beating China 2-1 in the gold medal match with the help of a cast that had a pronounced Carolina Blue hue. Both assistant coaches for the team, Lauren Gregg and April Heinrichs, were Carolina graduates. Seven of the 16 players on the roster were either Carolina alumnae or Tar Heel players returning for the 1996 season. This cadre included Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Carla Werden Overbeck, Kristine Lilly, Cindy Parlow, Staci Wilson and Tiffany Roberts. Three of the alternates were also Tar Heels—Debbie Keller, Lorrie Fair and Tracy Noonan Ducar.

Led by the play of co-National Players of the Year Debbie Keller and Cindy Parlow, UNC returned to the pinnacle of the collegiate women's soccer world during the 1996 campaign. After a painfully slow start which saw the Tar Heels struggle through their first eight games yet somehow escape unscathed, Carolina fell to Notre Dame in the season's ninth game, 2-1 in overtime. The Fighting Irish thus became the first collegiate team in history to beat Carolina two times in a row.

Concerned about Carolina's lackluster play to that point of the season, Dorrance made some bold moves with his lineup. He reconfigured his defensive strategy to a flat back three and Carolina has stuck to that defensive scheme ever since. Dorrance also moved a handful of key players to new positions on the field. Those plays worked with complete and total success. Ever since that time Carolina has played a flat back three defensive system and it has worked magnificently.

Carolina steamrolled through the final 17 games of the campaign to finish with a 25-1-0 record, while winning its 14th national championship in 16 years. UNC had spirited opposition in the ACC Tournament as Carolina claimed its eighth league crown in a row with wins over Florida State 7-1, Virginia 5-2 and Clemson 4-1. Junior forward Robin Confer was named the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament.

The Tar Heels then were the surprise pick as the #1 seed in the NCAA Tournament despite the fact that Notre Dame had beaten Carolina during the regular season and both teams had only one loss heading into postseason play. Carolina shut out its first three opponents in the NCAA Tournament and then received a stiff challenge from homestanding Santa Clara in the semifinals. Earlier in the season the Tar Heels had escaped against Santa Clara on a goal in the last minute of play by Keller in a 1-0 UNC win.

This time against Santa Clara, goals late in the second half by Cindy Parlow and Laurie Schwoy gave the Tar Heels a tense 2-1 victory. Two days later, Carolina avenged its last two defeats to Notre Dame by beating the second-seeded Fighting Irish 1-0 in overtime in the NCAA title match. Senior forward Debbie Keller ended her career on a splendid note by scoring the game-winning goal on a header in the match's 111th minute.

Carolina was again the best team in the country in 1997, led by co-national players of the year, forwards Cindy Parlow and Robin Confer. The Tar Heels ended the season at 27-0-1 with only a regular-season, lightening shortened 2-2 tie against Notre Dame marring the perfect mark. UNC allowed a paltry eight goals in 28 games and tied the NCAA record for shutouts in a season with 22. That mark had originally been established by the 1987 NCAA championship team at UNC.

Carolina's toughest matches of the year came in the final three rounds of the NCAA Tournament as the Tar Heels outlasted pesky Harvard 1-0 in the quarterfinals, came from behind to defeat Santa Clara 2-1 in the semifinals as Fair and Confer scored second half goals to overcome the Broncos' 1-0 halftime lead and blanked Connecticut 2-0 in the championship game on goals by Parlow and Confer.

The 1998 team was an outstanding one which will unfortunately be known for not winning a national championship. Led by seniors Cindy Parlow, Siri Mullinix and Tiffany Roberts the Tar Heel won the first 24 games of the season heading into the NCAA Final Four at Greensboro, N.C.. Carolina defeated Portland 1-0 in the semifinals on Meredith allowed only five goals, including only one in the final 13 games. The signature Tar Heel defense, keyed by Fair and Stoecker, and featuring first-team All-America Danielle Borgman and sensational freshman goalkeeper Jenni Branam just refused to let Carolina lose down the season's stretch. En route, Carolina won its 11th straight ACC championship and it capped the season with brilliant play in the NCAA Final Four, beating PennState 2-0 in the semifinals and Notre Dame 2-0 in the championship game. Junior Meredith Florance and senior midfielder Beth Sheppard scored the goals in the championship game for Carolina.

Last year the Tar Heels somehow won their 12th successive ACC championship and its 17th national championship. Carolina's regular season was unique in that the Tar Heels lost three games in the same season for the first time since 1980. All three losses came on the road against Atlantic Coast Conference teams. Prior to last season the Tar Heels had lost one ACC game in their history.

UNC rebounded to sweep past three opponents easily in the ACC Tournament winning against Duke 4-0 in the finals at Durham, N.C.

Seeded fifth entering the NCAA Tournament, UNC beat Wake Forest 5-0 in the second round, avenging one of the regular season losses. In three of the last four games the Tar Heels rallied from 1-0 deficits with less than 25 minutes to play to win the national championship. Carolina beat Virginia 2-1 in the third round, rolled past Connecticut 3-0 in the quarterfinals, rallied to beat top-seeded Notre Dame 2-1 in the semifinals and overcame UCLA 2-1 in the national championship game.

As Carolina prepares for the 2001 season the challenge for Dorrance and his charges will be to try to improve upon numbers which are already staggering in nature. These include a 487-22-11 overall record and a 207-7-2 record in the history of Fetzer Field, UNC's beloved home turf. It includes 359 defensive shutouts in the previous 520 games. It includes a record where UNC has been shutout in only 13 of 520 games. It is a history of dominant soccer honed over 22 seasons of excellence. The numbers are simply amazing and they do not lie!

The 1997 Carolina women's soccer team was one of the best units ever assembled by Coaches Dorrance and Palladino. The Heels claimed another NCAA crown by vanquishing Connecticut 2-0 in the finals. Carolina 27-0-1 record included 22 shutout victories which tied the NCAA record for shutouts in a season originally set by the 1987 Tar Heel team.

Florance's goal in the 150th minute of play. In the championship game, Florida scored in the first 10 minutes of play and Carolina was unable to produce the equalizer despite outshooting the Gators 21-6. The game was marred by intensely physical play by the Gators who were called for 31 bone-crunching fouls compared to only four infractions whistled on the swift and talented Tar Heels.

The 1999 campaign started in unsettling fashion as Carolina lost two games in September and stood 6-2 just eight games into the season. It was the first time Carolina had even lost two games in the same season in 1985.

But a strong senior class led by National Player of the Year Lorrie Fair as well as Rebekah McDowell, Lindsay Stoecker and Beth Sheppard rallied the troops. Over the final 18 games of the season, Carolina

The University of North Carolina women's soccer program is fortunate to call as its home Robert Allison Fetzer Field. Fetzer Field at Irwin Belk Track is one of the premier soccer domains in the nation.

Originally built in 1935 and renovated during a period from 1988-90, the facility has been host to the NCAA Division I Women's Soccer Championship FinalFour seven times since 1984, including six times since 1988.

A Fetzer Field record crowd of 7,212, at the time the most to ever see a women's collegiate soccer game, watched the Tar Heels fall to Notre Dame 1-0 in the 1995 NCAA semifinals at Fetzer Field. That is the largest crowd in Fetzer Field history. The largest regular-season crowd in Fetzer Field lore witnessed the Tar Heels' 5-1 victory over second-ranked Notre Dame on September 13, 1998 as 6,024 fans filed through the Fetzer Field gates.

In 1994, a boisterous crowd of 5,206 came out to see the rematch between Carolina and Duke in the 1994 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championship match. Duke, which had beaten Carolina 3-2 on October 19, 1994 at Fetzer Field, was not equal to the task in the ACC final just a few weeks later, falling 4-2.

The previous largest regular-season crowd in collegiate women's soccer history also occurred at Fetzer Field when 4,500 showed up to watch UNC beat Duke 2-1 on September 1, 1996. That mark was eclipsed during the UNC-Notre Dame game in 1998.

The Tar Heels have amassed one of the best home records in sports history. Carolina enters the 2000 season with a record of 207-7-2 at Fetzer Field.

Named for former Tar Heel athletic director and

Franklin Delano. Roosevelt

The facility's most recent renovations made it one of the most beautiful all-around collegiate venues in the nation. The playing field itself was reworked and leveled, the grandstand was refitted with new aluminum bleachers, a new track was installed, lights were added, two convenient ticket booths were added to the front gate and a computer scoreboard/message center was installed. Even more recently the facilities' concession areas have been revamped so they are more convenient for fans. The renovations were completed in time for Carolina to celebrate before 2,200 fans with a 3-0 win over top-ranked Virginia in October 1990.

In 1988, an estimated throng of 4,500 fans came out to Fetzer for the NCAA final between Carolina and NC State. That was, at the time, the largest crowd ever to attend a collegiate women's soccer match.

The 1990 NCAA Tournament drew an estimated 6,700 spectators to the stadium—2,000 to watch the quarterfinal round win over N.C. State, 1,500 for the semifinal round and 3,200 for the championship game.

Another 7,000 fans streamed through the Fetzer Field gates to watch the 1991 NCAA tournament games, which culminated in a title-game victory over Wisconsin.

In 1992, more than 3,500 enthusiasts braved a steady downpour as the Tar Heels crushed ACC rival Duke 9-1 in the national finals.

A year later, in Mia Hamm's collegiate finale, 5,721 fans were on hand at Fetzer as Carolina routed George Mason 6-0 in the title game.

Currently Fetzer Field is the home facility for six of Carolina's 28 varsity teams—men's soccer, women's soccer, men's outdoor track and field, women's outdoor track and field, men's lacrosse and women's lacrosse.

The facility has been home not only to women's soccer NCAA and ACC Championships, but also the 1991 and 1993 ACC Track and Field Championships, the North Carolina High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics, men's soccer and men's lacrosse ACC Tournaments, men's soccer NCAA first round, second round and quarterfinal round action and NCAA men's lacrosse tournament action in first rounds, quarterfinal and semifinal games. In the summer of 1996, the facility was the home training site for the United States Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

New McCaskill Soccer Center Opens April 11, 1999

The new McCaskill Soccer Center on the University of North Carolina campus was dedicated in a gala ceremony on April 11, 1999. Attending the event were members of the Educational Foundation as well as dozens of other University of North Carolina soccer enthusiasts.

Construction of the new 6,600-square-foot soccer facility at the University of North Carolina was completed early in the month of April 1999.

The new UNC Soccer Center is located on the same site as the former soccer offices next to Fetzer Field where home matches are played. The old soccer offices were located in a building called the UNC Soccer Hut which dated back to 1935.

The new two-story structure accommodates varsity men's and women's soccer locker rooms on the first floor as well as a common team meeting room between the dressing areas.

The second floor houses coaches' offices for both sports as well as a large conference room.

Carolina has one of the richest traditions in collegiate soccer. Since the men's team attained varsity status in 1947 the Tar Heels have suffered only five losing seasons in the last 53 years and only one losing season since 1957.

Carolina has appeared in the NCAA Tournament eight times in the last 14 years. Six of those appearances have come in the last 12 years when Elmar Bolowich has served as head coach. One of the high water marks for the Tar Heel men's team came in 1987 when UNC claimed the ACC championship and advanced to the NCAA semifinals. Under Bolowich, the Tar Heel men's team made great strides during the 1999 season, earning the first track coach Bob Fetzer, Fetzer Field has been the home of Carolina soccer since 1947, the first year UNC sponsored a varsity men's team. The women's program was started in 1979.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus directly behind Carmichael Auditorium on South Road (N.C. State Road 54), the stadium was completed in 1935 as a Works Project Administration program during the administration of President NCAAbid in five years. Last year was an amazing one for UNC men's soccer as Carolina claimed the ACC championship and advanced to the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals.

Coach Anson Dorrance's women's teams have been one of the most amazing dynasties in college athletics. The Tar Heels have won 17 national championships in their 22 years of competition. They have an all-time record of 487-22-11.

The women have an incredible record of 207-7-2 at Fetzer Field. In 15 of the past 17 years, Carolina has had at least one player chosen National Player of the Year by some soccer organization. Eight current or former Tar Heels were on the United States National Team which won the Gold Medal at the 1999 Women's World Cup Championship.

"The former 1,200-square-foot soccer office was greatly outdated," says UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "We've made improvements to a lot of our facilities in recent years and this one was badly needed. That would be the case regardless of the teams' records. We want to give our student-athletes the best chance to succeed and enjoy the experience here. This is a way to help in that regard."

The destruction of the Old UNC Soccer Hut was carried out in early 1997. Construction of the new building commenced following the conclusion of the 1997 season. In the meantime, the soccer offices were housed in temporary facilities at Finley Field, the Tar Heels' practice facility near the University golf course.

While the new center has over five times more space than the old facility, the expansion occurred without any loss of parking on campus, always a major concern.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Board of Trustees approved the selection of NBBJ Architects of the Research Triangle Park to design the project. Estimated cost of construction was approximately $1,700,000.00. The project was funded through Athletic Department funds and Educational Foundation gifts. The building was named in honor of Bud and Mildred McCaskill, long-time benefactors of the University and Educational Foundation members.

Fetzer Field and the McCaskill Soccer Center give Carolina two of the best facilities in collegiate women's soccer.
