Nike Supports UNC Men's Lacrosse

The University of North Carolina and Nike extended their agreement for eight more years beginning in July 2002. The agreement provides each varsity team with shoes, apparel, equipment bags and other products. It also provides $100,000 annually to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund for undergraduate teaching and $100,000 annually to the athletic department to reward Olympic sports programs and coaches for academic and athletic excellence.

2007 Season Preview Carolina Men's Lacrosse

For the University of North Carolina men's lacrosse program next year literally is now. In fact, the Tar Heels took on that mentality just minutes after last year's Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament semifinal loss to Maryland which capped a disillusioning 4-10 season and dropped the Heels to 9-18 over the past two seasons.

But what happened last year is hardly relevant to what might happen this year. If the Tar Heels buy into that approach the level of confidence these players need will not be attained. Unlike diehard fans of the Chicago Cubs, "Wait Til Next Year," is not an operative phrase for Coach John Haus' seventh Tar Heel team. The Tar Heels are preseason ranked No. 21 by Face-off Yearbook and Inside Lacrosse, a rating which in all honesty is a rather high mark for a team which was six games under .500 in 2006. Only two other schools who were under .500 last year made their way into the Top 25 of the poll and both were 6-7 a year ago.

The conventional wisdom is that stats lie but that is not always the case. The Tar Heels are hardly talentless. They are not poorly coached. Over the past two years they might have been unlucky. They did struggle with confidence. Carolina struggled to win close games and its record reflected that.

One thing is for sure. The Tar Heels challenged themselves with brutal schedules. Lax Power ranked Carolina's 2005 schedule as the nation's toughest and it rated the 2006 docket as the fourth most difficult in the country. And Carolina's RPI in both seasons was more than respectable. In 2005 Carolina had an RPI of No. 7 out of 57 NCAA Division I teams and the 2006 team had an RPI of No. 14.

Given the strength of schedule rating and the RPI rankings Carolina would easily have been in the NCAA Tournament both of those years had the Tar Heels merely achieved a .500 ledger. To illustrate the difficulty of the schedule Carolina played in 2006, a total of 10 of the 14 games were played against teams which made the NCAA Tournament field.

In 2007 the Tar Heels return a wealth of talent from those two squads. With a revamped coaching staff which has added assistant Judd Lattimore and a boost in confidence this Carolina team could be a lot better than a predicted ranking of No. 21.

The Tar Heels took their first steps in turning things around last June when they spent eight days in Japan competing in the 2006 International Friendship Lacrosse Games in Tokyo, Japan. Not only did the Heels go 6-1-1 there but they also bonded as a unit and clearly enjoyed playing the game of lacrosse.

In August, an outstanding freshman class arrived in Chapel Hill, a group which Inside Lacrosse has ranked as the fourth best recruiting class in the nation. Fall ball followed and North Carolina performed well, competing hard in the annual Leukemia Tournament in Baltimore, scoring exhibition wins over Penn State and Towson, the kinds of teams UNC will need to beat this spring to get back into the tournament.

When spring practice began in January in preparation for a season opener against Ohio State on February 17, the Tar Heels faced some major injury problems that will be resolved in some way as the season develops. But more than anything else the 42 players returned to the practice field with an attitude and a work ethic that has the chance to result in successful outcomes in '07.

The Tar Heels will again play a challenging docket but a difference in 2007 will be that eight of the 13 regular-season games will be played in the friendly confines of Fetzer Field. Haus designed a schedule specifically to keep the Heels at home more often in 2007 after the team played a total of only 10 games at home in 2005 and 2006 combined.

THE ATTACK

The attack unit will be young in 2007 with the loss of three of the top scorers from 2006 as seniors Ryan Blair, Sean Link and Drew Habeck all saw considerable minutes last year.

The Tar Heels, however, will be a revamped unit served well by its youth and its potential. Heading into the spring season the top four players in the rotation are likely to be sophomores Bart Wagner (Glen Arm, Md.), Michael Burns (Garden City, N.Y.) and Matthias McCall (Manteo, N.C.) along with freshman Gavin Petracca (Manhasset, N.Y.). Wagner was UNC's top scorer as a freshman in 2006 with 15 goals and 14 assists for 29 points. He was named Carolina's top freshman player in '06. Burns was UNC's third leading scorer as a freshman last season with 14 goals and six assists for 20 points. McCall may be the most improved player on the team over the course of the last year and was chosen practice player of the week shortly after practice began in January. Petracca was a likely starter last year before preseason knee surgery led him to be redshirted. He is now back and ready to contribute.

Junior Nick Tintle was Carolina's fourth-leading scorer in 2006 with 17 points. He was named a 2007 preseason All-ACC choice and honorable mention All-America by Inside Lacrosse and Face-Off Yearbook.

Significant depth at the position will be provided by senior captain Ben Mark (Durham, N.C.), freshman Kevin Federico (West Islip, N.Y.), the son of Tom Federico, captain of Carolina's 1981 NCAA championship team, freshman Sean Delaney (Moorestown, N.J.) and senior Sam Wagner (Annapolis, Md.).

Junior Brian Burke returns as a starter at close defense for Carolina in 2007, giving the Tar Heels a solid 1-2 punch at the position.

Junior Tim Kaiser is one of UNC's most experienced players as he returns for his third year as a starting close defenseman in 2007.

Carolina Men's Lacrosse 2007 Season Preview

Four freshmen, including three from the state of North Carolina, round out the depth chart at the attack position. This cadre includes Tommy D'Alessandro (Charlotte, N.C.), Ian Morrison (Carmel, Calif.), Joe Howard (Chapel Hill, N.C.) and Colin Sherwood (Greensboro, N.C.).

THE GOAL

The coaching staff believes the Tar Heels have the potential to be outstanding in the goal in 2007 and nothing the coaches have seen in preseason practice disputes that assertion.

Sophomore Grant Zimmerman (Cockeysville, Md.) is the most experienced player at the position, having started eight games for the Heels in 2006. Zimmerman's play in Japan last June was brilliant and gave him a lot of confidence returning for his second campaign as a Tar Heel.

Carolina's top returning offensive presence, sophomore attackman Bart Wagner led the Tar Heels in scoring as a freshman in 2006 with 29 points on 15 goals and 14 assists.

Zimmerman will not win the job by default, however, as freshman Chris Madalon (Darien, Conn.) staked his claim to a shot at the starting role in the fall and his play in the spring continues to be solid.

Third in the rotation will be sophomore Andrew Moss (Washington, D.C.), who showed significant improvement in Japan and will be a more than able backup to the other two.

THE DEFENSE

The Tar Heel defense will be an interesting mix of experience and youth. Carolina returns two starters at close defense but it must rebuild its entire rope unit from a year ago.

Junior Tim Kaiser (Timonium, Md.) is a twoyear returning starter at close defense and junior Brian Burke (Fort Salonga, N.Y.) started nine games last year after playing both rope and close defense as a freshman.

Three-time All-America selection Stephen McElduff was lost to graduation but three players are in strong contention to take his place in the starting unit at the other close defense spot. The group includes sophomore Chris Cortina (Pennington, N.J.), who is the most experienced of the three candidates, sophomore Jack Ryan (Darien, Conn.) and freshman Sean Jackson (Fairfax, Va.).

Depth at close defense will be provided by sophomore Andrew Pyke (Baltimore, Md.), a transfer from Franklin & Marshall, junior Tim McCall (Manteo, N.C.) and freshman Hunter Meldman (San Francisco, Calif.).

ROPE

Carolina lost all of its experience at the long-stick midfielder position. That experience level was not inconsiderable. Billy Staines and Hayward Howard were the four-year co-starters at the position and played nearly every minute on the field there the last four years.

Two freshmen -- Kerry McCormick (Garden City, N.C.) and Michael Jarvis (Richmond, Va.) -- have established themselves as the likely candidates to take over the rope roles. Haus also has high praise for sophomore Pell George (Baltimore, Md.).

The coaching staff says George has improved as much as any player on the team since last year.

This area is likely to be the strength of the team as the coaching staff believes the Tar Heels boast nine players who can comprise three dynamic units. This group should significantly boost UNC's per game scoring average of 8.5 goals from a year ago.

The top unit could include junior Nick Tintle (Levittown, N.Y.), who was named preseason All-ACC by Inside Lacrosse as well as a preseason honorable mention All-America, along with sophomore Ben Hunt (Arnold, Md.), a 2006 All-ACC Tournament honoree, and freshman Sean Burke (Fort Salonga, N.Y.). Tintle was UNC's fourth-leading scorer in 2006 with 12 goals and five assists. Hunt had seven goals and two assists after being shifted to the midfield from the attack midway through the season.

Six more midfielders, all with significant experience at Carolina, will form the core of two more deep and talented offensive midfield units. Senior captain David Ryan (Darien, Conn.) leads this group which also includes senior Tom Sciolla (Moorestown, N.J.), junior Brian Connors (Manhasset, N.Y.), junior Rob Driscoll (Massapequa, N.Y.), junior Ryan Walterhoefer (Ellicott City, Md.) and sophomore Bobby McAuley (Hicksville, N.Y.). McAuley had five goals and seven assists last season while both Driscoll and Walterhoefer scored six goals.

Further depth at the position will come from junior Jamie DeBole (Winston-Salem, N.C.) and freshman Blair Koontz (Montclair, N.J.).

DEFENSIVE MIDFIELD

Another strength of the team should be at the short stick midfield position where the Tar Heels welcome one of the nation's best freshmen and return three outstanding upperclass players.

Freshman Mike Burns (Medford Lakes, N.J.) comes in as one of the nation's most highly sought recruits. Senior Ben Staines (Gambrills, the likely candidates to take Sophomore Shane Walterhoefer was named a preseason All-ACC over the rope roles. Haus also choice by Inside Lacrosse after winning 55 percent of his face-offs last season.

Md.) had a breakthrough season in terms of the increase in his playing time in 2006 and he is expected to have his best season as a Tar Heel in his senior campaign.

Carolina's two other short stick defensive midfield specialists are arguably the team's two best leaders -- junior captains Mike Munnelly (Garden City, N.Y.) and Fletcher Gregory (Charlotte, N.C.). Both headed into the spring practice season battling some injury issues but the Tar Heels are hoping they can be ready to go by the start of the season.

FACE-OFFS

Carolina returns one of the nation's top faceoff specialists in the person of sophomore Shane Walterhoefer (Ellicott City, Md.), who was named preseason All-ACC by Inside Lacrosse Magazine. Walterhoefer won 114 of 209 face-offs as a freshman for a percentage of 54.5 percent and he also led the Tar Heels in ground balls with 64.

Two freshmen -- Mike Burns and Sean Burke -- are also expected to see experience in the face-off circle. Sophomore close defenseman Chris Cortina is also an able face-off option the Tar Heels can turn to in man-down situations.

Sophomore Ben Hunt had an outstanding campaign in 2006 and was named to the All-Tournament Team at the ACC Championship.

Head Coach John Haus Carolina Men's Lacrosse

A new, more positive attitude and renewed commitment to excellence will mark the University of North Carolina men's lacrosse program as it enters its 2007 campaign. The architect of that commitment to rebuilding UNC's lacrosse excellence comes from the head man himself, coach John Haus, who enters his seventh season at the helm of his alma mater's squad.

For Haus, 2007 is about looking ahead, not back. While the history books will record the back-to-back losing seasons for UNC in 2005 and 2006, Haus' view is 100 percent in the forward position.

Haus willingness to revamp many aspects of the program could be a key element in the revival of the team's fortunes in 2007. First, Haus has made staff changes, not just in personnel but also in responsibilities. Judd Lattimore has joined the full-time staff and will join Greg Paradine in developing a more wide open and exciting Tar Heel offense.

The Tar Heels have made great strides administratively and organizationally as well. Practice plans are more structured and training sessions more efficient. An outstanding recruiting push yielded the nation's No. 4 rated class in the freshman group entering in 2006-07 as rated by Inside Lacrosse Magazine.

After losing a large senior class in '06 and returning only five seniors in 2007, Haus also saw the need to make Carolina's schedule more manageable this season. The Tar Heels played only 10 home games combined in the 2005 and 2006 seasons but they will have eight games at Fetzer Field in 2007. Moreso, UNC will have to leave the Triangle Area for only five of 15 matches in 2007.

The past two years UNC had the nation's No. 1 and No. 4 rated strength of schedule rankings, a fact which led to high RPIs (No. 7 and No. 14, respectively) but losing records. While the Tar Heels always want to play the nation's best teams, Haus also saw the need to create a schedule in '07 that hopefully will lead to greater success and build confidence for a team whose depth chart is dominated by underclass players.

The 2007 season began in earnest when

John Haus

- Full Name: John Gilbert Haus, III
- Born October 4, 1961 in Baltimore, Md.
- Married to Lisa Ann Ariosa Haus on November 20, 1987 in Towson, Md.
- Children: John Gilbert Haus, IV, born September 21, 1990 in Baltimore, Md.;
 William Eugene Haus, born November 15, 1992 in Baltimore, Md.; Luke Ariosa Haus, born July 7, 1995 in Chestertown, Md.;
 Grant Schofield Haus, born April 19, 2000 in Baltimore, Md.

Haus made the decision to take the Tar Heels overseas to compete in the 2006 International Lacrosse Friendship Games in Tokyo, Japan from June 15-23, 2006. Carolina bonded as a team and as a staff on the trip and finished the tournament with a 6-1-1 record, losing only to the Japanese National Team by a single goal.

After leading the Carolina men's lacrosse team to its first NCAA Tournament bid since 1998 and its first NCAA quarterfinal appearance since 1996 during the 2004 season, Haus and his charges suffered what is most likely a temporary setback in the progress the program has made during 2005. Admittedly the Tar Heels had a disappointing season with a 5-8 record while playing against what was the nation's No. 1 schedule in terms of difficulty as rated by LaxPower.com. But an RPI of No. 7 indicated the Heels would have been a lock for the NCAA Tournament had they achieved a .500 record or better.

Despite losing a large senior class to graduation after 2006 following a second losing campaign at 4-10 and an RPI of No.14, the Tar Heels under the leadership of Haus and his revamped staff are excited about the prospects of the 2007 Tar Heels. Besides returning a plethora of lettermen and a host of starting entities from the 2006 team, the coaches welcomed the recruiting Class of 2010 this past fall and the belief is many of these freshmen will lend an immediate and positive impact to the squad's fortunes. The class is ranked fourth nationally by Lacrosse Magazine.

While the 2007 senior class includes only five players, the coaching staff is confident the group will provide solid leadership under the auspices of senior captains David Ryan and Ben Mark.

Despite last year's setbacks, their is no doubt John Haus knows how to coach. He enters the 2007 season as one of the Top 10 winningest active coaches in NCAA Division I in terms of career winning percentage for coaches who have won 100 games or more. Haus has a career record of 107-68, a winning percentage of .611.

Haus gained a significant milestone win in his career on March 23, 2005 when the Tar Heels defeated what would be a 2005 NCAA quarterfinalist Cornell team 9-5 at Fetzer Field. The victory was the 100th of Haus' distinguished coaching career combining his wins at Washington College, Johns Hopkins and North Carolina.

Under the mentorship of Haus, the 2004 season at North Carolina was a clear indication of the direction the Tar Heels expect to go in for many seasons to come. There are many reasons for optimism that Carolina can return to that level again in 2007.

Haus led Carolina to its first NCAA Tournament bid in six years in 2004 and to an NCAA Tournament victory for the first time since the 1993 campaign. Overall, UNC's 10-5 record was its best mark since the 1996 season ended at 12-5.

Jed Prossner Ronnie Staines were named first-team All-Americas, the first Tar Heels to be chosen to the top team on attack and respectively, defense. since 1991 and 1993. Altogether, UNC had six All-America selections in 2004, its most since 1993. and three All-Atlantic Coast Conference honorees, its most since 1996. Prossner was one of five finalists for the Tewaaraton Trophy given to the National Player-ofthe-Year in the sport.

Prossner's talents were so well respected that he was named a first-team All-America on attack again in 2005 despite the fact UNC finished three games under .500. Prossner became only the third attackman in UNC lacrosse history to be named first-team All-America multiple years in succession. Prossner ended his career as UNC's second-leading goal scorer while two other members of the Class of 2005 also reached milestones—attackman Mike McCall as the school's sixth leading goal scorer and Paul Spellman as the University's career leader in goalkeeper saves.

After serving for two years as the head coach at Johns Hopkins University and previous to that for four years as the head coach at Washington College on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Haus returned to his alma mater at the University of North Carolina to become the Tar Heels' 11th head men's lacrosse coach on June 1, 2000. It was an emotional decision for Haus but one he does not regret as he continues to seek Carolina's return to lacrosse national prominence.

Haus' first four seasons as the Tar Heels' head mentor showed steady progress in the rebuilding phase of the program as the Tar Heels finished 6-6 in 2001, 8-5 in 2002, 7-6 in 2003 and 10-5 in 2004 against extremely difficult schedules. But with successful recruiting, an improved attitude within the team and a tremendous work ethic up and down the roster, the Tar Heels broke through in 2004 to be an NCAA Tournament team for the first time since 1998. Carolina also posted its most wins in a season since 1996. The Heels also won a game in the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 1993. Haus gives much of the credit for the success of that team to a nine-member senior class, the first group of freshmen he worked with when he took over the head coaching job in the summer of 2000.

When he was hired in 2000, Haus became only the third individual to take the head lacrosse coaching reins at Carolina since 1978. The Ruxton, Md., native was recruited out of Loyola High School in Towson, Md., to play at UNC by U.S. Lacrosse Hall of Fame head coach Willie Scroggs, who piloted the Carolina program from 1978-90. In 2000, Haus returned to the place where he had so many positive experiences during his playing career.

A standout defenseman at Carolina, Haus helped the Tar Heels capture the 1981 and 1982 NCAA championships, the first two national titles in the history of the program. A four-year starter, he was a key individual on a defense which helped lead the team to a 12-0 record in 1981 and a 14-0 mark in 1982. In 1982, he earned first-team All-America honors from the U.S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association and he received the Turnbull Trophy as the UNC team MVP.

A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference performer, Haus garnered second-team All-America honors as a senior. As a freshman, he earned the Jay Gallagher Award as Carolina's top newcomer during the 1980 season. During his collegiate playing career, he helped the Tar Heels to four NCAA Tournament appearances, two NCAA championships, two ACC titles and an overall record of 43-8 (.843). At the conclusion of his playing career, he was selected to play in the annual USILA North-South All-Star game.

Haus attended high school at the Loyola-Blakefield School in Towson, Md., and served as an assistant football and lacrosse coach there from 1984 through 1987 after graduating from UNC. From 1987-94, Haus served as the defensive coordinator at Johns Hopkins, helping lead the Blue Jays to the 1989 NCAA title game.

During his tenure as an assistant coach for the Blue Jays, Hopkins posted a 62-27 record, appeared in the 1989 title game and made two other appearances in the NCAA semifinals. Under his guidance, nine Blue Jay defensemen and goalkeepers earned All-America honors.

An innovative defensive coach with a proven track record of success, Haus left Johns Hopkins in 1994 after seven years as an assistant coach to move to the Eastern Shore of Maryland where he took over as the head coach at Washington College. Haus guided Washington College to its first-ever NCAA men's lacrosse championship in 1998 with a 16-10 title-game victory over two-time defending champion Nazareth. The Shoremen were making their third straight trip to the NCAA Division III title game under Haus. Washington had lost both the 1996 and 1997 national titles games in overtime.

In four years at Washington College, Haus guided the Shoremen to a 47-21 (.691) record, three trips to the NCAA Division III championship game and a pair of Centennial Conference championships. The 1996 recipient of the Morris Touchstone Memorial Award as the NCAA Division III Coach-of-the-Year, Haus mentored 18 All-America selections at Washington College, including five first-team honorees.

Haus then became the 21st coach in the history of the Johns Hopkins lacrosse program and was the clear-cut choice to fill the position when it came open during the summer of 1998 after the departure of long-time Blue Jay head coach Tony Seaman. In 1999, Haus and the Blue Jays posted an 11-3 record, were ranked No. 1 in the nation early in the season, won nine straight games at one point and advanced to the NCAA semifinals before falling to eventual champion Virginia.

In 2000, the Blue Jays recovered from a 1-3 start to win eight games in a row and advance to the NCAA semifinals where for the second straight year Hopkins lost to the eventual national champion, this time Syracuse. The Blue Jays finished 9-4 overall with a No. 4 seed in the NCAA Tournament as they won eight of their last nine games.

Haus has led Washington College, Johns Hopkins and North Carolina to the NCAA Tournament six times, winning one national title and being eliminated by the eventual NCAA champion four of the other five times.

In all, Haus has been involved with college lacrosse as a player or coach for 23 years of his adult life. Teams he has played for or coached either as a head coach or assistant coach have posted a cumulative record of 212-103, won three NCAA Championships, played in six NCAA Championship games, advanced to the NCAA Semifinals 13 times and qualified for the NCAA Tournament 17 times. As a collegiate head coach at Washington College, Johns Hopkins and North Carolina Haus has an 107-

68 mark in 12 seasons.

Haus and his wife, the former Lisa Ariosa, were elated at the prospect of relocating their family to Chapel Hill when the chance came along in 2000. John and Lisa were high school sweethearts. She earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Maryland and then went on to earn a master's degree from the University of Maryland at Baltimore. She is a licensed clinical social worker.

The Hauses are the proud parents of four sons—John age 16, Will age 14, Luke age 11, and Grant, age 6.

Haus is the son of Bert and Anne Haus of Ruxton, Md. Bert was an All-America lacrosse player at the University of Virginia in the 1950s and he is now retired after a long career in the real estate business in the Baltimore area.

John Haus is the second of the seven children of Bert and Anne Haus. Sister Kim is the oldest of the siblings, followed by John, brothers Michael, Tom and Kevin, sister Kathy and brother Tim. Both Tom and Kevin also played lacrosse at Carolina and both were All-America defensemen here. Tom, the national player of the year in 1986 and a three-time national defenseman of the year, is a 1987 graduate. He lives in Winston-Salem, N.C. where he works as a certified public accountant. Kevin was an All-America defensive midfielder for Carolina who graduated in 1988. He now lives in Baltimore and, like his father, Bert, works in the real estate industry.

Carolina Men's Lacrosse Assistant Coach Greg Paradine

Greg Paradine, a former first-team All-America and All-Atlantic Coast Conference defenseman at the University of North Carolina, rejoined the Tar Heel men's lacrosse coaching staff in September 2002. Paradine is now in his second tour of duty as an assistant coach at Carolina, beginning his fifth season on coach John Haus' able staff.

Paradine concentrates on working with the UNC midfielders and the attack unit and he oversees coordination of team travel and equipment needs. In a restructuring of staff responsibilities this season, Paradine will join with new assistant coach Judd Lattimore to oversee the Tar Heel offense as co-coordinators. The duo will also work with the UNC extra-man unit and oversee the players in the face-off corps. Paradine is also a tireless recruiter for the Tar Heel lacrosse program. He helped bring in a freshman class in 2006-07 ranked No. 4 in the nation by Inside Lacrosse.

In his first three seasons back in Chapel Hill, Paradine worked primarily with the Tar Heel defense and served as UNC's substitution box coach. In 2004, Paradine oversaw the development of Ronnie Staines into a first-team All-America defenseman. Staines became the first Tar Heel to cop first-team honors since 1993 when Paradine himself joined teammate Alex Martin on the No. 1 USILA All-America squad.

Stephen McElduff was also an honorable mention All-America choice in 2004 for the Tar Heels on defense as Carolina limited opponents to 8.78 goals per game. McElduff was named a third-team All-America in 2005 as Carolina held opponents to 9.54 goals per game.

Paradine graduated from UNC in December 1993 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in geography. He was a four-year letterman in lacrosse for the Tar Heels from 1990-93. He played on four Atlantic Coast Conference tournament championship teams at Carolina as well as teams which appeared in four NCAA Tournaments, winning the NCAA championship in 1991, finishing as the runner-up in 1993 and making the semifinals in 1990 and 1992.

Paradine was an honorable mention All-America selection as a junior in 1992 and a first-team All-America selection as a senior in 1993. He was also chosen All-Atlantic Coast Conference in 1992 and 1993. He was named to the All-ACC Tournament team in 1993.

Immediately before returning to Carolina, Paradine served as the head lacrosse coach at Chapel Hill High School from 1998-2002. He led the Tigers to PAC-Six Conference titles in 2000, 2001 and 2002 and was named the PAC-Six Coach-of-the-Year in 2001. The Tigers were the North Carolina High School Lacrosse Association runners-up in both 2001 and 2002. He coached three high school All-Americas at CHHS.

Paradine received his teacher certification from the North Carolina Central University School of Education in December 1998. Prior to his return to UNC, he was employed for three years as a fourth and fifth grade teacher at Mary Scroggs Elementary School in the Chapel Hill/Carrboro city school system.

Paradine was an assistant coach at Carolina for two years from August 1995 to May 1997. He also coached as an assistant at Ohio State University from January 1994 to May 1995.

Greg and his wife, Fran, have three children. Mason is six years old, Emmett is nearing his third birthday and Caden is an active one-year-old Greg Paradine (#41) starred as an All-America defenseman for the Tar Heels from 1990-93.

Assistant Coach Judd Lattimore Carolina Men's Lacrosse

Judd Lattimore, a fouryear lacrosse letterman for the Tar Heel men's lacrosse team and a 2001 University of North Carolina graduate, was named last August as a full-time assistant lacrosse coach at his alma mater. North Carolina head coach John Haus, entering his seventh year at Carolina, made the announcement of the hiring of Lattimore after a national search to replace former UNC assistant coach Michael Burnett who left the program in May 2006 for a high school head coaching opportunity in the state.

Lattimore comes to Carolina with a wealth of collegiate coaching experience. Lattimore has worked as an assistant coach on the collegiate level the past five seasons and in each of the past four years he has helped lead teams to the NCAA Tournament including two Limestone teams which reached the national finals in Division II and Delaware and Penn squads which reached their first NCAA fields in several years.

Lattimore joins a UNC staff which includes Haus, who is entering his seventh season as head coach, as well as Greg Paradine, the other full-time UNC assistant coach, now in his fifth year in his second tour of duty at Carolina, and volunteer assistant Pat Olmert, a member of the coaching staff since 1999.

Both a midfielder and attackman as a player at Carolina from 1997-2001, Lattimore was a two-year starter for the Tar Heels and preseason All-America selection as named by Inside Lacrosse Magazine in 2000. Lattimore played for Haus in 2001 as a redshirt senior attackman during Haus' first year as UNC head coach.

While in college, he also worked two summers as camp director of the Auburn Lacrosse Camp in his hometown in upstate New York.

A native of Auburn, N.Y., Lattimore earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in interpersonal and organizational communication from Carolina in May 2001.

Lattimore has been an assistant coach for five full seasons since his graduation from Carolina, all on the collegiate level. In those five years he has helped coach a cadre of teams which finished 58-19 overall, including four squads which have played in the NCAA Division I or NCAA Division II Tournaments.

During the 2005-06 school year, Lattimore worked as an assistant coach at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, Pa. Working in conjunction with Quaker head coach Brian Voelker and former UNC assistant coach Todd Cavallaro, Lattimore helped lead Pennsylvania to a 10-4 overall record, the Quakers' first season with double digits wins since the 1988 campaign. The Quakers earned a spot in the NCAA Tournament field, falling in the first round at Johns Hopkins, while finishing 12th in the final United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association coaches poll for the '06 season.

During the 2004-05 season Lattimore coached at the University of Delaware in Newark, Del., under the direction of head coach Bob Shillinglaw, a 1974 University of North Carolina graduate. The Delaware team Lattimore worked with was only the third Blue Hens' squad in history to make the NCAA Tournament field since the opening tournament was played in 1971. The Blue Hens also won the 2005 Colonial Athletic Association regularseason championship.

From 2002 through 2004, Lattimore coached for two seasons as an assistant coach at Limestone College in Gaffney, S.C. In that role he was the chief assistant coach and the team's offensive coordinator. As the primary creator and implementor of the Limestone College offense, Lattimore mentored a unit which in 2004 scored an astonishing 19.3 goals per game, the highest average goal per game output of any school in all three divisions of NCAA lacrosse. The team finished 15-2 in 2004 and tied the school record of 314 goals scored.

After graduating from UNC, Lattimore worked for one season as the primary assistant coach and offensive coordinator at Geneseo State University in Geneseo, N.Y. At the State University of New York at Geneseo, Lattimore helped coach the squad to its best record in 20 years with the team going from 4-9 in 2001 to 9-4 in 2002. The team qualified for the conference tournament at season's end while also achieving the highest rank in school history up to that point.

From 1993-96, Lattimore was an outstanding high school student-athlete at Auburn High School. As a lacrosse player he was a high school All-America, while captaining the 1996 Auburn team and being selected for the North-South senior all-star game held at the end of each high school season. He was also a two-year high school All-America in swimming at Auburn High School.

Lattimore played on the 1993, 1994 and 1995 Central New York Lacrosse Team at the Empire State Games. He was the captain of that team in 1995.

Judd Lattimore makes a move on his Delaware defender during his playing days as a Tar Heel from 1997-2001. Lattimore played in both the midfield and the attack for Carolina.

Carolina Men's Lacrosse Assistant Coach Pat Olmert

Long-time University of North Carolina lacrosse friend and former Tar Heel star player Pat Olmert joined the UNC men's lacrosse coaching staff in 1999 as the team's volunteer assistant coach.

The 2007 season will be his ninth full year on the Carolina coaching staff.

Olmert is responsible for coaching the Tar Heels' goalkeeping corps of Grant Zimmerman, Chris Madalon and Andrew Moss while also working with the team's man-down defensive unit. In his capacity Olmert helped UNC goalkeeper Paul Spellman become the all-time leader at UNC in career saves in 2005.

Olmert played goalkeeper for North Carolina from 1986 through 1989. He was a freshman on the 1986 NCAA championship team and he also played on the 1988 and 1989 ACC championship teams, the latter year as the team's starting goalkeeper.

As a senior, Olmert was selected to represent UNC at the 1989 United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association North-South All-Star Game.

Olmert still holds the highest career goal-keeper save percentage at UNC with a .663 percentage. He was also on staff as the goalie coach for the 1990 UNC lacrosse team which won the ACC championship and reached the NCAA semifinals. That was the final year of UNC coach Willie Scroggs' 12-year tenure.

Olmert graduated with a bachelor's degree in English Literature from the University of North Carolina in 1990. Olmert has since worked full-time as a loan officer for First Financial Services, Inc., in Chapel Hill.

He and his wife Catherine Watkins Olmert, who is a 1990 graduate of UNC, live on Kerr Lake in Manson, N.C. They are the parents of Lucy Catherine Olmert, born September 17,

History of UNC Lacrosse Carolina Men's Lacrosse

The Humble Beginnings of a Vaunted Program

Lacrosse, a sport invented by the Native American Indians and played long before the first European settlers first visited the shores of North America, was first introduced at the University of North Carolina in 1937 on a club sport team basis.

The first Carolina teams in the late 1930s used the football team's discarded helmets and cleats until team members could afford to buy their own helmets, gloves and sticks. The team played its home games on a field across the street from Woollen Gymnasium.

In those days, Carolina played in what was called the Dixie Lacrosse League with fellow conference members Duke, Virginia, Washington & Lee, Loyola and the Washington Lacrosse Club. The initial Carolina teams of the late 1930s were coached by Albert C. Cornsweet, a 1929 graduate of Brown University.

Most of the players on those early lacrosse teams worked part-time jobs in order to stay in school. After all, it was the heart of the Great Depression and most college students needed to supplement their incomes. There were some scholarship football players who competed in the sport as well. Rumor has it that Carolina head football coach Ray Wolf made his players compete in lacrosse so they'd learn how to run.

The school was admitted as a member of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association (USILA) in 1950 and has remained a member since that time. The 1951 team featured the program's first official All-America player. Nick Sowell was named the first-team All-America goalie that year by the USILA.

After soccer and lacrosse head coach Alan Moore left Chapel Hill following the 1953 campaign, the 1954 squad was coached by George Good, a captain in the United States Marine Corps, and it posted a disappointing 0-6 mark. It proved to be a less than stellar ledger and an ominous signal because after a six-year period from 1949-54, the team's status as a varsity sport at Carolina came to an end. The athletic department at that time began to focus on other sports. For a decade the men's lacrosse program at the University would lay dormant-a club team existed and played outside competition but was no longer recognized by the athletic program as a varsity program. By no means, however, was lacrosse permanently damaged or vanguished to the scrap heap.

Permanent Varsity Status Granted to Lacrosse in 1964

Lacrosse was resurrected at Carolina in 1964 as a varsity program under the leadership of athletic director Chuck Erickson. Erickson wanted to add a sport to improve Carolina's standing in the Carmichael Cup, the annual all-sports trophy of the ACC at that time. Even if Erickson's initial intention was to improve UNC's Carmichael Cup standing the move proved brilliant as within 17 years the Heels became a national championship team.

The UNC program competed on the varsity level without awarding scholarships for 10 years. Carolina upgraded the program with the awarding of scholarships after the hiring of head coach

Paul Doty during the 1973-74 school year. The Tar Heels also transitioned from an NCAA small college program (the the equivalent of what is now the Division II or III level) to NCAA Division I status in 1974 with the awarding of those scholarships. Suddently the Tar Heels were competitive with many of the top teams in the nation.

Despite its rather brief history on campus in comparison to other UNC sports which date back to the early decades of the 20th century or even the late decades of the 19th century, North Carolina lacrosse has been something very special in its time on campus from 1949-54 and 1964 to the present.

Since 1949 the all-time Tar Heel record stands at 366-236-2. Tar Heel teams have won NCAA Division I national championships four times, earning crowns in 1981, 1982, 1986 and 1991. Carolina teams have also captured 11 Atlantic Coast Conference championships—all in a period spanning 1981-96. The championships were won in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994 and 1996.

The 1981 and 1982 teams won 26 games in succession, comprising one of the longest winning steaks in collegiate lacrosse history. Twenty-one times since first qualifying in 1976, the Tar Heels have competed in the NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship. Only

Steve Martel (#6) and Pat Welsh (#26) celebrate Welsh's goal in the closing seconds which lifted the Tar Heels to a breathtaking 11-10 victory over Johns Hopkins in 1985 at Fetzer Field.

Wolf had an appreciation of the sport and wanted to use it to his advantage by helping keep his players in shape during the football off-season, knowing lacrosse players competed in a sport where participants ran and ran and then ran some more.

In the late 1940s, Bill Darden was hired by the athletic department as a member of the five schools (Johns Hopkins, Maryland, Virginia, Syracuse and Navy) have played in the NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Tournament more often than Carolina has.

Tremendous growth in the program occurred beginning in the late 1960s after the program gained a foothold in Chapel Hill. After a pair of losing seasons in 1966 and 1967, Jim Bischoff, whose team was winless in 1967, coached the Tar Heels to an impressively improved 7-4 mark in 1968. In addition, Bischoff's 1968 team was the first Tar Heel squad to earn a national ranking from the USILA, finishing 25th in the final poll.

Mueller Tutors the Likes of Kramer and Peterson

In 1969, Dr. Fred Mueller, a long-time professor in UNC's Department of Exercise and Sports Science, began a successful four-year run as UNC's head coach. The 1970 Tar Heels ranked as Mueller's best team as they finished seventh in the country in the USILA poll with a 9-2 record. That team would likely have been the first UNC squad to earn an NCAA Tournament bid but the first championship sponsored by the NCAA came a year later in 1971.

Among Mueller's greatest players was Peter Kramer, who won the Kelly Award as the nation's outstanding goalkeeper in 1969. Attackman Harper Peterson copped honors as a first-team All-America three times in his career and Kramer was a three-time honoree as well.

Tar Heel head fencing coach Ron Miller ended up with double head coaching duties while taking over the lacrosse coaching reins on an interim basis for one season in 1973. Miller led the team to a 12-5 record in 1973. Those 12 wins stood as Carolina's school record for victories in a season until the mark was broken by the 1982 national championship squad when that team finished with a 14-0 ledger. The Tar Heels also set a school record in 1973 for reqular-season games played in a season with 17 contests on the docket.

Carolina lacrosse entered a new era in 1974 when the program hired Paul Doty as the first full-time head coach in school history. That same year, the team was elevated to scholarship status with the first athletic grants-in-aid in the sport being awarded during the 1974 season.

Doty led UNC to national Top 10 rankings in both 1976 and 1977 and to UNC's first two NCAA Division I Tournament appearances those same two seasons. Another program milestone achieved under Doty's tutelage was Carolina's 13-10 victory over Virginia during the 1976 season. It marked the first time Carolina had ever defeated either Maryland or Virginia as a varsity team, the two schools which had dominated ACC lacrosse up to that point in time. UNC's first win over Maryland would not come until 1981, however.

An Era of Excellence under Willie Scroggs

In 1978, UNC went to the hotbed of college lacrosse, Johns Hopkins University, and hired the Blue Jays' top assistant coach, Willie Scroggs, as the Tar Heels' new head coach. It was a move that bore fruit for a dozen years. Scroggs retired from coaching at the end of the 1990 season to become a senior associate athletic director at UNC, ending a brief but brilliant coaching tenure.

John Webster starred as a dynamic attackman on some outstanding teams in the early 1990s including the 1991 NCAA championship team and the 1993 NCAA finalist squad. Webster is the fifth-leading scorer in Carolina history with 188 points. He ranks fourth in goals with 109 and fifth in assists with 79.

The initial decision to pursue Scroggs was made by Tar Heel athletic director Bill Cobey whose philosophy was that one needed to go to the best programs in the sport and recruit a top assistant coach in order to build a winning program.

Tar Heel teams were 120-37 during the Scroggs era and were invited to the NCAA Tournament 11 straight seasons from 1980 through 1990. In nine of Scroggs' 12 years, UNC made the NCAA Tournament semifinal round and the 1981, 1982 and 1986 squads won the NCAA Division I championship. The Tar Heels were 17-8 in NCAA post-season play during his tenure. Scroggs' teams won ACC titles in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989 and 1990. In addition, the 1982 team finished the season ranked No. 1 in the nation in the final USILA poll.

When Scroggs announced his retirement immediately after Carolina's NCAA semifinal loss to Syracuse in 1990, the University turned to Dave Klarmann, who had been the top assistant to Scroggs for 11 seasons. The move paid off in instantaneous results. In Klarmann's first season at the helm of the Tar Heels, he led the team to a 16-0 record and the 1991 NCAA and ACC championships. That team also finished first in the USILA poll for only the second time in school history.

After an ACC championship and an appearance in the NCAA semifinals in 1992, the Tar Heels had another banner season the following year. In 1993, the Tar Heels again finished first in the USILA poll, marking the second such finish in Klarmann's coaching tenure and the third in the history of Tar Heel lacrosse. Carolina also advanced to the NCAA championship game for the fifth time in history in 1993, dropping a scintillating 13-12 decision to Syracuse in the final seconds of play. Playing with Scroggs' last class of recruits as members of the senior class in 1994, UNC won its seventh straight ACC crown. Carolina won the ACC title again in 1996, the last time the Tar Heels have done so as the Tar Heels routed Duke and upset eventual NCAA finalist Virginia to claim the crown.

Klarmann resigned his coaching position following the 2000 season after leading Carolina to five ACC championships in his tenure. In his last game as the Tar Heel head coach in 2000 he earned his 100th career victory as the Tar Heels defeated Lehigh.

Carolina athletic director Dick Baddour then employed the same plan used by Cobey in 1978 and he went to lacrosse power Johns Hopkins to find the new head coach for the Heels, this time hiring the Blue Jays' two-year head coach, John Haus, to lead Carolina into the new millennium. The hire of Haus was a brilliant move by Baddour as the Carolina program returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2004 for the first time since 1998, winning its first NCAA game since 1993 in the process.

Stellar Play in the NCAA Tournament

In winning four NCAA championships since 1981, Carolina teams have been involved in some of the most exciting games in the tournament's 35-year history.

In 1981, UNC went through the regular season unbeaten and it was ranked No. 2 behind three-time defending national champion Johns Hopkins entering the tournament. The Tar Heels recorded lopsided wins over Syracuse and Navy in Chapel Hill in the first two rounds of the tournament before meeting the unbeaten Blue Jays in the national championship game at Princeton University's Palmer Stadium. Before a crowd of 13,943, UNC scored six straight goals over a span that bridged the third and fourth quarters to overcome a three-goal Johns Hopkins advantage and the Heels eventually triumphed by a 14-13 margin.

In 1982, the Tar Heels swept through the regular season unscathed once again. In the NCAA Tournament, UNC routed Navy and Cornell, setting up a championship game rematch with Johns Hopkins. In a game dominated by the two teams' defenses, UNC beat the Blue Jays 7-5 behind five goals by junior attackman David Wingate and brilliant goal-keeping by Tommy Sears who was the consensus choice as that year's national player of the year.

Carolina's third NCAA championship came in 1986 and it was clearly the most unexpected of the quartet of crowns won by UNC. The Tar Heels were seeded fifth going into the tournament. No team seeded lower than fourth had ever made the championship game prior to the 1986 season and none seeded lower than third had ever won the title. That Carolina team remains, 21 years later, the lowest seeded team to capture the NCAA crown.

Ironically, in winning the national championship, the Tar Heels avenged all three of their regular-season losses and in the exact same order in which they had lost to those teams earlier in the 1986 season. After a 12-10 quarterfinal win at Byrd Stadium against Maryland, UNC headed to the first-ever NCAA lacrosse final four, an institution now embedded in the culture of the sport. Embarking for Newark, Del., Carolina was well prepared for the semifinals and it avenged a 16-4 regular-season loss to two-time defending NCAA champion Johns Hopkins by beating the Blue Jays 10-9 in overtime. Carolina won the game on senior Mike Tummillo's goal off a Gary Seivold assist a little over two minutes into the extra period.

Two days later against Virginia, UNC and the Cavaliers traded the lead throughout the championship contest with neither team ever holding more than a two-goal advantage at any time. Another overtime period was required to settle the issue and Gary Seivold came through again, scoring an unassisted goal 1:50 into the extra session to give the title to Carolina.

Like the 1981 and 1982 teams, 1991's national championship team finished the season unbeaten. UNC opened NCAA Tournament play by defeating Loyola 11-9 in the quarterfinals at a rain-soaked Fetzer Field. Six days later, the Tar Heels handed Syracuse its first NCAA home playoff loss in history as Carolina routed the Orangemen 19-13 at the Carrier Dome.

Two days later against Cinderella NCAA finalist Towson, Carolina led 11-4 at the half, but saw the lead shrink to a single goal in the fourth quarter before going on to win the game 18-13. The Tar Heel victory was led by senior attackman Dennis Goldstein, the National Player of the Year, who was the championship game's MVP. Goldstein led UNC past Syracuse with four goals and he added four goals and four assists in the title game against Towson.

Senior midfielder Peter Voelkel looks for breathing room against the Johns Hopkins defense in the Blue Jays' first-ever visit to Fetzer Field in 1983. The Tar Heels scored a thrilling 14-13 overtime victory that day before close to 7,000 fans.

A Bevy of All-America Selections and USILA Award Winners

Over the past 28 seasons, UNC players have earned 125 All-America accolades and 80 All-Atlantic Coast Conference citations.

Nine Tar Heels have been named ACC Player-of-the-Year — attackman Michael Burnett in 1981, goalkeeper Tom Sears in 1982, defenseman Randy Cox in 1984, attackman Mac Ford in 1985, defenseman Graham Harden in 1991, defenseman Alex Martin in 1992, midfielder Ryan Wade in both 1993 and 1994 and midfielder Jason Wade in 1996.

Scroggs was tapped as ACC Coach-of-the-Year in 1988 and Klarmann won the same honor in 1991, 1993, 1994 and 1996. In 1989, midfielder Jim Buczek was named as the ACC Rookie-of-the-Year. Attackman Jeff Sonke won the same award in 1998. Seven ACC Tournament Most Valuable Players have been Tar Heels — attackman Michael Thomas in 1989, defenseman Joe Breschi in 1990, attackman Dennis Goldstein in 1991, attackman John Webster in 1992, attackman Dan Levy in 1993, goalkeeper Rocco D'Andraia in 1994 and goalkeeper Brooks Brown in 1996.

Carolina has had at least one first-team All-America selection in 18 of 28 seasons since 1979. In 1981, 1991 and 1993, UNC had three first-team selections and the 1984, 1985, 1992, 1996 and 2004 squads had two each. In 1982, five of the 11 players named to the first-team All-America squad were Tar Heels, a rather astounding feat.

Peter Kramer started Carolina's long list of USILA award winners when he won the Kelly Award as the nation's top goalie in 1969. In 1981 and 1982, Tom Sears won the Kelly Award as the nation's outstanding goalkeeper. In 1982, he also captured the Enners Award as the National Player-of-the-Year and the Brine Award as the outstanding player in the NCAA championship game.

A year later, in 1983, Peter Voelkel won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's outstanding midfielder. In 1984, Tom Haus won the first of his three Schmeisser Cups as the nation's outstanding defensive player. He went on to win the Schmeisser Cup again in 1986 and 1987. In 1986, Haus was also tapped for the Enners Award as National Player-of-the-Year. Gary Seivold's two-goal, two-assist effort in the 1986 NCAA championship game win over Virginia earned him the Brine Award as the game's Most Valuable Player.

Carolina added to that jackpot of top awards during the 1991 season. The USILA tapped Goldstein as the National Player-of-the-Year as well as the MVP of the NCAA championship game after scoring four goals and adding four assists in the 18-13 victory over Towson. Also in 1991, Graham Harden captured the Schmeisser Cup as the top defender in the nation and Andy Piazza became the first Tar Heel to win the Kelly Award as the nation's top goalie since Sears won the honor in 1982.

In 1992, Jim Buczek won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfielder. A year later, the USILA honored Ryan Wade as the top midfielder in America. Ryan Wade's younger brother, Jason Wade, won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfield performer in 1996

Scroggs was named National Coach-of-the-Year in 1981 by the USILA and he was an assistant coach for the U.S. team which won the title at the 1982 World Lacrosse Games in Baltimore. Sears was the starting goalkeeper for that U.S. team and was named the All-World goalie. Midfielder Joey Seivold, '87, and defenseman Randy Cox, '84, both played on the U.S. team which won the title at the 1986 World Lacrosse Games in Toronto. Three other Tar Heels, Steve Stenersen, '82, Pete Voelkel, '83, and Mac Ford, '85, were alternates on that team.

Mac Ford went on to play on the U.S. team which swept to the title at the 1990 World Lacrosse Games in Perth, Australia. He was named the top attackman from amongst the four nations that competed in the tournament. UNC midfielder Robin Cornish, a native of Perth, competed in the 1990 World Lacrosse Games as a middle on the host Aussie squad.

Carolina sent two representatives to the 1994 World Lacrosse Games in Manchester, England as the Americans won yet again. Former UNC defenseman Joe Breschi, '90, and midfielder Ryan Wade, '94, were stars on the U.S. team. The World Lacrosse Games returned to the United States again in 1998 and both Breschi, now the head coach at Ohio State, and Ryan Wade made return engagements as members of the American team.

Most recently in the summer of 2005, four Tar Heel players were invited to the U.S. National Team tryouts for the 2006 World Lacrosse Championship. The quartet including goalkeeper Billy Daye, '93, attackman Jeff Sonke, '01, attackman Jed Prossner, '05, and defenseman Stephen McElduff, '06.

A Legacy of Great Players

In 1979, defenseman Ralph "Rip" Davy became the first Tar Heel to be named a first-team All-America under coach Willie Scroggs. Midfielder Kevin Griswold earned similar honors a year later and was a key player on the 1981 and 1982 title teams. Defenseman Gary Burns, '82, was named to All-America teams on three occasions. Midfielder Doug Hall was a hero of the 1981 NCAA championship game victory, scoring three goals, and he was a first-team All-America that season.

Jeff Homire, another midfielder was a first-team All-America in 1982. Chris Walker, '87, was a three-time All-America selection on defense. He played much of his career with the talented Boyd Harden, a first-team All-America in 1988.

The brothers Seivold, Joey a midfielder and Gary an attackman, both of whom graduated in 1987, won some form of USILA All-America honors each of their four years while wearing the Carolina Blue and White.

Another standout defenseman was Joe Breschi, who led Tar Heel teams to the NCAA semifinals in both 1989 and 1990. In 1993, the Tar Heels said good-bye to a guartet of outstanding talents. Attackman John Webster left Carolina amongst career leaders in goals (109), assists (79) and points (188). Midfielder Donnie McNichol had a team-leading 109 ground balls in 1993. In addition, his .740 faceoff percentage established a school record. Defensemen Alex Martin and Greg Paradine were also spectacular players of the early 1990s. Both were first-team All-America choices. The 1996 senior class included the likes of first-team All-America midfielders Jude Collins and Jason Wade. Attackman Jeff Sonke was a secondteam choice in 2000 and 2001 on attack.

Jed Prossner earned first-team All-America honors in 2004, the first UNC attackman to win them since Dennis Goldstein in 1991. Ronnie Staines was a first-team All-America on defense in 2004, the first Tar Heel defender since Paradine and Martin won first-team accolades on defense in 1993.

Prossner went on to be named a first-team All-America attackman again in 2005, honored despite a 5-8 UNC record. Prossner was only the third Tar Heel attackman in history to win first-team All-America in two or more years, joining Harper Peterson, the former mayor of Wilmington, N.C., and Michael Burnett, a Tar Heel assistant coach from 2002-06 who tutored Prossner his final three seasons.

Prossner, who was the second overall pick in the 2005 Major Lacrosse League draft, also won All-ACC honors in 2005 for the third straight year. No Tar Heel had made the All-ACC team three years in a row since 1983.

Prossner and fellow 2005 senior Mike McCall finished their careers as two of the most prolific goal scorers in Carolina history. Prossner scored 113 goals to rank No. 2 in UNC history while McCall scored 102 goals to move him into a tie for No. 6 on the career chart.

Senior goalkeeper Paul Spellman also broke the UNC career record for saves in 2005, breaking the mark that had stood since 1983 when Tom Sears established it.

Fifteen Tar Heels Named to ACC Top 50 Team

Two Tar Heels have been inducted into the U.S. Lacrosse Hall of Fame—former head coach Willie Scroggs in 2003 and three-time national defenseman of the year Tom Haus in 2005

In 2002 when the ACC announced its Top 50 players in each sport to celebrate a half century of the league's existence, 15 Tar Heel players were tapped amongst the Top 50.

This group included defenseman Joe Breschi, '90, midfielder Jim Buczek, '92, attackman Michael Burnett, '83, defenseman Randy Cox, '84, attackman Mac Ford, '95, attackman Dennis Goldstein, '91, midfielder Kevin Griswold, '82, defenseman Graham Harden, '91, defenseman Tom Haus, '87, attackman Harper Peterson, '70, goalkeeper Tom Sears, '83, midfielder Joey Seivold, '87, midfielder Peter Voelkel, '83, midfielder Jason Wade, '96, and midfielder Ryan Wade, '94.

Dan Collins celebrates his goal with three seconds remaining in overtime on March 20, 1999 which lifted Carolina to a 10-9 victory over threetime defending NCAA champion Princeton at Fetzer Field.

Carolina Lacrosse Goes International Carolina Men's Lacrosse

Over the past two summers the lacrosse program at the University of North Carolina and the Japanese Lacrosse Association along with that nation's university teams have become partners in the quest to make sure lacrosse is truly an international sport.

University of North Carolina lacrosse players Jed Prossner, '05, and Stephen McElduff, started the process when they volunteered during the summer of 2005 to journey to Japan where they held several lacrosse clinics. teaching lacrosse fundamentals to university lacrosse players in the Asian nation

The goodwill tour continued last summer when the entire UNC lacrosse team except for four players who had previous commitments joined members of the traveling party which included coaches, family members, trainers and the communications director and ventured to Japan June 15-23, 2006 to take part in the International Lacrosse Friendship Games.

The Tar Heels made several new fans during their sojourn to Japan in June 2006.

Prossner and McElduff were approached in 2004 by Jin Tatsuki, a pharmaceutical graduate student at Carolina, who is a native of Japan where he earned his undergraduate degree at Gakushuin University, also playing lacrosse there. Tatsuki was a regular attendee at Tar Heel lacrosse games in 2005 where he befriended Prossner and approached him about making the trip to conduct the clinics. Prossner then recruited McElduff as a comrade in arms for the project.

Prossner and McElduff spent July 17-25, 2005 in Tokyo under the sponsorship of Gakshuin University. The players stayed in the dorms used at the 1964 Summer Olympics, with Japanese host families and with a Prossner family friend while in Japan.

The Tar Heels con-

duced two to four hours of lacrosse instruction a day while their Japanese hosts made sure there was plenty of time for sightseeing. Amongst the sites the players visited were the Mei Ji Temple, the Tokyo Tower and the Emperor's Palace.

One thing the players discovered was the history of lacrosse in Japan featured strong university teams that played for Gakushuin and its chief rival, Keio University, in the late 1800s and early 1900s. The Tar Heel players said the skill level of the Japanese players was similar to what someone would find at an NCAA Division III school in the United States. Prossner and McElduff were particularly impressed with the quickness of the players.

The Tar Heel players flew directly to Tokyo from John F. Kennedy Airport in New York City, a 13-and-one-half hour trip to Japan and 12-and-one-half hour returning flight.

"It was my first time leaving the United States," said Stephen McElduff. "It will definitely influence me to travel more throughout the world. Fortunately I was able to use my Morehead Scholars Tristan Heinrich and Fletcher Gregory of the men's tennis and men's lacrosse teams, respectively, did teaching internships from early June 2005 to mid August 2005 in Ecuador. Both players were involved in the Morehead public service summer programs by teaching English, geography and personal hygiene to children ages five through 12.

lacrosse skills to give me the opportunity."

Prossner and McElduff must have made a positive impression because within weeks the UNC program had been invited to compete in the 2006 International Friendship Games.

The Tar Heels left for the Games on June 15 flying from RDU International to O'Hare Airport and then taking a non-stop to Tokyo, arriving there on Friday afternoon at 2:45 p.m. They immediately went to the Tokyo Prince Hotel and then made a visit to Tokyo's version of American Town, the Rippongi District.

The following morning the Tar Heels were scheduled to play a 10 a.m. game against the Tokyo U20 Team and triumphed 10-1 behind three goals and one assist by attackman Drew Habeck. Bart Wagner had three assists in the match and Ben Mark and Sam Wagner each scored twice. Less than two hours later the Tar Heels had taken a bus to Edogawa Stadium. The Heels then faced the U21 Japanese National Team and played impressively, winning 13-5. Eleven different Tar Heel players scored goals in the triumph and Ben Mark led all point producers with one goal and three assists. Drew Habeck added two goals and one feeder and Fletcher Gregory scored twice from the short stick defensive midfield position.

Sunday found the Tar Heels waking to dismal weather conditions and day-long rain storm. Despite that fact UNC headed to Edogawa Stadium for the opening ceremonies of the 2006

International Friendship Games. A crowd of over 8.000 was on hand to fill the stadium to capacity and the Tar Heels fought valiantly but lost 10-9 to the Japanese National Team which was about to leave for the World Lacrosse Games in Canada. UNC stayed in the game despite winning only three of 21 faceoffs. Shina

Carolina sophomores Matthias McCall and Jason Arias pose in front of the world famous Tokyo Tower.

Maruyama had five goals and two assists for Japan and he was virtually unstoppable all day. Ben Staines scored twice for the Tar Heels.

Monday, June 18 was a day off from competition but the Tar Heels participated in several cultural experiences at Edogawa Tower, taking a class in calligraphy and attending a traditional Japanese tea ceremony. The afternoon was left free for the Tar Heels to roam free throughout many of the top shopping areas in the city of 12 million people.

Carolina players were awakened early Tuesday morning by an earthquake just off the coast of Japan 10 miles from Tokyo. The quake, at 6:47 a.m., was fortunately measured at only 4.8 on the Richter Scale.

That afternoon UNC played Gakushuin University and played one of its best games, outscoring its foe 13-1. In the game at Ohi Field the Heels were led by Ben Mark with two goals and one assist. Twelve different Tar Heel players recorded goals in the match. The highlight of the day was the defensive matchup between 6-6 Tar Heel defenseman Tim McCall and 5-2 Japanese attackman Naoki Wada (see picture on inside front cover.). That night UNC was hosted to a party at the University grounds.

Wednesday saw the Heels play four games in a period of five hours and an exhausted squad went 3-0-1, finishing its tour of 6-1-1. After the games the team was hosted at a reception one last time by the Japanese Lacrosse Association which had also hosted a dinner after Sunday's games.

Thursday, June 22 was the official day off on the trip and many in the traveling party took the allday trip to Mount Fuji and the surrounding area. That excursion also included a trip on Japan's famed Bullet Train. Others spent the day taking in the sights and shopping of Tokyo.

The Tar Heels left Japan on the afternoon of Friday, June 23 and after crossing the International Date Line arrived later that day at Raleigh-Durham International Airport after a 22-hour plus trip that included a layover in Dallas.

Carolina Athletic Tradition Carolina Men's Lacrosse

Dean Smith is the second winningest coach in Division I college basketball history with 879 wins in 36 seasons at UNC from 1961 through 1997.

In the fall of 2003, Sports Illustrated on Campus (above) declared UNC's women's soccer program the greatest college sports dynasty ever.

The Tar Heel program, under the leadership of legendary head coach Anson Dorrance, has won 19 of the 26 national championships ever decided in the sport of women's soccer on the collegiate level. The Tar Heels have also won all but two of the Atlantic Coast Conference championships ever decided.

Carolina's program passed the 600win mark in 2005 and the overall record now stands at 629-28-18, a winning percentage of .945.

North Carolina fields 28 varsity athletic teams, 15 for women and 13 for men. During the 2005-06 school year, 24 of 28 Carolina squads qualified for NCAA postseason play and Carolina finished fourth in the National Association of Collegiate Athletic Directors' Cup, symbolic of overall athletic excellence. Going into the 2006-07 school year, Carolina had won 242 Atlantic Coast Conference championships in its history and has been the dominant school in league play in that respect. Maryland ranks second with 177 all-time ACC titles and none of the other schools in the conference have won more than 113 league championships, less than half of Carolina's total. UNC won 12 titles in 1994-95, the most ever won in a single school year by one university.

Carolina athletic alumni include two of the world's most famous sports figures — Michael Jordan (above) and Mia Hamm (below).

Dick Baddour, a 1966 graduate of the University of North Carolina, was named
Director of Athletics on June 25, 1997. In his nine years
as director, the UNC

Department of Athletics has undergone a number of changes, yet remains one of the premiere programs in the Atlantic Coast Conference and in the nation

The Goldsboro, N.C., native heads a program that with 28 varsity sports is the largest in the ACC. Carolina prides itself on a strong overall athletic program and finished fourth in the 2005-06 U.S. Sports Academy Cup, a measure of NCAA postseason success. The Tar Heels, inaugural winners of the Cup in 1994, have finished among the top 10 teams 11 times in the competition's 13 years.

Baddour is in his 40th year of continuous service to the university. He graduated from UNC in 1966 and was appointed Assistant Dean of Men in 1967. He served as Assistant Dean of Admissions and Assistant Dean of the UNC School of Law and also earned a Master of Arts degree in education prior to joining the athletic department in 1986.

In 2001, he received the Distinguished Service Medal from the UNC General Alumni Association.

Active in Chapel Hill community affairs, he is a past president of the Public School Foundation and has served on the Parks and Recreation Commission. He and his wife, Lynda, have two sons, Allen and David, and a daughter, Jennifer.

Department of Athletics Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics has offered high quality athletic programs for many years. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to the University.

The mission of the Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop, and to serve the interests of the University by complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life. Coaches, as educators, are foundational to this process. In keeping with the University's efforts to offer programs of regional and national acclaim, the Department's athletic programs strive for competitive excellence within the Atlantic Coast Conference or other similar institutions. Through its athletic programs, the University seeks to unite students, faculty, staff and alumni in a common and shared experience. The Department seeks to contribute to the diversity of the University by offering opportunities for enhanced racial/ethnic, cultural and geographic representation.

To fulfill this mission, the Department, with the approval of the Board of Trust, has developed principles of operation to provide guidance and direction to its personnel. This Mission Statement and accompanying principles require strong dedication and commitment from all who participate in, coach in and support the Department of Athletics.

Department of Athletics Statement on Gambling

The mission of the Department of Athletics is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop. In keeping with the Department's mission and the University's commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the Department of Athletics strongly condemns the influence of gambling on intercollegiate athletics.

Student gambling is a significant issue on college campuses. Student-athlete involvement in gambling has produced many tragic situations, both for student-athletes and the universities they represent. Student-athletes often compete in contests that generate interest from those involved in gambling and, possibly, organized crime. If given the opportunity, those interests will not hesitate to exploit the position student-athletes hold on college campuses. As such, the University of North Carolina is firmly opposed to all forms of gambling and bribery related to intercollegiate athletics.

To fulfill its educational obligation, the Department provides a gambling education program to all its student-athletes and departmental staff members. This statement and the educational program are reflections of the Department's commitment to keeping intercollegiate athletics free from the influences of gambling and its related activities.

The Department requires its staff members and student-ath-letes to adhere to NCAA, state and federal laws regarding gambling. In the interest of fair competition and the growth and development of student-ath-letes, the Department strongly urges its friends and supporters to refrain from gambling/betting on contests involving collegiate competition and to abide by state and federal laws.

Originally built in 1935 and undergoing significant improvements from 1988 to 1990, the facility has been host to NCAA men's lacrosse tournament games on several occasions, most recently in 2004.

Named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track coach Bob Fetzer, Fetzer Field has been the home of Carolina soccer since 1947, the first year UNC sponsored a varsity men's soccer team and Carolina men's lacrosse since 1949, the starting year for that varsity sports program. The women's soccer program was started in 1979 and the women's lacrosse program in 1996. All those Fetzer Field has been the home of the University of North Carolina men's lacrosse team since the first varsity season in 1949. UNC's all-time record at Fetzer heading into the 2007 season is 211-107-2. Large enthusiastic crowds are a staple at Fetzer for men's and women's lacrosse and men's and women's soccer matches, all involving nationally-ranked Tar Heel teams.

sports call Fetzer Field home for their regular-season and post-season tournaments games.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus directly adjacent to Carmichael Auditorium on South Road (N.C. State Road 54), the field was completed in 1935 as a Works Project Administration program during the tenure of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The facility's renovations 17 years ago made it one of the most beautiful all-around collegiate venues in the nation. The playing field itself was reworked and leveled, the grandstand was refitted with new aluminum bleachers, a new track was installed, lights were added, two convenient ticket booths were added to the front gate and a computerized scoreboard and message center was installed. Even more recently the facilities' concession areas have been revamped so they are more convenient for fans. There are also plans in the works for another complete updating of the facility in the next few years.

Currently Fetzer Field is the home facility for six of Carolina's 28 varsity teams — men's soccer, women's soccer, men's outdoor track and field, women's outdoor track and field, men's lacrosse and women's lacrosse.

The facility has been home not only to women's and men's soccer NCAA and ACC Championship events, but also numerous ACC Outdoor Track and Field Championships, the North Carolina High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics, men's and women's lacrosse ACC Tournaments and first round, quarterfinal and semifinal action in the NCAA tournament play. In the summer of 1996, the facility was the home training site for the United States Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

The University of North Carolina Carolina Men's Lacrosse

Through its teaching, research and public service, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an educational and economic beacon for the people of North Carolina and beyond.

History

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was the nation's first state university to open its doors and the only public university to award degrees in the 18th century.

Authorized by the N.C. Constitution in 1776, the university was chartered by the N.C. General Assembly Dec. 11, 1789, the same year George Washington first was inaugurated as president.

The cornerstone was laid for Old East, the nation's first state university building, Oct. 12, 1793. Hinton James, the first student, arrived from Wilmington, N.C., Feb. 12, 1795.

Location

The 729-acre central campus includes the two oldest state university buildings, Old East and Person Hall. Old East and Playmakers Theatre, an 1852 Greek-revival building are National Historic Landmarks.

The American Society of Landscape Architects selected the Carolina campus as one of the most beautifully landscaped spots in the country. That listing is among the praise affirming the charm of mighty oaks, majestic quadrangles, brick sidewalks and other landscaping synonymous with UNC.

Today, the campus is undergoing an unprecedented physical transformation made possible in part by North Carolinians' overwhelming approval of the $3.1 billion bond referendum for higher education. The referendum, approved in November 2000, was the nation's largest higher education bond package.

The bonds mean $510 million for renovations, repairs and new buildings so 21st century students at Carolina can learn in a 21st century environment. Also guided by a visionary master plan for growth now rapidly coming to life, the university is investing another $800-plus million from non-state sources, including private gifts and overhead receipts from faculty research grants, for other buildings essential to excellence. The resulting $1.3 billion capital construction program is among the largest underway at any major American university.

Recently completed projects include the renovation of Memorial Hall, which anchors the university's planned arts common and is now a comfortable, elegant venue for the performing arts; the Rams Head Center, a linchpin in the campus master plan that combines a 700-space parking deck, dining and student recreation facilities, and innovative sustainability practices; and the renovated Health Sciences Library, which features 140 computer workstations and technology that will encourage collaboration among scientists and educations in Chapel Hill and beyond.

This fall, groundbreakings will include the North Carolina Cancer Hospital, a $180 million facility being built by the UNC Health Care System that was approved by the North Carolina General Assembly and Gov. Mike Easley in 2004.

UNC anchors one corner of the famed Research Triangle Park, which has played a vital role in nurturing the economic development of North Carolina.

Recent Rankings

Several national publications regularly publish rankings that listed Carolina prominently in categories ranging from academic quality to affordability to diversity to public service to international presence. Recent highlights include:

5th best public university in U.S. News & World Report's annual "Best Colleges" guidebook. Affirmation as a national leader in student accessibility; 2nd among public campuses and 19th overall in "Great Schools, Great Prices," based on academic quality, net cost of attendance and average student debt. Also 6th among publics for "least debt."

Kenan-Flagler Business School: tied for 6th among undergraduate programs.

4th among public universities in "The Top American Research Universities," produced in December 2004 by the Lombardi Program on Measuring University Performance at the University of Florida. Based on categories such as research, endowment assets, private giving, faculty, and advanced training.

1st among the 100 best public colleges combining great academics and affordable tuitions as ranked by Kiplinger's Personal Finance. Carolina has been first four consecutive times.

A "best value" among 81 schools chosen for "America's Best Value Colleges, 2006 Edition" by The Princeton Review/Random House for outstanding academics, relatively low costs, and generous financial aid packages. Carolina has appeared in this publication two years in a row.

1st for the top entrepreneurial campus and 5th "most connected." according to The Princeton Review and Forbes.com. UNC has an undergraduate business degree offering with a concentration in entrepreneurship in the Kenan-Flagler Business School, a new minor in entrepreneurship in the College of Arts and Sciences, and a new campuswide Carolina Entrepreneurial Initiative. In 2000, UNC became the nation's largest university requiring undergraduates to own laptop computers. With more than 850 wireless access points, UNC provides wireless connectivity in classrooms, labs, libraries, residence halls and quadrangles.

1st among public research universities, for the second consecutive year, recording the highest rate of undergraduates studying abroad in 2002-2003; 7th among all research universities for the total number of undergraduates going abroad, according to an annual report published by the Institute of International Education.

1st among U.S. academic institutions recognized as "best places to work for postdocs," according to The Scientist magazine. Based on conditions for postdoctoral fellows working in the life sciences as part of the magazine's third annual survey. Carolina was 6th among all U.S. institutions, including government institutions and private research centers.

"Hottest" for health careers, according to the Kaplan/Newsweek 2005 "How to Get into College" guide, based on admissions trends and interviews with a broad array of educators, admissions officers, students and other long-time observers of the admissions process. An article in the guide says UNC's diverse offerings in the health disciplines – all in the same place are helping attract prospective students.

14th among top U.S. colleges and universities for the number of alumni volunteering to serve in the Peace Corps in 2004. Currently, 60 Chapel Hill graduates are representing the United States abroad by serving people who live in the developing world as Peace Corps volunteers.

14th – the highest ranking for any major public research university – in the 2004 "Black Enterprise-DayStar Top 50 Colleges and Universities for African Americans" list. This ranking was based on responses to questions about which schools were both a good academic and social fit for African-Americans.

One of the nation's top universities in fostering social responsibility and public service, according to The Princeton Review and Campus Compact. Carolina appears in a book, "Colleges With a Conscience: 81 Great Schools With Outstanding Community Involvement." Based on admissions practices, scholarships rewarding community service and support for service-learning programs.

Among the 20 very "best buy" public universities in the U.S. and Canada as judged by the 2005 Fiske Guide to Colleges based on the quality of the academic programs in relation to the cost of attendance.

The school's international executive education program was ranked 17th overall by The Financial Times. The school was included in a new Princeton Review book, "Best 143 Business Schools," and the MBA program was ranked 6th for best campus environment, 10th for best professors and 10th for most family friendly.

Kev Statistics

Now in its third century, Carolina offers bachelor's, master's, doctoral and professional degrees in academic areas critical to North Carolina's future: business, dentistry, education, law, medicine, nursing, public health and social work, among others. Offerings include 71 bachelor's, 110 master's and 77 doctorate degree programs. The health sciences are well integrated with the liberal arts, basic sciences and high-tech programs. Patient outreach programs affiliated with Carolina and the UNC Health Care System serve citizens in all 100 North Carolina counties.

Carolina belongs to the select group of 62 American and two Canadian campuses forming the Association of American Universities.

In fall 2004, Carolina enrolled more than 26,800 students from all 100 North Carolina counties, the other 49 states and more than 100 other countries. Eighty-two percent of Carolina's undergraduates come from North Carolina.

Those students learn from a 3,100-member faculty. Many of those faculty members hold or have held major posts in virtually every national scholarly or professional organization and have earned election to the most prestigious academic academies and organizations.

The Carolina academic community benefits from a library with more than 5.6 million volumes and perennially ranks among the best research libraries in North America as judged by the Association of Research Libraries. The most recent association listings place Carolina 15th among 114 research libraries in North America. UNC's North Carolina Collection is the largest of its kind among state-oriented collections on campuses nationwide. And the Southern and rare book collections also are among the country's finest.

Carolina's more than 243,000 alumni live in all 50 states and in 146 countries. Notable alumni include writers Thomas Wolfe, Shelby Foote, Russell Banks and Jill McCorkle; athletes Michael Jordan, Vince Carter, Antawn Jamison, Mia Hamm, Marion Jones and Davis Love III; and journalists Alan Murray, Roger Mudd, Charles Kuralt, Stuart Scott and Tom Wicker.

Others include former White House Chief of Staff Erskine Bowles; former White House Communications Director Don Baer; former U.S. Sen. John Edwards (now director of UNC's new Center on Poverty, Work and Opportunity); Bill Harrison, chairman and chief executive officer of JPMorgan Chase & Co.; Sallie L. Krawcheck, chief financial officer and head of strategy for Citigroup Inc.; Ken Thompson, chairman and chief executive officer of Wachovia Corp.; Dr. Mary Sue Coleman, a biochemist and former Carolina vice chancellor and now the University of Michigan president; Dr. Elson Floyd, former Carolina executive vice chancellor and now president of the University of Missouri system; U.S. President James Polk; geneticist Francis Collins; actors Jack Palance, George Grizzard and Andy Griffith, as well as actresses Louise Fletcher and Sharon Lawrence; editorial cartoonist Jeff MacNelly; Hugh McColl, retired chairman and chief executive officer of Bank of America Corp.; and fashion designer Alexander Julian.

The Carolina Covenant

Carolina has expanded its nationally recognized Carolina Covenant initiative to make a debt-free college education possible for more low-income students. The changes, announced by Chancellor James Moeser during his 2004 State of the

address, send an even stronger message about accessibility and the traditional commitment to opportunity in Chapel Hill for qualified students – regardless of their ability to pay.

Launched in fall 2004, the Carolina Covenant initially covered 225 freshmen who can graduate without debt. Instead, they agree to work on campus 10 to 12 hours weekly in a federal workstudy job, and Carolina meets the rest of their needs through a combination of federal, state, university, and other privately funded grants and scholarships.

Now the university is increasing the financial eligibility requirements for the program to cover an estimated 120 new students. Starting in fall 2005, students and their families must be at or below 200 percent of the federal poverty level – up from 150 percent. That raises the threshold to cover a family of four with an annual income of about $37,000 or a single parent with a child who makes about $24,000. This year, those income levels were at about $28,000 and $18,000, respectively.

Carolina became the first major public U.S. university to announce plans for such a program in fall 2004. Since then, several universities, including Virginia, Maryland, Nebraska, Illinois, Harvard and Brown, have created or announced plans for similar programs. UNC also has begun a mentorship program for Covenant scholars being supported by faculty volunteers

The university consistently ranks among the national leaders in making education financially accessible to students. Carolina also meets the full need of middle-income students, with financial aid packages comprised of two-thirds grants and scholarships and one-third loans and work-study. (Most aid packages are closer to two-thirds loans and one-third grants.)

Carolina Covenant scholars were admitted under the university's rigorous admissions standards. More than half of the first year's class in 2004 were first-generation college students. Covenant students posted an average 4.21 grade-point average and 1,209 Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) score.

The Carolina First Campaign

The Carolina First Campaign is a comprehensive, multi-year private fund-raising campaign – the largest in the university's history – to support the vision of Carolina becoming the nation's leading public university. The ultimate beneficiaries of reaching that goal will be the people of North Carolina, whom Carolina is dedicated to serve.

The university exceeded the $1 billion mark for the campaign during fiscal 2002-2003. As of June 2005, the campaign has raised more than $1.47 billion in gifts and pledges from alumni and friends toward its $1.8 billion goal.

Carolina First has created 144 new endowed professorships toward a total goal of 200 and 473 new scholarships and fellowships for students toward a target of 1,000. Faculty support and the quality of students and facilities are among key priorities for the campaign, scheduled to close in July 2007.

Other campaign priorities include providing the means to pursue strategic initiatives to enrich the academic experience; conduct research that improves the health and the economic, social, and cultural well being of citizens; and redouble the commitment to public service and engagement.

Total giving in fiscal 2004 was $190 million in gifts and private grants – the largest single amount received in a single year in the university's history. The campaign counts gifts, pledges and deferred gifts, bringing the campaign total to $237 million for fiscal 2004. The $190 million figure counts only gifts received outright.

In fall 2000, Chancellor James Moeser pledged to the people of North Carolina that if they passed the higher education bond referendum the university would triple their investment with private funds. The people responded overwhelmingly, and successful completion of the Carolina First campaign will fulfill that pledge. The ultimate beneficiaries will be the people of North Carolina.

Student-Athlete Services

Advancing toward graduation, Building Character and Developing leadership

Student-Athlete Services at the University of North Carolina encompasses three areas that play an integral part in the collegiate experience of every UNC student-athlete. Those three areas are Academic Development, Student-Athlete Development and Leadership Development.

ACADEMIC DEVELOPMENT

The Academic Support Program is the main service utilized in advancing UNC student-athletes to graduation. The program assists student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals. "Our young people are students first and athletes second and that will always be the case at the University," says UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "That is a credit to our coaches, administrators and support staff, but most of all, our student-athletes. Their accomplishments in the classroom are very impressive."

During the 2006-07 academic year, 265 Carolina student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year. In the fall of 2005, 144 student-athletes made the Dean's

The Academic Support Program is housed primarily in the Pope Academic Support Center, which is equipped with study facilities, tutorial rooms, a computer lab, a 128-seat auditorium, counselors' offices, and state-of-the-art video and computer equipment. At the center, students meet with staff to discuss course selection, major and career exploration, academic progress and academic eligibility.

The Academic Support Program helps freshmen transition from high school to college through a variety of academic programs such as academic counseling, individual tutoring, group review sessions and supplemental instruction.

A member of each team serves as the Academic Team Captain, providing a strong link between the Academic Support Program and the other student-athletes on the squad. The Academic Team Captain for men's lacrosse for 2006-07 is Fletcher Gregory.

STUDENT-ATHLETE DEVELOPMENT

Building character in UNC student-athletes is main charge of Student-Athlete Development.

> Through Carolina Outreach, Tar Heels are involved in a variety of projects and organizations on campus and in the community. The UNC Department of Athletics has partnered with Gatorade and the UNC School of Public Health for a national pilot program called Get Kids in Action, in which Tar Heel student-athletes visit local elementary schools to encourage children to exercise. The Carolina Dreams program allows young patients at UNC Children's Hospitals to attend Tar Heel sporting events with UNC student-athletes. Other recent activities have included building a house with Habitat for Humanity, cooking meals at Ronald McDonald House and cleaning up the roadways through the Adopt-a-Highway program.

Carolina CREED

As a University of North Carolina studentathlete, I pledge to make every effort to abide by the Carolina CREED as a show of my commitment to the University, the Department of Athletics, my team and myself.

- C I will know and embrace the tradition and culture of this great University and its athletics department
- R I will respect myself and others
- E I will pursue excellence in my academic work by striving to reach my academic potential while preparing for a career of significance
- E I will excel athletically by committing myself to performance excellence, team success and continual improvement
- D I will develop the capacity to effectively lead myself and others

• LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

The primary outlet for Leadership Development is the Carolina Leadership Academy, started at UNC in 2004. As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Carolina Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Academy consists of three programs: CREED Program

SPORTS MEDICINE

The Tar Heel athletic teams, including the men's lacrosse squad, receive excellent care from one of the country's best sports medicine staffs. The University of North Carolina prides itself on the quality of its sports medicine program and spares no expense in providing top-flight medical care to all student-athletes.

Dr. Tim Taft. Director of Sports Medicine, oversees a comprehensive program designed to keep studentathletes healthy and to rehabilitate any injuries quickly and successfully. Dr. Mario Ciocca is the physician who works directly with the men's lacrosse team. Dr. Alex Creighton serves as the team orthopaedic suraeon.

A member of the certified athletic training staff is present at all games and practices to ensure that any injuries receive prompt and proper care. Head certified athletic trainer Nina Walker

IT'S LIKELY THE MOST WELL-KNOWN COLOR IN COLLEGE SPORTS.

After all, the athletic achievements at the University of North Carolina are so distinctive that the color often bears the name of the school that made it famous — Carolina Blue.

Names like Justice, Jordan, Hamm, Rosenbluth, Ford, Love, Peppers, Beatty, Jones, Cunningham, Walsh, McCauley, Surhoff, Bly. They are just a few of the names that have had the opportunity to wear a Carolina Jersey. There are more than 7,000 other names — some of which are Carolina legends, while some competed at the very highest level in virtual obscurity. They are bound by a common thread ... they played for the name on the front of the Jersey — North Carolina.

THESE STUDENT-ATHLETES ARE AFFORDED THIS OPPORTUNITY BECAUSE OF THE RAMS CLUB. DONORS
