Media and fans can follow the Carolina men's lacrosse team and the rest of the UNC athletic program from anywhere in the world on the official web site of North Carolina athletics. TarHeelBlue.com offers schedules, rosters, results, features and more for all 28 of Carolina's varsity sports.

Nike Supports UNC Men's Lacrosse

The University of North Carolina and Nike extended their agreement for eight more years beginning in July 2002. The agreement provides each varsity team with shoes, apparel, equipment bags and other products. It also provides $100,000 annually to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund for undergraduate teaching and $100,000 annually to the athletic department to reward Olympic sports programs and coaches for academic and athletic excellence.

Franklin Street in the heart of downtown Chapel Hill is a sea of revelers after the Tar Heels defeated Illinois in the 2005 NCAA Men's Basketball Championship Game.

The 2008 University of North Carolina men's lacrosse media guide was written and edited by Dave Lohse, associate athletic communications director, and Jeff McLerran, student assistant in the athletic communications office.

Redshirt junior Grant Zimmerman started in the goal on a full-time basis in 2007.

Senior Tim Kaiser was a third-team USILA All-America selection last season.

Senior Nick Tintle was UNC's leading scorer out of the midfield in 2007.

Junior Bart Wagner led UNC in scoring in 2006 and 2007.

The University of North Carolina men's lacrosse program, under the aegis of eighth-year head coach John Haus, returns one of the nation's most experienced and talented teams in the 2008 season as the Tar Heels seek their first Memorial Day weekend appearance in the NCAA Final Four since 1993.

All 10 starters on attack, in the first mid-field unit, on the close defense and in the goal return for the Tar Heels, who are coming off a 10-6 season in which UNC advanced to the NCAA quarterfinals. The 2007 season marked Carolina's second quarterfinal appearance since 1996 and with most of the team's personnel returning and a solid freshman class joining the UNC program, North Carolina is ranked No. 5 in the preseason by Faceoff Yearbook and Inside Lacrosse Magazine while the Tar Heels are No. 10 in the preseason United States Lacrosse Association preseason coaches poll.

With 35 lettermen overall returning from the 2007 team which finished with a 10-6 overall record and defeated Navy 12-8 in the NCAA quarterfinal round at Fetzer Field. The Tar Heels lost five seniors off the 2007 team who will be sorely missed for their talent and leadership — midfielders David Ryan, Ben Staines, Ryan Walterhoefer and Tom Sciolla and attackman Sam Wagner.

Coach John Haus, who has 117 career coaching wins heading into 2008, is looking to lead the Tar Heels to their third NCAA Tournament appearance in the past five seasons. To do so, the Tar Heels will look to continue to improve on defense at the same rate as they did during the 2007 campaign. The last line of defense is junior Grant Zimmerman who is back as one of the nation's most experienced and athletic netminders. Zimmerman started nine of the 13 games UNC played in 2006 and he started all 16 games last season at the position. Zimmerman played all but 51 minutes of UNC's 2007 season in the goal for the Tar Heels.

In front of Zimmerman will be a very experienced close defense unit with all three starters returning from 2007. Seniors Tim Kaiser and Brian Burke have been regulars there for three years already and junior Jack Ryan shared the team's most improved player award last year after a successful switch from the midfield.

Kaiser was a third-team U.S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association All-America last year and is a 2008 Faceoff Yearbook preseason second-team All-America. Kaiser, who was named All-ACC last season, started all 16 games last year and was among the nation's leaders in ground balls for close defense with 69 and in caused turnovers with 32. Burke and Ryan provide perfect complements for Kaiser, who himself excels as a takeaway specialist. Ryan is a tough, physical presence around the crease while Burke is a fast player with good stick skills and excellent clearing ability. Kaiser and Burke have good end-to-end abilities and they can both score on the fast break.

Sophomore Chris Madalon will be the No. 1 backup in goal for Carolina after playing in a limited role in 2007. The Tar Heels are deep at the close defense position with sophomore Sean Jackson back after he started four games last season and two outstanding defensive freshmen — Ryan Flanagan and Kevin Piegare — added to the mix, both of whom will compete for significant playing time.

The Tar Heels are also well stocked at the rope position with sophomores Michael Jarvis, Kerry McCormick and Jackson all back. All three saw extensive action there last season and Jarvis started 12 games on the wing for UNC. Flanagan will also get a look at the long stick midfield role.

Adding depth on the defensive end will be senior goalkeeper Andrew Moss and freshman goalkeeper Jamie Locke as well as a host of solid defensemen — junior Pell George, junior Chris Cortina, junior Andrew Pyke, freshman Mike Chires, freshman Emmitt Kellar, freshman Scott Bollert, senior Tim McCall, sophomore Hunter Meldman and freshman Milton Lyles.

The Tar Heels return all three starters on attack just as they do on close defense. Junior Bart Wagner is a preseason third-team All-America after earning honorable

Senior Brian Burke's starting experience on close defense is a chief Tar Heel asset.

Junior Ben Hunt had a big offensive year for the Tar Heels with 20 goals in 2007.

Rob Driscoll had 13 goals for the Tar Heels last season.

mention postseason honors a year ago. Wagner has led the Tar Heels in scoring each of the past two seasons. A year ago he had 44 points on 23 goals and 21 assists to go along with a hefty total of 51 ground balls.

Carolina's other two returning starters are redshirt sophomore Gavin Petracca, an honorable mention preseason All-America, and redshirt junior Michael B. Burns.

Senior Mike Munnelly returns for his second year as a team captain in 2008.

Petracca was Carolina's second-leading scorer last year with 24 goals and 17 assists for 41 points and Burns led the Heels in goal scoring with 28 and he had 35 points overall. The second attack unit is quite capable with junior Matthias McCall, sophomore Kevin Federico and freshman Billy Bitter all expected to see significant time. McCall and Federico both played significant minutes last year. Other attacking options for Carolina include sophomore Ian Morrison and sophomore Colin Sherwood. Altogether it will be a deep and talented unit for the Tar Heels.

At short stick defensive midfield the Tar Heels lost two seniors who saw the bulk of the time last year at the position — Ben Staines and David Ryan. However the SSDM unit is well stocked being led by senior captains Fletcher Gregory and Mike Munnelly and redshirt freshman Michael J. Burns. Gregory played in all 16 games for the Tar Heels last year and was one of the team's most improved players. Munnelly returns after a year off recovering from surgery and Burns will also be the No. 1 backup at the faceoff spot after taking a medical redshirt last year.

The Tar Heels return junior Shane Walterhoefer, considered by many to be the nation's No. 1 player at the X. Walterhoefer, a preseason first-team All-America selection by Faceoff Magazine, set the school record for faceoffs won in a season last year with 222. He was among the nation's leaders in ground balls with 113 and overall he won 60.5 percent of his faceoffs. In the offensive midfield the Tar Heels return a considerable amount of experience and firepower. Senior captain Nick Tintle is a preseason second-team All-America and he returns as UNC's leading scorer from the midfield in 2007 when he had 17 goals and 14 assists for 31 points. Junior Ben Hunt is a preseason honorable mention All-America after scoring 20 goals and passing for eight assists as a sophomore. Hunt was UNC's fourth-leading goal producer last season. Senior Rob Driscoll with 13, sophomore Sean Burke with 10 and sophomore Sean Delaney with 10 add to the double figures goal scorers out of the midfield who played for UNC in 2007. Other players who have worked their way into the Top 3 units in preseason practice include senior Brian Connors (10 points in 2007), junior Bobby McAuley, freshman Matt Davie, sophomore Tommy D'Alessandro, freshman Chris Hunt and sophomore transfer Cryder DiPietro. Sophomore Joe Howard and senior Jamie DeBole round out a unit which should be amongst the team's top strengths this season.

As a freshman in 2007, Sean Burke stepped in and scored 10 goals for Carolina.

Junior Jack Ryan started all 16 games on close defense for UNC last season.

Brian Connors had a big offensive year for the Heels in 2007.

HEAD COACH JOHN HAUS

John Haus is the man responsible for turning the Tar Heel lacrosse program around. The results were evident on the field in 2007 and the promise that carries into the 2008 campaign is further proof the eighth-year head coach has the Tar Heels headed in the right direction.

After consecutive losing seasons in 2005 and 2006, the Tar Heels rebounded last year to notch their second 10-win season and second quarterfinal appearance since 2004. With all 10 starters and 35 total letterman returning from that 10-6 team, 2008 looks to be potentially the most fruitful campaign of John Haus' eight seasons at the helm of his alma mater's men's lacrosse squad.

The Tar Heels enter the 2008 season as highly regarded as at any time during Haus' tenure. Both Faceoff Yearbook and Inside Lacrosse Magazine have Carolina ranked as the No. 5 team in the country in their preseason polls, while the United States Lacrosse Association preseason coaches' poll has the Heels checking in at No. 10. The No. 5 ranking is the highest ever for a Carolina team in Haus' eight-year tenure.

The successful 2007 campaign began with Haus' willingness to revamp several aspects of the program. First, Haus made staff changes, not just in personnel but also in responsibilities. Judd Lattimore joined the full-time staff and partnered with fellow assistant Greg Paradine in developing a more wide open and exciting Tar Heel offense. The Tar Heels also made great strides administratively and organizationally, as well, with practices becoming more structured and training sessions more efficient.

The on-field portion of the 2007 season began in earnest when Haus made the decision to take the Tar Heels overseas to compete in the 2006 International Lacrosse Friendship Games in Tokyo, Japan from June 15-23, 2006. Carolina bonded as a team and as a staff on the trip and finished the tournament with a 6-1-1 record, losing only to the Japanese National Team by a single goal.

The Heels kept the momentum going with wins in six of their first seven matches in 2007 including home victories over nationally-ranked teams from Denver and Notre Dame. With a depth chart dominated by underclassmen, Haus saw the need to play more games in familiar territory scheduling nine home games versus just five true road matches. The Tar Heels capitalized on the opportunity going 8-1 at home including the season's signature victory over eventual-national champion John's Hopkins at Kenan Stadium. The win was Haus' first over his former squad and Carolina's first win over the Blue Jays since 1994.

The 2007 season also produced the Heels' first postseason action since 2004. In their first round game the Heels defeated Navy by a score of 12-8 for their second tournament victory since 1993. It was Haus' second trip to the NCAA tournament with the Heels and second time reaching the quarterfinals.

The on-field success also allowed Haus and company to continue the outstanding recruiting push that has them primed for title run in 2008. Inside Lacrosse Magazine rated Carolina's 2007-08 freshman class as nation's seventh best. Coupled with the nation's No. 6 and No. 4 ranked classes from 2005 and 2006, respectively, the Tar Heels boast a roster with three classes rated in the top ten of their respective years.

With his ability to adapt and grow as a coach, John Haus continues to uphold his reputation as one of the sports best teachers and competitors. He enters the 2008 season as one of the Top 15 winningest active coaches in NCAA Division I in terms of career winning percentage for coaches who have won 100 games or more. Haus has a career record of 117-74, a winning percentage of .6126.

Haus gained a significant milestone win in his career on March 23, 2005 when the Tar Heels defeated what would become a 2005 NCAA quarterfinalist Cornell team 9-5 at Fetzer Field. The victory was the 100th of Haus' distinguished coaching career combining his wins at Washington College, Johns Hopkins and North Carolina.

Under the mentorship of Haus, the 2004 season at North Carolina was a clear indication of the direction the Tar Heels expect to go in for many seasons to come. There are many reasons for optimism that Carolina can return to that level again in 2008.

Haus led Carolina to its first NCAA Tournament bid in six years in 2004 and to an NCAA Tournament victory for the first time since the 1993 campaign. Overall, UNC's 10-5 record was its best mark since the 1996 season ended at 12-5.

Jed Prossner and Ronnie Staines were named first-team All-Americans, the first Tar Heels to be chosen to the top team on attack and defense, respectively, since 1991 and 1993. Altogether, UNC had six All-America selections in 2004, its most since 1993, and three All-Atlantic Coast Conference honorees, its most since 1996. Prossner was one of five finalists for the Tewaaraton Trophy given to the National Player-of-the-Year in the sport.

Prossner's talents were so well respected that he was named a first-team All-America on attack again in 2005 despite the fact UNC finished three games under .500. Prossner became only the third attackman in UNC lacrosse history to be named first-team All-America multiple years in succession. Prossner ended his career as UNC's second-leading goal scorer while two other members of the Class of 2005 also reached milestones—attackman Mike McCall as the school's sixth leading goal scorer and Paul Spellman as the University's career leader in goalkeeper saves.

After serving for two years as the head coach at Johns Hopkins University and previous to that for four years as the head coach at Washington College on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Haus returned to his alma mater at the University of North Carolina to become the Tar Heels' 11th head men's lacrosse coach on June 1, 2000. It was an emotional decision for Haus but one he does not regret as he continues to seek Carolina's return to lacrosse national prominence.

Haus' first four seasons as the Tar Heels' head mentor showed steady progress in the rebuilding phase of the program as the Tar Heels finished 6-6 in 2001, 8-5 in 2002, 7-6 in 2003 and 10-5 in 2004 against extremely difficult schedules. But with successful recruiting, an improved attitude within the team and a tremendous work ethic up and down the roster, the Tar Heels broke through in 2004 to be an NCAA Tournament team for the first time since 1998. Carolina also posted its most wins in a season since 1996. The Heels also won a game in the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 1993.

The Haus family poses at Fetzer Field after John Haus earned his 100th win as a college head coach against Cornell on March 23, 2005.

Haus gives much of the credit for the success of that team to a nine-member senior class, the first group of freshmen he worked with when he took over the head coaching job in the summer of 2000.

When he was hired in 2000, Haus became only the third individual to take the head lacrosse coaching reins at Carolina since 1978. The Ruxton, Md., native was recruited out of Loyola Blakefield High School in Towson, Md., to play at UNC by U.S. Lacrosse Hall of Fame head coach Willie Scroggs, who piloted the Carolina program from 1978-90. In 2000, Haus returned to the place where he had so many positive experiences during his playing career.

A standout defenseman at Carolina, Haus helped the Tar Heels capture the 1981 and 1982 NCAA championships, the first two national titles in the history of the program. A four-year starter, he was a key individual on a defense which helped lead the team to a 12-0 record in 1981 and a 14-0 mark in 1982. In 1982, he earned first-team All-America honors from the U.S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association and he received the Turnbull Trophy as the UNC team MVP.

A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference performer, Haus garnered second-team All-America honors as a senior. As a freshman, he earned the Jay Gallagher Award as Carolina's top newcomer during the 1980 season. During his collegiate playing career, he helped the Tar Heels to four NCAA Tournament appearances, two NCAA championships, two ACC titles and an overall record of 43-8 (.843). At the conclusion of his playing career, he was selected to play in the annual USILA North-South All-Star game.

Haus attended high school at the Loyola-Blakefield School in Towson, Md., and served as an assistant football and lacrosse coach there from 1984 through 1987 after graduating from UNC. From 1987-94, Haus served as the defensive coordinator at Johns Hopkins, helping lead the Blue Jays to the 1989 NCAA title game.

During his tenure as an assistant coach for the Blue Jays, Hopkins posted a 62-27 record, appeared in the 1989 title game and made two other appearances in the NCAA semifinals. Under his guidance, nine Blue Jay defensemen and goalkeepers earned All-America honors.

An innovative defensive coach with a proven track record of success, Haus left Johns Hopkins in 1994 after seven years as an assistant coach to move to the Eastern Shore of Maryland where he took over as the head coach at Washington College. Haus guided Washington College to its first-ever NCAA men's lacrosse championship in 1998 with a 16-10 title-game victory over two-time defending champion Nazareth. The Shoremen were making their third straight trip to the NCAA Division III title game under Haus. Washington had lost both the 1996 and 1997 national titles games in overtime.

In four years at Washington College, Haus guided the Shoremen to a 47-21 (.691) record, three trips to the NCAA Division III championship game and a pair of Centennial Conference championships. The 1996 recipient of the Morris Touchstone Memorial Award as the NCAA Division III Coach-of-the-Year, Haus mentored 18 All-America selections at Washington College, including five first-team honorees.

Haus then became the 21st coach in the history of the Johns Hopkins lacrosse program and was the clear-cut choice to fill the position when it came open during the summer of 1998 after the departure of long-time Blue Jay head coach Tony Seaman. In 1999, Haus and the Blue Jays posted an 11-3 record, were ranked No. 1 in the nation early in the season, won nine straight games at one point and advanced to the NCAA semifinals before falling to eventual champion Virginia.

In 2000, the Blue Jays recovered from a 1-3 start to win eight games in a row and advance to the NCAA semifinals where for the second straight year Hopkins lost to the eventual national champion, this time Syracuse. The Blue Jays finished 9-4 overall with a No. 4 seed in the NCAA Tournament as they won eight of their last nine games.

Haus has led Washington College, Johns Hopkins and North Carolina to the NCAA Tournament seven times, winning one national title and being eliminated by the eventual NCAA champion four of the other six times.

In all, Haus has been involved with college lacrosse as a player or coach for 24 years of his adult life. Teams he has played for or coached either as a head coach or assistant coach have posted a cumulative record of 222-109, won three NCAA Championships, played in six NCAA Championship games, advanced to the NCAA Semifinals 13 times and qualified for the NCAA Tournament 18 times. As a collegiate head coach at Washington College, Johns Hopkins and North Carolina Haus has an 117-74 mark in 12 seasons.

Haus and his wife, the former Lisa Ariosa, were elated at the prospect of relocating their family to Chapel Hill when the chance came along in 2000. John and Lisa were high school sweethearts. She earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Maryland and then went on to earn a master's degree from the University of Maryland at Baltimore. She is a licensed clinical social worker.

The Hauses are the proud parents of four sons—John age 17, Will age 15, Luke age 12, and Grant, age 7.

Haus is the son of Bert and Anne Haus of Ruxton, Md. Bert was an All-America lacrosse player at the University of Virginia in the 1950s and he is now retired after a long career in the real estate business in the Baltimore area.

John Haus is the second of the seven children of Bert and Anne Haus. Sister Kim is the oldest of the siblings, followed by John, brothers Michael, Tom and Kevin, sister Kathy and brother Tim. Both Tom and Kevin also played lacrosse at Carolina and both were All-America defensemen here. Tom, the national player of the year in 1986 and a three-time national defenseman of the year, is a 1987 graduate. He lives in Winston-Salem, N.C. where he works as a certified public accountant. Kevin was an All-America defensive midfielder for Carolina who graduated in 1988. He now lives in Baltimore and, like his father, Bert, works in the real estate industry.

ASSISTANT COACH GREG PARADINE

Greg Paradine, a former first-team All-America and All-Atlantic Coast Conference defenseman at the University of North Carolina, rejoined the Tar Heel men's lacrosse coaching staff in September 2002. Paradine is now in his second tour of duty as an assistant coach at Carolina, beginning his sixth season on coach John Haus' able staff.

Paradine concentrates on working with the UNC midfielders and the attack unit and he oversees coordination of team travel and equipment needs. In a restructuring of staff responsibilities last season, Paradine joined with new assistant coach Judd Lattimore to oversee the Tar Heel offense as co-coordinators. The duo also works with the UNC extra-man unit and oversees the players in the faceoff corps. In 2007, Paradine helped coach faceoff specialist Shane Walterhoefer to a school-record 222 faceoff victories.

Paradine is also a tireless recruiter for the Tar Heel lacrosse program. He has helped secure ment of Ronnie Staines into a first-team All-America defenseman. Staines became the first Tar Heel to cop first-team honors since 1993 when Paradine himself joined teammate Alex Martin on the No. 1 USILA All-America squad. Stephen McElduff was also an honorable mention All-America choice in 2004 for the Tar Heels as Carolina limited opponents to 8.78 goals per game. McElduff was named a third-team All-America in 2005 as Carolina held opponents to 9.54 goals per game.

Paradine graduated from UNC in December 1993 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in geography. He was a four-year letterman in lacrosse for the Tar Heels from 1990-93. He played on four Atlantic Coast Conference tournament championship teams at Carolina as well as teams which appeared in four NCAA Tournaments, winning the NCAA championship in 1991, finishing as the runner-up in 1993 and making the semifinals in 1990 and 1992.

Paradine was an honorable mention All-America selection as a junior in 1992 and a first-team All-America selection as a senior in 1993. He was also chosen All-Atlantic Coast Conference in 1992 and 1993. He was named to the All-

ACC Tournament team in 1993.

Immediately before returning to Carolina, Paradine served as the head lacrosse coach at Chapel Hill High School from 1998-2002. He led the Tigers to PAC-Six Conference titles in 2000, 2001 and 2002 and was named the PAC-Six Coach-of-the-Year in 2001. The Tigers were the North Carolina High School Lacrosse Association runners-up in both 2001 and 2002. He coached three high school All-Americans at CHHS.

Paradine received his teacher certification from the North Carolina Central University School of Education in December 1998. Prior to his return to UNC, he was employed for three years as a fourth and fifth grade teacher at Mary Scroggs Elementary School in the Chapel Hill/Carrboro city school system.

Paradine was an assistant coach at Carolina for two years from August 1995 to May 1997. He also coached as an assistant at Ohio State University from January 1994 to May 1995.

three consecutive top ten classes as rated by Inside Lacrosse, including the No. 7-ranked freshman class for the 2008 season. In 2005 and 2006, he helped recruit the No. 6 and No.4 ranked classes, respectively.

In his first three seasons back in Chapel Hill, Paradine worked primarily with the Tar Heel defense and served as UNC's substitution box coach. In 2004, Paradine oversaw the develop-

ASSISTANT COACH JUDD LATTIMORE

Judd Lattimore, a four-year lacrosse letterman for the Tar Heel men's lacrosse team and a 2001 University of North Carolina graduate, was named in August 2006 as a full-time assistant lacrosse coach at his alma mater.

North Carolina head coach John Haus made the announcement of the hiring of Lattimore after a national search to replace former UNC assistant coach Michael Burnett who left the program in May 2006 for a high school head coaching opportunity in the state of North Carolina.

Despite his youthful appearance, Lattimore came to Carolina with a wealth of collegiate coaching experience. Lattimore worked as an assistant coach on the collegiate level in the five seasons prior to joining UNC, in each of the final four years he helped lead teams to the NCAA Tournament including two Limestone teams which reached the national finals in NCAA Division II and Delaware and Penn squads which reached their first NCAA fields in several years in 2005 and 2006, respectively.

In his first year as a Carolina assistant, Lattimore teamed with fellow assistant Greg Paradine to co-coordinate the Tar Heel offensive attack. The Carolina offense was a major factor in the team's improvement from a 4-10 record in 2006 to 10-6 in 2007. The Tar Heels scored 175 goals last season after scoring just 119 times in 2006. Lattimore also assisted with the extra-man unit and with faceoff corps that helped sophomore Shane Walterhoefer set a school record with 222 faceoff victories in a single season.

Both a midfielder and attackman as a player at Carolina from 1997-2001, Lattimore was a two-year starter for the Tar Heels and pre-season All-America selection as named by Inside Lacrosse Magazine in 2000. Lattimore played for Haus in 2001 as a redshirt senior attackman during Haus' first year as UNC head coach.

While in college, he also worked two summers as camp director of the Auburn Lacrosse Camp in his hometown in upstate New York.

A native of Auburn, N.Y., Lattimore earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in interpersonal and organizational communication from Carolina in May 2001.

Lattimore has been an assistant coach for six full seasons since his graduation from Carolina, all on the collegiate level. In those six years he has helped coach a cadre of teams which finished 68-25 overall, including five squads which have played in the NCAA Division I or NCAA Division II Tournaments.

During the 2005-06 school year, Lattimore worked as an assistant coach at the University

Hens' squad in history to make the NCAA Tournament field since the opening tournament was played in 1971. The Blue Hens also won the 2005 Colonial Athletic Association regular-season championship.

From 2002 through 2004, Lattimore coached for two seasons as an assistant coach at Limestone College in Gaffney, S.C. In that role he was the chief assistant coach and the team's offensive coordinator. As the primary creator and implementer of the Limestone College offense, Lattimore mentored a unit which in 2004 scored an astonishing 19.3 goals per game, the highest average goal per game output of any school in all three divisions of NCAA lacrosse. The team finished 15-2 in 2004 and tied the school record of 314 goals scored.

After graduating from UNC, Lattimore worked for one season as the primary assistant coach and offensive coordinator at Geneseo State University in Geneseo, N.Y. At the State University of New York at Geneseo, Lattimore helped coach the squad to its best record in 20 years with the team going from 4-9 in 2001 to 9-4 in 2002. The team qualified for the conference tournament at season's end while also achieving the highest rank in school history up to that point.

From 1993-96, Lattimore was an outstanding high school student-athlete at Auburn High School. As a lacrosse player he was a high school All-America, while captaining the 1996 Auburn team and being selected for the North-South senior all-star game held at the end of each high school season. He was also a two-year high school All-America in swimming at Auburn High School.

Lattimore played on the 1993, 1994 and 1995 Central New York Lacrosse Team at the Empire State Games. He was the captain of that team in 1995.

of Pennsylvania. Working in conjunction with Quaker head coach Brian Voelker and former UNC assistant coach Todd Cavallaro, Lattimore helped lead Penn to a 10-4 overall record, the Quakers' first season with double digits wins since the 1988 campaign. The Quakers earned a spot in the NCAA Tournament field, falling in the first round at Johns Hopkins, while finishing 12th in the final United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association coaches poll for the '06 season.

During the 2004-05 season Lattimore coached at the University of Delaware in Newark, Del., under the direction of head coach Bob Shillinglaw, a 1974 University of North Carolina graduate. The Delaware team Lattimore worked with was only the third Blue

ASSISTANT COACH PAT OLMERT

Long-time University of North Carolina lacrosse friend and former Tar Heel star player Pat Olmert joined the UNC men's lacrosse coaching staff in 1999 as the team's volunteer assistant coach.

The 2007 season will be his 10th full year on the Carolina coaching staff.

Olmert is responsible for coaching the Tar Heels' goalkeeping corps of Grant Zimmerman, Chris Madalon and Andrew Moss while also working with the team's man-down defensive unit. In his capacity Olmert helped UNC goalkeeper Paul Spellman become the all-time leader at UNC in career saves in 2005.

Olmert played goalkeeper for North Carolina from 1986 through 1989. He was a freshman on the 1986 NCAA championship team and he also played on the 1988 and 1989 ACC championship teams, the latter year as the team's starting goalkeeper.

As a senior, Olmert was selected to represent UNC at the 1989 United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association North-South All-Star Game.

Olmert still holds the highest career goalkeeper save percentage at UNC with a .663 percentage. He was also on staff as the goalie coach for the 1990 UNC lacrosse team which won the ACC championship and reached the NCAA semifinals. That was the final year of UNC coach Willie Scroggs' 12-year tenure.

Olmert graduated with a bachelor's degree in English Literature from the University of North Carolina in 1990. Olmert has since worked full-time as a loan officer for First Financial Services, Inc., in Chapel Hill.

He and his wife Catherine Watkins Olmert, who is a 1990 graduate of UNC, live on Kerr Lake in Manson, N.C. They are the parents of Lucy Catherine Olmert, born September 17,

The Humble Beginnings of a Vaunted Program

Lacrosse, a sport invented by the Native American Indians and played long before the first European settlers first visited the shores of North America, was first introduced at the University of North Carolina in 1937 on a club sport team basis.

The first Carolina teams in the late 1930s used the football team's discarded helmets and cleats until team members could afford to buy their own helmets, gloves and sticks. The team played its home games on a field across the street from Woollen Gymnasium.

In those days, Carolina played in what was called the Dixie Lacrosse League with fellow conference members Duke, Virginia, Washington & Lee, Loyola and the Washington Lacrosse Club. The initial Carolina teams of the late 1930s were coached by Albert C. Cornsweat, a 1929 graduate of Brown University.

Most of the players on those early lacrosse teams worked part-time jobs in order to stay in school. After all, it was the heart of the Great Depression and most college students needed to supplement their incomes. There were some scholarship football players who competed in the sport as well. Rumor has it that Carolina head football coach Ray Wolf made his players compete in lacrosse so they'd learn how to run. Wolf had an appreciation of the sport and wanted to use it to his advantage by helping keep his players in shape during the football off-season, knowing lacrosse players competed in a sport where participants ran and ran and then ran some more.

In the late 1940s, Bill Darden was hired by the athletic department as a member of the business office staff and he also began to coach the lacrosse team at UNC. Varsity status was officially awarded by the athletic department after a period of time and monogram awards were first granted beginning with the 1949 team, officially making it Carolina's initial varsity unit.

The school was admitted as a member of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association (USILA) in 1950 and has remained a member since that time. The 1951 team featured the program's first official All-America player. Nick Sowell was named the first-team All-America goalie that year by the USILA.

After soccer and lacrosse head coach Alan Moore left Chapel Hill following the 1953 campaign, the 1954 squad was coached by George Good, a captain in the United States Marine Corps, and it posted a disappointing 0-6 mark. It proved to be a less than stellar ledger and an ominous signal because after a six-year period from 1949-54, the team's status as a varsity sport at Carolina came to an end. The athletic department at that time began to focus on other sports. For a decade the men's lacrosse program at the University would lay dormant—a club team existed and played outside competition but was no longer recognized by the athletic program as a varsity program. By no means, however, was lacrosse permanently damaged or vanquished to the scrap heap.

Permanent Varsity Status Granted to Lacrosse in 1964

Lacrosse was resurrected at Carolina in 1964 as a varsity program under the leadership of athletic director Chuck Erickson. Erickson wanted to add a sport to improve Carolina's standing in the Carmichael Cup, the annual all-sports trophy of the ACC at that time. Even if Erickson's initial intention was to improve UNC's Carmichael Cup standing the move proved brilliant as within 17 years the Heels became a national championship team.

The UNC program competed on the varsity level without awarding scholarships for 10 years. Carolina upgraded the program with the awarding of scholarships after the hiring of head coach Paul Doty during the 1973-74 school year. The Tar Heels also transitioned from an NCAA small college program (the equivalent of what is now the Division II or III level) to NCAA Division I status in 1974 with the awarding of those scholarships. Suddenly the Tar Heels were competitive with many of the top teams in the nation.

Despite its rather brief history on campus in comparison to other UNC sports which date back to the early decades of the 20th century or even the late decades of the 19th century, North Carolina lacrosse has been something very special in its time on campus from 1949-54 and 1964 to the present.

Since 1949 the all-time Tar Heel record stands at 376-242-2. Tar Heel teams have won NCAA Division I national championships four times, earning crowns in 1981, 1982, 1986 and 1991. Carolina teams have also captured 11 Atlantic Coast Conference championships—all in a period spanning 1981-96. The championships were won in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994 and 1996.

The 1981 and 1982 teams won 26 games in succession, comprising one of the longest winning streaks in collegiate lacrosse history.

Twenty-two times since first qualifying in 1976, the Tar Heels have competed in the NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship. Only five schools (Johns Hopkins, Maryland, Virginia, Syracuse and Navy) have played in the NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Tournament more often than Carolina has.

Tremendous growth in the program occurred beginning in the late 1960s after the program gained a foothold in Chapel Hill. After a pair of losing seasons in 1966 and 1967, Jim Bischoff, whose team was winless in 1967, coached the Tar Heels to an impressively improved 7-4 mark in 1968. In addition, Bischoff's 1968 team was the first Tar Heel squad to earn a national ranking from the USILA, finishing 25th in the final poll.

Mueller Tutors the Likes of Kramer and Peterson

In 1969, Dr. Fred Mueller, a long-time professor in UNC's Department of Exercise and Sports Science, began a successful four-year run as UNC's head coach. The 1970 Tar Heels ranked as Mueller's best team as they finished seventh in the country in the USILA poll with a 9-2 record. That team would likely have been the first UNC squad to earn an NCAA Tournament bid but the first championship sponsored by the NCAA came a year later in 1971.

Among Mueller's greatest players was Peter Kramer, who won the C.M. Kelly, Jr. Memorial Cup as the nation's outstanding goalkeeper in 1969. Attackman Harper Peterson copped honors as a first-team All-America three times in his career and Kramer was a three-time honoree as well.

Tar Heel head fencing coach Ron Miller ended up with double head coaching duties while taking over the lacrosse coaching reins on an interim basis for one season in 1973. Miller led the team to a 12-5 record in 1973. Those 12 wins stood as Carolina's school record for victories in a season until the mark was broken by the 1982 national championship squad when that team finished with a 14-0 ledger. The Tar Heels also set a school record in 1973 for regular-season games played in a season with 17 contests on the docket.

Carolina lacrosse entered a new era in 1974 when the program hired Paul Doty as the first full-time head coach in school history. That same year, the team was elevated to scholarship status with the first athletic grants-in-aid in the sport being awarded during the 1974 season.

Doty led UNC to national Top 10 rankings in both 1976 and 1977 and to UNC's first two NCAA Division I Tournament appearances those same two seasons. Another program milestone achieved under Doty's tutelage was Carolina's 13-10 victory over Virginia during the 1976 season. It marked the first time Carolina had ever defeated either Maryland or Virginia as a varsity team, the two schools which had dominated ACC lacrosse up to that point in time. UNC's first win over Maryland would not come until 1981, however.

An Era of Excellence under Willie Scroggs

In 1978, UNC went to the hotbed of college lacrosse, Johns Hopkins University, and hired the Blue Jays' top assistant coach, Willie Scroggs, as the Tar Heels' new head coach. It was a move that bore fruit for a dozen years. Scroggs retired from coaching at the end of the 1990 season to become a senior associate athletic director at UNC, ending a brief but brilliant coaching tenure.

The initial decision to pursue Scroggs was made by Tar Heel athletic director Bill Cobey whose philosophy was that one needed to go to the best programs in the sport and recruit a top assistant coach in order to build a winning program.

Tar Heel teams were 120-37 during the Scroggs era and were invited to the NCAA Tournament 11 straight seasons from 1980 through 1990. In nine of Scroggs' 12 years, UNC made the NCAA Tournament semifinal round and the 1981, 1982 and 1986 squads won the NCAA Division I championship. The Tar Heels were 17-8 in NCAA post-season play during his tenure. Scroggs' teams won ACC titles in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989 and 1990. In addition, the 1982 team finished the season ranked No. 1 in the nation in the final United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association poll.

When Scroggs announced his retirement immediately after Carolina's NCAA semifinal loss to Syracuse in 1990, the University turned to Dave Klarmann, who had been the top assistant to Scroggs for 11 seasons. The move paid off in instantaneous results. In Klarmann's first season at the helm of the Tar Heels, he led the team to a 16-0 record and the 1991 NCAA and ACC championships. That team also finished first in the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association poll for only the second time in school history.

After an Atlantic Coast Conference championship and an appearance in the NCAA semifinals in 1992, the Tar Heels had another banner season the following year. In 1993, the Tar Heels again finished first in the USILA national coaches' poll, marking the second such finish in Klarmann's coaching tenure and the third in the history of Tar Heel lacrosse. Carolina also advanced to the NCAA championship game for the fifth time in history in 1993, dropping a scintillating 13-12 decision to Syracuse on a fast-break goal by the Orangemen in the final seconds of play. Playing with Scroggs' last class of recruits as members of the senior class in 1994, UNC won its seventh straight Atlantic Coast Conference crown. Carolina won the ACC title again in 1996, the last time the Tar Heels have done so as the Tar Heels routed Duke and upset eventual NCAA finalist Virginia to claim the crown behind a brilliant goalkeeping performance by Brooks Brown.

Klarmann resigned his coaching position following the 2000 season after leading Carolina to five ACC championships in his tenure. In his last game as the Tar Heel head coach in 2000 he earned his 100th

Remembering Ralph Davy

Former UNC men's lacrosse first-team All-America defenseman Ralph (Rip) Thomas Davy, III passed away on January 16, 2008 at age 51. He was survived by his wife Margo and two sons, Will and Brooks; by his mother Nancy Davy; by two brothers, Kirk and Brett (also a lacrosse player at UNC from 1986-89), and a sister Wendy. He was graduated from the Hill School in Pottstown, Pa., and Carolina, where he was an All-America in lacrosse in 1979 and the team tri-captain that season.

The North Carolina lacrosse program sends its best wishes to the Davy family at the unexpected and sudden loss of one of its greatest All-America players.

career victory as the Tar Heels defeated Lehigh.

Carolina athletic director Dick Baddour then employed the same plan used by Cobey in 1978 and he went to lacrosse power Johns Hopkins to find the new head coach for the Heels, this time hiring the Blue Jays' two-year head coach, John Haus, to lead Carolina into the new millennium. The hire of Haus was a brilliant move by Baddour as the Carolina program returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2004 for the first time since 1998, winning its first NCAA game since 1993 in the process. Carolina again played in the NCAA Tournament in 2007, reaching the NCAA quarterfinal round a second time in four seasons.

Stellar Play in the NCAA Tournament

In winning four NCAA championships since 1981, Carolina teams have been involved in some of the most exciting games in the tournament's 37-year history.

In 1981, UNC went through the regular season unbeaten and it was ranked No. 2 in the nation behind three-time defending national champion Johns Hopkins entering the tournament. The Tar Heels recorded lopsided wins over Syracuse and Navy in Chapel Hill in the first two rounds of the tournament before meeting the unbeaten Blue Jays in the national championship game at Princeton University's Palmer Stadium. Before a crowd of 13,943, UNC scored six straight goals over a span that bridged the third and fourth quarters to overcome a three-goal Johns Hopkins advantage and the Heels eventually triumphed by a 14-13 margin.

In 1982, the Tar Heels swept through the regular season unscathed once again. In the NCAA Tournament, UNC routed Navy and Cornell in games at Fetzer Field, setting up a championship game rematch with Johns Hopkins. In a game dominated by the two teams' defenses, UNC beat the Blue Jays 7-5 behind five goals by junior attackman David Wingate and brilliant goalkeeping by Tom Sears who was the consensus choice as that year's national player of the year.

Carolina's third NCAA championship came in 1986 and it was clearly the most unexpected of the quartet of crowns that have been won by UNC. The Tar Heels were seeded fifth going into the tournament. No team seeded lower than fourth had ever made the championship game prior to the 1986 season and none seeded lower than third had ever won the title. That Carolina team remains, 21 years later, the lowest seeded team to capture the NCAA crown.

Ironically, in winning the national championship, the Tar Heels avenged all three of their regular-season losses and in the exact same order in which they had lost to those teams earlier in the 1986 season. After a 12-10 quarterfinal win at Byrd Stadium against Maryland, UNC headed to the first-ever NCAA lacrosse final four, an institution now embedded in the culture of the sport every Memorial Day weekend. Embarking for Newark, Del., Carolina was well prepared for the semifinals and it avenged a 16-4 regular-season loss to two-time defending NCAA champion Johns Hopkins by beating the Blue Jays 10-9 in overtime. Carolina won the game on senior Mike Tummillo's goal off a Gary Seivold assist a little over two minutes into the extra period.

Two days later against Virginia, UNC and the Cavaliers traded the lead throughout the championship contest with neither team ever holding more than a two-goal advantage at any time. Another overtime period was required to settle the issue and Gary Seivold came through again, scoring an unassisted goal 1:50 into the extra session to give the title to Carolina.

Like the 1981 and 1982 teams, 1991's national championship team finished the season unbeaten. UNC opened NCAA Tournament play by defeating Loyola 11-9 in the quarterfinals at a rain-soaked Fetzer Field. Six days later, the Tar Heels handed Syracuse its first NCAA home playoff loss in history as Carolina routed the Orangemen 19-13 at the Carrier Dome.

Two days later against Cinderella NCAA finalist Towson, Carolina led 11-4 at the half, but saw the lead shrink to a single goal in the fourth quarter before going on to win the game 18-13. The Tar Heel victory was led by senior attackman Dennis Goldstein, the National Player of the Year, who was the championship game's Most Valuable Player. Goldstein led UNC past Syracuse with four goals and he added four goals and four assists in the title game against Towson.

A Bevy of All-America Selections and USILA Award Winners

Over the past 29 seasons, UNC players have earned 128 All-America accolades and 81 All-Atlantic Coast Conference citations.

Nine Tar Heels have been named ACC Player-of-the-Year — attackman Michael Burnett in 1981, goalkeeper Tom Sears in 1982, defenseman Randy Cox in 1984, attackman Mac Ford in 1985, defenseman Graham Harden in 1991, defenseman Alex Martin in 1992, midfielder Ryan Wade in both 1993 and 1994 and midfielder Jason Wade in 1996.

Scroggs was tapped as ACC Coach-of-the-Year in 1988 and Klarmann won the same honor in 1991, 1993, 1994 and 1996. In 1989, midfielder Jim Buczek was named as the ACC Rookie-of-the-Year. Attackman Jeff Sonke won the same award in 1998. Seven ACC Tournament Most Valuable Players have been Tar Heels — attackman Michael Thomas in 1989, defenseman Joe Breschi in 1990, attackman Dennis Goldstein in 1991, attackman John Webster in 1992, attackman Dan Levy in 1993, goalkeeper Rocco D'Andraia in 1994 and goalkeeper Brooks Brown in 1996.

Carolina has had at least one first-team All-America selection in 18 of 29 seasons since 1979. In 1981, 1991 and 1993, UNC had three first-team selections and the 1984, 1985, 1992, 1996 and 2004 squads had two each. In 1982, five of the 11 players named to the first-team All-America squad were Tar Heels, a rather astounding feat.

Peter Kramer started Carolina's long list of USILA award winners when he won the C.M. Kelly, Jr. Memorial Cup as the nation's top goalie in 1969. In 1981 and 1982, Tom Sears won the Kelly Award as the nation's outstanding goalkeeper. In 1982, he also captured the Enners Award as the National Player-of-the-Year and the Brine Award as the outstanding player in the NCAA championship game.

A year later, in 1983, Peter Voelkel won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's outstanding midfielder. In 1984, Tom Haus won the first of his three Schmeisser Cups as the nation's outstanding defensive player. He went on to win the Schmeisser Cup again in 1986 and 1987. In 1986, Haus was also tapped for the Enners Award as National Player-of-the-Year. Gary Seivold's two-goal, two-assist effort in the 1986 NCAA championship game win over Virginia earned him the Brine Award as the game's Most Valuable Player.

Carolina added to that jackpot of top awards during the 1991 season.

The USILA tapped Goldstein as the National Player-of-the-Year as well as the MVP of the NCAA championship game after scoring four goals and adding four assists in the 18-13 victory over Towson. Also in 1991, Graham Harden captured the Schmeisser Cup as the top defender in the nation and Andy Piazza became the first Tar Heel to win the Kelly Award as the nation's top goalie since Sears won the honor in 1982.

Dan Collins' overtime goal upset defending NCAA champ Princeton in 1989.

Steve Martel and Pat Welsh after Welsh's last-second goal beat Hopkins in 1985.

Australian Robin Cornish was a key player on the 1991 NCAA winning team.

In 1992, Jim Buczek won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfielder. A year later, the USILA honored Ryan Wade as the top midfielder in America. Ryan Wade's younger brother, Jason Wade, won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfield performer in 1996.

Scroggs was named National Coach-of-the-Year in 1981 by the USILA and he was an assistant coach for the U.S. team which won the title at the 1982 World Lacrosse Games in Baltimore. Sears was the starting goalkeeper for that U.S. team and was named the All-World goalie. Midfielder Joey Seivold, '87, and defenseman Randy Cox, '84, both played on the U.S. team which won the title at the 1986 World Lacrosse Games in Toronto. Three other Tar Heels, Steve Stenersen, '82, Pete Voelkel, '83, and Mac Ford, '85, were alternates on that team.

Mac Ford went on to play on the U.S. team which swept to the title at the 1990 World Lacrosse Games in Perth, Australia. He was named the top attackman from amongst the four nations that competed in the tournament. UNC midfielder Robin Cornish, a native of Perth, competed in the 1990 World Lacrosse Games as a middle on the host Aussie squad.

Carolina sent two representatives to the 1994 World Lacrosse Games in Manchester, England as the Americans won yet again. Former UNC defenseman Joe Breschi, '90, and midfielder Ryan Wade, '94, were stars on the U.S. team. The World Lacrosse Games returned to the United States again in 1998 and both Breschi, now the head coach at Ohio State, and Ryan Wade made return engagements as members of the American team.

Most recently in the summer of 2005, four Tar Heel players were invited to the U.S. National Team try-outs for the 2006 World Lacrosse Championship. The quartet including goalkeeper Billy Daye, '93, attackman Jeff Sonke, '01, attackman Jed Prossner, '05, and defenseman Stephen McElduff, '06.

A Legacy of Great Players

In 1979, defenseman Ralph "Rip"

Davy, who suddenly passed away earlier this year, became the first Tar Heel to be named a first-team All-America under coach Willie Scroggs. Midfielder Kevin Griswold earned similar honors a year later and was a key player on the 1981 and 1982 title teams. Defenseman Gary Burns, '82, was named to All-America teams on three occasions. Midfielder Doug Hall was a hero of the 1981 NCAA championship game victory, scoring three goals, and he was a first-team All-America that season.

Jeff Homire, another midfielder was a first-team All-America in 1982. Chris Walker, '87, was a three-time All-America selection on defense. He played much of his career with the talented Boyd Harden, a first-team All-America in 1988.

The brothers Seivold, Joey a midfielder and Gary an attackman, both of whom graduated in 1987, won some form of USILA All-America honors each of their four years while wearing the Carolina Blue and White.

Another standout defenseman was Joe Breschi, who led Tar Heel teams to the NCAA semifinals in both 1989 and 1990. In 1993, the Tar Heels said good-bye to a quartet of outstanding talents. Attackman John Webster left Carolina amongst career leaders in goals (109), assists (79) and points (188). Midfielder Donnie McNichol had a team-leading 109 ground balls in 1993. In addition, his .740 faceoff percentage established a school record. Defensemen Alex Martin and Greg Paradine were also spectacular players of the early 1990s. Both were first-team All-America choices. The 1996 senior class included the likes of first-team All-America midfielders Jude Collins and Jason Wade. Attackman Jeff Sonke was a second-team choice in 2000 and 2001 on attack.

Jed Prossner earned first-team All-America honors in 2004, the first UNC attackman to win them since Dennis Goldstein in 1991. Ronnie Staines was a first-team All-America on defense in 2004, the first Tar Heel defender since Paradine and Martin won first-team accolades on defense in 1993.

Prossner went on to be named a first-team All-America attackman again in 2005, honored despite a 5-8 UNC record. Prossner was only the third Tar Heel attackman in history to win first-team All-America in two or more years, joining Harper Peterson, the former mayor of Wilmington, N.C., and Michael Burnett, a Tar Heel assistant coach from 2002-06 who tutored Prossner his final three seasons.

Prossner, who was the second overall pick in the 2005 Major Lacrosse League draft, also won All-ACC honors in 2005 for the third straight year. No Tar Heel had made the All-ACC team three years in a row since 1983.

Prossner and fellow 2005 senior Mike McCall finished their careers as two of the most prolific goal scorers in Carolina history. Prossner scored 113 goals to rank No. 2 in UNC history while McCall scored 102 goals to move him into a tie for No. 6 on the career chart.

Senior goalkeeper Paul Spellman also broke the UNC career record for saves in 2005, breaking the mark that had stood since 1983 when Tom Sears established it.

Fifteen Tar Heels Named to ACC Top 50 Team

Two Tar Heels have been inducted into the U.S. Lacrosse Hall of Fame—former head coach Willie Scroggs in 2003 and three-time national defenseman of the year Tom Haus in 2005.

In 2002 when the ACC announced its Top 50 players in each sport to celebrate a half century of the league's existence, 15 Tar Heel players were tapped amongst the Top 50.

This group included defenseman Joe Breschi, '90, midfielder Jim Buczek, '92, attackman Michael Burnett, '83, defenseman Randy Cox, '84, attackman Mac Ford, '95, attackman Dennis Goldstein, '91, midfielder Kevin Griswold, '82, defenseman Graham Harden, '91, defenseman Tom Haus, '87, attackman Harper Peterson, '70, goalkeeper Tom Sears, '83, midfielder Joey Seivold, '87, midfielder Peter Voelkel, '83, midfielder Jason Wade, '96, and midfielder Ryan Wade, '94.

Michael Thomas was the 1989 ACC Tournament Most Valuable Player.

Jeff Homire scores in the 1982 NCAA championship match versus Johns Hopkins.

UNC players celebrate a 2004 overtime win at Duke.

Defenseman Tom Haus, 1986 National Player of the Year.

CAROLINA LACROSSE GOES INTERNATIONAL

Over the past two summers the lacrosse program at the University of North Carolina and the Japanese Lacrosse Association along with that nation's university teams have become partners in the quest to make sure lacrosse is truly an international sport.

University of North Carolina lacrosse players Jed Prossner, '05, and Stephen McElduff, '06, started the process when they volunteered during the summer of 2005 to journey to Japan where they held several lacrosse clinics, teaching lacrosse fundamentals to university lacrosse players in while their Japanese hosts made sure there was plenty of time for sightseeing. Amongst the sites the players visited were the Mei Ji Temple, the Tokyo Tower and the Emperor's Palace.

One thing the players discovered was the history of lacrosse in Japan featured strong university teams that played for Gakushuin and its chief rival, Keio University, in the late 1800s and early 1900s. The Tar Heel players said the skill level of the Japanese players was similar to what someone would find at an NCAA Division III school in the United States. Prossner and McElduff were particularly impressed with the quickness of the players.

The Tar Heel players flew directly to Tokyo

"It was my first time leaving the United States," said Stephen McElduff. "It will definitely influence me to travel more throughout the world. Fortunately I was able to use my lacrosse skills to give me the opportunity."

the Asian nation.

The goodwill tour continued last summer when the entire UNC lacrosse team except for four players who had previous commitments joined members of the traveling party which included coaches, family members, trainers and the communications director and ventured to Japan June 15-23, 2006 to take part in the International Lacrosse Friendship Games.

Prossner and McElduff were approached in 2004 by Jin Tatsuki, a pharmaceutical graduate student at Carolina, who is a native of Japan where he earned his undergraduate degree at Gakushuin University, also playing lacrosse there. Tatsuki was a regular attendee at Tar Heel lacrosse games in 2005 where he befriended Prossner and approached him about making the trip to conduct the clinics. Prossner then recruited McElduff as a comrade in arms for the project.

Prossner and McElduff spent July 17-25, 2005 in Tokyo under the sponsorship of Gakushuin University. The players stayed in the dorms used at the 1964 Summer Olympics, with Japanese host families and with a Prossner family friend while in Japan.

The Tar Heels conducted two to four hours of lacrosse instruction a day

Coach John Haus preps the goalies before the Tar Heels take on a Japanese Youth Team in June 2006.

Morehead-Cain scholars Tristan Heinric and Fletcher Gregory of the men's tennis and men's lacrosse teams, respectively, did teaching internships from early June 2005 to mid August 2005 in Ecuador. Both players were involved in the Morehead-Cain public service summer programs by teaching English, geography and personal hygiene to children ages five through 12.

Prossner and McElduff must have made a positive impression because within weeks the UNC program had been invited to compete in the 2006 International Friendship Games.

The Tar Heels left for the Games on June 15 flying from RDU International to O'Hare Airport and then taking a non-stop to Tokyo, arriving there on Friday afternoon at 2:45 p.m. They immediately went to the Tokyo Prince Hotel and then made a visit to Tokyo's version of American Town, the Rippongi District.

The following morning the Tar Heels were scheduled to play a 10 a.m. game against the Tokyo U20 Team and triumphed 10-1 behind three goals and one assist by attackman Drew Habeck. Bart Wagner had three assists in the match and Ben Mark and Sam Wagner each scored twice. Less than two hours later the Tar Heels had taken a bus to Edogawa Stadium. The Heels then faced the U21 Japanese National Team and played impressively, winning 13-5. Eleven different Tar Heel players scored goals in the triumph and Ben Mark led all point producers with one goal and three assists. Drew Habeck added two goals and one feeder and Fletcher Gregory scored twice from the short stick defensive midfield position.

Sunday found the Tar Heels waking to dismal weather conditions and day-long rain storm. Despite that fact UNC headed to Edogawa Stadium for the opening ceremonies of the 2006 International Friendship Games. A crowd of over 8,000 was on hand to fill the stadium to capacity and the Tar Heels fought valiantly but lost 10-9 to the Japanese National Team which was about to leave for the World Lacrosse Games in Canada. UNC stayed in the game despite winning only three of 21 faceoffs.

top shopping areas in the city of 12 million people.

Carolina players were awakened early Tuesday morning by an earthquake just off the coast of Japan 10 miles from Tokyo. The quake, at 6:47 a.m., was fortunately measured at only 4.8 on the Richter Scale.

That afternoon UNC played Gakushuin University and played one of its best games, outscoring its foe 13-1. In the game at Ohi Field the Heels were led by Ben Mark with two goals and one assist. Twelve different Tar Heel players recorded goals in the match. The highlight of the day was the defensive matchup between 6-6 Tar Heel defenseman Tim McCall and 5-2 Japanese attackman Naoki Wada (see picture on inside front cover.). That night UNC was hosted to a party at the University grounds.

Shina Maruyama had five goals and two assists for Japan and he was virtually unstoppable all day. Ben Staines scored twice for the Tar Heels.

Monday, June 18 was a day off from competition but the Tar Heels participated in several cultural experiences at Edogawa Tower, taking a class in calligraphy and attending a traditional Japanese tea ceremony. The afternoon was left free for the Tar Heels to roam free throughout many of the Wednesday saw the Heels play four games in a period of five hours and an exhausted squad went 3-0-1, finishing its tour of 6-1-1. After the games the team was hosted at a reception one last time by the Japanese Lacrosse Association which had also hosted a dinner after Sunday's games.

Thursday, June 22 was the official day off on the trip and many in the traveling party took the all-day trip to Mount Fuji and the surrounding area. That excursion also included a trip on Japan's famed Bullet Train. Others spent the day taking in the sights and shopping of Tokyo.

The Tar Heels left Japan on the afternoon of Friday, June 23 and after crossing the International Date Line arrived later that day at Raleigh-Durham International Airport after a 22-hour plus trip that included a lay-over in Dallas.

Dick Baddour
 • Director of Athletics
 Dick Baddour, a 1966 graduate of the University of North Carolina, was named Director of Athletics on June 25, 1997. In his 10 years as director, the UNC Department of Athletics has undergone a number of changes, yet remains one of the premiere programs in the Atlantic Coast Conference and in the nation.

The Goldsboro, N.C., native heads a program that with 28 varsity sports is among the largest in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Carolina prides itself on a strong overall athletic program and finished third in the 2006-07 U.S. Sports Academy Directors' Cup, a measure of NCAA postseason success. The Tar Heels, inaugural winners of the Cup in 1994, have finished among the top 10 teams 12 times in the competition's 14 years. During Baddour's tenure, UNC has claimed 54 ACC Championships, more than any other school over that span.

Baddour is in his 41st year of continuous service to the university. He graduated from UNC in 1966 and was appointed Assistant Dean of Men in 1967. He served as Assistant Dean of Admissions and Assistant Dean of the UNC School of Law and also earned a Master of Arts degree in education prior to joining the athletic department in 1986.

In 2001, he received the Distinguished Service Medal from the UNC General Alumni Association.

Active in Chapel Hill community affairs, he is a past president of the Public School Foundation and has served on the Parks and Recreation Commission. He and his wife, Lynda, have two sons, Allen and David, and a daughter, Jennifer, as well as four grandchildren: Henry, Jack, Lauren and Johnathan.

Dr. Beth Miller
 • Senior Associate Director of Athletics

Beth Miller is in her 23rd year supervising North Carolina's highly-successful 26-team Olympic Sports program and serves as UNC's Senior Woman Administrator.

Miller is a 1968 alumna of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She has a master's from ASU and earned a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State in 1974.

From 1969-72, Miller served as the head volleyball and basketball coach at Appalachian State. She became head volleyball coach at UNC in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four consecutive ACC titles from 1980-83 and five postseason tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina from 1978-79.

In 1979, Miller was named Athletic Business Manager. She retired from coaching volleyball after 1983, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. She has overseen UNC's Olympic Sports program since 1985.

Miller serves on the NCAA Committee on Women's Athletics, as well as a number of Atlantic Coast Conference committees, including those for women's basketball, women's golf and volleyball. She also is a member of UNC's Housing Advisory Board.

Miller is a native of Landis, N.C.

Department of Athletics Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics has offered high quality athletic programs for many years. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to the University.

The mission of the Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop, and to serve the interests of the University by complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life. Coaches, as educators, are foundational to this process. In keeping with the University's efforts to offer programs of regional and national acclaim, the Department's athletic programs strive for competitive excellence within the Atlantic Coast Conference or other similar institutions. Through its athletic programs, the University seeks to unite students, faculty, staff and alumni in a common and shared experience. The Department seeks to contribute to the diversity of the University by offering opportunities for enhanced racial/ethnic, cultural and geographic representation.

To fulfill this mission, the Department, with the approval of the Board of Trust, has developed principles of operation to provide guidance and direction to its personnel. This Mission Statement and accompanying principles require strong dedication and commitment from all who participate in, coach in and support the Department of Athletics, tests involving collegiate competition and to abide by state and federal laws.

Fetzer Field serves as the home of the Tar Heels for the men's lacrosse program at the University of North Carolina.

Originally built in 1935 and undergoing significant improvements from 1988 to 1990, the facility has been host to NCAA men's lacrosse tournament games on several occasions, most recently in 2004.

Named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track coach Bob Fetzer, Fetzer Field has been the home of Carolina soccer since 1947, the first year UNC sponsored a varsity men's soccer team and Carolina men's lacrosse since 1949, the starting year for that varsity sports program. The women's soccer program was started in 1979 and the Fetzer Field has been the home of the University of North Carolina men's lacrosse team since the first varsity season in 1949. UNC's all-time record at Fetzer heading into the 2008 season is 219-108-2. Large enthusiastic crowds are a staple at Fetzer for men's and women's lacrosse and men's and women's soccer matches, all involving nationally-ranked Tar Heel teams.

women's lacrosse program in 1996. All those sports call Fetzer Field home for their regular-season and post-season tournaments games.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus directly adjacent to Carmichael Auditorium on South Road (N.C. State Road 54), the field was completed in 1935 as a Works Project Administration program during the tenure of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The facility's renovations 17 years ago made it one of the most beautiful all-around collegiate venues in the nation. The playing field itself was reworked and leveled, the grandstand was refitted with new aluminum bleachers, a new track was installed, lights were added, two convenient ticket booths were added to the front gate and a computerized scoreboard and message center was installed. Even more recently the facilities' concession areas have been revamped so they are more convenient for fans. There are also plans in the works for another complete updating of the facility in the next few years.

Currently Fetzer Field is the home facility for six of Carolina's 28 varsity teams — men's soccer, women's soccer, men's outdoor track and field, women's outdoor track and field, men's lacrosse and women's lacrosse.

The facility has been home not only to women's and men's soccer NCAA and ACC Championship events, but also numerous ACC Outdoor Track and Field Championships, the North Carolina High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics, men's and women's lacrosse ACC Tournaments and first round, quarterfinal and semifinal action in the NCAA tournament play. In the summer of 1996, the facility was the home training site for the United States Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

Directions to Fetzer Field

(Coming from Greensboro, N.C.) take I-85 North/I-40 East to Graham and exit on N.C. 54; go approximately 25 miles to Chapel Hill and take N.C. 54 bypass to Columbia Street exit; go North on Columbia Street to South Road (by Navy ROTC building), turn right and follow South Road to Carmichael Auditorium (field is behind Carmichael).

(Coming from Raleigh, N.C.) follow I-40 West to N.C. 54 at exit 273A; take N.C. 54 about 3 miles to Carmichael Auditorium area.

(Coming from Richmond, Va.) take I-85 South to Durham; a left exit onto U.S. 15-501 South; follow approximately 10 miles to Chapel Hill; pick up N.C. 54 business and follow to Carmichael Auditorium area.

Revelers flood Franklin Street to celebrate UNC's 2005 NCAA Championship in men's basketball.

Chapel Hill: The Perfect College Town

- Chapel Hill has been called the perfect college town by several publications, including Sports Illustrated.
- A&E Network ranked Chapel Hill second on its list of America's "Top 10 Cities to Have It All."
- Chapel Hill was ranked fourth on a list of best towns for music.
- The Triangle (Raleigh, Durham and Chapel Hill) has been ranked as one of the nation's top areas in which to live.
- Chapel Hill's location is ideal, within an easy drive of both beaches and mountains.

UNC: The First State University

Through its teaching, research and engagement, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill serves as an educational and economic beacon for the people of North Carolina and beyond.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was the nation's first state university to open its doors and the only public university to award degrees in the 18th century.

The American Society of Landscape Architects selected Carolina as one of the most beautifully landscaped spots in the country. That listing is among the praise affirming the charm of mighty oaks, majestic quadrangles, brick sidewalks and other landscaping synonymous with the campus.

Today, the campus is undergoing an unprecedented physical transformation. The North Carolina Higher Education Bond Referendum has meant more than $515 million for renovations and new buildings. The university is investing funds from non-state sources, including private gifts and overhead receipts from faculty research grants, for other buildings essential to excellence. The resulting $1.8 billion capital campaign is among the largest underway at any major American university.

Recent Rankings:

- Fifth best public university in U.S. News & World Report's 2007 "Best Colleges" guidebook for the sixth consecutive year.
- Among 25 "New Ivy" campuses in the 2007 Kaplan/Newsweek "How to Get into College Guide." Includes schools with first-rate academic programs fueling their rise in national stature. Reports Newsweek: "If a moviemaker needs an idyllic setting for a film about college life, Chapel Hill might just take the prize."
- Kenan-Flagler Business School ranked 15th in BusinessWeek magazine's list of the best undergraduate business programs.

Tar Heel teams have won a total of 34 national titles, including four by field hockey

Mia Hamm and Michael Jordan, two of the biggest names in sports, wore Tar Heel jerseys before they went on to professional and international success

- UNC finished third in the 2006-07 Directors' Cup, a national competition that measures a program's postseason success. It was Carolina's sixth consecutive top-10 finish and the eighth time UNC has been in the top five.

- Tar Heel gear is annually among the top-selling collegiate apparel in the country.

- UNC finished No. 1 in the 2006-07 All-Sport Rankings by Sports Illustrated on Campus.

- North Carolina has won more Atlantic Coast Conference titles than any other school in the conference. The Tar Heels also have more national titles than any other ACC school.

Coach Roy Williams and the Tar Heels won the 2005 NCAA men's basketball title.

UNC baseball has reached the College World Series in each of the last two seasons, finishing as the national runner-up.

Ivory Latta helped lead the Carolina women's basketball team to the Final Four in 2006 and '07.

Student-Athlete Services: Advancing toward graduation, Building Character and Developing leadership

Student-Athlete Services at the University of North Carolina encompasses three areas that play an integral part in the collegiate experience of every UNC student-athlete. Those three areas are Academic Development, Student-Athlete Development and Leadership Development.

• ACADEMIC DEVELOPMENT

The Academic Support Program is the main service utilized in advancing UNC student-athletes to graduation. The program assists student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals. "Our young people are students first and athletes second and that will always be the case at the University," says UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "That is a credit to our coaches, administrators and support staff, but most of all, our student-athletes. Their accomplishments in the classroom are very impressive."

During the 2006-07 academic year, 279 Carolina student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year. In the fall of 2006, 178 student-athletes made the Dean's List, and 151 did so in the spring of 2007.

The Academic Support Program is housed

2006-07 Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Honor Roll Selections

The following UNC men's lacrosse players were named to the 2006-07 Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Honor Roll. They maintained a 3.0 grade point average for the school year while taking a minimum of 12 credit hours each semester. Fourteen men's lacrosse players were named to the Honor Roll.

primarily in the Pope Academic Support Center, which is equipped with study facilities, tutorial rooms, a computer lab, a 128-seat auditorium, counselors' offices, and state-of-the-art video and computer equipment. At the center, students meet with staff to discuss course selection, major and career exploration, academic progress and academic eligibility.

The Academic Support Program helps freshmen transition from high school to college through a variety of academic programs such as academic counseling, individual tutoring, group review sessions and supplemental instruction.

A member of each team serves as the Academic Team Captain, providing a strong link between the Academic Support Program and the other student-athletes on the squad. The Academic Team Captain for men's lacrosse for 2007-08 is Pell George.

• STUDENT-ATHLETE DEVELOPMENT

Building character in UNC student-athletes is the main charge of Student-Athlete Development.

Through Carolina Outreach, Tar Heels are involved in a variety of projects and organizations on campus and in the community. The UNC Department of Athletics has partnered with Gatorade and the UNC School of Public Health for a national pilot program called Get Kids in Action, in which Tar Heel student-athletes visit local elementary schools to encourage children to exercise. The Carolina Dreams program allows young patients at UNC Children's Hospitals to attend Tar Heel sporting events with UNC student-athletes. Other recent activities have included building a house with Habitat for Humanity, cooking meals at Ronald McDonald House and cleaning up the roadways through the Adopt-a-Highway program.

Student-Athlete Development also seeks to develop student-athletes on a personal level through a variety of speakers who address issues like nutrition, gambling, relationship communication and substance use. Career Development helps UNC student-athletes look beyond college with resources such as career counseling and workshops on resume writing and interviewing skills.

• LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

The primary outlet for Leadership Development is the Carolina Leadership Academy, started at UNC in 2004. As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Carolina Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Academy consists of three programs:

CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the freshman year. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore freshmen are taught skills to effectively lead themselves.

• Carolina CREED

As a University of North Carolina student-athlete, I pledge to make every effort to abide by the Carolina CREED as a show of my commitment to the University, the Department of Athletics, my team and myself.

C - I will know and embrace the tradition and culture of this great University and its athletics department

R - I will respect myself and others

E - I will pursue excellence in my academic work by striving to reach my academic potential while preparing for a career of significance

E - I will excel athletically by committing myself to performance excellence, team success and continual improvement

D - I will develop the capacity to effectively lead myself and others

• STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

Under the direction of the UNC Olympic sports strength and conditioning staff, Tar Heel student-athletes get outstanding coaching intended to help maximize their physical potential. The staff evaluates Carolina student-athletes in a variety of ways, including the use of specialized software for lifting and running video analysis, to encourage steady progress toward reaching optimum preparation for competition. The men's lacrosse team trains at the Olympic sports weight room in Kenan Field House. In addition to top-of-the-line strength equipment, the Kenan-based center boasts a five-lane, 25-yard rubberized surface for teaching and performing warm-up activities, acceleration drills and agility movements. Year-round training produces athletes who are prepared to compete successfully and safely. Greg Gatz is the Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports and oversees the program. He is assisted by Steve Gisselman.

Training consists of monthly meetings featuring keynote speakers and small group discussion. Upperclass student-athletes serve as peer mentors and discussion leaders. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices, ethics and character building.

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn and reinforce leadership principles and share successes, frustrations and lessons.

Fletcher Gregory was the recipient of the 2006-07 Athletic Director's Scholar-Athlete Award for the men's lacrosse team.

• SPORTS MEDICINE

The Tar Heel athletic teams, including the men's lacrosse squad, receive excellent care from one of the country's best sports medicine staffs. The University of North Carolina prides itself on the quality of its sports medicine program and spares no expense in providing top-flight medical care to all student-athletes.

Dr. Tim Taft, Director of Sports Medicine, oversees a comprehensive program designed to keep student-athletes healthy and to rehabilitate any injuries quickly and successfully. Dr. Mario Ciocca is the physician who works directly with the men's lacrosse team. Dr. Alex Creighton serves as the team orthopaedic surgeon.

A member of the certified athletic training staff is present at all games and practices to ensure that any injuries receive prompt and proper care. Head certified athletic trainer Nina Walker oversees care for the men's lacrosse team and is assisted by certified athletic training graduate students Karen Tankersley (2nd year with men's lacrosse) Chun-Man Fong (1st year graduate student assistant trainer) and undergraduate assistant athletic trainer Geoff Staton.

A CAROLINA SCHOLARSHIP IS ABOUT MUCH MORE THAN WHAT HAPPENS ON THE FIELD

That's where Tar Heel student-athletes are in the public eye, of course. That's when we see them wearing their uniform, when they are stamped as Tar Heels across the chest.

But a scholarship is much more than an opportunity to throw or run or catch.

It's a chance to be a part of a world-class institution and open doors to learning that might not otherwise be available. It's a chance to walk down Franklin Street on a fall afternoon, with nowhere to be until the next morning.

Receiving a scholarship to Carolina means meeting a handful of new teammates—and a world full of new classmates. It means entering school uncertain of the words to "Hark the Sound" and leaving with your arms wrapped around your fellow seniors, singing every word.

They will remember the many victories, because part of coming to Carolina means being a winner. But long after those scores have faded—was it a 10-point win over Duke or a 12-point victory?—they'll remember the children they met during their holiday shopping project, the sign a fan made for them at one of their games, and the professor in that 8 a.m. class that made them want to get out of bed early every morning.

Scholarship recipients are Carolina athletes for only a few hours each week.

Your gifts enable them to be Tar Heels for a lifetime.
