Official Home of the Tar Heels On the World Wide Web

Media and fans can follow the Carolina men's lacrosse team and the entire UNC athletics program from anywhere in the world on the official world wide web site of North Carolina athletics. TarHeelBlue.com offers schedules, rosters, results, features, podcasts, media guides and game notes plus much more for all 28 of Carolina's varsity sports. TarHeelBlue.com is a partner in CBS College Sports' Online program based in Carlsbad, Calif. and New York, N.Y. Based on average hits and individual page views, TarHeelBlue.com ranks as the most popular site in the CBS College Sports' Online family of college websites.

Nike Supports UNC Athletics

The University of North Carolina and Nike signed a new 10-year contract in May 2009 for Nike to continue as the exclusive supplier of athletic footwear, apparel and accessory products. Nike will provide the athletic department with shoes, uniforms, coaching gear, balls and other equipment. Nike also gave the University $2 million for the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund to support faculty. "The University of North Carolina is proud of its long-standing relationship with Nike," says Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "This partnership has benefitted all 28 varsity sports and provided millions of dollars for academics and student scholarships at the University."

Through the fall semester of 2009, the University of North Carolina has won 39 national championships, including six in men's basketball.

Junior Chris Hunt is expected to be one of the top middies in the nation in 2010.

Kevin Federico is a key member of UNC's senior class.

Tar Heel head lacrosse coach Joe Breschi sat down with associate athletic communications director Dave Lohse prior to the season to talk about the upcoming 2010 Carolina lacrosse season.

Lohse: Coach, what are some of the points of emphasis you and the coaching staff are addressing heading into the 2010 season?

Coach Breschi: "I think one of things we are looking at is the special teams. We want to become a better riding team and a better clearing team. The first half of last season, I thought we did a nice job in those areas but the second half of the year I thought we tailed off in our efficiency. We also want to be better both in man up and man down situations.

"One of the critical things we are changing is the commitment we are making to become a two-way midfield oriented team. That is the ultimate goal of the program moving forward. Whether we can do it fully and do it with three midfield lines we are going to make that attempt which we did a little bit of in the fall.

"I would say those are the critical things – the special teams, man up, man down, riding, clearing, being a better inbounds riding team than we were last year and embracing a two-way midfield concept.

"We always want to play fast. We always want to be aggressive defensively and get the ball on the ground because I think that is where we are our best.

"Ultimately the switch to playing the two-way midfielder will be the biggest change you'll see in UNC lacrosse."

Lohse: Now that we are a year into your stewardship of the program, how has the transition gone?

Coach Breschi: "I think the biggest thing after year one is the way they've embraced things. After meeting with the upperclassmen and the captains recently, they said that this was the best fall they've had here based on the fact they were used to the system. They were more comfortable in it which allowed them to press forward and fine tune the things we've implemented. We're try to push them forward to the next level which is to get them to understand the intricacies of what schemes we are in, offensively and defensively.

Lohse: Can you talk a little about the additions you've made to the team. How have the newcomers adapted to the Tar Heels' style in fall ball?

Coach Breschi: "I think all four of the freshman midfielders – you have Ian Braddish, Greg McBride, Zander Walters and Cam Wood – are two-way middle type guys. Three of them played on a line in the fall although McBride was hurt and didn't see any action. The others played on the third midfield line together. They had some chemistry together which was good to see. McBride will add significantly to that line so those four middies will see considerable time this year. William Scroggs is going to help at the face-off X by being a third face-off option for us.

"Then you look at the attack and Marcus Holman has made the biggest impact there so far and Stephen Burns is coming along and will help us down the line.

"Defensively, "Boom" Leighton-arrah is playing a close defense role for us. We moved him from pole to close defense in the fall because he's a very physical presence. Another freshman, Kieran McDonald is playing long pole.

"Ed Prevost, the transfer attackman, has a tremendous work ethic and he will make an impact for us. He's done a terrific job of doing extra work outside of practice. He's terrific off ball. And he's a competitor. He and Marcus (Holman) are two terrific additions to the attack."

Lohse: Coach, let's talk about the team position by position, and see how things are going to line up. We'll start with the attack unit.

Coach Breschi: "Obviously it's going to be Billy Bitter at the quarterback position. Our offense runs through Billy. He knows he will be targeted every game. We're trying to fine tune his vision and have him see the field more. We also don't want him have to shoulder as much of the offense as he did last year. We'll need to have the other guys help out more because the opposing players are immediately going to slide to Billy. Obviously he's the guy everyone is expecting a big year from.

"We missed having Gavin Petracca in fall ball. He was injured in the fall but it's still his position coming back as our vocal leader on the offensive end of the field. He's a great shooter and a great field general. In essence, he was kind of our leader of the offense last year with his outstanding organizing skills. It was fun to see improve last year. He demanded a lot of his teammates. He put guys in the right spots. He settled the ball down. He's more of the field general of the offense. While not holding the ball as much or carrying it as much as Billy, Gavin was the quarterback of the offense in a different fashion.

"Then I'd have to go with Marcus Holman, Ed Prevost and Thomas Wood as the next three guys on our depth chart. As of today we are five deep in this position and it may go in that order. We may go with Marcus if we were to start today. He's very similar to Bart Wagner but doesn't have the experience of a Bart Wagner. He has a better dodging ability than Bart and better hands than Bart. I think he needs the experience. So we have those five guys forming our top corps heading into 2010."

Coach Breschi: "As of the end of the fall you'd have had to go with Sean DeLaney, Sean Burke, Cryder DiPietro and Jimmy Dunster on the initial line. But Burke had a season-ending injury in the off-season and he will now be red-shirting. This fall we practiced with those four guys on the first midfield line. I think our idea of playing four on a line is part of the plan of playing two ends of the field for our middies. So if any offensive-oriented middle gets stuck on the defensive end, hopefully we've used him as a wing on the face-off or he's played both ends and he's used to it. Having middies play both ends of the field gives you a more effective way of building depth. Whether we can accomplish this and it stays that way we'll have to wait and see.

"Our second line includes Chris Hunt, Tyler Morton, Jeff Muscatello, who in particular had a very good fall, and Chris Layne. Those four played on the second line this fall. Three of those guys were short stick defensive middies for us last year but they also combined for four goals and two assists out in San Francisco at our fall ball game. The concept is to try to work those guys into being more two-way players.

"Then the four freshmen I mentioned earlier were on the third midfield line. We're teaching them defense. We're keeping out scheme simple defensively. "Our hope this season is to try and pressure teams across the board which helps jump start our offense. One of the big things in college lacrosse is to try to keep offensive middies on the field as much as possible. If we develop two-way middies and therefore don't have to take guys off the field we can in turn pressure teams while they are substituting."

Junior defenseman Ryan Flanagan was the team's defensive MVP in 2009.

Thomas Wood had an outstanding freshman campaign for UNC last year.

Tyler Morton excels as one of the team's top ground ball men.

Lohse: With more two-way middies, will the role of short-stick defensive midfielder become more of a specialty role?

Coach Breschi: "Right now we have two specific short stick d-middies. Our No. 1 guy is Michael Burns and he will also do most of the face-off work. Our second face-off guy is probably Mark Staines. And then William Scroggs is the third guy. Outside of Burns, Logan Corey is probably our top defensive m i d d l e ."

Those two guys are both stoppers. Down the road we're trying to move away from using specific short stick mids on defense but we feel these guys are so strong at that position we are best off keeping them in that role. That's where they will help us the most.

Lohse: Okay, Coach, give me an idea of which people will man the pole position and what the depth chart looks like there.

Coach Breschi: "I'd have to say that Sean Jackson would be the No. 1 pole at this point if we had to play today. Milton Lyles would be No. 2. Mark Staines would be No. 3. All of them bring something different to the game which I think is a good thing. Jackson is big, strong and athletic. He runs the field well. Has a very good stick. Milton Lyles brings speed to the game and is excellent in claiming ground balls. Staines is another athletic guy who can face off as well. He'll be a little more multi purpose than he was last year.

Lohse: Coach, I think the close defense is going to be an improved part of our team. Can you talk about what we're going to see there.

Coach Breschi: "Even though Charlie McComas missed fall ball, heading into the spring Charlie will be out there with Ryan Flanagan and Michael Jarvis.

Jarvis would be our third starter at close position at this point. With that being said Jackson would probably be our fourth guy at close D with a guy like Kevin Piegare fighting for that spot as well. Redshirt freshman Gray Smith had a terrific fall. Then William Leighton-arrah is being groomed to play down there. We have a decent core group of guys. It's going to be critical for our depth to come along quickly down there.

Lohse: The million dollar question coach is how are we going to shape up in the goal.

Coach Breschi: "It's been interesting because both goalies who were here in the fall played well. Anytime you've come off a season where you've played and you've got that experience you go in with more confidence. I think what James Petracca has shown is a tremendous amount of confidence. He's really worked hard to be a positive leader on the field which has been a good thing. He had a terrific game when we scrimmaged the Alumni. I think Chris Madalon, who hasn't really played much in his career here, is certainly an extremely capable goalie and ready to make an impact. He's got great size and a terrific outlet pass. He makes saves. I like the depth we have. It's a wide open situation going into the spring. Penn State transfer Steven Rastivo is another terrific goalie. He has a good outlet pass, has extremely quick hands and can make saves for us. At the end of the day for a goalie, it's saving the ball number one, it's outlets and controlling the defense number two.

Lohse: How do you feel about the depth of your team going into the season?

Coach Breschi: "I think we're pretty deep across the board. I think we're deeper than we were last year on the attack. At the midfield we're creating depth although it's inexperienced. I think we're creating it in the style of play we're going to run as we move forward. Defensively, I feel confident we can run five guys and as many as four poles. I think the biggest question mark for us is consistent goalie play and the face-off X. If we can get better wing play than we had last year and control the ball better after we do win face-offs it that will be an enormous part to our success."

Lohse: Coach I know you have a tremendous coaching staff. Can you talk to me a little bit about them.

Coach Breschi: "Pat Myers is the kind of guy who is a perfectionist when it comes to attention to detail. That's what makes him special. He leaves no stone unturned. He's learned so much in one year with relationship building, with getting the most out of the players, with developing himself as an overall coach, with being creative. Pat has all the tools to become a great head coach one day.

"There is a great dynamic between Chris Feifs and Pat. Chris has a willingness to learn and a gift dealing with different personalities. He is a great fit for our program.

"I think the world of Brian Holman. He has great wisdom. He has a son in the program and that makes him great with relationships with other the parents in the process. He adds a different dimension to our staff. And he's great working with the goalies.

Lohse: Now that you are 18 months into the job, how is it going for you personally?

Coach Breschi: "I couldn't be happier to be back home. To give back to the program that had such an extraordinary impact on me in such a critical part of my life when I was 18-22 years old, I almost can't describe it. I had a chance to play under Coach Scroggs and to learn, not just how to play the game, but also how to take responsibility and learn accountability. To Come back to the program and give back to UNC in some way and try to impact these kids and their lives and make a positive impact is a thrill. Julie and I and the girls are thrilled to be here. I hope I will be here a long time. It's our home now."

Section #3: Food

1. My ideal tailgate would be a spread that included Barbecue, Fried Catfish, Tex-Mex, and AK-Ski's (from Chapel Hill [B]Skis).
2. Other than water, my favorite beverage is Arnold Palmer.
3. I am allowed to enter a room with unlimited snacks, one room has salty stuff the other sweet stuff? Which room do I enter? Sweet
4. My favorite food made by a relative is Dad's Deep Friend Turkey on Thanksgiving Day.
5. If I could buy a down-on-his-luck friend a meal, I'd take him/her to Bubba's in Dallas Texas.

Section #4: Personality

1. If I possessed the gift of time travel, I would go forward 30 years and come back with a sport statistics book like Biff did in Back to the Future 2. I'd have quite a bit of money coming my way...
2. My most prized possession is my bed at school, very comfortable.
3. My iTunes library includes 2,000 songs of mostly Hip-Hop and Country.
4. In a perfect world where making money was not a consideration my dream job would be to have my own show on the Food Network where I travel the country and eat all the best food different cities have to offer.
5. The most interesting person I've met in my time at UNC is my teammate Chris Layne because of his unmatched story telling abilities.

Season Notes

- Carolina showed tremendous improvement under first-year head coach Joe Breschi, winning its most games in a season since 1996 when the Tar Heels finished 12-5.
- UNC's nine home wins were the most in a season in Tar Heel history.
- The Tar Heels made the NCAA Tournament field for the third year in a row and only the fourth time since 1998.
- North Carolina advanced to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament for only the third time since 1996. The Tar Heels defeated UMBC 15-13 in the first round of the tournament before falling to Duke 12-11 in the NCAA quarterfinals.
- Carolina finished third in the nation in scoring offense at 12.5 goals per game, its highest scoring average since 1996.
- As a team, the Tar Heels led NCAA Division I in face-off winning percentage at .626.
- The Tar Heels were second nationally in assists per game with 7.72.
- North Carolina ranked first in the nation in ground balls per game at 45.89. In leading the nation in ground balls per game, UNC won the ground ball battle in 17 of its 18 matches.
- Carolina was ranked third nationally in points per game with 20.22.
- The Tar Heels finished sixth in final polls issued by Inside Lacrosse (media poll) and the U.S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association (coaches poll).
- Senior goalkeeper Grant Zimmerman was one of 10 finalists for the Lowe's Senior CLASS Award.
- Billy Bitter scored eight goals on just nine shots in UNC's 15-13 win over UMBC in the NCAA Tournament first round. Bitter's eight goals tied the school record for goals in a game, which he now shares with Mac Ford (vs. Adelphi in 1984) and Jason Wade (vs. Maryland in 1996).

- Bitter was only one goal shy of tying the record for goals scored in an NCAA Tournament game.
- Bitter was named the Inside Lacrosse National Player of the Week for his performance in that game. Bitter also won a Laxie from IL for top individual performance of the season based on the UMBC game effort.
- Bitter ranked fourth in NCAA Division I in 2009 in points per game at 3.94.
- Bitter finished with 46 goals, just one shy of the school record 47 scored by Dennis Goldstein in 1991.
- Bitter's 71 points were the third most in a single year in Tar Heel history.
- Senior Shane Walterhoefer extended his own school record for face-offs won in a career with a total of 723. He finished his career in third place in NCAA history in face-offs won, edging out the fourth place spot by one face-off win.
- Walterhoefer won 15 or more face-offs in a game 21 times in 57 career games. His .616 career winning percentage ranks third in Tar Heel history.
- Walterhoefer's 269 face-off wins in 2009 were a new school record for a season, breaking his own mark of 222 which he set in 2007.
- Walterhoefer finished second in Tar Heel history and seventh in NCAA history in career ground balls with 386.
- Walterhoefer tied the school record for ground balls in a game when he had 15 against Providence on March 11.
- Walterhoefer finished his career averaging 6.75 ground balls per game, a new school record and the ninth best mark in NCAA history.
- Walterhoefer ranked second in NCAA statistics in 2009 in ground balls per game at 8.06 and he was also second in face-off winning percentage at .629.
- Senior Bart Wagner finished ninth in school history with 66 career assists.
- Senior goalkeeper Grant Zimmerman closed out his career ranked fourth in career saves with 504.
- Head coach Joe Breschi earned his 100th career coaching victory March 28 when the Tar Heels defeated Johns Hopkins Hopkins 10-9 in overtime at Fetzer Field. It also marked the third straight time UNC has defeated the Blue Jays after falling to them 12 straight times from 1995-2006.
- Carolina defeated Maryland 16-10 in the ACC Tournament semifinals, breaking a 21-match losing streak against ACC opponents dating back to 2004.
- The win over Maryland was also UNC's first in ACC Tournament play since 1996, breaking a 12-game losing streak in that event.
- UNC played in front of the largest crowd in school history when 22,308 fans saw Carolina play Virginia April 4 in the Big City Classic at the Meadowlands.
- Carolina ended the season with 31 wins in its last 35 games against non-conference teams.
- The Tar Heels will enter the 2010 campaign seeking an end to a 15-match ACC regular-season losing streak dating back to April 2004.

Dick Baddour
• Director of Athletics

Goldsboro native and Tar Heel alumnus Dick Baddour is in his 13th year as Director of Athletics and his 43rd year at the University of North Carolina. He directs one of the most successful and respected athletic programs in the country, known for its commitment to academic integrity and competitive excellence in men's and women's sports.

During Baddour's tenure, the Tar Heels have won 11 national championships, including six in women's soccer, two each in men's basketball and field hockey and one in men's soccer, won two football bowl games and had numerous top 10 national finishes in Olympic sports. Nineteen different UNC men's and women's teams have combined for 61 Atlantic Coast Conference championships, more than any other school in the league over that span. UNC has led the league in the number of team championships in seven of the last 12 seasons.

Under Baddour's leadership, UNC has excelled as an overall athletic program. Carolina finished second in the 2008-09 Learfield Sports Directors' Cup, an award that measures NCAA postseason performance. It was the 10th time in 12 years the Tar Heels have finished first among ACC schools and the seventh top-10 finish for UNC in the last eight years, including top-four showings in 2006, 2007 and 2009.

Baddour graduated from UNC in 1966 and was appointed Assistant Dean of Men in 1967. He served as Assistant Dean of Admissions and Assistant Dean of the UNC School of Law and also earned a Master of Arts degree in education prior to joining the athletic department in 1986. In 2001, he received the Distinguished Service Medal from the UNC General Alumni Association.

Baddour and his wife, Lynda, have two sons, Allen and David, and a daughter, Jennifer, as well as six grandchildren: Henry, Jack, Lauren, Johnathan, William and Julia.

Dr. Beth Miller
• Sr. Associate Director of Athletics

Beth Miller is in her 25th year supervising North Carolina's highly-successful 26-team Olympic sports program and serves as UNC's Senior Woman Administrator.

A native of Landis, N.C., Miller is a 1968 alumna of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She has a master's from ASU and earned a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State in 1974.

From 1969-72, Miller served as the head volleyball and basketball coach at Appalachian State. She became head volleyball coach at UNC in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four consecutive ACC titles from 1980-83 and five postseason tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina from 1978-79.

In 1979, Miller was named UNC's Athletic Business Manager. She retired from coaching volleyball after 1983, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. She has overseen UNC's Olympic Sports program since 1985.

Miller serves on the NCAA Committee on Women's Athletics, as well as a number of Atlantic Coast Conference committees, including those for women's basketball, women's golf and volleyball. She also is a member of UNC's Housing Advisory Board.

In recognition of her outstanding service to Carolina, Miller was honored in April of 2008 as a recipient of the 2008 C. Knox Massey Distinguished Service Award, one of the most prestigious honors bestowed by the University of North Carolina.

Department of Athletics Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics has offered high quality athletic programs for many years. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to the University.

The mission of the Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop, and to serve the interests of the University by complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life. Coaches, as educators, are foundational to this process. In keeping with the University's efforts to offer programs of regional and national acclaim, the Department's athletic programs strive for competitive excellence within the Atlantic Coast Conference or other similar institutions. Through its athletic programs, the University seeks to unite students, faculty, staff and alumni in a common and shared experience. The Department seeks to contribute to the diversity of the University by offering opportunities for enhanced racial/ethnic, cultural and geographic representation.

To fulfill this mission, the Department, with the approval of the Board of Trust, has developed principles of operation to provide guidance and direction to its personnel. This Mission Statement and accompanying principles require strong dedication and commitment from all who participate in, coach in and support the Department of Athletics, tests involving collegiate competition and to abide by state and federal laws.

Joe Breschi's coaching philosophy is summed up in three words • FAMILY • ACADEMICS • LACROSSE. Now in his second year as the head coach of the University of North Carolina's historically-successful lacrosse program, Breschi is well on his way to instilling that very philosophy at every level of the program and its reach to alumni, student-athletes and their families.

Breschi, a 1990 University of North Carolina alumnus and former assistant coach for the Tar Heels, became the 12th head men's lacrosse coach in Carolina history on June 18, 2006. Breschi came to Chapel Hill from The Ohio State University where he had served as the head coach for the previous 11 seasons.

In his first year at Carolina, he led the Tar Heels to a 12-6 overall record and a spot in the NCAA quarterfinals. The Tar Heels won their first game in the ACC Tournament in 13 years and they fell just one goal shy of reaching their first Final Four in 16 years. More importantly, 19 Tar Heels were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll and 10 made the Dean's List during the spring semester of 2009.

Breschi was an assistant coach at UNC and Brown University for seven seasons prior to his stint in Columbus with the Buckeyes and he has 19 seasons of collegiate coaching experience overall entering the 2010 campaign. Breschi has accomplished much in his life for a man 41 years young.

"I'm thrilled Joe Breschi is our lacrosse coach at Carolina," says Dick Baddour, athletic director at UNC since 1997. "Joe did an outstanding job of building a fine program at Ohio State. I was thrilled that he has decided to accept our offer in June 2008 to take over our program. Joe had a tremendous playing career in Chapel Hill and it has been great to have him back as part of our athletic family."

"I will always thank Dick Baddour for the tremendous opportunity he gave me to be the head lacrosse coach at my alma mater," says Breschi "I made a commitment to be a Tar Heel 23 years ago coming out of Loyola High School to now Hall of Fame coach Willie Scroggs.

"Over the last 18 months, I've have a chance to give back to the University, to the alumni and to the entire Carolina lacrosse family, all of whom had an extraordinary impact on my life. My family had adapted to life in Chapel Hill and they love it here. All the credit goes to my wife Julie and my four girls for making this transition so easy."

A native of Baltimore, Md., and a 1986 alumnus of the Loyola-Blakefield School, Breschi compiled a 92-63 overall record in his 11 years at OSU along with a 34-18 regular-season Great Western Lacrosse League mark. The Buckeyes shared GWLL regular-season titles in 1999, 2003 and 2008 and won the conference championship outright in 2004. The Buckeyes had seven winning seasons in Breschi's last eight years and made NCAA Tournament appearances in 2003, 2004 and 2008. Taking over a non-scholarship program in 1997, Breschi built the OSU program from scratch. Along the way, Ohio State had three double-figure winning seasons, going 10-3 in 1999, 12-4 in 2004 and 11-6 in 2008 when the program had its most significant wins in its history.

Immediately prior to moving to Chapel Hill, in Breschi's 11th season at OSU, the Buckeyes enjoyed their most successful campaign. Ohio State won its first NCAA Tournament game in history by defeating No. 8-seeded Cornell 15-7 in the NCAA first round on the Big Red's home field in Ithaca, N.Y. The Buckeyes shared the GWLL regular-season title and reached the finals of the first-ever GWLL Tournament. Amongst the Buckeyes 11 wins in 2008 was a 14-11 triumph over Carolina on April 12, 2008 in Baltimore. It was Ohio State's first win in 14 tries versus the Heels.

Four Buckeyes were named All-Americans in 2008, including second-team attackman Kevin Buchanan, who was also the fifth pick in the 2008 Major League Lacrosse draft. Four Buckeyes were GWLL first-team selections in 2008 and another four were second-team choices. He coached Ohio State players to 128 academic All-Big Ten honors and 217 Ohio State Scholar-Athlete awards in his 11 seasons at Columbus. Breschi was a three-time GWLL coach of the year selection in 1999, 2003 and 2004.

In his first season at Carolina, he had five players named All-America and two named All-ACC. Attackman Billy Bitter was named first-team All-America, Carolina's first choice since 2005. Midfielders Ben Hunt, Sean DeLaney and Shane Walterhoefer were named All-Americans as was defenseman Ryan Flanagan. Walterhoefer shattered numerous school and conference face-off and ground ball records last year.

Breschi was one of the finest lacrosse players in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference while playing for legendary coach Willie Scroggs from 1987-90. He was also a member of two U.S. National Teams. After graduating from Carolina in 1990, Breschi coached at his alma mater for two seasons before going to Brown University as the head assistant coach from 1993-97. Breschi was the chief assistant at UNC under Dave Klarmann in 1991 and 1992 and was part of a staff that captured ACC titles in 1991 and 1992 and UNC's fourth NCAA title in 1991. The Tar Heels compiled a stellar 28-3 record during Breschi's assistant coaching stint.

Success at North Carolina came not only as a coach for Breschi, but also as a player. He was an All-ACC selection in both 1989 and 1990 and was selected to play in the prestigious USILA North-South All-Star game in 1990. He was a first-team All-America pick on defense in 1990 and an honorable mention All-America in 1989.

After captaining the Tar Heels his senior season to the NCAA semifinals and an ACC title, Breschi was selected as UNC's nominee for the 1990 Anthony J. McKeelin Award, given annually to the outstanding male athlete in the ACC. In 2002, Breschi was named to the prestigious Atlantic Coast Conference's 50th Anniversary Men's Lacrosse Team, honoring the Top 50 players in league history. He was a member of U.S. National Teams that played in the World Lacrosse Games in 1994 and 1998. Breschi earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in communi-

Michael R. Breschi Scholarship Fund

Since the Michael R. Breschi Scholarship fund was created, more than 500 contributions have come from 26 states. The scholarship is awarded annually to a Ohio State lacrosse player – most likely a rising senior who fits former head coach Joe Breschi's criteria.

"It was started in memory of Michael and what he meant to me and my family in the three and a half years that he was with us," Breschi said. "And it's a way to keep his memory alive in all of us, in the Ohio State program and in what I did at Ohio State. And it's a tribute to him and an opportunity to give to a young man who exemplifies the spirit of Michael."

#Ohio State played in the now defunct Great Western Lacrosse League when Breschi coached there; UNC plays in the Atlantic Coast Conference

Pat Myers is now in his second year as the head assistant coach and the recruiting coordinator for the men's lacrosse program at the University of North Carolina. Myers had a tremendous impact in his first year on the Tar Heel staff as the UNC offense showed vast improvement over 2008 while his recruiting prowess helped the Tar Heels net what is expected to be the No. 1-ranked recruiting class in Inside Lacrosse's rankings for the high school senior class of 2009-10.

Myers, who also serves as Carolina's offensive coordinator, had been the men's lacrosse offensive coordinator and head assistant coach at Bucknell University for three seasons from 2006 through 2008, when was named head assistant coach and offensive coordinator for the University of North Carolina men's lacrosse program in the summer of 2008. Tar Heel head coach Joe Breschi rounded out his staff with the hiring of Myers. With his hiring, Myers was designated by Breschi as the head assistant coach on his staff and with Myers serving as the program's recruiting coordinator.

"Pat Myers is the kind of guy who is a perfectionist when it comes to attention to detail. That's what makes him special. He leaves no stone unturned," says Breschi.

"Pat's learned so much in one year with relationship building, with getting the most out of the players, with developing himself as an overall coach, with being creative. Pat has all the tools to become a great head coach one day," adds Breschi.

Breschi, a 1990 UNC alumnus, was named in June 2008 as the Tar Heels' new head coach after he spent 11 seasons as the head coach at Ohio State. Myers, who played for Breschi at Ohio State, joined his mentor as well as long-time UNC assistant Greg Paradine and new volunteer assistant Brian Holman on the 2009 staff.

In his initial season, Myers was a key part of the reason the Tar Heels improved to 12-6, won an ACC Tournament game for the first time in 13 years and came within a single goal of making the Final Four for the first time in 16 years. Myers led an offense which scored 12.47 goals per game in 2009. That was the third highest scoring average in the nation last year. UNC ranked second in assists per game at 7.72 and first-team All-America attackman Billy Bitter was the nation's fourth-ranked point producer at 3.94 per contest. UNC averaged more than 2.5 goals more per game in 2009 than it did the previous season.

Myers came to Chapel Hill after completing assistant coaching stints at three other schools – Bucknell, Cornell and his alma mater, Ohio State. Myers was a standout lacrosse player at OSU from 2000-03 and was recruited to be a Buckeye by Breschi himself, who started his tenure in Columbus in 1997.

Myers earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in Sport and Leisure Studies in June 2003 with a specialization in coaching and leisure management. He was a four-year Dean's List student at Ohio State and was named a Ohio State Scholar-Athlete. He was named to the Academic All-Big Ten honor squad three successive years

A native of Maine, Myers has been an assistant coach on the collegiate level the past seven seasons, every year since his graduation from Ohio State. He was the volunteer assistant coach at Ohio State in 2004, an assistant coach at Cornell University in 2005 and the offensive coordinator at Bucknell from '06-'08. At Bucknell, he was the offensive coordinator, the head assistant coach, the recruiting coordinator, the strength and conditioning supervisor and the academic monitor on the Bison staff.

In 2008, Bucknell matched its highest USILA ranking in school history at No. 9 during the course of the season. The Bison finished 10-5 overall and 4-2 in the Patriot League while also reaching the championship game of the conference tournament. In 2007, Bucknell finished 11-4, achieved a mid-year ranking of 11th and a final national rating of 19th. In his first year on the Bucknell staff in 2006, Myers helped lead the Bison to an upset of top-ranked Maryland, the first-ever win in Bucknell history over a No. 1-ranked team.

Myers coordinated an offense at Bucknell that produced back-to-back Patriot League Rookies-of-the-Year – Joe Mele and Austin Winter – and also aided Winter in winning All-America accolades in 2008.

Prior to his stint in Lewisburg, Pa., Myers was an assistant coach at Cornell University in 2005 when the Big Red went 11-3 overall and 6-0 in the Ivy League standings. The Cornell Big Red reached the NCAA quarterfinals that season and had its highest regular-season ranking since 1987 when the Big Red reached No. 3 in the nation. The 2005 squad was also the first Big Red team to go undefeated in the Ivy League in 18 years. Myers assisted in coordinating an offense that averaged 12.08 goals per game, ranking No. 3 in the nation in scoring offense.

After playing at Ohio State, Myers spent a season on the staff there as the volunteer assistant coach. The Buckeyes went 12-4 that season, achieved a sterling record of 5-0 in the Great Western Lacrosse League to win the league title, earned an NCAA Tournament invitation for the first time in history and achieved the highest ranking in Buckeye lacrosse lore at No. 6.

Myers played collegiately at OSU from 2000-03. He was the Great Western Lacrosse League's Rookie-of-the-Year in 2000 and a two-time All-Great Western Lacrosse League selection in 2002 and 2003. He played in the USILA North-South All-Star Game at the conclusion of the 2003 campaign. In 2005, Myers was one of 120 players selected to try out for Team USA that competed at the 2006 World Games.

Men's lacrosse head assistant coach Pat Myers and his bride to be Lauren Bricker, a teacher in the Orange County School System. The couple will marry in August 2010.

Myers was selected by the Boston Cannons of Major League Lacrosse in the supplemental draft in 2004. He played four seasons for the Cannons from 2004-2007.

Myers' fiancée, Lauren Bricker, teaches middle school science at Carrington Middle School while coaching track and basketball. She is a 2007 graduate of Bucknell where she competed in track and cross country as a standout student-athlete for the Bison.

Chris Feifs, a former player at Maryland and offensive coordinator at VMI was hired last September as a full-time assistant coach for the University of North Carolina's men's lacrosse program. Feifs took over for Greg Paradine, who left in July 2009 to become the head coach of the newly started men's and women's lacrosse programs at Lenoir-Rhyne University.

"I'm thrilled to welcome Chris Feifs to the Tar Heel lacrosse family," North Carolina head coach Joe Breschi says. "Having grown up in the state of North Carolina, Chris has a passion for the game and a tremendous desire to help the Tar Heels continue to build an outstanding overall program, both on and off the field.

"His ability to teach the game offensively, recruit stellar student-athletes and build strong relationships with the players he worked with at VMI were critical factors in my interest in having him join the staff," Breschi adds. "Chris' character and leadership ability clearly fit the vision I have for the Tar Heel lacrosse program."

In 2009, Feifs completed his second year as Coach Jeff Shirk's top assistant at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va. On July 2, 2007, Feifs was named to the VMI staff as an assistant coach and in the summer of 2008, he was officially given the title of offensive coordinator. In 2008, the Keydets earned their first ever bid to the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference Tournament, reaching the tournament championship game. It was the first post-season conference tournament bid for VMI in 28 years.

"I am very excited about the opportunity to work at the University of North Carolina and give back to my home state," says Feifs. "Coach Breschi and coach (Pat) Myers were inspirational throughout the hiring process and had me looking forward to getting involved in all aspects of the program right from the start. I began my tenure in Chapel Hill with great excitement and anticipation and everything that has happened in the first six months here has reaffirmed my feelings."

Feifs came to Carolina with the experience of having played in the Atlantic Coast Conference as an undergraduate. Feifs rounded out his playing career at Maryland where he served as the co-captain of the 2007 team.

Feifs was drafted in the 2007 Major League Lacrosse Supplemental Draft when he was taken by the Boston Cannons in the draft's third round. He played for the Cannons under the stewardship of coach Billy Daye, a 1993 UNC graduate.

In May 2007, Feifs received his bachelor's degree in criminal justice from the University of Maryland. He posted a 3.5 grade point average and was a three-time selection to the ACC Academic Honor Roll. Feifs played for Coach Dave Cottle's Terrapins from 2004-07. He played in 35 games in his career. As a senior he started 14 of 15 games for the Terps and had 15 goals and four assists for 19 points. He scored four goals against Yale that season, including the game-winning goal and he also put up three goals against Johns Hopkins.

At 6-4, 240, he was an imposing midfield presence for the Terps. He was the first-ever recruit from the state of North Carolina for Maryland's program as he is from Durham and graduated from Riverside High School in 2004. He was coached by Jim Kirkley at Riverside where he was named a two-time high school All-America. He is the son of Helmut and Betsy Feifs. Feifs has also spent the past five summers as a camp instructor for several top lacrosse camps on the East Coast.

Brian Holman, a former standout lacrosse player at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, is now in his second year as the volunteer assistant coach for the University of North Carolina men's lacrosse program.

Holman serves as UNC's goalkeeper coach while also coordinating alumni relationships and working with UNC's camps and clinics.

Holman's lacrosse pedigree is a distinguished one indeed.

He was named by head coach Joe Breschi as spend more time with his family and devote time to his mortgage business.

Holman had an outstanding first year with the program tutoring goalkeepers Grant Zimmerman and James Petracca as Carolina's goal against average decreased to 9.0 last season.

"I think the world of Brian Holman," says Breschi. "He has great wisdom. He now has a son in the program and that makes him a great asset in building relationships with other the parents and making them feel a big part of our program."

"Brian adds a different dimension to our staff. And he's great working with the goalies."

Holman has been involved in lacrosse at all levels for the past 30 years, as player, coach and parent.

Holman attended Johns Hopkins University and was a member of the Class of 1983. As a player at Hopkins he was a three-time All-America selection as a goalkeeper and he played in four NCAA Championship games in 1980, 1981, 1982 and 1983. As a freshman in 1980 he was part of an NCAA championship team in Johns Hopkins lacrosse lore. The Blue Jays finished second in the nation in his final three years at the University.

Holman was a volunteer assistant goalie coach and defensive coordinator at Johns Hopkins for seven years, an assistant coach at the Boys' Latin School of Maryland for four years, head coach for five years in the Maryland Youth Lacrosse Association and he served three years as head coach of the Breaker's Club Lacrosse Team in Baltimore, Md.

Brian and his wife, Laurie, are the parents of three children. Matthew is the oldest at 20 and he attends UMBC where he plays goalkeeper for Coach Don Zimmerman's team. Marcus, 18, is a Gilman School graduate and a freshman attackman for the Tar Heel men's lacrosse squad. Sydney, 15, now attends East Chapel Hill High School after being enrolled previously at the Bryn Mawr School in Baltimore. Sydney follows in the footsteps of her older brothers in being an outstanding high school athlete.

Fetzer Field serves as the home of the Tar Heels for the men's lacrosse program.

In Fetzer Field, the North Carolina men's lacrosse program enjoys one of the premier lacrosse domains in the nation.

Originally built in 1935 and undergoing significant improvements from 1988 to 1990, the facility has been host to NCAA men's lacrosse tournament games on several occasions, most recently in 2009.

Named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track coach Bob Fetzer, Fetzer Field has been the home of Carolina soccer since 1947, the first year UNC sponsored a varsity men's soccer team and Carolina men's lacrosse since 1949, the starting year for that varsity sports program. UNC's all-time record at Fetzer heading into the 2010 season is 233-113-2. Large enthusiastic crowds are a staple at Fetzer for men's and women's lacrosse and men's and women's soccer matches, all involving nationally-ranked Tar Heel teams.*

in 1979 and the women's lacrosse program in 1996. All those sports call Fetzer Field home for their regular-season and post-season tournaments games and four all sports are annually ranked among the Top 10 teams in the nation in their sports.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus directly adjacent to Carmichael Auditorium on South Road (N.C. State Road 54), the field was completed in 1935 as a Works Project Administration program during the tenure of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The track team began competition in Fetzer Field that season, later to be joined by the four other sports.

The facility's renovations two decades ago made it one of the most beautiful all-around collegiate venues in the nation. The playing field itself was reworked and leveled, the grandstand was refitted with new aluminum bleachers, a new track was installed, lights were added, two convenient ticket booths were added to the front gate and a computerized scoreboard and message center was installed. Even more recently the facilities' concession areas have been revamped so they are more convenient for fans. There are also plans in the works for another complete updating of the facility in the next few years.

The facility has been home not only to women's and men's soccer NCAA and ACC Championship events, but also numerous ACC Outdoor Track and Field Championships, the North Carolina High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics, men's and women's lacrosse ACC Tournaments and first round, quarterfinal and semifinal action in the NCAA tournament play. In the summer of 1996, the facility was the home training site for the United States Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

The Humble Beginnings of a Vaunted Program

Lacrosse, a sport invented by Native Americans and played long before European settlers first visited the shores of North America, was first introduced at the University of North Carolina in 1937 on a club sport basis.

The first Carolina teams in the late 1930s used the football team's discarded helmets and cleats while team members bought their own gloves and sticks. The team played its home games on a field across the street from Woollen Gymnasium.

In those days, Carolina played in what was called the Dixie Lacrosse League with fellow conference members Duke, Virginia, Washington & Lee, Loyola College of Maryland and the Washington Lacrosse Club. The initial Carolina teams of the late 1930s were coached by Albert C. Cornsweet, a 1929 graduate of Brown University.

Most of the players on those early lacrosse teams worked part-time jobs in order to stay in school. It was the heart of the Great Depression and most college students needed to supplement their incomes. There were some scholarship football players who competed in the sport as well. Rumor has it that Carolina football coach Ray Wolf made his players compete in lacrosse so they'd learn how to run. Wolf had an appreciation of the sport and wanted to use it to his advantage by helping keep his players in shape during the football off-season, knowing lacrosse players competed in a sport where participants ran and ran and then ran some more.

In the late 1940s, Bill Darden was hired by the athletic department as a member of the business office staff and he also began to coach the lacrosse team at UNC in his extra time. Varsity status was officially awarded by the athletic department after a period of time and monogram awards were first granted beginning with the 1949 team, officially making it Carolina's initial varsity unit.

The school was admitted as a member of the U.S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association (USILA) in 1950 and has remained a member since that time. The 1951 team featured the program's first All-America player. Nick Sowell was named the first-team All-America goalie that year by the USILA.

After co-soccer and lacrosse coach Alan Moore left Chapel Hill following the 1953 campaign, the 1954 squad was coached by George Good, a captain in the U.S. Marine Corps stationed in Chapel Hill as part of the Naval ROTC program. The 1954 team posted a disappointing 0-6 mark. After just a six-year period from 1949-54, the team's status as a varsity sport at Carolina came to an end. The athletic department at that time began to focus on other sports as recruiting high-level in-state talent was a major issue in trying to compete with league foes. For a decade the men's lacrosse program at the University would be relegated to a different existence. A club team existed and played outside competition but was no longer recognized by the athletic department as a varsity program. By no means, however, was lacrosse permanently vanquished to the scrap heap.

Permanent Varsity Status Granted to Lacrosse in 1964

Lacrosse was resurrected at Carolina in 1964 as a varsity program under the leadership of athletic director Chuck Erickson. Erickson wanted to add a sport to improve Carolina's standing in the Carmichael Cup, the annual all-sports trophy in the ACC at that time. Maryland was dominating the Carmichael Cup standings at the time and Erickson was determined to give Carolina a better chance to win the award. Even if Erickson's initial intention was to improve UNC's Carmichael Cup standing, which it did, the move proved brilliant at a more important level as within 17 years the Heels became a national championship team.

The UNC program competed on the varsity level without awarding athletic scholarships for 10 years. Carolina upgraded the program with the awarding of scholarships after the hiring of head coach Paul Doty during the 1973-74 school year. The Tar Heels also transitioned from an NCAA small college program (the equivalent of what is now the Division II and III levels combined) to NCAA Division I status in 1974 with the awarding of scholarships. Almost immediately the Tar Heels were competitive with the top teams in the nation.

Despite its rather brief history on campus in comparison to other UNC sports which date back to the early decades of the 20th century or even the late decades of the 19th century, North Carolina lacrosse has been something very special in its time on campus from 1949-54 and 1964 to the present.

Since 1949 the all-time Tar Heel record stands at 396-254-2. Tar Heel teams have won NCAA Division I national championships four times, earning crowns in 1981, 1982, 1986 and 1991. Carolina teams have also captured 11 Atlantic Coast Conference championships—all in a period spanning just 16 seasons from 1981-96. The championships were won in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994 and 1996.

The 1981 and 1982 teams won 26 games in succession, recording one of the longest winning streaks in collegiate lacrosse history. Twenty-four times since first qualifying in 1976, the Tar Heels have competed in the NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship. Only five schools (Johns Hopkins, Maryland, Virginia, Syracuse and Navy) have played in the NCAA Division I

Men's Lacrosse Tournament more often than Carolina has.

Tremendous growth in the program occurred beginning in the late 1960s after the sport gained a foothold in Chapel Hill. After a pair of losing seasons in 1966 and 1967, Jim Bischoff, whose team was winless in 1967, coached the Tar Heels to a much improved 7-4 mark in 1968. In addition, Bischoff's 1968 team was the first Tar Heel squad to earn a national ranking from the USILA at 25th in the final poll.

Mueller Tutors the Likes of Kramer and Peterson

In 1969, Fred Mueller, a long-time professor in UNC's Department of Exercise and Sports Science, began a successful four-year run as UNC's head coach. The 1970 Tar Heels ranked as Mueller's best team as they finished seventh in the country in the USILA poll with a 9-2 record and won the South Atlantic Conference championship. That team would likely have been the first UNC squad to earn an NCAA Tournament bid but the first championship tournament sponsored by the NCAA came a year later in 1971.

Among Mueller's greatest players was Peter Kramer, who won the C.Markland Kelly, Jr. Memorial Cup as the nation's outstanding goalkeeper in 1969. Attackman Harper Peterson copped honors as a first-team All-America three times in his career and Kramer was a three-time honoree as well.

Tar Heel head fencing coach Ron Miller ended up with double head coaching duties while taking over the lacrosse coaching reins on an interim basis for one season in 1973. Miller led the team to a 12-5 record in 1973. Those 12 wins stood as Carolina's school record for victories in a season until the mark was broken by the 1982 national championship squad when that team finished with a 14-0 ledger. The Tar Heels also set a school record in 1973 for regular-season games played in a season with 17 contests on the docket.

Carolina lacrosse entered a new era in 1974 when the program hired Paul Doty as the first full-time head coach in school history. That same year, the team was elevated to scholarship status with the first athletic grants-in-aid in the sport being awarded during the 1974 season.

Doty led UNC to national Top 10 rankings in both 1976 and 1977 and to UNC's first two NCAA Division I Tournament appearances those same two seasons. Another program milestone achieved under Doty's tutelage was Carolina's 13-10 victory over Virginia during the 1976 season. It marked the first time Carolina had ever defeated either Maryland or Virginia as a varsity team, the two schools which had dominated ACC lacrosse up to that point in time. would not come until 1981, however.

An Era of Excellence under Willie Scroggs

In 1978, UNC turned to the hotbed of college lacrosse, Johns Hopkins University, and hired the Blue Jays' top assistant coach, Willie Scroggs, as the Tar Heels' new head coach. It was a move that bore fruit for a dozen years. Scroggs retired from coaching at the end of the 1990 season to become a senior associate athletic director at UNC, ending a brief but brilliant coaching tenure.

The initial decision to pursue Scroggs was made by Tar Heel athletic director Bill Cobey whose philosophy was that a person needed to go to the best programs in the sport and recruit a top assistant coach in order to build a winning program.

Tar Heel teams were 120-37 during the Scroggs era and were invited to the NCAA Tournament 11 straight seasons from 1980 through 1990. In nine of Scroggs' 12 years, UNC made the NCAA Tournament semifinal round and the 1981, 1982 and 1986 squads won the NCAA Division I championship. The Tar Heels were 17-8 in NCAA post-season play during his tenure. Scroggs' teams won ACC titles in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989 and 1990. In addition, the 1982 team finished the season ranked No. 1 in the nation in the final USILA poll.

When Scroggs announced his retirement immediately after Carolina's NCAA semifinal loss to Syracuse in 1990, the University turned to Dave Klarmann, who had been the top assistant to Scroggs for 11 seasons. The move paid off in instantaneous results. In Klarmann's first season at the helm of the Tar Heels, he led the team to a 16-0 record and the 1991 NCAA and ACC championships. That team also finished first in the USILA poll for only the second time in school history.

After an ACC championship and an appearance in the NCAA semifinals in 1992, the Tar Heels had another banner season the following year. In 1993, the Tar Heels again finished first in the USILA national coaches' poll, marking the second such finish in Klarmann's coaching tenure and the third in the history of Tar Heel lacrosse. Carolina also advanced to the NCAA championship game for the fifth time in history in 1993, dropping a 13-12 decision to Syracuse on a fast-break goal by the Orangemen in the final seconds of play. Playing with Scroggs' last class of recruits as members of the senior class in 1994, UNC won its seventh straight ACC crown. Carolina won the ACC title again in 1996, the last time the Tar Heels have done so as the Tar Heels routed Duke in the semifinals and upset eventual NCAA finalist Virginia to claim the crown behind a brilliant goalkeeping performance by Brooks Brown.

Klarmann resigned his coaching position following the 2000 season after leading Carolina to five ACC championships in his tenure. In his last game as the Tar Heel head coach in 2000 he earned his 100th career victory as the Tar Heels defeated Lehigh.

Carolina athletic director Dick Baddour then employed the same plan used by Cobey in 1978 and he went to lacrosse power Johns Hopkins to find the new head coach for the Heels, this time hiring the Blue Jays' two-year head coach, John Haus, to lead Carolina into the new millennium. The hire of Haus bore fruit as the Carolina program returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2004 for the first time since 1998, winning its first NCAA game since 1993 in the process. Carolina again played in the NCAA Tournament in 2007, reaching the NCAA quarterfinal round for a second time in four seasons. The Tar Heels reached the NCAA Tournament again in 2008.

At the conclusion of the '08 season, Haus announced his resignation to become the director of lacrosse and head men's lacrosse coach at Lebanon Valley College in Annville, Pa. Baddour then hired Ohio State coach Joe Breschi, a 1990 UNC alumnus to lead the Tar Heel program. In Breschi's first season at the helm, the Tar Heels reached the NCAA quarterfinal round, won 12 games for the first time since 1996 and won an ACC Tournament game for the first time in 13 years.

Stellar Play in the NCAA Tournament

In winning four NCAA championships since 1981, Carolina teams have been involved in some of the most exciting games in the tournament's 39-year history.

In 1981, UNC went through the regular season unbeaten and it was ranked No. 2 in the nation behind three-time defending national champion Johns Hopkins entering the tournament. The Tar Heels recorded lopsided wins over Syracuse and Navy in the first two rounds of the tournament before meeting the unbeaten Blue Jays in the national championship game at Princeton's Palmer Stadium. Before a crowd of 13,943, UNC scored six straight goals in the second half to overcome a three-goal Johns Hopkins advantage as the Heels eventually triumphed by a 14-13 margin.

In 1982, the Tar Heels swept through the regular season unscathed again. In the NCAA Tournament, UNC routed Navy and Cornell, setting up a championship game rematch with Johns Hopkins. In a game dominated by the two teams' defenses, UNC beat the Blue Jays 7-5 behind five goals by junior attackman David Wingate and brilliant goalkeeping by Tom Sears who was the choice as that year's national player of the year.

Carolina's third NCAA championship came in 1986 and it was the most unexpected of the quartet of crowns that have been won by UNC. The Tar Heels were seeded fifth going into the tournament. No team seeded lower than fourth had ever made the championship game prior to the 1986 season and none seeded lower than third had ever won the title. That Carolina team remains, 24 years later, the lowest seeded team to capture the NCAA crown.

Ironically, in winning the national championship, the Tar Heels avenged all three of their regular-season losses in the exact same order in which they had lost to those teams earlier in the season. After a 12-10 quarterfinal win at Maryland, UNC headed to the first-ever NCAA men's lacrosse Final Four, an institution now embedded in the culture of the sport every Memorial Day weekend. At Newark, Del., Carolina was well prepared for the semifinals and it avenged a 16-4 regular-season loss to two-time defending NCAA champion Johns Hopkins by beating the Blue Jays 10-9 in overtime. Carolina won the game on senior Mike Tummillo's goal off a Gary Seivold assist a little over two minutes into the extra period.

Cavaliers traded the lead throughout the championship contest with neither team ever holding more than a two-goal advantage at any time. Another overtime period was required to settle the issue. Gary Seivold scored an unassisted goal 1:50 into the extra session to give the title to Carolina.

Like the 1981 and 1982 teams, 1991's national championship team finished the season unbeaten. UNC opened NCAA Tournament play by defeating Loyola 11-9 in the quarterfinals at Fetzer Field. Six days later, the Tar Heels handed Syracuse its first NCAA home playoff loss in history as Carolina routed the Orangemen 19-13 at the Carrier Dome.

Two days later against unseeded Towson, Carolina led 11-4 at the half and was in complete control of the game. But Towson made a huge run in the second half and Carolina saw its lead shrink to a single goal in the fourth quarter before the Tar Heels went on to win the game 18-13. The Tar Heel victory was led by senior attackman Dennis Goldstein, the National Player of the Year, who was the championship game's Most Valuable Player. Goldstein led UNC past Syracuse with four goals and he added four goals and four assists in the title game against Towson. A Bevy of All-America Selections and USILA Award Winners

Over the past 31 seasons, UNC players have earned 137 All-America accolades and 85 All-Atlantic Coast Conference citations.

Nine Tar Heels have been named ACC Player of the Year — attackman Michael Burnett in 1981, goalkeeper Tom Sears in 1982, defenseman Randy Cox in 1984, attackman Mac Ford in 1985, defenseman Graham Harden in 1991, defenseman Alex Martin in 1992, midfielder Ryan Wade in both 1993 and 1994 and midfielder Jason Wade in 1996.

Scroggs was tapped as ACC Coach of the Year in 1988 and Klarmann won the same honor in 1991, 1993, 1994 and 1996. In 1989, midfielder Jim Buczek was named as the ACC Rookie of the Year. Attackman Jeff Sonke won the same award in 1998. Seven ACC Tournament Most Valuable Players have been Tar Heels — attackman Michael Thomas in 1989, defenseman Joe Breschi in 1990, attackman Dennis Goldstein in 1991, attackman John Webster in 1992, attackman Dan Levy in 1993, goalkeeper Rocco D'Andraia in 1994 and goalkeeper Brooks Brown in 1996.

Carolina has had at least one first-team All-America selection in 19 of 31 seasons since 1979. In 1981, 1991 and 1993, UNC had three first-team selections and the 1984, 1985, 1992, 1996 and 2004 squads had two each. In 1982, five of the 11 players named to the first-team All-America squad were Tar Heels, a rather astounding feat.

Peter Kramer started Carolina's long list of USILA award winners when he won the C. Markland Kelly, Jr. Memorial Cup as the nation's top goalie in 1969.

In 1981 and 1982, Tom Sears won the Kelly Award as the nation's outstanding goalkeeper. In 1982, he also captured the Enners Award as the National Player of the Year and the Brine Award as the outstanding player in the NCAA championship game.

A year later, in 1983, Peter Voelkel won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's outstanding midfielder. In 1984, Tom Haus won the first of his three Schmeisser Cups as the nation's outstanding defensive player. He went on to win the Schmeisser Cup again in 1986 and 1987. In 1986, Haus was also tapped for the Enners Award as National Player of the Year. Gary Seivold's two-goal, two-assist effort in the 1986 NCAA championship game win earned him the Brine Award as the game's Most Valuable Player.

Carolina added to that jackpot of top awards during the 1991 season. The USILA tapped Goldstein as the National Player of the Year as well as the MVP of the NCAA championship game after scoring four goals and adding four assists in the 18-13 victory over Towson. Graham Harden captured the Schmeisser Cup as the top defenseman in the nation and Andy Piazza became the first Tar Heel to win the Kelly Award as the nation's top goalie since Sears won the honor in 1982.

In 1992, Jim Buczek won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfielder. A year later, the USILA honored Ryan Wade as the top midfielder in America. Ryan Wade's younger brother, Jason "Zach" Wade, won the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfield performer in 1996.

Scroggs was named National Coach of the Year in 1981 by the USILA and he was an assistant coach for the U.S. team which won the title at the 1982 World Lacrosse Games in Baltimore. Sears was the starting goalkeeper for that U.S. team and was named the All-World goalie. Midfielder Joey Seivold, '87, and defenseman Randy Cox, '84, both played on the U.S. team which won the title at the 1986 World Lacrosse Games in Toronto. Three other Tar Heels, Steve Stenersen, '82, Peter Voelkel, '83, and Mac Ford, '85, were alternates on that team.

Mac Ford went on to play on the U.S. team which swept to the title at the 1990 World Lacrosse Games in Perth, Australia. He was named the top attackman in the tournament. UNC midfielder Robin Cornish, a Perth native, competed in the 1990 World Games as a middie on the Aussie squad.

Carolina sent two representatives to the 1994 World Lacrosse Games in Manchester, England as the Americans won yet again. UNC defenseman Joe Breschi, '90, and midfielder Ryan Wade, '94, were stars on the U.S. team. The World Lacrosse Games returned to the United States again in 1998 and both Breschi and Wade made return engagements as members of the American team.

Dan Collins' overtime goal upset defending NCAA champ Princeton in 1989.

Steve Martel and Pat Welsh after Welsh's last-second goal beat Hopkins in 1985.

Austra Robin Cornish was a key player on the 1991 NCAA winning team.

Most recently in the summer of 2005, four Tar Heel players were invited to the U.S. National Team tryouts for the 2006 World Lacrosse Championship. The quartet including goalkeeper Billy Daye, '93, attackman Jeff Sonke, '01, attackman Jed Prossner, '05, and defenseman Stephen McElduff, '06.

A Legacy of Great Players

In 1979, defenseman Ralph "Rip" Davy, who passed away at a young age in 2008, became the first Tar Heel to be named a first-team All-America under coach Willie Scroggs. Midfielder Kevin Griswold earned similar honors a year later and was a key player on the 1981 and '82 title teams. Defenseman Gary Burns, '82, was named to All-America teams on three occasions and like Scroggs now has a son playing on the Tar Heel team as a member of the freshman class. Midfielder Doug Hall was a hero of the 1981 NCAA championship game victory, scoring three goals, and he was a first-team All-America that season.

Jeff Homire, another midfielder, was a first-team All-America in 1982. Chris Walker, '87, was a three-time All-America selection on defense. He played much of his career with the talented Boyd Harden, a first-team All-America in 1988.

The brothers Seivold, Joey a midfielder and Gary an attackman, both of whom graduated in 1987, won USILA All-America honors each of their four years while wearing the Carolina Blue and White.

Another standout defenseman was Joe Breschi, who led Tar Heel teams to the NCAA semifinals in both 1989 and '90. In 1993, the Tar Heels said good-bye to a quartet of outstanding talents. Attackman John Webster left Carolina amongst career leaders in goals (109), assists (79) and points (188). Midfielder Donnie McNichol had a team-leading 109 ground balls in 1993. In addition, his .740 face-off percentage established a school record. Defensemen Alex Martin and Greg Paradine were also spectacular players of the early 1990s. Both were first-team All-America choices. The 1996 senior class included the likes of first-team All-America midfielders Jude Collins and Jason Wade. Attackman Jeff Sonke was a second-team choice in 2000 and 2001 on attack.

Jed Prossner earned first-team All-America honors in 2004, the first UNC attackman to win them since Dennis Goldstein in 1991. Ronnie Staines was a first-team All-America on defense in 2004, the first Tar Heel defender since Paradine and Martin won first-team accolades on defense in 1993.

Prossner went on to be named a first-team All-America attackman again in 2005, so honored despite a 5-8 UNC record. Prossner was only the third Tar Heel attackman in history to win first-team All-America in two or more years, joining Harper Peterson and Michael Burnett.

Prossner, who was the second overall pick in the 2005 Major Lacrosse League draft, also won All-ACC honors in 2005 for the third straight year. No Tar Heel had made the All-ACC team three years in a row since 1983.

Prossner and fellow 2005 senior Mike McCall finished their careers as two of the most prolific goal scorers in Carolina history. Prossner scored 113 goals to rank No. 2 in UNC history while McCall scored 102 goals to move him into a tie for No. 6 on the career chart. Prossner was also the first lacrosse player in history to win the Patterson Medal as UNC's top senior male athlete. Senior goalkeeper Paul Spellman also broke the UNC career record for saves in 2005, smashing the mark that had stood since 1983 when Tom Sears established it.

15 Tar Heels Named to ACC Top 50 Team

Three Tar Heels have been inducted into the U.S. Lacrosse Hall of Fame—former head coach Willie Scroggs in 2003, three-time national defenseman of the year Tom Haus in 2005 and star goalkeeper Tom Sears in 2007.

In 2002, when the ACC announced its Top 50 players in each sport to celebrate a half century of the league's existence, 15 Tar Heel players were tapped amongst the Top 50.

This group included defenseman Joe Breschi, '90, midfielder Jim Buczek, '92, attackman Michael Burnett, '83, defenseman Randy Cox, '84, attackman Mac Ford, '95, attackman Dennis Goldstein, '91, midfielder Kevin Griswold, '82, defenseman Graham Harden, '91, defenseman Tom Haus, '87, attackman Harper Peterson, '70, goalkeeper Tom Sears, '83, midfielder Joey Seivold, '87, midfielder Peter Voelkel, '83, midfielder Jason Wade, '96, and midfielder Ryan Wade, '94.

University of North Carolina

The First State University

“If a moviemaker needs an idyllic setting for a film about college life, Chapel Hill might just take the prize.”

– Newsweek magazine

• The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was the nation's first state university to open its doors and the only public university to award degrees in the 18th century. Authorized by the N.C. Constitution in 1776, the University was chartered by the N.C. General Assembly Dec. 11, 1789, the same year George Washington first was inaugurated as president. The cornerstone was laid for Old East, the nation's first state university building, Oct. 12, 1793. Hinton James, the first student, arrived from Wilmington, N.C., Feb. 12, 1795.

• Now in its third century, Carolina offers bachelor's, master's, doctoral and professional degrees in academic areas critical to North Carolina's future: business, dentistry, education, law, medicine, nursing, public health and social work, among others. Offerings include 71 bachelor's, 107 master's, 74 doctorate and four professional degree programs.

Among UNC's recent rankings are:

• First among the 100 best U.S. public colleges and universities that offer the best combination of top-flight academics and affordable costs as ranked by Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine in December 2008. Kiplinger's analysis stressed academic quality, as well as cost and financial aid offerings. Reported Kiplinger's, "UNC students of every background have equal reason to be thrilled at the opportunity to share classrooms with other high-achieving students and learn from a nationally acclaimed faculty. The historic campus is undergoing a major refurbishing that includes the FedEx Global Education Center, a hub for international studies, as well as a state-of-the-art physical-science complex."

• Fifth-best public university in U.S. News & World Report's 2009 "Best Colleges" guidebook for the eighth consecutive year.

• Among 25 "New Ivy" campuses in the 2007 Kaplan/Newsweek "How to Get into College Guide." Includes schools with first-rate academic programs fueling their rise in national stature, and is based on admissions statistics and interviews with administrators, students, faculty and alumni.

Carolina won the 2009 NCAA Championship in men's basketball.

Tar Heel Pride

Many of the best-known names in sports – such as Michael Jordan, Julius Peppers, Mia Hamm and Lawrence Taylor – wore Carolina blue.

Carolina: An All-Around Program

- The 2008-09 school year marked the first time in Atlantic Coast Conference history that a member school played in a football bowl game, the men's basketball Final Four and the baseball College World Series in the same season.
- Carolina was one of three schools to have student-athletes selected in the first round of the 2009 NFL, NBA and Major League Baseball drafts.
- North Carolina finished second overall in the 2008-09 Division I Learfield Sports Directors' Cup, a national competition that measures a program's postseason success. It was Carolina's seventh consecutive top-10 finish and the ninth time UNC has been in the top five.
- UNC has won more national championships and conference championships than any other school in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Tar Heel women's lacrosse team finished as NCAA runner-up in 2009.

The Tar Heels have played in the College World Series in each of the last four years.

UNC has won 21 national titles in women's soccer, including 2008 and 2009.

Student-Athlete Services at the University of North Carolina:

Advancing Toward Graduation, Building Character, Developing Leadership

Student-Athlete Services at the University of North Carolina encompass three areas that play an integral part in the collegiate experience of the approximately 700 UNC student-athletes at the University who compete in 28 varsity sports, making Carolina's program the most extensive in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Those three areas are Academic Development, Student-Athlete Development and Leadership Development.

• ACADEMIC DEVELOPMENT

The Academic Support Program is the main service utilized in advancing UNC student-athletes to graduation. The program assists student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals.

"Our young people are students first and athletes second and that will always be the case at the University," says UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "That is a credit to our coaches, our administrators and support staff, but most of all, our student-athletes. Their accomplishments in the classroom are very impressive."

During the 2008-09 academic year, 274 Carolina student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year.

In the fall of 2008, 173 student-athletes made the Dean's List, and 156 did so in the spring of 2009.

Nineteen Tar Heel men's lacrosse players were tapped for the 2008-09 ACC Academic Honor Roll. Five men's lacrosse players were named to the fall semester 2008 Dean's List. Ten were named to the Dean's List in the spring semester of 2009. The 2008-09 UNC men's lacrosse team had the third highest GPA of the 13 varsity men's teams.

The Academic Support Program is housed primarily in the Pope Academic Support Center, which is equipped with study facilities, tutorial rooms, a computer lab, a 128-seat auditorium, counselors' offices, and state-of-the-art video and computer equipment. At the center, students meet with staff to discuss course selection, major and career exploration, academic progress and academic eligibility.

The Academic Support Program helps freshmen transition from high school to college through a variety of academic programs such as academic counseling, individual tutoring, group review sessions and supplemental instruction.

One full-time employee of the Academic Support Program is specifically assigned to work with each team. Spencer Welborn serves as the academic advisor for the UNC men's lacrosse team.

• STUDENT-ATHLETE DEVELOPMENT

Building character in UNC student-athletes is the main charge of Student-Athlete Development.

Through Carolina Outreach, Tar Heels are involved in a variety of projects and organizations on campus and in the community. The UNC Department of Athletics has partnered with Gatorade and the UNC School of Public Health for a national pilot program called Get Kids in Action, in which Tar Heel student-athletes visit local elementary schools to encourage children to exercise. The Carolina Dreams program allows young patients at UNC Children's Hospitals to attend Tar Heel sporting events with UNC student-athletes. Other recent activities have included building a house with Habitat for Humanity, cooking meals at Ronald McDonald House and cleaning up the roadways through the Adopt-a-Highway program.

Student-Athlete Development also seeks to develop student-athletes on a personal level through a variety of speakers who address issues like nutrition, gambling, relationship communication and substance use. Career Development helps UNC student-athletes look beyond college with resources such as career counseling and workshops on resume writing and interviewing skills.

• LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

The primary outlet for Leadership Development is the Carolina Leadership Academy, started at UNC in 2004. As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Carolina Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Academy consists of three programs:

CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the freshman year. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore freshmen are taught skills to effectively lead themselves.

Training consists of monthly meetings featur-

• Carolina CREED

As a University of North Carolina student-athlete, I pledge to make every effort to abide by the Carolina CREED as a show of my commitment to the University, the Department of Athletics, my team and myself.

and reinforce leadership principles and share successes, frustrations and lessons while preparing for a career of significance.

• STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

Under the direction of the UNC Olympic sports strength and conditioning staff, Tar Heel student-athletes get outstanding coaching intended to help maximize their physical potential. The staff evaluates Carolina student-athletes in a variety of ways, including the use of specialized software for lifting and running video analysis, to encourage steady progress toward reaching optimum preparation for competition. The men's lacrosse team trains at the Olympic sports weight room in Kenan Field House. In addition to top-of-the-line strength equipment, the Kenan-based center boasts a five-lane, 25-year rubberized surface for teaching and performing warm-up activities, acceleration drills and agility movements. Year-round training produces athletes who are prepared to compete successfully and safely. Greg Gatz is the Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports and oversees the program. Gatz's top assistant is Steve Gisselman. Eric Biener is the assistant strength & conditioning coordinator who works specifically with the Tar Heel men's lacrosse team.

Greg Gatz

• SPORTS MEDICINE

The Tar Heel athletic teams, including the men's lacrosse squad, receive excellent care from one of the country's best sports medicine staffs. The University of North Carolina prides itself on the quality of its sports medicine program and spares no expense in providing top-flight medical care to all student-athletes.

Dr. Ciocca

Dr. Mario Ciocca, Director of Sports Medicine, oversees a comprehensive program designed to keep student-athletes healthy and to rehabilitate any injuries quickly and successfully. Dr. Ciocca is also the physician who works directly with the men's lacrosse team. Dr. Jeff Spang serves as the team's orthopaedic surgeon.

A member of the certified athletic training staff is present at all games and practices to ensure that any injuries receive prompt and proper care. Head certified athletic trainer Nina Walker oversees care for the men's lacrosse team and is assisted by certified athletic training graduate students Evan Allen (2nd year graduate student assistant), Ashley Littleton (1st year graduate student assistant) and undergraduate assistant Stephanie Romich.

Rising Stars Program

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn

Sean Jackson was the recipient of the 2009-10 Athletic Director's Scholar-Athlete Award for the men's lacrosse team.

Thomas Wood works with some future face-off specialists at a youth clinic conducted last fall at Chapel Hill High School.

Joe Howard and Sean Burke read to elementary school students as part of the 2nd and 7 Foundation program in the Chapel Hill Schools.

The Rams Club — A Need for Growth

The cost of competing at the highest level and educating outstanding student-athletes continues to climb. The Rams Club must grow its membership and level of support to keep Carolina as one of the nation's premier athletics programs both athletically and academically.

The Rams Club has witnessed impressive growth over the past several years—51% of members have joined within the last 10 years. Membership in The Rams Club is available through endowment and annual gifts. Gifts of all sizes are important—47% of all Annual Fund gifts are between $100 and $1,000. This growth must continue to meet the escalating needs of Carolina's 28 varsity sports and its student-athletes.

As a member of The Rams Club, you provide a vital component to the success of Tar Heel student-athletes. Your membership provides Carolina student-athletes the opportunity to proudly say, "I'm a Tar Heel."

Annual Fund

Donations through the Annual Fund offers The Rams Club the opportunity to meet immediate funding needs—primarily the funds needed to bridge the difference between the endowment's yield and the actual scholarship costs and other important projects for Carolina's student-athletes.

Scholarship Endowment

The Rams Club's Scholarship Endowment Trust is the largest athletic scholarship endowment in the nation. The Scholarship Endowment Trust is built upon gifts from Carolina supporters who have endowed Full or Half Scholarships in support of student-athletes which provide in perpetuity the support to a broad-based athletics program.

Carolina Forever — Planned Giving

As the Rams Club's planned giving program, Carolina Forever offers donors an opportunity to make a lasting impact by involving Carolina Athletics in their estate planning. Carolina Forever's mission is to ensure that the university continues to provide in perpetuity the unique opportunity to experience what it means to be a Tar Heel student-athlete in a broad-based athletics program.

Sports Endowments

The Sport Endowments program provides additional funding for the operating budgets of each of the 28 sports. Donors can make gifts to an individual sport with the yield from that trust made available to the appropriate coach for use in budget-enhancing activities like recruiting, team travel, assistant coaches' salaries and more. With the gifts designated into an endowment, these gifts will provide a continuous stream of usable income in perpetuity.

I'M A TAR HEEL

This university develops people not only as athletes, but as individuals. There is no other school in the country that has the perfect balance of athletics, academics and social life as does Carolina.

I'm Michael Burns, and I'm a Tar Heel.

I'M A TAR HEEL. It's a simple statement—a phrase that can mean something different for each person who says it. Underlying it is a thread common to each member of the Carolina Family. That underlying thread is the commitment each Tar Heel has to do things the Carolina Way—with great integrity, a dedication to fellow Tar Heels, an unwavering loyalty to Carolina, and a commitment to excellence.

The Carolina Way also entails a commitment to excellence—a commitment that is unrivaled elsewhere. It is evident in Carolina's 37 team national championships, 54 individual national championships, and numerous conference titles. It is evident in the classroom as Carolina boasts an outstanding 85 percent graduation rate among student-athletes. It is evident in the community as Tar Heel student-athletes and staff performed more than 20,000 hours of community service last year.

The Rams Club shares the commitment to a high level of excellence that is characteristic of this University. The Rams Club supports Carolina's broad-based athletics program by offering scholarship and program support assistance to more than 450 student-athletes in 28 varsity sports each year.

As a Rams Club member, you can enjoy the pride of investing in our student-athletes and their success. Your renewed membership in The Rams Club gives our outstanding student-athletes an opportunity to give their own definition of what it means
