Supporting UNC Women's Tennis

The University of North Carolina has a long-term agreement with Nike, which provides UNC teams with shoes, apparel, equipment bags and other products. The contract, signed in 1994 and again in 1997, was extended for a period of eight more years beginning in July 2002. In addition to Nike products, the agreement provides $100,000 annually to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund for undergraduate teaching and $100,000 annually to the UNC athletic department to reward Olympic sport programs and coaches for academic and athletic excellence.

Media and fans can follow the Carolina women's tennis team and the rest of the UNC athletic program from anywhere in the world on the official site of North Carolina athletics.

TarHeelBlue.com offers schedules, rosters, results and more for all 28 of Carolina's varsity sports.

Career Highlights

- 1998 ITA National Coach of the Year
- Five-time ITA Regional Coach of the Year
- Four-time CAA Coach of the Year
- Coached Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long to the 2007 NCAA Doubles title, the first NCAA title in the history of Carolina tennis
- Coached nine All-America players to 19 total All-America honors
- Coached three ITA Arthur Ashe Award winners
- Won nine CAA titles in 11 seasons at W&M
- His teams have defeated 22 top-10 opponents in 15 seasons
- Coached teams to the NCAA quarterfinals three times

Currently in his fifth season at the University of North Carolina and his 15th season overall as a collegiate head coach, Brian Kalbas has led the Tar Heels through one of the most successful runs in school history. Highlighted by just the second trip to the NCAA Quarterfinals in school history in 2005 and its first NCAA tennis title in 2007, UNC has advanced to the NCAA Tournament all four years under Kalbas.

Kalbas and the Tar Heels rose to the top of the collegiate tennis world in 2007 when seniors Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long defeated Megan Moulton-Levy and Katarina Zoricic of William & Mary to claim the NCAA Doubles Championship. The title capped an incredible season for the duo that saw them reach No. 1 in the nation and earn National Doubles Team of the Year honors from the ITA, as they became the first Tar Heels, male or female, to win an NCAA tennis title.

UNC had yet another highly successful season in dual match play in 2007. Carolina finished third in the highly-competitive ACC, a league which produced all three NCAA women's titles during the year (singles, doubles, team). The Tar Heels were also named a host site for NCAA first and second round action, and they defeated Marist and rival Duke to advance to the Sweet Sixteen in Athens, Ga., where they fell in a heartbreaking 4-3 decision to Notre Dame.

Carolina reached a new team pinnacle in 2006, earning a national ranking of No. 3, the highest in program history. The Tar Heels advanced to the NCAA Sweet Sixteen for the second straight season, falling to Duke in the Round of 16. With a final record of 26-7, UNC posted its highest win total since the 1981-82 squad finished 26-14. Kalbas was named the Wilson/ITA Southeast Region Coach of the Year for his efforts.

The 2004-05 season was capped by a dramatic run to the NCAA Quarterfinals. After finishing 7-3 in Atlantic Coast Conference play, the Tar Heels earned the right to host the first and second rounds of the NCAA Team Championships. Carolina opened the tournament with a 4-0 victory over Richmond. UNC then defeated rival Duke 4-0 for a trip to the Sweet Sixteen. Playing in just its third Sweet Sixteen, Carolina opened with a 4-0 upset of fourth-ranked Vanderbilt. The Tar Heels finished one win away from the Final Four, falling to Clemson 4-1 in the quarterfinals.

Kalbas served as head coach of William & Mary's women's tennis team for 11 years before accepting the head coaching position at Carolina in the summer of 2003. At William & Mary, Kalbas posted a 214-85 overall record and was named the 1998 ITA National Coach of the Year.

Kalbas' teams have seen great success against ranked opponents. Since 1995 his teams have defeated 20 teams ranked in the Top 10 of the ITA poll, highlighted by a win over No. 2 Florida in 2006. Under Kalbas' direction, 14 of his teams have been ranked in the Top 15 in the country.

Kalbas was a four-time Colonial Athletic Association Women's Tennis Coach of the Year, winning the honor in 1995, 1996, 1999 and 2002. He was recognized as the ITA Regional Coach of the Year four times during his tenure at W&M.

He piloted his William & Mary teams to nine CAA Championships, the most recent being in 2002. Kalbas also coached William & Mary to two NCAA quarterfinals appearances. Under Kalbas' direction at William & Mary and Carolina, he has coached a total of nine All-Americans, the most recent being the NCAA champion doubles tandem of Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long in 2006 and 2007. Carolina placed two players on the 2007 All-ACC team, Long and freshman Katrina Tsang. Long was also named the 2007 ITA Senior Player of the Year. Kalbas helped guide three singles players (Long, Tsang and Sanaz Marand) and two doubles pairs (Anundsen/Long, Marand/Caitlin Collins) to NCAA play in 2007, marking the most Tar Heels ever to earn invites to the NCAA individual tournaments. Carolina also had more NCAA participants than any school in the nation in 2007.

In 2005, Kendall Cline and Aniela Mojzis both received national awards from the ITA. Cline was awarded the ITA/Cissie Leary Sportsmanship Award and Mojzis received the ITA/Arthur Ashe Award for Leadership and Sportsmanship, marking the first time in ITA history that one school won both awards. Mojzis is the third player to win the national Arthur Ashe Award under Kalbas' leadership. Carolijn van Rossum and Jessyca Arthur both won the award while Kalbas was coaching at William & Mary.

In 2007, Kalbas was tabbed to lead the United States team at the 2007 Pan American Games in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, July 13-29. Kalbas fronted a team of four of the nation's best collegiate players, including Atlantic Coast Conference stand-out and NCAA champion Audra Cohen of Miami.

Kalbas is a 1989 graduate of the University of Notre Dame, where he was a four-year varsity player, playing at the No. 1 and No. 2 spots in singles. He was captain of the Fighting Irish men's tennis team his senior year and received the most valuable player and sportsmanship awards from Notre Dame. After graduation, Kalbas served as an assistant coach for the Notre Dame men's tennis team from 1989-92. During his tenure, the Fighting Irish made their way to the Top 20 for the first time in school history, and, in 1992, the Irish reached the NCAA Championship match.

Kalbas and his wife, Suzanne, reside in Chapel Hill with their two children, Sarah, 17, and Joseph, 8.

Tari Ann Toro is in her fifth season as assistant coach for the Tar Heel women's tennis team. Over the course of Toro's tenure at UNC, the team has garnered a 92-35 dual match record and made four consecutive trips to the NCAA Tournament, reaching the quarterfinals in 2005.

With Toro as assistant coach, the Tar Heels have had nine All-ACC selections over four seasons, with Jenna Long and Katrina Tsang earning honors in 2007. Long and fellow NCAA doubles champion Sara Anundsen were All-America honorees in 2006 and 2007, Aniela Mojzis was an All-America selection in both 2004 and 2005, and Kendall Cline also earned All-America honors in 2005. For her efforts during the 2005-06 season, Toro was named the ITA Southeast Region Assistant Coach of the Year.

A 1999 graduate of the College of William & Mary with a degree in psychology, Toro was a member of the women's tennis team there from 1995 to 1999, playing under the tutelage of current UNC head coach Brian Kalbas. After graduating, Toro was the assistant coach at the University of Miami from 2000 to 2003 and then came to Carolina as an assistant coach in 2003.

At William & Mary, Toro was one of the most decorated players in school history. She posted the sixth-best singles record in W&M history at 111-48 and her doubles record was also one of the best in the program at 96-27 overall. Playing primarily at the No. 1 and No. 2 singles spots and the No. 1 doubles flight her senior year, Toro was named the Colonial Athletic Association Player of the Year. In 1999, Toro was named not only to the All-CAA team, but was also honored as the Mark H. McCormack Most Valuable Player by her teammates.

Toro was also honored with the William & Mary's President Award, an honor given to the student-athlete who has shown leadership, sportsmanship and excellence throughout their career.

"Tari Ann always strived to improve and was extremely coachable," says head coach Brian Kalbas. "She brings the same dedication as a coach as well as an enormous amount of experience. Combine that with her outstanding work ethic and ability to relate to the players, and we have one of the top assistant coaches in the country."

A native of Puerto Rico, Toro played in the Fed Cup competition the year after graduating from William & Mary. Toro's sister, Mari Michelle, graduated from the University of Miami where she was also a member of the women's tennis team.

Caitlin Collins is in her first season as a volunteer assistant for the Carolina women's tennis team after finishing her career as part of the most successful senior class in school history. Collins, an All-ACC performer in 2006, was a tri-captain with fellow seniors Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long in 2007. Collins was ranked as high as No. 46 in the nation in singles in 2006 and No. 24 in the nation in doubles in 2007.

A native of Lawrence, Kan., Collins tallied 83 singles wins and 124 doubles wins in her four years as a Tar Heel. Collins and teammate Sanaz Marand were a sparkling 28-11 in 2006-07 and qualified for the NCAA Doubles Championships, where they advanced to the round of 16. Collins was voted the team MVP in 2006 and was a member of the Veteran Leaders Program in the Carolina Leadership Academy while at UNC.

2008 SEASON PREVIEW

A third straight run to the NCAA Sweet 16 and the first NCAA title in school history is a tough act to follow, but that's exactly what 2007-08 has in store for the University of North Carolina women's tennis team. Despite the losses of senior NCAA champions Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long as well as former All-ACC senior Caitlin Collins, the Tar Heels are prepared for another highly successful campaign.

RETURNING STARTERS

Long (No. 1), Collins (No. 3) and Anundsen (No. 4) made up half of the regular dual-match starting lineup in 2007, but the Tar Heels return three extremely talented starters who should help lead UNC in 2008.

Sophomore Katrina Tsang was one of the nation's top freshmen in 2006-07, compiling an impressive 33-11 singles mark that included an 18-8 record in dual match play primarily at the No. 2 position. Tsang earned All-ACC honors after a 9-1 conference season and was named the ITA Southeast Region Player To Watch. The Raleigh, N.C., product was ranked as high as No. 19 in the nation during 2007 and earned a trip to the NCAA singles championship, where she advanced to the second round. Tsang missed most of the fall season due an injury sustained during offseason training, but is expected to be 100% for the spring.

Junior Austin Smith had her second straight outstanding year in 2006-07, posting a 31-14 singles record and 25-13 doubles mark playing mostly with fellow junior Meg Fanjoy. Smith was one of the most versatile players in the Tar Heel lineup in 2007, posting wins at every position from No. 2 to No. 5 in dual match play. The Hilton Head Island, S.C., lefty was nationally ranked throughout 2007, including a high mark of No. 33.

Sophomore Sanaz Marand was the winningest Carolina singles player in 2006-07, posting a sparkling record of 39-10 that included a 25-5 mark in dual matches. Despite playing primarily at No. 6, Marand was ranked as high as No. 45 in the nation in 2007 and earned a bid to the NCAA singles championship. Marand is also an accomplished doubles player, having finished 2006-07 with a record of 28-11. Playing with Caitlin Collins, Marand was ranked as high as No. 17 in doubles and advanced to the NCAA doubles championship round of 16.

OTHER RETURNERS WILL PROVIDE VALUABLE DEPTH

A host of Tar Heels will be looked upon to fill out the remainder of the lineup. Alexandra Jurewitz is Carolina's lone senior in 2008 and has three seasons of experience to draw from. Her most extensive dual match action came during her freshman season, when she appeared in seven matches at the No. 6 position.

Junior Meg Fanjoy has been a doubles standout for two seasons in Chapel Hill and will likely see more time in singles play in 2008. The Statesville, N.C., has posted doubles records of 30-9 and 22-12 over the last two years, playing primarily with Smith. As a freshman, Fanjoy clinched one of the biggest wins of the season with a singles victory against No. 6 Northwestern.

Laura Reichert is another junior with dual match experience who should contribute in 2008. Reichert was 5-1 in singles dual match play in 2007 with a victory in the NCAA Tournament win over Marist, and saw plenty of action as a freshman. Reichert played mostly at No. 5 as a freshman, posting an overall singles record of 25-11.

After missing two consecutive spring seasons due to injury, junior Sophie Grabinski will finally get the chance to get on the court in 2008. The former Indiana state champion had a strong fall and will be a valuable addition for UNC. Junior Hanes Harris has also been beset by injuries, missing the entire 2007 fall season after surgery.

Rounding out the Tar Heel roster are sophomore Linzee Mabrey and freshman Jelena Durisic, who each had solid fall seasons. The 6-2 Durisic, the team's only newcomer, should add plenty of power to the Carolina lineup.

THE SCHEDULE

As has become custom under head coach Brian Kalbas, Carolina will once again play one of the nation's toughest schedules in 2008. The Tar Heels will face at least 12 teams that reached the NCAA Tournament in 2007 this season. Carolina will also participate in the ITA National Indoor Championships in Madison, Wis., and potentially face several more ranked opponents.

Highlighting the non-conference slate is the continuation of annual series with national powers Northwestern, Florida and Notre Dame. After traveling to face these giants in 2007, Carolina will welcome each of these opponents to the Cone-Kenfield Tennis Center in 2008. The spring season will begin on Jan. 18 with a home doubleheader against UNC Greensboro and Elon. In addition to the ITA tournament, the Tar Heels will also take a Spring Break trip to San Juan, Puerto Rico, this season to face East Carolina, Princeton and Illinois.

THE ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

After producing the NCAA team champions (Georgia Tech), singles champion (Miami's Audra Cohen) and doubles champions (UNC's Anundsen and Long) in 2007, the Atlantic Coast Conference is now firmly established as the nation's top women's tennis league, and that trend should continue in 2008.

Nine ACC teams advanced to the NCAA Tournament field of 64 last season, including Sweet 16 participants Miami, UNC, Georgia Tech and Clemson. Twenty-one ACC singles players are ranked in the national Top 125 entering 2008, led by No. 5 Kristi Miller of Georgia Tech. Another 14 doubles tandems from the ACC are ranked in the pre-season top 60, including two of the top three duos in the nation.

Carolina opens ACC play on March 8 with a home match against Maryland followed by Boston College a day later. Other home league matches include Georgia Tech, Clemson, NC State and Wake Forest. The Tar Heels will play five ACC road matches in 2008, highlighted by a trip to Duke on April 8.

Katrina Tsang started her Carolina career by advancing to the ITA All-American Championships main draw. She would later earn All-ACC honors.

Carolina spent Spring Break 2007 in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Sara Anundsen defeated No. 66 Lauren Liu in straight sets to clinch the 4-3 win at No. 6 Northwestern.

The Tar Heels spent a week in paradise and picked up wins over Gonzaga and Hawaii.

Carolina clinched a third straight trip to the NCAA Sweet 16 with a home win over Duke.

Caitlin Collins and Sanaz Marand were ranked as high as No. 17 in the nation and earned a bid to the NCAA doubles tournament.

Sanaz Marand was one of three Tar Heels to earn a bid to the NCAA singles tournament.

Austin Smith compiled a 31-14 singles record in 2006-07 and was nationally ranked throughout the season.

Jenna Long was named ITA Senior Player of the Year and earned All-America honors in singles and doubles.

Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long (middle with trophies) capped an incredible year with UNC's first-ever tennis NCAA title.

2006-07 SEASON RECAP

With a trio of senior captains returning for the 2006-07 season, expectations were high for the North Carolina tennis team. The 2005-06 campaign had seen the Tar Heels advance to the NCAA Sweet 16 for the second year in a row and juniors Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long earn All-America honors for their run to the NCAA Doubles semifinals. But 2006-07 would prove to be even more outstanding for the program, as UNC had unprecedented success both regionally and nationally, culminating in the first women's tennis NCAA title in school history.

STRONG FALL SETS THE TONE FOR 2007

The highlight of the fall season for UNC was the ITA All-American Championships in Pacific Palisades, Calif. The tournament was a coming-out party for freshman Katrina Tsang. The Raleigh, N.C., product won six consecutive matches to advance through prequalifying and qualifying draws and advance to the main draw. Tsang then defeated No. 7 Amanda Fink of USC before falling in the round of 16. The doubles duo of Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long opened what would become a dream season by being ranked No. 1 in the nation in the ITA preseason poll.

TAR HEELS IMPRESS AT ITA NATIONAL INDOORS ONCE AGAIN

Carolina opened the spring dual-match season in impressive fashion, scoring five straight dominating wins at home, including a 6-1 defeat of No. 31 Tennessee. After an extremely tight loss at No. 2 Florida, UNC was once again invited to the ITA National Indoor Championships.

The tournament, which annually features 16 of the nation's top teams, was a great success for the Tar Heels for a second straight year. Carolina registered wins over a pair of top-15 squads in No. 15 TCU and No. 11 Cal. UNC's only loss at the event was a 4-3 decision to No. 6 Georgia Tech, a team that Carolina would see plenty of in 2007.

CAROLINA CONTINUES TO BE A NATIONAL CONTENDER

After returning home to easily dispatch both Minnesota and No. 38 Indiana by matching 7-0 scores, the Tar Heels hit the road once again to compete with two of the best teams in the Midwest. First up was a trip to South Bend, Ind., to face head coach Brian Kalbas' alma mater, No. 2 Notre Dame. Despite being forced to play with a makeshift lineup due to an illness to Jenna Long, the Tar Heels took the doubles point from the Irish before losing a tight 5-2 decision.

Two days later Carolina ventured to Evanston, Ill., for a meeting with No. 6 Northwestern. The Tar Heels took the doubles point and got singles wins at Nos. 4, 5 and 6 to earn a hard-fought 4-3 win. Anundsen defeated No. 66 Lauren Liu in straight sets at No. 4 to clinch the victory, Carolina's fifth of the season over a ranked opponent.

TAR HEELS SPEND SPRING BREAK IN PARADISE

After opening ACC play with home wins over Virginia and Virginia Tech, Carolina escaped to Honolulu, Hawaii, for Spring Break. During a week of sun and relaxation, the Tar Heels managed to find time for some tennis as well. Carolina easily dispatched Hawaii and Gonzaga in 7-0 wins before heading home for the bulk of the 2007 schedule.

UNC FINISHES DEEP ACC SCHEDULE IN IMPRESSIVE FASHION

After returning to the mainland, Carolina continued its longest road trip of the season with a pair of ACC matches. A pair of 6-1 wins over No. 61 Maryland in College Park and Boston College improved UNC's league record to 4-1. That trip was followed by the toughest two days of the season - a pair of losses at No. 7 Georgia Tech and No. 8 Clemson.

Returning to Chapel Hill proved to be just what the Tar Heels needed, as Carolina defeated No. 17 Florida State, 7-0, and No. 9 Miami, 5-2, the following weekend. The win over the Hurricanes was particularly impressive as Carolina won all three doubles matches and four of six singles matches against the defending national runners-up. The win was also the 300th dual match victory for head coach Brian Kalbas. Sara Anundsen, who had a perfect record on the week, would earn ACC Player of the Week honors for her efforts.

The 2007 regular season ended in ideal fashion for Carolina, as the Tar Heels made short work of their two biggest rivals. After holding off No. 42 NC State in Raleigh, UNC swept No. 18 Duke, 4-0, on Senior Day in Chapel Hill. The win over the Blue Devils would give Carolina the Carlyle Cup point allotted to women's tennis for 2007, and clinched a tie for third in the hyper-competitive ACC.

MORE POSTSEASON SUCCESS FOR UNC

Carolina avenged an earlier loss to No. 17 Wake Forest in the quarterfinals of the ACC Tournament, but fell for a third time on the season to No. 5 Georgia Tech in the semifinals. That left the Tar Heels waiting for an at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament.

The bid came on May 1, when UNC was chosen as one of 16 host sites for the 2007 event. Carolina welcomed Marist and LSU to the Cone-Kenfield Tennis Center, as well as familiar foe Duke. After the Tar Heels and Blue Devils took care of their first round opponents, the stage was set for one of the most exciting matches in school history.

Carolina needed little motivation to get up for its arch-rival, but the fact that Duke had ended the Tar Heels' season the year before only helped to fuel the rivalry. Much of the drama of the match came during the crucial doubles point. After the two teams split at Nos. 2 and 3, the point would be decided by UNC's Anundsen and Long and Duke's Daniela Bercek and Melissa Mang. The Tar Heel duo fell behind 6-1 and was facing a break at love-40 in the eighth game. But the Carolina rallied, eventually holding serve. Anundsen and Long proceeded to win three more games to make it 6-5. The match would ultimately end in a tiebreak, with UNC prevailing 7-2 to clinch the doubles point.

The momentum of the doubles win carried over into singles action, as Carolina won the first set in five of six matches. Duke briefly tied the score at 1, but it would be all UNC the rest of the way, as Long, Sanaz Marand and Austin Smith claimed straight-set victories to clinch the match and send the Tar Heels to the NCAA Championships in Athens, Ga.

ANUNDSEN AND LONG GO THE DISTANCE

UNC's time in Athens began with extreme disappointment, as the Tar Heels lost a heart-breaking 4-3 decision to No. 6 Notre Dame in the Sweet 16. But that disappointment would quickly be forgotten by the success of the individual tournaments.

Carolina received three singles bids (Long, Marand and Tsang) and two doubles bids (Anundsen/Long, Collins/Marand) to the NCAA Individual events, the most in school history and more than any other school in the country. Long and Marand lost in the first round of the singles tournament, while Tsang made a second round exit. Collins and Marand advanced to the doubles round of 16, but falling to leave only Anundsen and Long remaining.

The Tar Heel tandem opened its title run with a 6-4, 6-3 win over Alex Haney and Melissa Koning of Auburn. Anundsen and Long, the No. 2 seed in the event, then squeaked by VCU's Olga Borisova and Marianna Yuferova, 7-6 (5), 7-5, to advance to the quarterfinals. A resounding 6-2, 6-0 victory over Notre Dame's Catrina and Christian Thompson, put the Tar Heel pair back where its season ended a year earlier, in the national semifinals.

Anundsen and Long moved to within one win of UNC's first women's tennis national championship with a 6-2, 1-6, 6-3 win over fourth-seeded Ana Cetnik and Anna Sydorska of TCU in the semis to set up a 1 vs. 2 matchup with top-seeded Megan Moulton-Levy and Katarina Zoricic of William & Mary in the final.

Things got off to an ominous start for UNC, as Moulton-Levy and Zoricic scored a dominant 6-1 win in the opening set. That loss was just the second dropped set of the tournament for the Tar Heels, and the first time they had failed to win the opener.

But just as they did after dropping the second set to TCU, Anundsen and Long responded in impressive fashion. The Carolina tandem would lose just four games the rest of the way, winning the final two sets by matching scores of 6-2 and 6-2. Anundsen and Long finished their senior year with a record of 29-6, including a 24-3 mark in dual match play. In addition to being NCAA champions, the pair has earned two-time All-America honors for their accomplishments in doubles action.

Through its teaching, research and engagement, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill serves as an educational and economic beacon for the people of North Carolina and beyond.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was the nation's first state university to open its doors and the only public university to award degrees in the 18th century.

The American Society of Landscape Architects selected Carolina as one of the most beautifully landscaped spots in the country. That listing is among the praise affirming the charm of mighty oaks, majestic quadrangles, brick sidewalks and other landscaping synonymous with the campus.

Today, the campus is undergoing an unprecedented physical transformation. The North Carolina Higher Education Bond Referendum has meant more than $515 million for renovations and new buildings. The university is investing funds from non-state sources, including private gifts and overhead receipts from faculty research grants, for other buildings essential to excellence. The resulting $1.8 billion capital campaign is among the largest underway at any major American university.

nt, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill serves as an educational and economic beacon for the people of North Carolina and beyond.

Recently completed buildings include:

- FedEx Global Education Building, which brings several key international activities under one roof and advances a major academic priority. The building is creating a vibrant hub of international studies, academic services, research, public service and cultural exchange.

- Memorial Hall reopened in 2005 after a three-year, $18 million renovation designed to make the famed venue a focal point for the performing arts across the region. Memorial Hall hosts the Carolina Performing Arts Series. Fall 2007 performers will include the legendary Aretha Franklin and jazz vocalist Dianne Reeves.

- The Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History opened in 2004, becoming one of the few such facilities nationwide combining cultural programs, research, community service, teaching and learning under one roof. Funded by private donations, the Stone Center contains classrooms, a 10,000-volume library, seminar rooms, an art gallery, dance studio and spaces for performances, lectures, meetings and offices.

Franklin Street is the heart of Chapel Hill. Running along the north edge of campus, it provides a mix of restaurants, stores and nightlife and also is the site of celebrations and gatherings. Tar Heel fans mobbed the downtown to celebrate UNC's NCAA men's basketball championship in 2005, and each year Halloween festivities draw thousands of revelers.

The best recipe for a college town — beyond coffeehouses, live music and browse-worthy bookstores — calls for equal measures of youth, academic vigor and civic pride. Towns actually appreciate the college crowd, and vice versa. “Both wind up enhancing each other,” says Edward Castard, lead author of The Princeton Review’s The Best Colleges. As fall sets campus loose starting with life, Castard calls 10 worth a visit.

Rarely can 35,000 students dive into a community and have things work out so swimmingly — and in a state capital, no less. The students of seven colleges meld with politicos and a slew of musicians. Sixth Street renews with one music club after another, though “you might have trouble finding a pollen land.” City status honors loans from pioneer Stephen F. keeping the tar heels healthy

UNC Sports Medicine and Strength & Conditioning

The Tar Heels' medical care and conditioning is overseen by professionals who are among the best in their fields.

Dr. Tim Taft, Director of Sports Medicine at UNC, leads a top-notch staff that works to keep student-athletes healthy and to rehabilitate any injuries quickly and successfully. Dr. Kelly Waicus is the head physician for the women's tennis team.

Athletic training staff members are present at all workouts to insure that injuries receive prompt and proper care. Sally Mays is the Head Athletic Trainer for women's tennis and is assisted by athletic training graduate students Jeff Hudson and Sonia Gysland and undergraduate assistant Jake Friedman.

North Carolina's players benefit from a comprehensive program designed to keep them in peak physical condition. The Tar Heels conduct their strength training in the Olympic Sport weight room at UNC's Kenan Fieldhouse. Steve Gisselman, Assistant Strength and Conditioning Coach, is in his fifth year as a full-time strength coach at UNC, and is assisted by Melissa Glyptis and Eric Biener.

The Tar Heels make use of modern strength, flexibility and conditioning methods in a year-round training cycle, the result of which is a superbly conditioned team.

Dr. Kelly Waicus
Head Team Physician

Dr. Kelly Waicus has been a team physician at the University of North Carolina since 2005. Originally from Moorestown, N.J., she received her undergraduate degree from Duke University followed by her medical degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1995. After completing a residency in Pediatrics at Children's Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio, she returned to Chapel Hill for her Sports Medicine fellowship which she completed in 2001. She is board certified in Pediatrics and has a certificate of added qualification in Sports Medicine.

Dr. Waicus is the primary team physician for volleyball, men's and women's cross country, men's and women's track and field, women's tennis, women's lacrosse, cheerleading, and JV basketball.

Dr. Tim Taft

Dr. Tim Taft is the Director of Sports Medicine at UNC.

A native of St. Louis, Taft received his A.B. degree from Princeton University in 1964 and his M.D. from the University of Missouri in 1969. He completed his residency in orthopaedic surgery at Carolina in 1974.

Taft holds one of only two endowed professorships in sports medicine in the United States, the Max Novich Distinguished Professor of Sports Medicine chair. He is the president of the Council of Delegates for the American Orthopaedic Society for Sports Medicine.

Sally Mays
Head Athletic Trainer

Sally Mays has served as one of the staff athletic trainers for Fetzer Athletic Training Room which provides sports medicine services for twenty four varsity sports since 1997. She is the Head Athletic Trainer for wrestling, volleyball and men's and women's tennis. She also provides care to patients in the Physical Therapy/Athletic Training Clinic at Campus Health Services.

Mays received a bachelor's degree in secondary education and athletic training from Washington State University in 1986. She then received a master's degree in athletic training from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1989. For five years she was the Head Athletic Trainer and Strength and Conditioning Coach for the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. She also taught athletic training classes and supervised undergraduate athletic trainers in an internship program.

Steve Gisselman

Assistant Strength and Conditioning Coach

Steve Gisselman joined the UNC strength and conditioning program in 1999 and has been a full-time assistant since 2003. He assists the Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports, Greg Gatz, in the daily operation of the Olympic Sport weight room. His primary responsibilities include developing and implementing strength and conditioning programs for field hockey, women's lacrosse, softball, women's tennis, women's golf, men's golf, and the multi-event athletes and jumpers in track and field.

In his tenure at UNC Gisselman has worked with teams that have won ACC Championships in field hockey, track and field, swimming, men's golf and women's tennis. Along with those championship teams he has worked with multiple individual ACC champions and NCAA All-Americans and has been privileged enough to work with a select few NCAA champions and Olympians.

Gisselman utilizes technological innovations to enhance the functional assessment of each athlete and to aid in designing exercise prescriptions for improving athletic performance and concomitantly reducing the incidence of injury. He has incorporated digital media and a number of computer software programs to improve his coaching abilities since arriving at UNC.

Melissa Glyptis

Assistant Strength and Conditioning Coach

Melissa Glyptis is primarily responsible for the development and implementation of strength programs for cheer-leading, men's and women's cross country, men's and women's fencing, gymnastics, rowing, and men's tennis. She is also responsible for conditioning women's tennis, men's and women's fencing and gymnastics and assists with other sports' strength and conditioning programs under the direction of Director Greg Gatz.

Glyptis earned her M.S. from the University of Akron in Sport Science and Coaching. She received her B.S. from Kent State University majoring in Physical Education/Exercise Science, with a concentration as an Exercise Specialist.

Eric Biener

Assistant Strength and Conditioning Coach

Eric Biener has been part of the University of North Carolina's Olympic Sports strength and conditioning staff since 2005. His primary responsibilities include assisting with the design and implementation of strength and conditioning programming for baseball, men's lacrosse, men's and women's soccer, track and field (sprint/hurdle), volleyball, and wrestling. He also assists with the men's and women's fencing teams, as well as rowing.

While gaining experience in the field, Biener earned his bachelor's degree from UCF in Sports & Fitness (2005) and his master's degree from the University of North Carolina in Exercise Physiology (2007). He also holds certification from the National Strength and Conditioning Association (CSCS).

leadership academy

developing world-class leaders

As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Carolina Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Academy consists of three programs:

CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the freshman year. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore freshmen are taught skills to effectively lead themselves.

Training consists of monthly meetings featuring keynote speakers and small group discussion. Upperclass student-athletes serve as peer mentors and discussion leaders. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices, ethics and character building.

Rising Stars Program

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn and reinforce leadership principles and share successes, frustrations and lessons.

Carolina CREED

As a University of North Carolina student-athlete, I pledge to make every effort to abide by the Carolina CREED as a show of my commitment to the University, the Department of Athletics, my team and myself.

C - I will know and embrace the tradition and CULTURE of this great University and its athletics department

R - I will RESPECT myself and others

E - I will pursue EXCELLENCE in my academic work by striving to reach my academic potential while preparing for a career of significance

Brent Blanton
Academic Advisor

Brent Blanton joined the University of North Carolina's Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes in January of 2005 after three years at the University of Southern California. Prior to working at USC, he worked for three years at Florida State University.

At Carolina, Blanton oversees the Olympic sports program, including directly advising the men's golf, wrestling, women's soccer, field hockey, softball and women's tennis programs. He also oversees the Academic Team Captains and tutorial programs.

Blanton and his wife, Robin, have a son, Cary, and twin daughters, Ashlyn and Abigail.

The Academic Support Program assists student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals. "Our young people are students first and athletes second and that will always be the case at the University," says UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "That is a credit to our coaches, administrators and support staff, but most of all, our student-athletes. Their accomplishments in the classroom are very impressive."

The Academic Support Program is housed primarily in the Pope Academic Support Center, which is equipped with study facilities, tutorial rooms, a computer lab, a 128-seat auditorium, counselors' offices, and state-of-the-art video and computer equipment. At the center, students meet with staff to discuss course selection, major and career exploration, academic progress and academic eligibility.

Faculty Athletics Representative

Dr. Jack Evans is in his 11th year as UNC's faculty athletics representative to the Atlantic Coast Conference and the NCAA.

A former dean of the Kenan-Flagler Business School, he is the Phillip Hettleman Professor of operations, technology and innovation management. He currently serves as Executive Director of Carolina North.

Evans is a graduate of Cornell University, where he earned his undergraduate, master's and doctorate degrees.

The Cone-Kenfield Tennis Center, which is home to both the women's and men's tennis teams, was dedicated in September 1992 in keeping with the University of North Carolina's tradition of offering quality facilities for its student-athletes. The indoor/outdoor facility is adjacent to the UNC Finley Golf Course and behind the Friday Center on N.C. Highway 54 in Chapel Hill.

The facility is named for Ceasar Cone, II, a 1928 alumnus of the University who played tennis at Carolina and was a great benefactor of the school. The center also bears the name of John Kenfield, the legendary Tar Heel men's tennis coach who had a sterling record of 434-30-2 from 1928-55. Kenfield's teams won 15 Southern Conference and two Atlantic Coast Conference team championships during his tenure. He coached the likes of Bitsy Grant, Wilmer Hines and Vic Seixas at UNC, and his 1948 team finished third in the country. Kenfield was Carolina's first-ever tennis coach, and he took over the leadership of the UNC team in time to coach Cone in his senior season in 1928.

The $2 million complex includes:

- Six indoor and 12 outdoor, lighted hard surface tennis courts
- Spectator viewing on the upper level of the indoor center
- Men's and women's varsity dressing facilities
- Public and visitor dressing facilities
- Fully-equipped weight-training rooms for both varsity teams

Other recent additions include an electronic scoreboard for the outdoor courts, additional stadium seating at the outdoor courts and a new electronic scoreboard for the indoor courts beginning in 2008. UNC has hosted NCAA Tournament play in each of the last six years, with the Tar Heel women advancing to the NCAA Sweet 16 after home victories in each of the last three seasons. In the four years under head coach Brian Kalbas, UNC has posted an overall record of 50-7 at the Cone-Kenfield Tennis Center.

Dick Baddour
Director of Athletics

Dick Baddour, a 1966 graduate of the University of North Carolina, was named Director of Athletics on June 25, 1997. In his eight years as director, the UNC Department of Athletics has undergone a number of changes, yet remains one of the premiere programs in the Atlantic Coast Conference and in the nation.

The Goldsboro, N.C., native heads a program that with 28 varsity sports is the largest in the ACC. Carolina prides itself on a strong overall athletic program and finished ninth in the 2004-05 Director's Cup, a measure of NCAA postseason success. The Tar Heels, inaugural winners of the Cup in 1994, have finished among the top 10 teams nine times in the competition's 12 years.

Baddour is in his 39th year of continuous service to the university. He graduated from UNC in 1966 and was appointed Assistant Dean of Men in 1967. He served as Assistant Dean of Admissions and Assistant Dean of the UNC School of Law and also earned a Master of Arts degree in education prior to joining the athletic department in 1986.

In 2001, he received the Distinguished Service Medal from the UNC General Alumni Association.

Active in Chapel Hill community affairs, he is a past president of the Public School Foundation and has served on the Parks and Recreation Commission. He and his wife, Lynda, have two sons, Allen and David, and a daughter, Jennifer.

Dr. Beth Miller
Sr. Associate Director of Athletics

Beth Miller is in her 21st year supervising North Carolina's highly-successful 26-team Olympic Sports program and serves as UNC's Senior Woman Administrator. She is a 1968 alumna of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She has a master's from ASU and earned a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State in 1974.

From 1969-72, Miller served as the head volleyball and basketball coach at Appalachian State. She became head volleyball coach at UNC in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four consecutive ACC titles from 1980-83 and five postseason tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina from 1978-79.

In 1979, Miller was named Athletic Business Manager. She retired from coaching volleyball after 1983, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. She has overseen UNC's Olympic Sports program since 1985.

Miller currently serves on a number of Atlantic Coast Conference committees, including those for women's basketball, women's golf and volleyball. She chairs the Awards Committee and is a member of the Committee on Equity. She also serves on UNC's Housing Advisory Board.

Miller is a native of Landis, N.C.

Department of Athletics Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics has offered high quality athletic programs for many years. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to the University.

The mission of the Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop, and to serve the interests of the University by complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life. Coaches, as educators, are foundational to this process. In keeping with the University's efforts to offer programs of regional and national acclaim, the Department's athletic programs strive for competitive excellence within the Atlantic Coast Conference or other similar institutions. Through its athletic programs, the University seeks to unite students, faculty, staff and alumni in a common and shared experience. The Department seeks to contribute to the diversity of the University by offering opportunities for enhanced racial/ethnic, cultural and geographic representation.

To fulfill this mission, the Department, with the approval of the Board of Trust, has developed principles of operation to provide guidance and direction to its personnel. This Mission Statement and accompanying principles require strong dedication and commitment from all who participate in, coach in and support the Department of Athletics.

Department of Athletics Statement on Gambling

The mission of the Department of Athletics is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop. In keeping with the Department's mission and the University's commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the Department of Athletics strongly condemns the influence of gambling on intercollegiate athletics.

Student gambling is a significant issue on college campuses. Student-athlete involvement in gambling has produced many tragic situations, both for student-athletes and the universities they represent. Student-athletes often compete in contests that generate interest from those involved in gambling and, possibly, organized crime. If given the opportunity, those interests will not hesitate to exploit the position student-athletes hold on college campuses. As such, the University of North Carolina is firmly opposed to all forms of gambling and bribery related to intercollegiate athletics.

To fulfill its educational obligation, the Department provides a gambling education program to all its student-athletes and departmental staff members. This statement and the educational program are reflections of the Department's commitment to keeping intercollegiate athletics free from the influences of gambling and its related activities.

The Department requires its staff members and student-athletes to adhere to NCAA, state and federal laws regarding gambling. In the interest of fair competition and the growth and development of student-athletes, the Department strongly urges its friends and supporters to refrain from gambling/betting on contests involving collegiate competition and to abide by state and federal laws.

The women's tennis program has a long-standing tradition of excellence in the overall women's athletics program at the University of North Carolina, beginning with legendary head coach Frances Hogan and continuing into the first decade of the New Millennium highlighted by standout players the likes of Marlene Mejia, Kate Pinchbeck, Kendall Cline, Aniela Mojzis, Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long. Although Hogan was involved at the roots of the program, it has been players of more recent vintage who have kept Carolina in the national spotlight.

Hogan, the former women's athletic director at Carolina, was the guiding force during the game's early years on the Chapel Hill campus. As the first head coach of Tar Heel women's tennis teams since the 1940s, she spurred interest in the sport by instituting North Carolina Women's Tennis Day in 1958, a yearly fixture for collegiate and prep aficionados of the sport around the state. Despite limitations on match play, Hogan was instrumental in ensuring the team played a full schedule. Her tennis team was the first women's sports team at the University to travel out of the state to compete. In 1970, prior to the advent of Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women-sponsored women's tennis at the collegiate level which did not come until 1971, Hogan coached the late Laura DuPont to the United States Lawn Tennis Association's collegiate singles championship. During that same year, Carolina posted a national ranking of sixth place in the USLTA collegiate ratings.

Eight women's sports at North Carolina, including the tennis program, were officially elevated to varsity status in 1971, when Carolina became a charter member of the newly-formed Association For Intercollegiate Athletics For Women. The eight sports as varsity entities were under the supervision of the Physical Education Department until October 1974, when the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics took over supervision of all Carolina varsity sports—men's and women's at UNC.

That fall, Camey Timberlake was awarded the first-ever women's athletic scholarship for any sport at the University. She went on to capture the Atlantic Coast Conference championship at No. 2 singles during the fall of 1977 in the first-ever ACC women's sports championship event of any kind.

After the sport came under the direction of the athletic department, Hogan coached the first two tennis teams to outstanding 13-1 and 13-2 records in 1975 and 1976, respectively. During the 1976 season, Hogan guided the Tar Heels to a No. 16 national ranking and the team won the Southern Collegiates in Columbus, Miss. by defeating Rollins College in the final.

When Hogan retired from coaching in 1976 to concentrate full-time on her senior women's administrator duties, she was replaced by Kitty Harrison, who continued to build the success of the Tar Heel program for over two decades. Eight of Harrison's 21 teams were ranked among the Top 25 nationally. Under Harrison's direction, Carolina won four ACC championships in a row in the 1970s and 1980s and finished as the league runner-up four other times. Harrison retired after the 1997-98 season as the winningest tennis coach in ACC history at the time in terms of dual-match victories.

Carolina was a force to be reckoned with during the days of AIAW competition from 1971 until the organization was disbanded in 1982. The Tar Heels won the NCAIAW Tournament three straight times from 1979 to 1981. In 1982, they avenged a 6-3 loss to Duke in the state tournament by defeating the Blue Devils 7-2 to capture the AIAW Southern Region II title. The Tar Heels earned a bid to the AIAW national tournament three times, finishing 15th in 1979, 11th in 1981 and 17th in 1982.

There were numerous outstanding players during Harrison's tenure, including three first-team All-America selections. Kathy Barton was an AIAW first-team All-America in 1982. Cinda Gurney, a three-time ACC Player of the Year, was an All-America in singles in both 1992 and 1993. Gurney and Alisha Portnoy combined to earn first-team All-America honors in doubles in 1993. As a senior, Gurney advanced to the NCAA championship match without losing a set in any of her five preliminary matches in the field of 64. She completed that year seventh individually in singles in the ITA rankings and achieved the highest rating ever by a Carolina player in singles when she was ranked third nationally in December of 1991.

Former Tar Heel men's tennis standout Roland Thornqvist, an All-America and ACC Player of the Year as a player at UNC, took over the team's coaching duties in 1998 and led UNC to its first ever NCAA Tournament berth and subsequent victory. Thornqvist spent three successful years at the helm of the Tar Heels, finishing with a 42-30 record and Carolina's first three NCAA tournament appearances in 1999, 2000 and 2001. Although only a sophomore in 2001, Marlene Mejia earned ITA All-America honors in singles, helping the Tar Heels earn a Top 20 ranking that season. Following the 2001 season, Thornqvist left Carolina to take over the coaching reigns at Florida.

Five years ago, under coach Jen Callen, the Tar Heels won the ACC Championship, advanced to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament for the first time in school history, finished fifth in the country, its highest ever ranking, and had a sparkling 25-5 record. Pinchbeck earned first-team All-America honors after advancing to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Championships.

In 2003, Brian Kalbas was named head coach. In his first four seasons, the Tar Heels have seen tremendous success. Kalbas has led the Tar Heels to NCAA Tournament appearances in each of his first four years at Carolina including in 2005 when the team matched its best finish in the NCAA Tournament ever, advancing to the quarterfinals. It was only the second time a Carolina team has gone that far in the tournament.

The Tar Heels have produced four All-America selections during Kalbas' tenure. Aniela Mojzis was an individual All-America selection in 2004 and teamed with Kendall Cline to earn All-America honors in doubles last year. Mojzis and Cline also earned national awards from the Intercollegiate Tennis Association in 2005. Cline was awarded the ITA/Cissie Leary Sportsmanship Award and Mojzis received the ITA/Arthur Ashe Award for Leadership and Sportsmanship, marking the first time in ITA history that one school won both awards. In 2006, Sara Anundsen and Jenna Long earned All-America honors as one of the nation's top doubles pairs. That tandem capped its stellar career by winning the 2007 NCAA Doubles Championship, giving Anundsen and Long the first NCAA tennis title in UNC history.

Over the years, Tar Heel players have won 33 conference titles in singles, including four by Gurney, three by Jennifer Balent and two each by Janet Shands, Margie Brown, Lloyd Hatcher and Gigi Neely. Brown teamed with Betsy Heidenberger for two of her three doubles titles, and the duo of Shands and Betty Baugh Harrison were as tough to beat in the late '70s as Gurney and Portnoy were during the 1992-93 season when they won the ITA Clay Court Doubles Championship, earned a national No. 1 ranking after the fall season and finished the spring season ranked fourth in the country.

Despite playing tough dual-match schedules, Carolina teams continue to win with regularity. Only on six occasions has the Tar Heel women's tennis program suffered a losing season while competing as a varsity sport.

The UNC women's and men's teams celebrate their double victory at the 2002 ACC Championships in Raleigh, N.C. The women's team beat Duke to end the Blue Devils' run of 14 consecutive ACC titles. The men's squad captured its 25th title with a victory over Georgia Tech.

A CAROLINA SCHOLARSHIP IS ABOUT MUCH MORE THAN WHAT HAPPENS ON THE FIELD

That's where Tar Heel student-athletes are in the public eye, of course. That's when we see them wearing their uniform, when they are stamped as Tar Heels across the chest.

But a scholarship is much more than an opportunity to throw or run or catch.

It's a chance to be a part of a world-class institution and open doors to learning that might not otherwise be available. It's a chance to walk down Franklin Street on a fall afternoon, with nowhere to be until the next morning.

Receiving a scholarship to Carolina means meeting a handful of new teammates—and a world full of new classmates. It means entering school uncertain of the words to "Hark the Sound" and leaving with your arms wrapped around your fellow seniors, singing every word.

They will remember the many victories, because part of coming to Carolina means being a winner. But long after those scores have faded—was it a 10-point win over Duke or a 12-point victory?—they'll remember the children they met during their holiday shopping project, the sign a fan made for them at one of their games, and the professor in that 8 a.m. class that made them want to get out of bed early every morning.

Scholarship recipients are Carolina athletes for only a few hours each week.

Your gifts enable them to be Tar Heels for a lifetime.

 THIS
