Supporting UNC Men's Soccer

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Nike, Inc. signed a new 10-year contract for Nike to be the exclusive supplier of athletic footwear, apparel and accessory products to the Tar Heels effective July 1, 2008. Nike will provide the athletic department with shoes, uniforms, coaching gear, balls and other equipment. In addition to the apparel and equipment, which constitutes the majority of the value of the contract, Nike will give the University $2 million to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund. Chancellor Holden Thorp says he will direct the funds to faculty support. Nike will also provide support for team tours, travel and hosting regular-season tournaments in several sports. The athletic department will also receive $1 million for signing the contract, with those funds being used to overhaul lighting and sound at the Dean E. Smith Center.

Previewing the 2013 Season

The University of North Carolina men's soccer program is arguably the most successful program in Division One soccer over the last five years. The 2012 campaign saw the Tar Heels finish one game shy of making their fifth-consecutive College Cup appearance, something only four programs have ever done in the sport.

Carolina did not go home empty handed, however, after owning a share of the 2012 ACC regular season crown for the fourth-straight season, the first time that has happened in the league since Virginia in 1989.

The Tar Heels lost a great deal of talent to a combination of graduation, the MLS and preseason injuries, but does return a strong nucleus on the backline that should provide some degree of comfort for third-year head coach Carlos Somoano.

Carolina will have a much different look in 2013 after not having the services of its top seven scorers and seven starters from last years club.

The outstanding trio of defenders, juniors Jordan McCrary and Boyd Okwuonu and sophomore Jonathan Campbell, will look to lead a roster that boasts a nice balance of 15 upperclassmen and 16 underclassmen.

Carolina brought in another top 5 recruiting class, as this year's group was tabbed No. 4 in the country by College Soccer News.

Up Top

Carolina appeared to have a strong core of returning goal scorers for the 2013 season, however, preseason injuries to 2012 leading scorer Andy Craven and Rob Lovejoy have left a huge hole up front in the attacking third.

In fact, with Craven and Lovejoy expected to miss most of or the entire season, no healthy player on the Carolina roster has ever scored more than two goals as a member of the Tar Heel program.

Enter junior transfer Tyler Engel. The Orland Park, Ill., product spent the last three seasons at SMU, and has two years of eligibility remaining. Engel scored a team-leading 23 points for the Mustangs in 2012, including eight goals and seven assists.

Somoano will also look to veterans Josh Rice and Cooper Vandermaas-Peeler to play significant minutes at the forward position this season. Rice is an experienced fifth-year senior with 42 career matches under his belt, while Vandermaas-Peeler is in his third season in Chapel Hill and opened up the eyes of the coaching staff with his play in Brazil last spring.

Redshirt junior Glen Long and redshirt freshman Nico Rittmeyer are also expected to be included in the rotation up front in 2013. True freshmen Eric O'Brien and Marco Sunol will battle for playing time in their first season at Carolina.

In The Middle

The midfield will also have a different look to it in 2013 with sophomore Raby George the only returning starter back in the mix. The steady Swede made 22 starts as a freshman, scoring once and assisting on another goal.

Gone from a year ago are the reigning back-to-back ACC Freshman of the Year award winners in the likes of Mikey Lopez and Danny Garcia. Both chose to leave early and move to the MLS with Lopez being a first-round pick.

Two others that played significant minutes in the midfield, Martin Murphy and Cameron Brown, graduated after combining for 22 starts in 2012.

Of the returning players, junior Verner Valimaa and sophomore Alex Olofson are the most experienced. Valimaa made 15 starts in his first season at Carolina after transferring from George Mason, while Olofson made nine starts, including all five postseason matches.

Seniors Chipper Root and Alex Walters, along with redshirt junior David Walden are all expected to contribute in the midfield throughout the year. Meanwhile, sophomores Nyambi Jabang and Nico Melo return for their second season and are expected to provide depth to the position.

A strong corps of freshman midfielders include Francesco Amorosino, Omar Holness, Warren Marshall and Colton Storm. Holness is a Jamaican native that has looked really strong in the preseason and will be counted on to play extended minutes in his first campaign with the Tar Heels.

Verner Valimaa

Jordan McCrary

On The Backline

Three starters, juniors Jordan McCrary and Boyd Okwuonu, and Freshman All-America Jonathan Campbell, are back from a defense that allowed only seven goals a year ago.

McCrary is a dynamic outside back that has no issue pushing his game to the offense third of the field. He has started 47 games in his Carolina career. Okwuonu, a consensus All-America last season, is listed on the Hermann Award watch list as 2013 gets underway. The Edmond, Okla., product has also started 47 matches in his first two seasons with the Tar Heels.

Campbell started all 23 matches at center back in his rookie campaign. He was named to multiple Freshman All-America teams for his efforts in 2012.

Replacing Jordan Gafa on the backline won't be easy, but Carolina boasts a deep roster that includes redshirt junior C.J. Odenigwe and second-year players Ryan McAnallen and Nick Williams. Also in the mix is true freshman Jalen Markey, who should push his more experienced teammates for playing time on defense.

In Goal

Record-setting goalkeeper Scott Goodwin completed his time at North Carolina in 2012 with one of the finest careers that any Tar Heel has ever enjoyed. Forty one career clean sheets is a school record. His 0.29 goals-against-average last year was an ACC record.

Fast forward to 2013 and it's a three-headed race for the starting keeper position. The most experienced in the group is redshirt junior Brendan Moore. The Atlanta native has bided his time at Carolina, and will now have his opportunity in his fourth season in the program. His only collegiate action came in the 2011 ACC Tournament win over NC State.

Redshirt sophomore Sam Euler will also push for playing time in his third year with the Heels, while redshirt freshman Cole Brooks will provide goalkeeping depth in his second campaign in Chapel Hill.

Player Profiles

Head Coach Carlos Somoano enters his third year in 2013 at the helm of the North Carolina men's soccer program.

In just two seasons, Somoano has reached the summit of collegiate soccer when he led the Tar Heels to the 2011 NCAA title, becoming just the second rookie head coach in NCAA history to win a national championship.

He owns a 37-6-6 record in two seasons in Chapel Hill, good for a program best .816 winning percentage. Somoano was named the 2011 National Coach of the Year by Soccer America as the Tar Heels posted a 21-2-3 mark en route to the 2011 title.

The Tar Heels became only the second team in Atlantic Coast Conference history to claim the treble in a single year by winning the ACC regular season title, the ACC Tournament crown and the national championship in 2011.

In addition to his national coach of the year honors, the ACC coaches also pegged Somoano the top head man in the ACC for 2011. Somoano joined former Carolina men's coach and current Carolina women's coach, Anson Dorrance, as the second coach to be named the ACC Coach of the Year in their first year on the job.

Several Tar Heels earned national recognition in 2011 under Somoano's watch with Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez and Billy Schuler earning All-America honors. Another Tar Heel, Ben Speas, was also named the National Player of the Year by Soccer America.

Five Tar Heels earned All-ACC honors in 2011 with Scott Goodwin, Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez and Billy Schuler being named first team and Kirk Urso joining the second team. Mikey Lopez, Jordan McCrary and Boyd Okwuonu were all named to the ACC All-Freshman Team, while Hedges and Lopez earned Defender of the Year and Freshman of the Year, respectively.

The Tar Heels also excelled in the classroom with Scott Goodwin, Rob Lovejoy and Kirk Urso earning ACC All-Academic Team honors in 2011.

It was going to be a tough act to follow in his second season, but the Heels did well in recording a 16-4-3 mark and came within one match of a fifth-straight College Cup in 2012. UNC ultimately fell 1-0 to eventual national champion Indiana in the quarterfinal round of the NCAA Tournament.

Similar to previous seasons, UNC was honored with a handful of national awards in 2012 with Danny Garcia, Goodwin, Lopez and Okwuonu all earning All-America honors. Additionally, Jonathan Campbell and Garcia, the ACC Freshman of the Year, earned Freshman All-America plaudits.

Six Tar Heels earned All-ACC awards during the 2012 campaign. Garcia joined Lopez as the first Tar Heel duo to be named ACC Freshman of the Year in back-to-back seasons since 1993 and 1994. Additionally, Lopez and Okwuonu were the only underclassmen to be recognized on the All-ACC first team. Second team nods went to Andy Craven, Garcia and Goodwin for a second-straight year. Campbell and Garcia landed on the All-ACC Freshman Team.

Academically, Goodwin was the winner of the Capital One Academic All-America of the Year award for Division I men's soccer. He also headlined the All-ACC Academic Team, earning the Scholar-Athlete of the Year award. Campbell, Lovejoy and Martin Murphy joined Goodwin on the team.

While an assistant at Carolina, Somoano helped recruit six top-10 recruiting classes and watched over one of the most successful periods in school history. The Tar Heels advanced to three consecutive NCAA College Cups, including the 2008 National Championship game, and amassed a 118-52-27 record.

Somoano helped lead the Tar Heels to nine All-America honors and 41 All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors, including the 2003 ACC Rookie of the Year, Jamie Watson. Twelve different Tar Heels were named to the All-ACC Academic Team for their work in the classroom and on the field, including 2010 ACC Men's Soccer Academic Athlete of the Year Kirk Urso.

Somoano also played a key part in developing the Tar Heels into professional soccer players. Since 2003, 24 former players have been selected in the MLS SuperDraft. Included in that group is nine first-round draftees: David Stokes, Dax McCarty, Michael Harrington, Zach Loyd, Jaiil Anibaba and Eddie Ababio, Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez and most recently Mikey Lopez in 2013.

Carolina is the only team nationally to have a first-round selection each of the last four years, and its six first-round draft choices in the last four years is second most in the country.

Four former Tar Heels who played under Somoano have represented the United States in the past few years as Dax McCarty, Logan Pause, Zach Loyd and Corey Ashe have all been called upon to represent their country.

College Soccer News named Somoano a Top 20 Assistant Coach six times in his career as well as the NSCAA South Region Assistant Coach of the Year in 2010. The following year he took over as head coach and won a national title.

Setting aside all the accolades and accomplishments, Somoano is most concerned with the continued growth of the game of soccer in the United States. Because of this, he continues to work with Raleigh's Capital Area Soccer League, something he has done for more than a decade. In 2009 he was named National Coach of the Year by US Soccer for his work with the U-15/16 Development Academy.

Another way that Somoano continues to help his sport is by serving as a scout for the U.S. Soccer Development Academy.

Somoano came to Carolina from Virginia Commonwealth University, where he was an assistant coach for six seasons from 1996-2001. Prior to his stint in Richmond, he was an assistant coach at Eckerd College from 1992-95.

Somoano received a Bachelor of Science in biology (concentration in pre-medicine) from Eckerd College in 1992. He then earned a Master's of Sport Management degree from the University of Richmond in August of 2000. Somoano earned four letters in soccer at Eckerd College and was a two-year team captain.

Somoano is married to the former Martina Nedelkova, and the couple has two daughters and a son: Sofia Kathleen, born May 6, 2006, Gabriela Martina, born Dec. 24, 2007, and Alexander Luis, born April 24, 2011.

Jeff Negalha, the 2011 NSCAA National Assistant Coach of the Year, is in his ninth season as an assistant coach with the North Carolina men's soccer program.

Of Portuguese descent and fluent in the language, the New Bedford, Mass., native assists Tar Heel head coach Carlos Somoano in all aspects of the program as the top assistant and is considered one of the finest soccer recruiters in the sport.

Since Negalha arrived in Chapel Hill, the Tar Heels are 119-38-26 with seven NCAA Tournament appearances in eight years, made four-straight College Cup appearances and won the national championship in 2011. Carolina became only the second team in ACC history to claim the treble in a single year by winning the ACC regular season title, the ACC Tournament crown and the NCAA National Title in 2011.

A key part of Carolina's recruiting efforts, Negalha has helped assemble eight-consecutive classes ranked among the top 11 in the country, including the nation's best in 2011. In addition to the 2012 recruiting class being ranked third in the country, Negalha saw the addition of the fourth-best class in 2008, a group that featured three freshmen All-America picks, and 2013 once again saw his class ranked fourth nationally.

Carolina is the only team nationally to have a first-round selection each of the last four years, and its six first-round draft choices in the last four years is second most in the country.

Following the 2006 season, Negalha was recognized by College Soccer News as one of the "20 Top Assistant Coaches of 2006." He earned the same distinction following the 2012 season.

Negalha has been a key figure in coaching one of the top defensive corps in the nation. Back in 2005, Carolina combined for a then school-record 15 shutouts in his first season on the Tar Heel sidelines. That record stood until 2012 when UNC registered 17 clean sheets. That same season saw keeper Scott Goodwin recorded an ACC-record 0.29 goals-against-average.

Prior to his time at Carolina, Negalha was the top assistant and recruiting coordinator for South Florida from 2003-2005.

Grant Porter enters his third season as an assistant coach for the North Carolina men's soccer program. The 2004 graduate of UNC has been a key figure in both national titles in school history. Porter helped lead the Tar Heels to their first national championship as a player in 2001 and again as an assistant coach in 2011.

Porter assists in all aspects of the program from handling travel plans to recruiting. Carolina brought in the No. 3 recruiting class for the 2012 season in Porter's first season on staff. The following year's class was tabbed No. 4 in 2013.

Porter came to Carolina with eight years of coaching experience under his belt since graduating from UNC. Porter was the Director of Soccer for the Charlotte United Futbol Club in Charlotte, N.C., from 2006-2010. During that time he was also the head soccer coach at Charlotte Country

The 2004 team ended the season ranked in the top-10 in all four polls, and achieved the 2004 NSCAA Academic Team Award.

He attracted the nation's No. 3 class according to College Soccer News and No. 5 class according to Soccer America in 2004, and helped land the No. 10 class in 2003 according to College Soccer News. Two highlights of the 2004 class included Rodrigo Hidalgo and Christian Jimenez, both U.S. Under-17 National Team members and two of the top-25 recruits in the nation. Jimenez left South Florida after one season and was the 14th overall selection in the MLS SuperDraft by CD Chivas USA.

Negalha was also instrumental in putting together the Bulls' 2005 freshmen class, which included Trinidad & Tobago youth national team member Yohance Marshall and Kevon Neaves, a U.S. Under-17 National Team member and Parade All-America Blake Wagner and prep All-America and Indiana player of the year Jordan Seabrook.

Negalha served as the top assistant coach at his alma mater, University of South Carolina-Spartanburg, from 1999-2002 and helped guide the Rifles to an NCAA Division II Elite Eight appearance and a No. 5 national ranking in the final poll of 2002. While at USCS, Negalha helped recruit and coach the Peach Belt Conference Player of the Year in both 2002 and 2003, as well as the league's freshman of the year in 2002.

As a player, Negalha was a two-year starter in goal for USCS and led the Rifles to the NCAA quarterfinal round and the NCAA national championship game in 1997 and '98, respectively. In his two-year career at USCS, Negalha started 47 games and recorded 19.5 shutouts while allowing just 33 goals through nearly 3,900 minutes. He also helped the Rifles win two PBAC regular season championships and two conference tournament titles.

Before attending USC Spartanburg, Negalha helped NJCAA national power Massasoit Community (Mass.) College to national semifinal and quarterfinal appearances in 1994 and '95. At the conclusion of the 1995 season, Negalha was named all-conference, all-region, and the team's MVP. Negalha earned his bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary studies with a concentration in physical education in December 2000 from USCS.

Coaching Staff

Day School during the 2009 and 2010 seasons.

While at Charlotte Country Day, Porter helped groom an all-state selection, a pair of all-region honorees and six all-conference award winners.

Porter was an assistant coach at UC Santa Barbara in 2005 where he helped lead the Gauchos to an NCAA Tournament appearance and a top-25 final national ranking. Eight players on that roster went on to Major League Soccer.

Porter began his coaching career at Georgia State University where he was the head assistant coach for two seasons. Porter helped lead the Panthers to a winning record and a trip to the Atlantic Sun Tournament semifinals. Porter earned a master's degree in sport administration from GSU.

Porter was a four-year starter during his time in Chapel Hill from the 2000-2003 seasons. He was credited with the game-winning assist in the national championship game of 2001.

He was awarded the UNC Nicholas Douglass Potter Coaches' Award in 2001. Porter would later go on to become the team captain in his senior year of 2003. The run from 2000-2003 ranks as one of the best four-year spans in school history. The Tar Heels won 21 matches in back-to-back seasons, won the 2000 ACC Tournament and the 2001 National Championship.

Porter holds a bachelor's degree from the University of North Carolina in economics.

Joe Crump begins his second season as a volunteer assistant coach with the North Carolina men's soccer program in 2013. Crump will continue to focus his efforts with the Carolina goalkeepers.

Crump came to Carolina after spending the 2011 season as a volunteer assistant at the University of Cincinnati.

Prior to his time at Cincinnati, Crump spent three years at Elon and during his time at least one goalkeeper was honored with All-Southern Conference accolades each season. In 2007, true freshman keeper Clint Irwin claimed all-league honors and Phoenix keepers combined to help lead the program to a school-record four-consecutive shutouts.

A year later, Irwin and senior Kyle Boerner were both named to the all-conference teams. It was the first time in Southern Conference history that two goalies from one school earned all-conference honors the same season. Irwin had a 0.90 goals-against average and stopped 31 shots while Boerner recorded a .742 save percentage.

Crump capped his tenure with the Phoenix in 2009 by guiding Irwin to a first team All-SoCon selection. Irwin and the team collected 10 shutouts during the season, tying the school record set by the 1987 and 1988 squads. Irwin also moved into a tie for first place on the Elon career ledger with 19 clean sheets to his credit.

The Phoenix compiled a record of 28-24-7 during Crump's three seasons while reaching the 10-win plateau twice. Elon had a winning record all three campaigns and went 15-5-0 in Southern Conference action, including a 7-0-0 mark in 2008, when the Phoenix claimed the regular-season crown.

In addition to his collegiate experience, Crump has been a North Carolina Olympic Development Program staff member and a coach for club team Triangle United. He assisted the Region III champions and USYSA National Finalists.

A 2003 UNC Greensboro graduate, Crump played for Elon head coach Darren Powell at UNCG as a three-year starter in goal, helping the squad to a 39-23-1 record and a Southern Conference runner-up finish in 2001.

Crump holds a bachelor's degree in business administration with a concentration in marketing and owns a United States Soccer Federation "A" license.

Strength and Conditioning

Under the direction of the UNC Olympic sports strength and conditioning staff, Tar Heel student-athletes get outstanding coaching intended to help maximize their physical potential. The staff evaluates Carolina student-athletes in a variety of ways, including the use of specialized software for lifting and running video analysis, to encourage steady progress toward reaching optimum preparation for competition.

The men's soccer team trains at the Olympic sports weight room in Eddie Smith Field House. In addition to top-of-the-line strength equipment, the center boasts a five-lane, 25-yard rubberized surface for teaching and performing warm-up activities, acceleration drills and agility movements. Year-round training produces athletes who are prepared to compete successfully and safely.

Greg Gatz is the Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports and oversees the program along with Eric Biener, Assistant Director of Strength and Conditioning.

Medical Care

In addition to the academic and fitness programs, the Tar Heels receive excellent care from one of the country's best sports medicine staffs.

Carolina's Director of Sports Medicine, Dr. Mario Ciocca, oversees the program and directs a staff of full-time athletic trainers and physical therapists, graduate students and undergraduates. Alain Aguilar is the head athletic trainer for the men's soccer team, while Brennan Ehlinger, Alisa Yamamoto and Pami Young also serve on the team's athletic training staff.

The medical and athletic training facilities are located in the Student Health Center and Fetzer Gym. Both are near Tar Heel practice areas for easy access to the treatment and advice on the care and prevention of injuries that is available from the sports medicine staff.

The Athletic Department also recognizes a responsibility in educating student athletes on the physical, mental, emotional and legal issues involved in drug abuse. Accordingly, the department has established a drug education and prevention program which is administered by the University's Student Health Services.

Bubba Cunningham
Director of Athletics

Lawrence R. (Bubba) Cunningham is in his second full year and third year overall as Carolina's director of athletics. One of Cunningham's first accomplishments at UNC was the development of a strategic plan that adopted the mission statement – "We Educate and Inspire Through Athletics" – and identified Responsibility, Innovation, Service and Excellence (RISE) as the department's core values.

Last year, Carolina finished eighth in the NACDA Director's Cup on the strength of national championships in women's soccer and women's lacrosse. The Tar Heels also had Top 10 finishes in field hockey (second), baseball (third), men's lacrosse (fifth), men's soccer (fifth) and women's tennis (fifth). The women's tennis team captured the ITA national indoor title and six other programs finished in the Top 25. Larry Fedora, one of two UNC head coaches hired by Cunningham, led the football team to share of first place in the Coastal Division.

UNC's women's program captured the 2013 Capital One Cup, which is awarded to the nation's best Division I athletics program.

A record 329 Tar Heel student-athletes made the ACC Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0.

Cunningham is in his 11th year as a Division I director of athletics, including six years at Tulsa and three years at Ball State. From 1988-2002, Cunningham worked at his alma mater, the University of Notre Dame.

He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration, in 1984 and 1988, respectively, and was a member of the Irish golf team in 1982-83.

Cunningham served on the NCAA Division I Men's and Women's Golf Committees and is a member of NACDA's Executive Committee.

Raised in Naples, Fla., Cunningham and his wife, Tina, have four children: Matthew, Michael, John and Sarah.

Dr. Beth Miller
Senior Associate Director of Athletics

Beth Miller is in her 29th year supervising North Carolina's highly-successful 26-team Olympic Sports program and serves as UNC's Senior Woman Administrator.

A native of Landis, N.C., Miller is a 1968 alumna of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She has a master's from ASU and earned a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State in 1974.

From 1969-72, Miller served as the head volleyball and basketball coach at Appalachian State. She became head volleyball coach at UNC in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four consecutive ACC titles from 1980-83 and five postseason tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina from 1978-79.

In 1979, Miller was named UNC's Athletic Business Manager. She retired from coaching volleyball after 1983, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. She has overseen UNC's Olympic Sports program since 1985.

Miller serves on the NCAA Committee on Women's Athletics, as well as a number of Atlantic Coast Conference committees, including those for women's basketball, women's golf and volleyball. She chairs the ACC Awards Committee. Miller also is a member of UNC's Housing Advisory Board and the Enforcement and Response Protocol subcommittee of the UNC Campus Alcohol Task Force.

In recognition of her outstanding service to Carolina, Miller was honored in April of 2008 as a recipient of the 2008 C. Knox Massey Distinguished Service Award, one of the most prestigious honors bestowed by the University of North Carolina.

The Tar Heels play in front of rowdy crowds each game at Fetzer Field, the home of Carolina soccer since 1947.

A Premier Facility

A host of numerous ACC Tournament, NCAA Tournament and Final Four matches over its illustrious history, Fetzer Field has long been one of the nation's most storied soccer facilities. With the 1999 relocation of the UNC soccer offices to the McCaskill Soccer Center adjacent to Fetzer Field, Carolina enjoys perhaps the finest overall facility in all of college soccer.

Fetzer Field, which boasts a capacity of 5,025 fans, is the home to UNC's men's and women's soccer, men's and women's lacrosse and men's and women's outdoor track and field teams.

The dedication of the McCaskill Soccer Center on April 11, 1999, solidified Fetzer Field's elite status among soccer facilities. The Center is a two-story structure that houses locker rooms for the men's and women's soccer teams as well as a team meeting room, coaches' offices and a large conference room. Total costs on the project were $1.8 million.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus, Fetzer Field was originally completed in 1935 as a Works Projects Administration program. Since 1947, the Tar Heel men have won over 75 percent of their games played there, going 387-112-37 (.757) in 65 seasons.

The facility has been home not only to soccer NCAA and ACC Championships, but also to several ACC Track and Field Championships, the N.C. High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics and men's lacrosse NCAA and ACC Tournaments. In 1996, the facility was the home training site for the United States Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta. In 2001, it was home to the Carolina Courage of the WUSA.

History

Fetzer Field, named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track and field head coach Bob Fetzer, was the only home the North Carolina men's soccer program knew from the team's first varsity game in 1947 through the entirety of the 1988 campaign. When Fetzer was being renovated, the Tar Heels played all their 1989 home games at Finley Field near the University golf course, as well as the first eight home matches of 1990.

Carolina then returned home to Fetzer on Oct. 21, 1990, and celebrated the homecoming with a stunning 2-0 upset of a No. 10-ranked NC State Wolfpack team. On Nov. 10, 1990, Carolina played its first night game ever at Fetzer Field, beating Wake Forest 2-1 in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. Night games are now a regular part of the Carolina men's soccer schedule at Fetzer. Nearly every home game is broadcast on TV or ESPN3.

Facility Upgrades

The 1989 campaign was the only year in which Carolina did not play any games at Fetzer Field since the program was founded in 1947. The facility underwent a complete renovation beginning in May 1989. The project was completed in October 1990, and the facility was officially rededicated on April 6, 1991, during a men's lacrosse game between No. 1-ranked Carolina and No. 2-ranked Johns Hopkins. At the same time, the track area of the facility was renamed the Irwin Belk Track.

The renovation project itself included resurfacing and widening of the track, which encircles the soccer and lacrosse field, upgrading the grandstand seating with new aluminum bleachers and the building of permanent gatehouses. In addition, the press box at Fetzer Field was enclosed and air-conditioned. A new matrix scoreboard was also installed that is complete with a message board.

On Oct. 21, 1990, the men's soccer team officially returned home to a newly renovated Robert Allison Fetzer Field at the University of North Carolina. After nearly two years worth of remodeling and refurbishing at the legendary Fetzer grounds, the Tar Heels were back home once again.

McCaskill Soccer Center

The McCaskill Soccer Center on the University of North Carolina campus was dedicated in a gala ceremony on April 11, 1999. Attending the event were members of the Educational Foundation as well as other University of North Carolina soccer enthusiasts and donors to the building project. Construction on the 6,600-square-foot soccer facility was completed shortly before its dedication.

The McCaskill Soccer Center is located on the same site as the former soccer offices adjacent to Fetzer Field. The old soccer offices were located in a building called the UNC Soccer Hut that dated back to the original construction in 1935. The new structure honored the McCaskill family, long-time supporters of Tar Heel athletics. The two-story structure accommodates varsity men's and women's soccer locker rooms on the first floor as well as a common team meeting room between the dressing areas. The second floor houses coaches' offices for both sports as well as a large conference room.

Carolina has one of the richest traditions in collegiate soccer, both men and women. The men's team attained varsity status in 1947 under legendary coach Marvin Allen. The Tar Heel men have suffered only one losing season since 1957. Carolina has appeared in the NCAA Tournament 19 times in the last 26 years, including the last two seasons under the direction of head coach Carlos Somoano. In his first season, he directed the Tar Heels to the 2011 NCAA National Championship, the second such title in program history.

"The former 1,200-square-foot soccer office was greatly outdated," said former UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour at the time. "We've made improvements to a lot of our facilities in recent years and this one was badly needed. That would be the case regardless of the teams' records. We want to give our student-athletes the best chance to succeed and enjoy the experience here. This is a way to help in that regard."

The destruction of the Old UNC Soccer Hut was carried out in 1997. Construction of the new building commenced following the conclusion of the 1997 season. In the meantime, the soccer offices were housed in temporary facilities at Finley Field, the Tar Heels' practice facility near the University golf course. While the new center has over five times more space than the old facility, the expansion occurred without any loss of parking on campus, always a major concern.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Board of Trustees approved the selection of NBBJ Architects of the Research Triangle Park to design the project. Estimated cost of construction was approximately $1.7 million. The project was funded through Athletic Department funds and Educational Foundation gifts. The building was named in honor of the McCaskill family, long-time benefactors of the University. It specifically was named for Mildred McCaskill and facilitated through her brother Norman and his wife, Carol McCaskill.

Together, Fetzer Field and the McCaskill Soccer Center give Carolina two of the best facilities in collegiate soccer.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

“If a moviemaker needs an idyllic setting for a film about
college life,
Chapel Hill just might take the prize.”

– Newsweek magazine

FIRST and FINEST

The oldest public university, in an outstanding college town

"I like to believe I am an example of what the UNC system is all about – taking small-town kids and giving them worldly exposure so that they can contribute in their communities and wherever opportunities lead them."

– John Skipper
President of ESPN, UNC Graduate

- Carolina's vibrant people and programs attest to the University's long-standing place among leaders in higher education since it was chartered in 1789 and opened its doors for students in 1795 as the nation's first public university. Situated in the beautiful college town of Chapel Hill, N.C., UNC has earned a reputation as one of the best universities in the world. Carolina prides itself on a strong, diverse student body, academic opportunities not found anywhere else, and a value unmatched by any public university in the nation.

- UNC's educational offerings include 78 bachelor's, 112 master's, 68 doctorate and seven professional degree programs through 14 schools and the College of Arts and Sciences.

For much more on the University of North Carolina and all it has to offer, go to unc.edu.

CHAPEL HILL

Home for four years,
Special for a lifetime

Often referred to as "The Southern Part of Heaven," Chapel Hill has been called the perfect college town by several publications, including Sports Illustrated.

- Chapel Hill has been ranked the Most Livable Small City (less than 100,000) in America.

- Running along the north edge of campus, Franklin Street is the heart of Chapel Hill. It provides a mix of restaurants, shops and night-life, and also serves as the town's meeting place. UNC fans rush Franklin Street to celebrate Tar Heel titles, and each year Halloween festivities draw thousands of revelers.

- Chapel Hill's location is ideal, within an easy drive of North Carolina's beautiful beaches and mountains.

ATHLETIC HERITAGE

Competing for crowns,
Representing UNC with class

UNC was the winner of the 2013
Capital One Cup as the top women's athletics program in NCAA Division I.

During the 2012-13 school year, UNC won NCAA crowns in women's soccer and women's lacrosse and the ITA National Indoors Championship in women's tennis.

Lacrosse's Kara Cannizzaro (left) and soccer's Crystal Dunn were nominated for ESPY awards in 2013, after leading their teams to NCAA championships.

Capital One

Field hockey, men's lacrosse and baseball won ACC titles in 2012-13.

• UNC has won more national championships and more conference championships than any other school in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

• UNC has finished among the top 10 in the Directors' Cup standings 11 times in the past 12 years and 17 times in the 20-year history of the competition.

• Some of the best-known names in sports – such as Michael Jordan and Mia Hamm – wore Carolina blue.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

Advancing to graduation,
Building Character,
Developing leadership

LOUDERMILK CENTER
FOR EXCELLENCE

- The Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes assists Tar Heel student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals.

- The Academic Support Program is housed in the Loudermilk Center for Excellence, a 150,000-square-foot facility that serves all of Carolina's nearly 800 student-athletes across 28 varsity sports. The Loudermilk Center's largest feature is the John W. Pope Student-Athlete Academic Support Center. This facility provides classrooms for teaching and tutoring, study lounges, office space and a computer lab. It also houses the Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy, which offers leadership training for Carolina student-athletes, coaches and staff.

- The Academic Support Program helps freshmen transition from high school to college through a variety of academic programs such as academic counseling, individual tutoring, group review sessions and supplemental instruction.

- During the 2012-13 academic year, a record 329 Carolina student-athletes earned spots on the ACC Academic Honor Roll, a recognition that requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year.

Above, Scott Goodwin is honored at halftime of a men's basketball game as an Athletic Director's Scholar-Athlete and also a bCLA Leader of Distinction. Additionally, as a senior Goodwin was honored as the Capital One Academic All-America of the Year and was the recipient of an ACC Weaver-James-Corrigan Post-graduate Scholarship.

RICHARD A. BADDOUR CAROLINA LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

Celebrating 10 years of Developing World-Class Leaders
for a Lifetime of Service and Success

Four men's soccer players have earned the Tar Heel Leader of Distinction Award, the bCLA's highest honor. They are Michael Callahan, Jordan Gafa (two-time recipient), Scott Goodwin and Kirk Urso.

UNC student-athletes have the opportunity to participate in the Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy, now in its 10th year of ground-breaking leadership training.

As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world-class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Richard A. Baddour Leadership Academy provides comprehensive and cutting-edge leadership development programming through interactive workshops, 360-degree feedback, one-on-one coaching, peer mentoring and educational resources.

The Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy offers four programs for student-athletes :

CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the freshman year. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore freshmen are taught skills to effectively lead themselves. Training consists of monthly meetings featuring keynote speakers and small group discussion. Upperclass student-athletes serve as peer mentors and discussion leaders. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices, ethics and character building.

Rising Stars Program

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

GAP Year Program

This level of involvement is slotted between Rising Star and possible Veteran Leader participation. It is an opportunity for continued leadership reflection and application. Leadership reflection entails case study or leadership articles, and leadership application involves an authentic project.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn and reinforce leadership principles as well as share successes, frustrations and lessons.

Carolina CREED

As a University of North Carolina student-athlete, I pledge to make every effort to abide by the Carolina CREED as a show of my commitment to the University, the Department of Athletics, my team and myself.

C - I will know and embrace the tradition and CULTURE of this great University and its athletics department

R - I will RESPECT myself and others

E - I will pursue EXCELLENCE in my academic work by striving to reach my academic potential while preparing for a career of significance

E - I will EXCEL athletically by committing myself to performance excellence, team success and continual improvement

D - I will DEVELOP the capacity to effectively lead myself and others

College Soccer News Preseason All-America
 Scott Goodwin Third Team

Carolina earned a share of its fourth-straight ACC Regular Season title in 2012.

One Game Short of 5-Straight College Cups

- Carolina was searching to become just the fifth team in NCAA history to reach five-straight College Cups in 2012.
- The Tar Heels came up one game short, falling 1-0 to eventual national champion Indiana in the NCAA Quarterfinals.
- UNC advanced to the College Cup from 2008-2011, reached the final in 2008 before claiming the title in 2011.

Four Straight ACC Regular Season Titles

- North Carolina and Maryland claimed a share of the 2012 ACC regular season title.
- The regular season championship was the fourth straight for the Tar Heels and marks the first time a team has won four straight crowns since Virginia in 1989.

Goals Hard To Come By For Foes

- Carolina led the nation in 2012 with a 0.29 goals against average. That figure was the sixth-lowest in a single season in NCAA history.
- The Tar Heels surrendered just seven goals all season and posted a school record 17 shutouts.

Goodwin Sets ACC, UNC Records

- Senior keeper Scott Goodwin finished the 2012 season with an ACC-record 0.29 goals-against-average.
- His 17 shutouts in 2012 were tied for the fifth most in NCAA history.
- Goodwin's 41 career clean sheets is not only a UNC record, but tied for the seventh most in NCAA history.

Getting That First One

- At the conclusion of the 2012 season, the Tar Heels have won 40-straight matches when scoring the first goal, a streak that dates to Sept. 28, 2010.
- UNC is 44-1 when scoring the game's first goal the last three years from 2010-2012.
- The Tar Heels were 14-1-0 in 2010, and 15-0-0 in both 2011 and 2012.

Home Cooking

- The night of Sept. 8, 2012 saw Carolina become just the sixth school in NCAA history to go undefeated in 30 consecutive home contests with a 2-0 win over Virginia Tech.
- The Tar Heels made it 30 straight without a setback with a 0-0 draw against Wake Forest.

- UNC became the second side in NCAA history to remain unbeaten in 40 straight matches after its 1-0 win over Fairleigh Dickinson on Nov. 25, 2012
- Before the loss to Indiana in the NCAA Quarterfinals, Carolina had not suffered a loss at home since a 3-0 defeat to Akron on Sept. 3, 2010.

Three Named All-America

- College Soccer News selected Scott Goodwin and Boyd Okwuonu second team All-America in 2012, while Mikey Lopez was tabbed for the third team.
- The NSCAA also named Okwuonu to its second team, and Lopez to the third team in 2012.
- Lopez landed on Soccer America's MVP first team for his efforts in the midfield, while Goodwin was on the second team.
- Top Drawer Soccer's National Team of the Year featured Lopez on the first team, and Okwuonu on its second team.

Campbell, Garcia Named CSN All-Freshman

- Freshmen Jonathan Campbell and Danny Garcia were named to the College Soccer News All-Freshman First Team.
- Campbell and Garcia were among the top 11 freshmen in the country according to College Soccer News.
- Campbell helped anchor the top defense in the country, starting all 23 matches at center back for the Tar Heels. The Greensboro, N.C., native added a goal and an assist this season.
- Garcia ranks second on the squad with 14 points this season as he has tallied four goals and a team-high six assists.

Garcia Named ACC Freshman Of The Year

- Freshman Danny Garcia led six Tar Heels who garnered All-ACC honors as he became the second straight Tar Heel to be named the ACC Freshman of the Year.
- Garcia joins sophomore Mikey Lopez who claimed the honor in 2011.
- Lopez and Garcia become the first Tar Heel duo to be named the ACC Freshman of the Year in back-to-back seasons since Temoc Suarez and Carey Talley accomplished the feat in 1993 and 1994.
- The freshman forward picked up two more honors as he was named to the All-ACC Second Team along with being named to the All-ACC Freshman Team.

Mikey Lopez was named to Top Drawer Soccer's National Team of the Year.

Six Tar Heels Earn All-ACC Honors

- Sophomore Mikey Lopez and Boyd Okwuonu were the only underclassmen to earn All-ACC First Team honors as Lopez was pegged for the midfield and Okwuonu for the defense.
- Lopez was responsible for two goals and an assist from his midfield location and helped propel Carolina's possession style of play.
- Okwuonu anchored the top defense in the country as the Tar Heel backline posted a 0.29 goals against average.
- The Tar Heels placed three members on the All-ACC Second Team led by the nation's goals against leader in goalkeeper Scott Goodwin. It was the second straight All-ACC honor for Goodwin who posted 17 shutouts in 2012.
- Junior forward Andy Craven was selected for the second team as he led the Tar Heels with six goals and 17 points.
- Danny Garcia joined Goodwin and Craven on the second team after finding the back of the net four times, and led UNC with six assists.
- The All-ACC Freshman Team featured a pair of Tar Heels for the second-straight year as Garcia was joined by defender Jonathan Campbell.

Goodwin Earns Big Time Academic Awards

- Senior goalkeeper Scott Goodwin was the winner of the Capital One Academic All-America® of the Year award for the Division I Men's soccer team.
- A biology major with a 3.95 G.P.A., Goodwin led the nation in Goals Against Average (0.29) and was second in save percentage (.875).
- Goodwin was named the 2012 ACC Men's Soccer Scholar Athlete of the Year in 2012.
- Goodwin was selected as a recipient of the ACC Weaver-James-Corrigan Award, a postgraduate scholarship given annually by the league. He earned Dean's List in ever semester at UNC and is a Phi Beta Kappa inductee.
- Goodwin also received the I.R. Hagadorn Award, presented to the "outstanding rising senior biology major with the highest GPA in biology courses who has demonstrated excellence and dedication in undergraduate research."

Sporting KC Drafts Lopez in First Round

- Sophomore midfielder Mikey Lopez became the 10th Tar Heel selected in the first round of the MLS SuperDraft since 2000 when Sporting KC tabbed Lopez 14th overall.
- Lopez appeared in 46 matches during his two-year career at North Carolina and garnered All-America honors during his sophomore campaign. The Mission, Texas, native was selected as the 2011 ACC Freshman of the Year for his play in addition to freshman All-America honors during UNC's national title run.
- Lopez signed a Generation adidas contract with Major League Soccer at the conclusion of the 2012 season joining seven former Tar Heels to sign Generation adidas contracts.
- The first round selection marks the fourth-straight year that North Carolina had a player drafted in the first round, the longest active streak of any school in NCAA. Lopez also becomes the sixth first round pick from UNC in the last four years, the second-most of any school.

Somoano Named To Eckerd Hall of Fame

- UNC head coach Carlos Somoano was inducted into the Eckerd College Hall of Fame. Somoano was a four-year letterwinner for the Tritons, and a two-year captain that earned NSCAA All-South honors during his time at Eckerd College.

Negalha Named A Top Assistant Coach

- North Carolina's top assistant Jeff Negalha was named among College Soccer News annual list of top assistant coaches.
- The honor marks the second consecutive year that Negalha has earned national recognition. He was named the 2011 National Assistant Coach of the year by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America after UNC's title run.

In Memoriam

Kirk Urso

March 6, 1990-

August 5, 2012

North Carolina,

2008-11

Kirk Urso was a member of the Class of 2012, a four-year letterman of the men's soccer team, which advanced to four successive College Cups. He wore the captain's band for the 2011 Tar Heels who won the National Championship, Carolina's second in the sport.

In the 2011 NCAA Tournament, Urso scored the tying goal to rally the Tar Heels past Coastal Carolina in the first round, assisted on the game winning goal against Saint Mary's in the quarterfinals and converted the opening penalty kick to lift the Tar Heels past UCLA in the semifinals.

But well beyond these accomplishments Urso manifested a true love for his alma mater, exemplified by his role as a leader of distinction in the Carolina Leadership Academy, as a fixture on the student athlete advisory council and as a gifted student who was the ACC's Men's Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

During his four years on campus, Kirk never met a stranger and his infectious smile in viewed his life with the sense of purpose and resolve that was the envy of all he met.

A member of the Columbus Crew in Major League Soccer, we lost Kirk at the tragically young age of 22.

Boyd Okwuonu was named second team All-America by College Soccer News, the NSCAA and Top Drawer Soccer.

The founder of the Carolina soccer program, Dr. Marvin Allen (right), with letter-winner Richard Bordogna.

The University of North Carolina men's soccer program has written a long and successful story for itself and enters the 2013 campaign having posted just two losing seasons in the last 55 years. With 20 trips to the NCAA tourney - including 13 in the last 14 years - the 2001 and 2011 national championships and six College Cup appearances in hand, Carolina has established itself as one of the elite men's soccer programs in the Atlantic Coast Conference and the nation. Carlos Somoano is just the fifth head coach in school history, and become just the second coach in NCAA history to win a national title in his first season in 2011.

Tradition Of Excellence Begins With Allen

Elmar Bolowich took over after 12 successful seasons spearheaded by the coaching of Anson Dorrance, a former star player for the Tar Heels, who continues to direct the Carolina women's program to what is now legendary success each fall. Dorrance's men's teams went 172-65-21 from 1977 through 1988, a winning percentage of .708. He retired from men's coaching just two victories shy of becoming the University's all-time leader in coaching victories in the sport.

Dorrance's mentor in the sport, Dr. Marvin Allen, was the guiding force behind the founding of the soccer program at Carolina and its head coach for 28 seasons spanning four decades.

Dr. Allen, who also taught in the physical education department at Carolina, scored the first goal for Carolina's club soccer team when it was founded in the 1930s. In 1947, the University elevated the sport of men's soccer to varsity status and Allen, in a most natural decision, was named the team's first head coach. It was a decision by Athletic Director Bob Fetzer that bore fruit for years to come.

Allen coached the Tar Heels for 28 seasons in the period from 1947 until his retirement after the 1976 season. Allen missed the 1951 and 1952 seasons when he was on active duty with the United States Armed Forces in the Korean War. Alan Moore coached the team on an interim basis during those two years.

Allen's teams combined for a record of 174-81-23, a winning percentage of .667. Allen's 1948 team won the Southern Conference title, the first of four league crowns won by UNC in its soccer history. Beginning in 1953, Carolina began competing in the Atlantic Coast Conference and compiled a record of 54-41-16 under Allen's leadership.

In 1966, Carolina won the first of its three ACC men's soccer championships, sharing the championship with Maryland as both teams posted 3-1 records. Two years later, in 1968, North Carolina earned the first of its 20 bids to the NCAA Tournament, losing its first-round match, 5-0, to Michigan State in Chapel Hill. The Spartans went on that year to share the NCAA championship with Maryland.

Dorrance Takes Over

Prior to Allen's last season at the helm of the Tar Heel program in 1976, Dorrance was designated as head men's soccer coach at the University, assisting Allen during his last year before taking over the head duties in 1977. It was a wise choice by Tar Heel Athletic Director Bill Cobey.

Under the direction of both Dorrance and Bolowich, the Tar Heels established themselves as a force to be heard from in the ACC and on the national soccer scene. Competing in the nation's toughest top-to-bottom collegiate soccer league, the ACC has helped give the Tar Heel program a high degree of visibility that extends across the nation and all over the world.

Dorrance had some outstanding teams in his early years at Carolina. His 1977, 1978 and 1979 teams all finished second in the ACC while posting overall records of 14-3-1, 12-3-4 and 16-3-5, respectively. The 1981 team finished 15-6 overall and scored a shocking 1-0 overtime upset victory over Clemson in Chapel Hill, the first win for Carolina over the Tigers in 12 years. Freshman Kenny West scored an overtime goal for Carolina that day at Fetzer Field which gave UNC its first win over I.M. Ibrahim's powerhouse team since 1969.

In 1983, the Tar Heels finished the season with a brilliant 16-3-2 record but were snubbed by the NCAA selection committee when it passed out post-season bids. That slight even occurred after Carolina upset No. 1-ranked and undefeated Duke, 2-1, in overtime in the final match of the regular season before a large crowd at Fetzer Field. Mark Devey scored an unassisted overtime goal to give the Tar Heels the win over the Blue Devils.

The breakthrough year for the Tar Heels under Dorrance proved to be 1987. Led by All-America defender David Smyth, the Tar Heels stunned the ACC by winning only their second conference title in history. The Tar Heels accomplished that feat by winning the championship of the inaugural ACC Men's Soccer Tournament, which was played that year before capacity crowds at Duke. UNC used that tournament championship as a springboard to future success and advanced all the way to the NCAA Final Four, while recording 20 victories for the first time in program history.

Carolina had finished fourth that year in the ACC regular-season standings with a 3-3 record, but the Heels defeated fifth-seeded Clemson, 2-1, in overtime and top-seeded Virginia, 3-0, in the first two rounds of the ACC Tournament. Carolina then came back from a 3-1 second-half deficit to knock off NC State, 4-3, in the finals of the tournament. Smyth scored the tying goal for UNC with 4:37 left in regulation and then tournament most valuable player Derek Missimo, a freshman, scored the winning goal in overtime. Advancing to NCAA Tournament play for only the second time in school history, the 1987 team had to win three consecutive games on the road to advance to the Final Four, blanking Duke, 2-0, edging South Carolina, 2-1, on sudden death penalty kicks and beating Loyola (Md.), 1-0, on yet another Missimo goal. The NCAA awarded Clemson as host of the Final Four in 1987. The Tigers defeated Carolina, 4-1, in the semifinals and then went on to beat San Diego State for the national championship.

Carolina suffered massive graduation losses off that 1987 team and, despite a preseason No. 1 ranking, started the following season in a sluggish manner. After 11 matches, Carolina found itself with a disappointing 4-6-1 ledger. But the Tar Heels ran off a seven-match winning streak to put them in contention for an NCAA Tournament bid. For a second-straight year, UNC played well in the ACC Tournament, upsetting host Clemson 2-1 in the first round. That marked Carolina's first victory at Clemson since 1968. UNC then avenged a controversial regular-season loss at Duke by beating the Blue Devils 2-1 in the semifinals, a loss which knocked Duke out of the NCAA Tournament. In the finals, the Tar Heels jumped out on top of top-seeded Virginia in the first half, but the Cavaliers rallied for a 2-1 victory to deny UNC a second-consecutive conference crown.

The Heels did earn an NCAA invitation, however, as the No. 2 seed in the South Region. Carolina traveled to Wake Forest in the first round and beat the Demon Deacons, 2-0, before losing at top-seeded South Carolina, 3-1, in the South Region finals in Columbia, S.C.

Bolowich Takes The Reins

Dorrance resigned as men's coach after the 1988 season to concentrate on his duties with the Carolina women's team, and Bolowich preceded to take the Tar Heels to new heights after taking over as head coach in 1989. The 2001 national title may have marked the summit of that climb to national prominence, but his ability to guide Carolina to three successive College Cups in 2008, 2009 and 2010 showed how his program had risen to an elite status in the college soccer world.

After missing the NCAA Tournament in Bolowich's first year as head coach, the Tar Heels returned to tournament play in 1990 and 1991. Surviving a midseason slump in 1990, Carolina claimed a tournament bid on the strength of regular-season victories over third-ranked South Carolina, eighth-ranked Wake Forest and 10th-ranked ACC champion and NCAA Final Four participant NC State. The Heels downed Wake Forest, 2-1, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament under the lights at Fetzer Field before losing at perennial nemesis Virginia, 3-1, in the second round.

Carolina, with a mark of 15-6-1, found itself in postseason play once again in 1991. The Tar Heels played host to UNC Charlotte in the first round and beat the 49ers 1-0 in overtime as sophomore forward Todd Haskins scored in the 99th minute of play. The second-ranked Billikens of St. Louis eliminated the Tar Heels in the round of 16 with a resounding 4-0 victory at St. Louis.

After a disappointing 1992 campaign, Carolina returned to the limelight in 1993, ranking as high as 12th in the final Soccer News poll. Led by freshman sensation Temoc Suarez, the ACC Rookie of the Year, and All-America defender Gregg Berhalter, UNC finished 13-7-2 and advanced to the Round of 16 of the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time in six years.

Berhalter was especially amazing in an NCAA first round victory over Duke as he scored twice and assisted on another in UNC's 3-2 victory over the Blue Devils at Fetzer Field.

The 1994 campaign proved to be another successful one as Carolina finished 13-7 and made the NCAA Tournament for the sixth time in eight seasons. Led by All-Americas Eddie Pope and Temoc Suarez, as well as ACC Rookie of the Year Carey Talley, Carolina's season was highlighted by a 5-1 victory over national champion Virginia, only UNC's second win over the Cavaliers since 1980.

Injuries crippled the UNC team in 1995, but the Tar Heels still managed an 11-8-1 record. Among the injured players was preseason first-team All-America defender Eddie Pope, who was limited to just nine games. Nevertheless, Carolina played one of the toughest schedules in the nation, including eight games against top-15 foes, and reached the semifinals of the ACC Tournament. Junior Temoc Suarez led the Tar Heels in scoring and was named second-team All-ACC. Pope was named to the first-team despite his limited action and sophomore Carey Talley was a second-team all-conference choice.

The Tar Heels went 8-8-1 in 1996. Along the way, Carey Talley was named first-team All-ACC and third-team All-America after leading the Tar Heels with nine goals. Temoc Suarez led UNC in scoring for the fourth year in a row and was named second-team All-ACC.

Saddled with a young team and a lack of depth due to injury problems, Carolina was 6-13 in 1997, its first losing season in 40 years. Senior Carey Talley, one of 15 finalists for the Missouri Athletic Club Collegiate Player of the Year award, was named first-team All-ACC and third-team All-America for the second-straight year.

The Tar Heels lost Talley to graduation and fielded one of the youngest teams in the nation in 1998 but grew up quickly and posted an 11-6-2 record, nearly earning an NCAA Tournament bid. Freshman forward Chris Carrier was named the ACC Rookie of the Year and second-team All-ACC after leading the team in goals and points. Michael Bucy was named Academic All-America.

In 1999, Carolina brought back all 11 starters from the '98 campaign and returned to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in five seasons with a record of 12-7-1. Carrier was named first-team All-ACC after finishing third in the conference in scoring, and defender Danny Jackson was a second-team honoree. Bucy tied for the ACC lead in assists and was named first-team Academic All-America.

The 2000 Tar Heels (21-3, 5-1 ACC) shared the ACC regular-season championship, won the second ACC Tournament title in the program's history and reached the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals for the second time in school annals. Along the way, Carolina was ranked No. 1 in the nation for much of the season and won 15 games in a row, the longest winning streak in school history. UNC's No. 1 seeding in the tournament was the highest ever in men's soccer.

UNC won the ACC Tournament with a 1-0 victory over Wake Forest in the semifinals and a 1-0 overtime win over Virginia in the title game. The ACC championship was UNC's second ever and first since 1987. After winning the 2001 national title, Bolowich guided the Tar Heels back to the NCAA Tournament for UNC finished 15-8-1 in 2008 and returned to the postseason in a big way, advancing to the NCAA College Cup for the third time in school history and first since 2001. Seeded 13th after losing five-consecutive matches entering the tournament, the Tar Heels won four straight one-goal games in the postseason, including a 1-0 win over No. 1 Wake Forest in the semis before falling to Maryland by the same score in the title game. UNC was led by a pair of senior All-Americans in Brian Shriver, who topped the scoring charts with 33 points and 14 goals, and Michael Callahan, who anchored the midfield with three goals and five assists.

The 2008 campaign was a springboard for unprecedented success in Carolina men's soccer. The Tar Heels would go on to make four-straight trips to the College Cup, culminating with a national championship in 2011, the second in UNC history.

The 2009 club went 16-2-4 and tied for first in the ACC regular season standings. UNC picked up NCAA victories over Brown, Indiana and Drake, before losing in penalty kicks, 0-0, to eventual national runner-up Akron in the NCAA semifinals.

2010 was more of the same for the Tar Heels, who recorded a 16-4-4 overall record and won the ACC regular season outright for the first time ever. In what ended up being Bolowich's final season in Chapel Hill, UNC earned three-consecutive wins by penalty kick in NCAA play to once again land in the College Cup for the third-straight year. However, Louisville tripped up the Heels in the semifinals, 2-1, in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Somoano Shines from the Start

In the midst of the best stretch of success in program history, the Tar Heels made a coaching change when Carlos Somoano, the top assistant under Bolowich for nine seasons, was tabbed as just the fifth head coach in school history in April 2011. A nationally-recognized recruiter, Somoano's unassuming approach paid immediate dividends by leading UNC to arguably the best season in the history of North Carolina men's soccer.

The 2011 Tar Heels pulled off the rare treble, winning the ACC regular season and tournament championship, before bringing home the NCAA National Championship with a 1-0 win over Charlotte in Hoover, Ala. Somoano was named National Coach of the Year by Soccer America.

2001 National Champs

In 2001, Carolina won the first national championship in program history, going 21-4 overall. The Tar Heels posted a then school-record 14 shutouts and won three-straight overtime games in the NCAA Tournament. The 21 wins equaled the school record set in 2000 and later matched again in 2011.

The Tar Heels led the ACC in scoring offense and allowed just 19 goals in 25 games all season, outscoring their opposition 66-19 on the year. UNC went 4-2 in the ACC for its first back-to-back winning ACC records since 1979-80 and most ACC wins in a two-year period in school history. Carolina went a perfect 12-0 at home, including three NCAA Tournament wins.

Goalkeeper Michael Ueltschey set a then school record with 12 shutouts on the season, while as a team Carolina set a school record with 14 wins by shutout. Ueltschey ended his brilliant career as UNC's all-time leader with 28.5 shutouts.

2011 National Champs

In 2011, Carolina won the second national championship in program history, going 21-2-3 overall. The Tar Heels rolled through the regular season dropping just two matches, both on the road, to claim the ACC regular season crown.

The Tar Heels would go on to post a 58-18 goals scored to goals conceded mark as a high-powered offense fueled by Billy Schuler's 16 goals paired well with one of the top defensive corps in the country. Carolina would add the third ACC Tournament Championship to its trophy case with a 3-1 victory over the fourth and fifth consecutive seasons in 2002 and '03. Carolina posted a 14-7-1 overall record and secured its third-consecutive winning mark in conference play with a 3-2-1 mark in 2002, before going 12-4-4 and claiming the tournament's No. 4 overall seed in '03. The 2004 Tar Heels made it a sixth-straight trip to the postseason with a 10-9-2 record. In 2005, Carolina was led by an outstanding defense that logged a then school-record 15 shutouts and posted a scoreless streak of over 900 minutes that carried over into NCAA tournament play. The Tar Heels advanced to the ACC tournament final, but lost to Duke on penalty kicks, and reached the quarterfinals of the NCAA championship on wins over Providence and Virginia at Fetzer Field. However, UNC's season ended with a 3-2 double-overtime loss to SMU. The 2006 Tar Heels went 11-6-3 and earned a record eighth-straight trip to the NCAA Tournament, but UNC slipped to 7-8-5 in 2007 and missed the postseason for the first time since 1998.

Boston College in the final to inch one more step towards history.

The Tar Heels opened the NCAA Tournament with a 3-2 win over Coastal Carolina before Schuler rose to the occasion with an overtime winner against soccer powerhouse Indiana in the third round.

A 2-0 win over Saint Mary's sent the Tar Heels to their fourth-consecutive College Cup where they locked up with UCLA in one of the most entertaining matches in NCAA history.

The teams would battle to a 2-2 draw, with both Carolina goals coming in the second half, before securing a 3-1 penalty shootout victory. In the championship match, Ben Speas would tally the lone goal as Carolina downed Charlotte, 1-0, to raise the second championship trophy in school history.

UNC also became just the second ACC school to ever win the ACC regular season, the ACC Tournament and the NCAA Championship in a single season.

A Rich Tradition Of Tremendous Players

The recent success of Carolina in the sport of men's soccer is certainly no aberration, however. The Tar Heels have had a quality program since Marvin Allen coached that first team back in 1947.

Carolina has had 29 players land All-America honors in its soccer history, beginning with midfielder Frank Nelson in that initial season of 1947. Right wing Eddie Foy starred for interim coach Alan Moore in 1951 to win All-America honors and was one of three Tar Heel All-Americans in the 1950s. After Allen returned from his military service in Korea, he helped develop All-America left wing Pete Cothran in 1955 and midfielder Bill Blair in 1957.

The 1960s saw three All-America selections in Chapel Hill - back Terry Henry in 1966, midfielder Louis Bush in 1967 and midfielder Mark Packard in both 1968 and 1969.

Some of the other greats to play for the Tar Heels include Dave Boak, who led the Tar Heels in scoring twice and paced the team to a Southern Conference championship in 1948; John Ghanim, who scored what was then a school-record 16 goals in 1959, a mark which stood until Missimo broke it with 20 tallies in 1989; Hugh Goodman, the school's initial first-team All-South selection in 1958; Jackie Writer, who scored a then school career-record 26 goals from 1964-66 and went on to coach at Cornell University; Tony Johnson, a striker who is tied for sixth on Carolina's career list with 32 goals; Mark Devey, another striker who is tied with Johnson for sixth on Carolina's career goal list with 32 and is sixth in points with 91; Billy Hartman, a midfielder who is seventh on the career charts at UNC in points with 88 and fourth in assists with 33; Dino Megaloudis, a midfielder who is third all-time at UNC with 34 career assists; Kevin Kane, who still holds several Carolina goalkeeping records set in the late 1970s; and Watson Jennison, who in his four-year goalkeeping career which ended in 1992, established school records for goalkeeper minutes played, saves and consecutive shutouts.

Amongst other accolades, Smyth was a finalist for National Player of the Year honors in 1987 and teammate Donald Cogsville earned first-team All-ACC honors at two different positions — as a defender in 1987 and at forward in 1988.

Midfielder Chad Ashton graduated after the 1989 campaign after becoming the University's all-time assists leader with 43. Meanwhile, Missimo, who played his senior year in 1990, finished with a school-record 138 points and 56 goals.

All-America choices in the 1990s included sweepers Gregg Berhalter and Eddie Pope, offensive wizard Temoc Suarez, heady midfielder Carey Talley and forward Chris Carrier.

Carrier was a two-time All-America who in 2000 shattered school records for goals and points in a season. He was the top overall pick in the 2001 MLS SuperDraft. Defender Danny Jackson also was named All-America in the 2000 and '01 seasons.

The Tar Heels also saw three players taken in the MLS SuperDraft in both 2003 and 2005 and a record four players were chosen in the 2007 draft, including No. 3 overall pick Michael Harrington.

Midfielder Dax McCarty claimed All-America honors in 2005 and was a member of the 2008 United States Olympic Team. Brian Shriver and Michael Callahan were both named All-Americans in 2008, giving the Tar Heels multiple honorees for just the fourth time in school history and the first since 2000. Shriver and Callahan helped lead the Tar Heels to a national runner-up finish in 2008. All-America Zach Loyd led the Tar Heels back to the College Cup in 2009 before becoming the fifth overall pick in the 2010 MLS Superdraft.

The 2010 squad featured four MLS Superdraft selections, including a pair of first round selections in defenders Jallil Anibaba and Eddie Ababio. The midfield duo of Michael Farfan and Stephen McCarthy went back-to-back in the second round after the quartet helped lead UNC to its third-consecutive NCAA College Cup appearance.

The 2011 national championship team boasted four more All-Americans: Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez, Billy Schuler and Ben Speas, who was named National Player of the Year by Soccer America. Hedges (11th to FC Dallas) and Martinez (17th to Real Salt Lake) were taken in the 2012 MLS Superdraft.

A trio of Tar Heels earned All-America distinction in 2012, led by Mikey Lopez, who was pegged on Top Drawer Soccer's National Team of the Year. Boyd Okwouno and keeper Scott Goodwin also were named All-Americans. Lopez became the 10th Tar Heel selected in the first round of the MLS SuperDraft since 2000 when Sporting KC tabbed him with the 14th pick in the 2013 draft.

The 2001 North Carolina Tar Heels notched the men's first national title in their first-ever appearance in a national championship contest. After a thrilling, late-game comeback win over Stanford to reach the finals, the Tar Heels faced and defeated five-time champion Indiana, who entered the tournament having given up just six goals all season. In addition, the Hoosiers had knocked UNC out in the quarterfinals the year before in Chapel Hill.

The Tar Heels used an early goal 12 minutes in off a header by junior Ryan Kneipper to establish a 1-0 lead and set the tone for the game. Kneipper beat an Indiana defender and goalkeeper Colin Rogers to a long cross from Matt Crawford and headed a shot from six yards out just inside the right post.

The Tar Heels then turned to their defense, led by senior captains Danny Jackson and Chris Leitch, senior goalkeeper Michael Ueltschey and sophomore David Stokes, who was assigned to Indiana all-everything player Pat Noonan of most of the game. The Hoosiers put pressure on the Heels, but could not find a way to even the score against the stalwart Carolina defense.

At the 75 minute mark freshman Marcus Storey was fouled in the box, leading to a penalty kick by Jackson into the top left of the net, giving Carolina a 2-0 lead. The score would hold up as Carolina claimed its first-ever national title.

Carolina's chances of even reaching the finals looked bleak with less than 10 minutes on the clock in its NCAA semifinal versus Stanford. Carolina trailed 2-0 at the time, when forward David Testo bent a left-footed shot from 25 yards out just inside the far post to breathe life back into the Tar Heel attack. Less than two minutes later the Tar Heels found the back of the net again, as Crawford knocked in a rebound to tie the score at two with around eight minutes remaining.

The two teams would go at it for the final eight minutes of regulation and through four overtime periods until Carolina finally broke the deadlock when Mike Gell took a long pass from UNC keeper Michael Ueltschey and chipped a shot over onrushing goalkeeper Andrew Terris in the 136th minute. The goal gave Carolina the 3-2 victory and a place in the title game.

Drama was no stranger to the Heels in the 2001 NCAA Tournament. Carolina needed and received overtime goals to defeat both American and Farleigh Dickinson along its march to the championship. For the season Carolina finished with a school-record 21 wins against only four defeats.

Carolina's 2011 NCAA Title

HOOVER, Ala. - Junior Ben Speas turned in the goal of the tournament to provide Carolina with a 1-0 edge in the 65th minute and the Tar Heel defense stepped up in the final minutes to give UNC its second national title in school history with a 1-0 win over Charlotte at Regions Parks in Hoover, Ala. The title came 10 years after UNC won the championship in 2001.

The goal was Speas' third of the tournament and earned the junior forward Most Valuable Offensive Player honors.

Speas nearly put the Tar Heels ahead just minutes before his goal as he worked his way down the left flank before moving to the middle of the field and floating a ball to the far post. Sophomore Rob Lovejoy was making a run down the right and connected on a diving header as the cross got over the Charlotte defender but Lovejoy's header sailed wide of the target.

The Tar Heels struggled to control possession early on as Charlotte controlled the tempo. The 49ers had four shots in the opening 17 minutes of play but the Tar Heel backline made sure that nothing reached goalkeeper Scott Goodwin. Center backs Boyd Okwuonu and Matt Hedges combined to block three of the early opportunities.

Neither team was able to register a shot on goal in the opening 45 minutes.

The Tar Heels finally broke through in the 65th minute when Speas turned in a goal with his shot from 25 yards out that changed the momentum of the match.

Carolina held possession after the initial tally and were looking to add to their total before Charlotte mounted a late charge.

The 49ers earned a corner kick in the 84th minute and nearly found the equalizer when Thomas Allen ripped a shot from eight yards out. The ball was destined for the back of the net but defender Jordan Gafa was the last man on the line and headed the ball clear.

The line clearance started a flurry of shots from the 49ers that the Tar Heels continued to turn away. The 87th minute saw Charlotte rip a shot that was saved by Goodwin, the rebound was crossed to T.J. Beaulieu who headed the ball off the crossbar. Jordan McCrary forced his way in front of the next shot opportunity before a shot went wide of the goal for a goal kick.

The Tar Heels became the first ACC team since Virginia in 1995 to claim the treble as UNC won the ACC regular season and tournament titles in addition to the NCAA title. Carolina finishes with a 21-2-3 mark which equals the school record for wins with the 2001 team.

Head coach Carlos Somoano became just the second coach in NCAA history to claim a national title in his first year.

Carolina has reached the NCAA Tournament in 13 of the last 14 seasons. During that time, the program made four-consecutive trips to the NCAA College Cup, which culminated in the 2011 national title, the second such championship in program history. Overall, the Tar Heel men's soccer team has competed in 20 NCAA tournaments, compiling a 29-17-6 record.

The Tar Heels made their first NCAA Tournament appearance in 1968 in a game played on a wet and muddy Fetzer Field. Unfortunately, the defending national co-champions from Michigan State spoiled the debut. The Spartans outshot the Tar Heels, 37-6, and won 5-0 on three goals by Tony Keyes and two from Tom Krefl.

The next time Carolina returned to the tournament was 1987. It wound up the most successful run prior to capturing the 2001 national title. Coached by Anson Dorrance, the Tar Heels entered the NCAA Tournament as the eighth-ranked team in the nation after winning the ACC Tournament. In the first round, Carolina defeated archival and defending national-champion Duke, 2-0. The Tar Heels then battled South Carolina through two overtimes and a shootout before winning, 2-1, on a penalty kick by Derek Missimo.

In the quarterfinal against Loyola (Md.), Missimo scored on a header to give the Tar Heels a 1-0 victory, making Carolina only the fourth team in ACC history to achieve 20 wins in a season. Carolina then went to the Final Four but fell 4-1 to eventual champion Clemson on the Tigers' home field. The Tar Heels were ranked sixth in the final Soccer America rankings and placed sweeper David Smyth on the All-America team.

In 1988, Anson Dorrance's final year as the men's coach, the Tar Heels defeated Wake Forest, 2-0, in the first round of the tournament. Both Tar Heel goals came in the first half as Adam Tinkham scored on a breakaway and Marc Buffin kicked one in from 25 yards out. For Carolina, it was the 10th win in 11 games, the only loss coming to Virginia in the ACC Tournament championship game. The Tar Heels then advanced to the South Region championship, where they lost 3-1 to South Carolina.

Under coach Elmar Bolowich, Carolina again defeated Wake Forest in the first round of the 1990 tournament. Freshmen Chris Lyn and Brent Walker scored to give Carolina a 2-1 win and improve the series record against the Demon Deacons to 9-1-2. In the second round, the Tar Heels were defeated, 3-1, by Virginia at Charlottesville.

In the first round of the 1991 tournament, the Tar Heels defeated UNC Charlotte, 1-0, at Fetzer Field. Todd Haskins scored the winning goal on an assist by David Moore in the first overtime period. The Tar Heels then travelled to St. Louis, falling 4-0 to the hometown Billikens.

In 1993, the Tar Heels were once again victorious in the first round, holding on for a 3-2 victory over Duke. Gregg Berhalter scored a pair of goals off free kicks, and then Chapel Hill native Greg Caiola came off the bench to score the game-winner in the 69th minute. In the second round, the Tar Heels were upset, 2-1, by Air Force after ACC Rookie of the Year Temoc Suarez suffered a broken ankle midway through the first half.

Carolina returned to NCAA Tournament action in 1994 for the sixth time in eight seasons. Despite possessing the home-field advantage, Carolina was beaten by James Madison, 3-0, in the first round. The Tar Heels made an NCAA Tournament appearance in 1999 after a four-year absence. UNC played at No. 3 Furman and gave the Paladins, who eventually reached the NCAA Quarterfinals, all they could handle before losing, 2-1, in overtime.

In 2000, Carolina was the top overall seed in the tournament after winning the ACC championship. UNC hosted three games at Fetzer Field, coming back from a 2-0 deficit in the first round to defeat William & Mary, 3-2, in an overtime game played in a driving snowstorm. The Heels downed Rhode Island, 3-1, in the second round before losing to two-time defending NCAA champion Indiana in the quarterfinals.

The 2001 Tar Heels notched the men's first national title in their first-ever appearance in a national title game. After a rousing, late-game comeback win over Stanford to reach the finals, the Tar Heels faced and defeated five-time champion Indiana, who entered the tournament having given up just six goals all season.

The Tar Heels opened an early goal 12 minutes in off a header by junior Ryan Kneipper to grab an early 1-0 lead. Kneipper beat an Indiana defender and goalkeeper Colin Rogers to a long cross from Matt Crawford and headed a shot from six yards out just inside the right post.

The Tar Heels then turned to their defense, led by senior captains Danny Jackson and Chris Leitch, senior goalkeeper Michael Ueltschey and sophomore David Stokes, who was assigned to Indiana all-anything player Pat Noonan for most of the game. Indiana put pressure on the Heels, but could not find a way to even the score against the stalwart Carolina defense.

At the 75 minute mark freshman Marcus Storey was fouled in the box, leading to a penalty kick by Jackson into the top left of the net, giving Carolina a 2-0 lead and its first-ever national title. The Tar Heels made their fourth-consecutive tourney appearance in 2002. Carolina opened its title defense with a 6-0 win over Winthrop in Chapel Hill, paced by Kneipper's school-record tying five goals. In the second round, UNC fell on the road to Penn State, 1-0, in double overtime.

In 2003, UNC earned the No. 4 national seed and a first-round bye but lost to the nation's highest-scoring team, Coastal Carolina, 3-0, at Fetzer Field in the second round of the tourney.

The Tar Heels hosted a postseason match for the fifth straight year in 2004, but fell to George Washington, 1-0, in the first round.

Carolina was the tournament's No. 4 overall seed once again in 2005 and advanced to the quarterfinals for the fourth time in school history and third time over the last six seasons. The Tar Heels opened with wins over Providence (2-0) and Virginia (2-1) behind four goals from Ben Hunter. UNC was eliminated in the round of eight by SMU, 3-2 in double overtime.

UNC hosted once again - as the No. 14 seed - in 2006 but suffered a 1-0 loss to Old Dominion in its first match.

After missing the 2007 tourney, the Tar Heels returned as the No. 13 seed in the 2008 and made a run to the national title game with four straight one-goal victories and a stout defense. After opening the tourney with a second round win over Jacksonville, Carolina posted a 3-2 rain-soaked, overtime win over UIC to reach the quarterfinal round. All-America Michael Callahan tied the match with a 12-yard rocket in the 87th minute. In overtime, Brian Shriver sent a cross from the left flank to Garry Lewis at the far post for the game-winning header in the 95th minute.

The Tar Heels punched their ticket to the College Cup with a 1-0 win over Northwestern at Fetzer Field on freshman Kirk Urso's game-winner in the 61st minute.

UNC met No. 1 Wake Forest in the semifinals and jumped in front with a Brian Shriver header in the fourth minute. Zach Loyd made a run up the right side and found Shriver in the box for what proved to be the game-winner.

The Demon Deacons pressured the Tar Heels for the rest of the match, but goalkeeper Brooks Hagerty, who made a career-best seven saves, and the back four withstood the pressure and advanced to their second national title match with their third shutout of the 2008 NCAA Tournament.

In the final, Carolina suffered a 1-0 loss to Maryland, ending their memorable run through the postseason.

Carolina made a return trip to the College Cup in 2009 where the Tar Heels squared off against undefeated and untied No. 1 Akron in the semifinals. The Tar Heels held the Zips scoreless for the first time on the season before falling, 5-4, in penalties.

The Tar Heels opened the NCAA Tournament with a first round bye before dispatching No. 25 Brown by a 2-0 margin. Indiana came to Chapel Hill next and left in similar fashion as Alex Dixon tallied the lone goal in UNC's 1-0 win. Next on the docket was No. 24 Drake who was the lone team to tally against Carolina during the 2009 NCAA Tournament en route to falling 2-1. Kirk Urso and Dixon scored in the win, as Dixon became the first player in school history to score in three consecutive NCAA Tournament games.

North Carolina advanced to its third consecutive NCAA College Cup in 2010 in remarkable fashion as the Tar Heels became the first team in NCAA history to advance in three consecutive rounds via penalty shootout.

The Tar Heels opened with a 0-0 draw against Georgetown before advancing 5-4 on penalties. In the second round, sophomore All-America Enzo Martinez delivered the goal of the tournament by scoring with nine seconds remaining in regulation to tie Michigan State before UNC advanced 5-4 on penalties once again. Another 1-1 draw in the quarterfinal round against SMU resulted in a 4-2 penalty win to send Carolina to Santa Barbara, Calif.

In the semifinal Carolina went up against undefeated and No. 1 overall seed Louisville. The Cardinals took a 1-0 lead early in the second half before Stephen McCarthy headed home a cross from Alex Dixon four minutes later to knot the score at 1-1. In another match looking to head to penalties, the Cardinals scored a last-minute goal to drop the Heels in heartbreaking fashion.

The 2011 season saw the Tar Heels reach the College Cup for a fourth-straight year and finally knock down the door to claim the second national championship in school history. Carolina claimed a 3-2 win over Coastal Carolina in the second round before Billy Schuler sent the Tar Heels through with an overtime winner against Indiana.

The Tar Heels downed Saint Mary's 2-0 in the quarterfinals to earn a trip to Hoover, Ala., where Carolina locked up with UCLA. The Tar Heels fell in an early 1-0 hole but netted a pair of goals in the second half to force overtime and an eventual penalty shootout that the Tar Heels claimed, 3-1. Ben Speas was the only person to tally in the championship as Carolina downed Charlotte to claim the 2011 National Championship.

Carolina reached the quarterfinal round for the fifth-straight season after picking up wins over UMBC (3-2 in penalty kicks) and Fairleigh Dickinson (1-0 in overtime) in Chapel Hill, before falling 1-0 at home to eventual national champion Indiana.

Berhalter, Pope Play For U.S. In 2002 And 2006 World Cup

Former University of North Carolina men's soccer stars and long-time U.S. National Team members Gregg Berhalter and Eddie Pope were members of the 23-man 2006 United States World Cup team after also earning spots on the U.S. squad in 2002.

The two defenders both started games for the U.S. team during its 2002 qualifying campaign and World Cup run, and Pope started two matches in the 2006 World Cup.

Pope, who lettered at Carolina from 1992-95, made his third World Cup appearance, having started three World Cup games in 1998. Pope was a regular with the U.S. team throughout the last decade before retiring from international play following the 2006 World Cup.

Berhalter lettered at Carolina from 1991-93 and played professionally in Europe since leaving Chapel Hill until joining the MLS' LA Galaxy this season. He entered the 2006 World Cup with 44 career caps and was an injury replacement for Cory Gibbs. Berhalter started three games as a central defender during the USA's 2002 qualifying season and that year's World Cup was the first of his career.

Defender Eddie Pope was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame in 2011.

Dax McCarty was a member of the 2008 U.S. Olympic Team in Beijing.

THE RAMS CLUB

On December 7, 1938, a group of UNC supporters took a step that forever changed the face of Carolina Athletics.

The incorporation of The Educational Foundation (a.k.a. The Rams Club) has resulted in hundreds of millions of dollars in scholarship support to thousands of Carolina student-athletes; financial assistance only made possible through the commitment from tens of thousands of Rams Club members over the past 75 years.

While the generosity and longevity of The Rams Club has been remarkable, these have only been THE FIRST 75 YEARS of supporting Carolina's student-athletes. As we recognize this milestone over the course of this next year, we'll celebrate the tremendous accomplishments made possible with member support and look forward to the achievements that are yet to come.

OUR MISSION

The Educational Foundation, Inc., was chartered December 7, 1938, to provide assistance to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill for the following: to offer financial aid to worthy young men and women seeking an education at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and to support University programs by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or purchase of equipment.

More than $175M
in Scholarship support provided
since 1938.

Over
17,000
Scholarships
provided
since 1938.

Members of The Rams Club enjoy many great benefits - the most rewarding benefit being your commitment to provide opportunities for worthy young men and women to represent Carolina. Members also receive ticket priority over the general public for football, men's and women's basketball and baseball as well as exclusive access to the latest Carolina news and special events. For more information on how you can help secure the future success of Carolina Athletics and enjoy the benefits of being a Rams Club member, visit RamsClub.com.

As we remember the incredible on-field and off-field achievements of Carolina student-athletes since 1938, it's important we also continue to realize that we're not done. There will be another four-time All American, another Olympian, another revolutionary doctor, another innovative businessman, another amazing mother - with your continued support, we can all look forward to seeing who they will be. After all, these really have only been THE FIRST 75.
