Supporting UNC Men's Soccer

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Nike, Inc. signed a new 10-year contract for Nike to be the exclusive supplier of athletic footwear, apparel and accessory products to the Tar Heels effective July 1, 2008. Nike will provide the athletic department with shoes, uniforms, coaching gear, balls and other equipment. In addition to the apparel and equipment, which constitutes the majority of the value of the contract, Nike will give the University $2 million to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund. Chancellor Holden Thorp says he will direct the funds to faculty support. Nike will also provide support for team tours, travel and hosting regular-season tournaments in several sports. The athletic department will also receive $1 million for signing the contract, with those funds being used to overhaul lighting and sound at the Dean E. Smith Center.

CARLOS SOMOANO

HEAD COACH
FIFTH SEASON

Head Coach Carlos Somoano enters his fifth year in 2015 at the helm of the North Carolina men's soccer program. Somoano reached the summit of collegiate soccer when he led the Tar Heels to the 2011 NCAA title, becoming just the second rookie head coach in NCAA history to win a national championship.

Somoano, who has guided each of his four previous clubs to NCAA postseason play, owns a 61-17-13 career record, good for a program best .742 winning percentage. Not only has all four clubs made the postseason, but three of those teams reached at least the NCAA Quarterfinals, most recently in 2014.

He was named the 2011 National Coach of the Year by Soccer America as the Tar Heels posted a 21-2-3 mark en route to the 2011 national title.

The Tar Heels became only the second team in Atlantic Coast Conference history to claim the treble in a single year by winning the ACC regular season title, the ACC Tournament crown and the national championship in 2011.

In addition to his national coach of the year honors, the ACC coaches also pegged Somoano the top head man in the ACC for 2011. Somoano joined former Carolina men's coach and current Carolina women's coach, Anson Dorrance, as the second coach to be named the ACC Coach of the Year in their first year on the job.

Several Tar Heels earned national recognition in 2011 under Somoano's watch with Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez and Billy Schuler earning All-America honors. Another Tar Heel, Ben Speas, was also named the National Player of the Year by Soccer America.

Five Tar Heels earned All-ACC honors in 2011 with Scott Goodwin, Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez and Billy Schuler being named first team and Kirk Urso joining the second team. Mikey Lopez, Jordan McCrary and Boyd Okwuonu were all named to the ACC All-Freshman Team, while Hedges and Lopez earned Defender of the Year and Freshman of the Year, respectively.

The Tar Heels also excelled in the classroom with Scott Goodwin, Rob Lovejoy and Kirk Urso earning ACC All-Academic Team honors in 2011.

It was going to be a tough act to follow in his second season, but the Heels did well in recording a 16-4-3 mark and came within one match of a fifth-straight College Cup in 2012. UNC ultimately fell 1-0 to eventual national champion Indiana in the quarterfinal round of the NCAA Tournament.

Similar to previous seasons, UNC was honored with a handful of national awards in 2012 with Danny Garcia, Goodwin, Lopez and Okwuonu all earning All-America honors. Additionally, Jonathan Campbell and Garcia, the ACC Freshman of the Year, earned Freshman All-America plaudits.

Six Tar Heels earned All-ACC awards during the 2012 campaign. Garcia joined Lopez as the first Tar Heel duo to be named ACC Freshman of the Year in back-to-back seasons since 1993 and 1994. Additionally, Lopez and Okwuonu were the only underclassmen to be recognized on the All-ACC first team. Second team nods went to Andy Craven, Garcia and Goodwin for a second-straight year. Campbell and Garcia landed on the All-ACC Freshman Team.

Academically, Goodwin was the winner of the Capital One Academic All-America of the Year award for Division I men's soccer. He also headlined the All-ACC Academic Team, earning the Scholar-Athlete of the Year award. Campbell, Lovejoy and Martin Murphy joined Goodwin on the team.

The 2013 Tar Heels featured one of the top defensive sides in the nation, led by ACC Defender of the Year Okwuonu, who also earned All-America honors for the second-consecutive season. Carolina advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament, finishing with a 9-6-5 record.

Okwuonu led a group of five players that earned All-ACC honors as he was tabbed first team All-ACC. Jonathan Campbell and Brendan Moore secured second team citations, while Jordan McCrary was a third team pick and Omar Holness landed on the All-Freshman squad. Holness also secured a slot on Soccer America's All-Freshman Team.

2014 turned out to be another stellar campaign for the Tar Heels, who posted a 15-5-2 overall mark and again reached the NCAA Quarterfinals for the sixth time in the last seven seasons.

UNC was a prolific scoring team, leading the country in goals (52) and total points (157) and was second with 53 assists. Andy Craven, who became a finalist for the MAC Hermann Trophy, led the scoring corp with an NCAA best 35 points and 15 goals.

Craven and Okwuonu both earned first team All-America honors in 2014, while Jonathan Campbell was an Academic All-America first team selection. Carolina also led the way in the ACC with eight players selected for all-league honors, including three first team honorees - Craven, Holness and Okwuonu.

Before his success as head coach, Somoano helped recruit six top-10 recruiting classes and watched over one of the most successful periods in school history as an assistant coach for nine seasons from 2002-2010. The Tar Heels advanced to three consecutive NCAA College Cups, including the 2008 National Championship game, and amassed a 118-52-27 record.

Somoano helped lead the Tar Heels to nine All-America honors and 41 All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors as an assistant, including the 2003 ACC Rookie of the Year, Jamie Watson. Twelve different Tar Heels were named to the All-ACC Academic Team for their work in the classroom and on the field, including 2010 ACC Men's Soccer Academic Athlete of the Year Kirk Urso.

Somoano also played a key part in developing the Tar Heels into professional soccer players. Since 2003, 28 former players have been selected in the MLS SuperDraft. Included in that group is nine first-round draftees: David Stokes, Dax McCarty, Michael Harrington, Zach Loyd, Jalil Anibaba and Eddie Ababio, Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez and most recently Mikey Lopez in 2013.

Carolina was the only team nationally to have a first-round selection every season between 2010 and 2013, and its six first rounders in that time frame was the second most in the country.

Four former Tar Heels who played under Somoano have represented the United States in the past few years as Hedges, Loyd, McCarty and Logan Pause have all been called upon to represent their country.

College Soccer News named Somoano a Top 20 Assistant Coach six times in his career as well as the NSCAA South Region Assistant Coach of the Year in 2010. In addition to his work with the Tar Heels, Somoano has coached 16-to-18-year old boys with Raleigh's Capital Area Soccer League since 2002. He has guided three different teams within this age group to a total of five-straight state titles and three Disney Soccer Showcase championships. Somoano also served as the United States Youth Soccer Region III Staff Coach in 2004, 2006 and 2007 and was responsible for selecting and coaching ODP state team players. He also served in a similar position in Region I from 1999-2002.

Additionally, Somoano serves as a scout for the U.S. Soccer Development Academy. In 2009, Somoano was the head coach for the U-16 CASL Chelsea Academy, where he led his team to the National Championship week. He was named the 2009 US Soccer U-15/16 Development Academy Southern Conference and National Coach of the Year.

Somoano came to Carolina from Virginia Commonwealth University, where he was an assistant coach for six seasons from 1996-2001. Prior to his stint in Richmond, he was an assistant coach at Eckerd College from 1992-95.

Somoano received a Bachelor of Science in biology (concentration in pre-medicine) from Eckerd College in 1992. He then earned a Master's of Sport Management degree from the University of Richmond in August of 2000. Somoano earned four letters in soccer at Eckerd College and was a two-year team captain.

Somoano is married to the former Martina Nedelkova, and the couple has two daughters and a son: Sofia Kathleen, born May 6, 2006, Gabriela Martina, born Dec. 24, 2007, and Alexander Luis, born April 24, 2011.

HEAD COACH CARLOS SOMOANO

JASON O'KEEFE

ASSISTANT COACH
SECOND SEASON

Jason O'Keefe begins his second season in 2015 as an assistant coach for the North Carolina men's soccer program.

O'Keefe joined the Tar Heels after spending the previous four seasons at Saint Louis University (2010-13) as an assistant coach and recruiting coordinator for one of the premier programs in men's college soccer.

O'Keefe is the primary recruiting coordinator for Carolina, while also assisting the coaching staff on all other aspects of the program. He had coached or recruited 32 players that have been drafted and played professionally in the United States (MLS, NASL or USL PRO) and abroad before joining the Carolina men's soccer program.

O'Keefe was named the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA) Mid-Atlantic Region Assistant Coach of the Year following the 2012 season. O'Keefe helped the Billikens to one of their best seasons in recent history as SLU captured the Atlantic 10 Conference tournament title and was the No. 8 overall seed in the NCAA Tournament.

In 2013, O'Keefe was named one of CollegeSoccerNews.com's top 15 assistant coaches in the country after leading Saint Louis to the A-10 regular season crown.

Previously, O'Keefe served three seasons as an assistant at Elon University and was the associate head coach in 2009. Hired in February 2007, he helped the Phoenix win a Southern Conference regular-season championship in 2008, the first such title in program history.

Prior to taking the position at Elon, O'Keefe spent one season as an assistant coach at the University of Cincinnati, where he helped the Bearcats win the 2006 Big East Championship and qualify for the NCAA Tournament.

O'Keefe began his Division I coaching career at Wake Forest University. He was hired by the Demon Deacons in 2003, and later assisted the 2004 club in capturing the ACC regular-season championship and the top seed in the NCAA Tournament. The following season the 2005 squad advanced to the third round of the NCAA Tournament.

He served as the director of coaching for the Burlington Soccer Club in Burlington, N.C., prior to arriving at SLU. He was charged with managing coaching staffs in an organization that involved more than 250 players and 18 teams. Earlier in his coaching career, O'Keefe was the assistant director of coaching for the Twin City Soccer Association, a club in Winston-Salem, N.C., with more than 600 players and 25 teams.

O'Keefe began his coaching career at his alma mater, Greensboro College, in 2000. In three seasons, he helped the Pride win three regular-season and tournament conference crowns. In addition, Greensboro was consistently nationally ranked in O'Keefe's three years as an assistant coach.

O'Keefe graduated from Greensboro College in 1997 with a bachelor's degree in history and secondary education. As a player at Greensboro, he helped the Pride to three NCAA Division III Tournament appearances, a 1994 conference title and a 1996 South Region championship.

O'Keefe holds a United States Soccer Federation (USSF) "A" License and a National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA) Advanced National Diploma.

GRANT PORTER

ASSISTANT COACH
FIFTH SEASON

Grant Porter begins his fifth season as an assistant coach for the North Carolina men's soccer program in 2015. The 2004 graduate of UNC has been a key figure in both national titles in school history. Porter helped lead the Tar Heels to their first national championship as a player in 2001 and again as an assistant coach in 2011.

Porter assists in all aspects of the program from handling travel plans to recruiting. Carolina brought in the No. 3 recruiting class for the 2012 season, and the following year's class was tabbed No. 4 in 2013.

He played alongside 16 MLS draft picks as a player, and has helped guide 13 players into professional soccer since becoming a Tar Heel assistant coach in 2011.

Porter's eight years with the Carolina program is likely unmatched by any other former player turned coach in Tar Heel history. His resume includes the aforementioned two national titles in 2001 and 2011, and eight NCAA Tournament appearances.

Porter has been a member of three Atlantic Coast Conference regular season championship clubs, and two ACC Tournament title teams as well.

Additionally, his eight seasons donning Carolina blue has seen his clubs notch an overall record of 129-35-18, a winning percentage of .758. That figure includes a 68-18-5 record as a player and a 61-15-13 mark as an assistant coach.

Porter rejoined Carolina in 2011 with eight years of coaching experience under his belt since graduating from UNC. Porter was the Director of Soccer for the Charlotte United Futbol Club in Charlotte, N.C., from 2006-2010. During that time he was also the head soccer coach at Charlotte Country Day School during the 2009 and 2010 seasons.

While at Charlotte Country Day, Porter helped groom an all-state selection, a pair of all-region honorees and six all-conference award winners.

Porter was an assistant coach at UC Santa Barbara in 2005 where he helped lead the Gauchos to an NCAA Tournament appearance and a top-25 final national ranking. Eight players on that roster went on to Major League Soccer.

He began his coaching career at Georgia State University where he was the head assistant coach for two seasons. Porter helped lead the Panthers to a winning record and a trip to the Atlantic Sun Tournament semifinals. Porter earned a master's degree in sport administration from GSU.

Porter was a four-year starter during his time in Chapel Hill from the 2000-2003 seasons. He was credited with the game-winning assist in the national championship game of 2001. He was awarded the UNC Nicholas Douglass Potter Coaches' Award in 2001.

Porter would later go on to become the team captain in his senior year of 2003. The run from 2000-2003 ranks as one of the best four-year spans in school history. The Tar Heels won 21 matches in back-to-back seasons, and were crowned both 2000 ACC Tournament and 2001 NCAA national champs.

Porter, who works with US Soccer as a regional scout for youth national teams, holds a bachelor's degree from the University of North Carolina in economics.

COACHING STAFF

CHRIS RICH
VOLUNTEER ASSISTANT COACH
SECOND SEASON

Chris Rich begins his second year as the volunteer assistant men's soccer coach at North Carolina in 2015 after serving in a similar role at Virginia Tech for two previous seasons.

Rich is tasked with working on the field primarily with UNC's goalkeepers, but also lends a hand in many other aspects of the program.

Rich, who oversaw game day scouting and video analysis for the Hokies during the 2012 and 2013 campaigns, also served as the goalkeeper coach, mentoring first team All-ACC keeper Kyle Renfro in 2013.

Prior to Virginia Tech, Rich spent time as an assistant coach at Florida International during the 2011 season. He assisted in most aspects of the program with a specific focus on domestic recruiting. Rich spent four years as an assistant coach at his alma mater, Barry University, where he was the goalkeeper coach for the men's team for four seasons and the women's team for three seasons.

As a student-athlete at Barry, Rich was a captain and a four-year starter in goal for the Buccaneers. An All-Sunshine State Conference pick, Rich notched 28 career wins and eight shutouts between the pipes.

Rich holds a NSCAA Advanced National Diploma, a USSF 'B' license, and a NSCAA Advanced National Goalkeeping Diploma. Rich earned a bachelor's degree in sport management in 2007 and a master's degree in sport management in 2009 from Barry.

Strength and Conditioning

Under the direction of the UNC Olympic sports strength and conditioning staff, Tar Heel student-athletes get outstanding coaching intended to help maximize their physical potential. The staff evaluates Carolina student-athletes in a variety of ways, including the use of specialized software for lifting and running video analysis, to encourage steady progress toward reaching optimum preparation for competition.

The men's soccer team trains at the Olympic sports weight room in Eddie Smith Field House. In addition to top-of-the-line strength equipment, the center boasts a five-lane, 25-yard rubberized surface for teaching and performing warm-up activities, acceleration drills and agility movements. Year-round training produces athletes who are prepared to compete successfully and safely.

Greg Gatz is the Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports and oversees the program.

Medical Care

In addition to the academic and fitness programs, the Tar Heels receive excellent care from one of the country's best sports medicine staffs.

Carolina's Director of Sports Medicine, Dr. Mario Ciocca, oversees the program and directs a staff of full-time athletic trainers and physical therapists, graduate students and undergraduates. Alain Aguilar is the head athletic trainer for the men's soccer team, while three other athletic training staff members serve the team as well.

The medical and athletic training facilities are located in the Student Health Center and Fetzer Gym. Both are near Tar Heel practice areas for easy access to the treatment and advice on the care and prevention of injuries that is available from the sports medicine staff.

The Athletic Department also recognizes a responsibility in educating student athletes on the physical, mental, emotional and legal issues involved in drug abuse. Accordingly, the department has established a drug education and prevention program which is administered by the University's Student Health Services.

Bubba Cunningham Director of Athletics

Lawrence R. (Bubba) Cunningham is in his fifth year as the director of athletics at the University of North Carolina. Cunningham officially began his duties at UNC on November 14, 2011.

Cunningham is the seventh director of athletics in Carolina history, following Robert A. Felzer (1923-52), Chuck Erickson (1953-67), Homer Rice (1969-75), Bill Cobey (1976-80), John Swofford (1980-97) and Dick Baddour (1998-2012).

In each of his four seasons, Carolina has finished in the top 15 of the Learfield Director's Cup, including three top-10 finishes. During that same period, the number of UNC student-athletes on the ACC Academic Honor Roll has steadily increased.

Among Cunningham's many accomplishments since arriving in Chapel Hill are the implementation of a strategic plan for Carolina athletics; a partnership with Disney to enhance customer service and organizational practices; the development of the Student-Athlete Academic Initiative Working Group; a complete compliance review by an outside firm; the development of a master plan for UNC's athletic facilities; and the creation of the Rammys - an innovative end-of-the-year awards show popular with Carolina's student-athletes and staff.

College athletics has seen many changes in recent years and Cunningham, who is the 3rd Vice President of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA), has Carolina positioned to have a voice in the on-going conversation about the future, whether it is in the state university system, the Atlantic Coast Conference or at the NCAA level.

In 2012, Cunningham led a planning committee that worked with Dr. Paul Friga, associate professor of strategy and entrepreneurship at Carolina's Kenan-Flagler School of Business, to develop Carolina's strategic plan. From that process was the creation of UNC's mission statement - "We Educate and Inspire Through Athletics." The plan also identified four core values for Carolina Athletics- Responsibility, Innovation, Service and Excellence.

Carolina's work with the Disney Institute, one of the most recognized names in business solutions and professional development, began in 2013. Members of the Disney Institute worked with the athletic department to learn more about Carolina athletics and provide recommendations on best practices. Several cross unit work teams were organized within the department to provide an assessment of the organization and provide feedback to Disney.

Cunningham joined with provost James W. Dean and other University officials to develop the Student-Athlete Academic Initiative Working Group, which was launched in fall 2013. That group spent several months developing a comprehensive approach to assessing and enhancing how the University provides academic support to student-athletes. The group is implementing a rigorous and transparent set of processes and metrics as part of an ongoing initiative. The objective is to ensure proper alignment with the University's academic mission, a goal that is consistent with Cunningham's strategic plan for the Department of Athletics.

On the field, Carolina has achieved outstanding success under Cunningham's leadership. Carolina finished fifth in the 2014-15 Learfield Director's Cup, its highest finish since a second place in 2008-09. Ten Tar Heel teams posted top-10 national finishes and 25 advanced to postseason play, led by a second-place finish by women's lacrosse and a final four appearance by field hockey. Carolina also had top-10 finishes in men's soccer (fifth), volleyball (fifth), men's lacrosse (fifth), men's tennis (fifth), women's tennis (fifth), men's basketball (ninth), women's basketball (ninth) and women's soccer (ninth).

In addition, the women's cross country team won its first ACC title in 11 years and the women's tennis team captured the ITA national indoor team championship for the second time in the last three years. Individually, Jamie Loeb won UNC's first-ever women's tennis NCAA singles championship.

Carolina finished 14th in the 2013-14 Learfield Director's Cup with seven teams posting top-10 national finishes. In 2012-13, Cunningham's first full season at UNC, Carolina finished eighth in the Director's Cup on the strength of national championships in women's soccer and women's lacrosse.

The Tar Heels also had top-10 finishes in field hockey (second), baseball (third), men's lacrosse (fifth), men's soccer (fifth) and women's tennis (fifth). The women's tennis team captured the ITA national indoor title and six other programs finished in the top 25.

The UNC women's athletics program captured the 2013 Capital One Cup, which is awarded to the best men's and women's Division I athletics programs in the country. For winning its first Capital One Cup, the Tar Heels earned $200,000 toward student-athlete scholarships and a spot at the annual ESPY Awards show in Los Angeles.

Carolina student-athletes have excelled in the classroom as well. During the 2014-15 academic calendar, more than 300 student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year. It was the third-consecutive season Carolina had produced more than 300 honorees.

Cunningham is in his 14th year as a Division I director of athletics. He came to Chapel Hill after spending the previous six years as the director of athletics at the University of Tulsa. He also was the AD for three years from 2002-2005 at Ball State University. He was honored as the 2008-09 FBS Central Region Athletics Director of the Year, an award presented by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics.

At Tulsa, Cunningham guided the Golden Hurricane through its initial move to Conference USA and spearheaded a $60 million athletics initiative, which included a $20 million renovation to Skelly Field at H.A. Chapman Stadium, a goal of $20 million for an athletics scholarship endowment and $20 million for coaches' salary endowment.

Cunningham implemented and developed a strategic plan for personal and professional growth and development for Tulsa's student-athletes, coaches and staff. He presided over the completion of the $8.5 million Case Athletic Complex, which houses football offices and academic support center for student-athletes.

Tulsa won 34 league championships in his tenure, more than any other school in Conference USA. The football program played in five bowl games in his last six years, winning four of those games. Cunningham hired former Tulsa football coach Todd Graham, who led the Golden Hurricane to three 10-win seasons in a four-year span, the first time it had been accomplished in school history.

Tulsa student-athletes excelled academically, earning 17 ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America performances over the last five years, and 11 student-athletes won C-USA Scholar Athlete of the Year honors.

At Ball State, Cunningham led a program with 19 intercollegiate sports and a budget of $12.4 million. In his final year, Ball State completed a $12 million campaign to renovate the football stadium. In raising those funds, Cunningham secured the largest single gift in Ball State athletics history.

From 1988-2002, Cunningham worked in the athletics department at the University of Notre Dame. He served as Notre Dame's associate athletics director for finance and facilities from 1995-2000 and was the associate director of athletics for external affairs from 2000-02. Cunningham increased corporate sponsorship income, created a financial/equity plan for the department and served as chairman of the NCAA Division I Women's Golf Committee. He also developed an equity plan to meet Title IX requirements, completed the master plan for athletic facilities and helped plan and complete the $50 million renovation and 20,000-seat expansion of Notre Dame Stadium. He also coordinated the planning and construction of the Warren Golf Course, an 18-hole championship course on the Notre Dame campus.

Cunningham earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration, both from Notre Dame, in 1984 and 1988, respectively. He played on the Irish golf team in 1982-83.

Cunningham is a member of the USTA Athletic Director Advisory Group. He is a former member of NACDA's Executive Committee, and was on the Board of Directors of the Alzheimers Association of Oklahoma and the Folds of Honor Foundation Board. Cunningham also served on the Gatorade National Advisory Board and has been a featured speaker at numerous NACDA and I-A institute conferences.

Born in Flint, Mich., and raised in Naples, Fla., Cunningham and his wife, Tina, have four children: Matthew, Michael, John and Sarah.

Home winning percentage in 67 seasons of competition (.753).

The Tar Heels play in front of rowdy crowds each game at Fetzer Field, the home of Carolina soccer since 1947.

A Premier Facility

A host of numerous ACC Tournament, NCAA Tournament and Final Four matches over its illustrious history, Fetzer Field has long been one of the nation's most storied soccer facilities. With the 1999 relocation of the UNC soccer offices to the McCaskill Soccer Center adjacent to Fetzer Field, Carolina enjoys perhaps the finest overall facility in all of college soccer.

Fetzer Field, which boasts a capacity of 5,025 fans, is the home to UNC's men's and women's soccer, men's and women's lacrosse and men's and women's outdoor track and field teams.

The dedication of the McCaskill Soccer Center on April 11, 1999, solidified Fetzer Field's elite status among soccer facilities. The Center is a two-story structure that houses locker rooms for the men's and women's soccer teams as well as a team meeting room, coaches' offices and a large conference room. Total costs on the project were $1.8 million.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus, Fetzer Field was originally completed in 1935 as a Works Projects Administration program. Since 1947, the Tar Heel men have won over 75 percent of their games played there, going 400-118-40 (.753) in 67 seasons.

The facility has been home not only to NCAA and ACC Soccer Championships, but also to several ACC Track and Field Championships, the N.C. High School Athletic Association Track and Field Championships, the National Junior Olympics and men's lacrosse NCAA and ACC Tournaments. In 1996, the facility was the home training site for the United States Track and Field Team as it prepared for the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta. In 2001, it was home to the Carolina Courage of the WUSA.

History

Fetzer Field, named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track and field head coach Bob Fetzer, was the only home the North Carolina men's soccer program knew from the team's first varsity game in 1947 through the entirety of the 1988 campaign. When Fetzer was being renovated, the Tar Heels played all their 1989 home games at Finley Field near the University golf course, as well as the first eight home matches of 1990.

Carolina then returned home to Fetzer on Oct. 21, 1990, and celebrated the homecoming with a stunning 2-0 upset of No. 10 NC State. On Nov. 10, 1990, Carolina played its first night game ever at Fetzer Field, beating Wake Forest 2-1 in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. Night games are now a regular part of the Carolina men's soccer schedule at Fetzer. Nearly every home game is broadcast on TV or ESPN3.

Facility Upgrades

The 1989 campaign was the only year in which Carolina did not play any games at Fetzer Field since the program was founded in 1947. The facility underwent a complete renovation beginning in May 1989. The project was completed in October 1990, and the facility was officially rededicated on April 6, 1991, during a men's lacrosse game between No. 1-ranked Carolina and No. 2-ranked Johns Hopkins. At the same time, the track area of the facility was renamed the Irwin Belk Track.

The renovation project itself included resurfacing and widening of the track, which encircles the soccer and lacrosse field, upgrading the grandstand seating with new aluminum bleachers and the building of permanent gatehouses. In addition, the press box at Fetzer Field was enclosed and air-conditioned. A new matrix scoreboard was also installed that is complete with a message board.

On Oct. 21, 1990, the men's soccer team officially returned home to a newly renovated Robert Allison Fetzer Field at the University of North Carolina. After nearly two years worth of remodeling and refurbishing at the legendary Fetzer grounds, the Tar Heels were back home once again.

McCaskill Soccer Center

The McCaskill Soccer Center on the University of North Carolina campus was dedicated in a gala ceremony on April 11, 1999. Attending the event were members of the Educational Foundation as well as other University of North Carolina soccer enthusiasts and donors to the building project. Construction on the 6,600-square-foot soccer facility was completed shortly before its dedication.

The McCaskill Soccer Center is located on the same site as the former soccer offices adjacent to Fetzer Field. The old soccer offices were located in a building called the UNC Soccer Hut that dated back to the original construction in 1935. The new structure honored the McCaskill family, long-time supporters of Tar Heel athletics. The two-story structure accommodates varsity men's and women's soccer locker rooms on the first floor as well as a common team meeting room between the dressing areas. The second floor houses coaches' offices for both sports as well as a large conference room.

Carolina has one of the richest traditions in collegiate soccer, both men and women. The men's team attained varsity status in 1947 under legendary coach Marvin Allen. The Tar Heel men have suffered only one losing season since 1957. Carolina has appeared in the NCAA Tournament 21 times in the last 28 years, including each of the last four seasons under the direction of head coach Carlos Somoano. In his first season, he directed the Tar Heels to the 2011 NCAA National Championship, the second such title in program history.

"The former 1,200-square-foot soccer office was greatly outdated," said former UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour at the time. "We've made improvements to a lot of our facilities in recent years and this one was badly needed. That would be the case regardless of the teams' records. We want to give our student-athletes the best chance to succeed and enjoy the experience here. This is a way to help in that regard."

The destruction of the Old UNC Soccer Hut was carried out in 1997. Construction of the new building commenced following the conclusion of the 1997 season. In the meantime, the soccer offices were housed in temporary facilities at Finley Field, the Tar Heels' practice facility near the University golf course. While the new center has over five times more space than the old facility, the expansion occurred without any loss of parking on campus, always a major concern.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Board of Trustees approved the selection of NBBJ Architects of the Research Triangle Park to design the project. Estimated cost of construction was approximately $1.7 million. The project was funded through Athletic Department funds and Educational Foundation gifts. The building was named in honor of the McCaskill family, long-time benefactors of the University. It specifically was named for Mildred McCaskill and facilitated through her brother Norman and his wife, Carol McCaskill.

Together, Fetzer Field and the McCaskill Soccer Center give Carolina two of the best facilities in collegiate soccer.

CHAPEL HILL

Home for a Lifetime

Often referred to as "The Southern Part of Heaven," Chapel Hill has been called the perfect college town by several publications, including Sports Illustrated.

- Chapel Hill has been ranked the Most Livable Small City (less than 100,000) in America.
- Chapel Hill has a population of approximately 60,000 and neighboring Carrboro adds another 20,000 people.
- The Chapel Hill/Carrboro area offers a wealth of dining, shopping and entertainment options, with many more located nearby in Hillsborough, Durham and Raleigh.
- Chapel Hill's location is ideal, within an easy drive of North Carolina's beautiful beaches and mountains.

Running along the north edge of campus, Franklin Street is the heart of Chapel Hill. It provides a mix of restaurants, shops and nightlife, and also serves as the town's meeting place. UNC fans rush Franklin Street to celebrate Tar Heel titles, and each year Halloween festivities draw thousands of revelers.

UNC has won 22 women's soccer national championships, most recently in 2012.

MILK CENTER FOR EXCELLENCE

- The Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes assists Tar Heel student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals

- The Academic Support Program is housed in the Loudermilk Center for Excellence, a 150,000-square-foot facility that serves all of Carolina's nearly 800 student-athletes across 28 varsity sports. The Loudermilk Center's largest feature is the John W. Pope Student-Athlete Academic Support Center. This facility provides classrooms for teaching and tutoring, study lounges, office space and a computer lab. It also houses the Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy, which offers leadership training for Carolina student-athletes, coaches and staff.

- The Academic Support Program helps freshmen transition from high school to college through a variety of academic programs such as academic counseling, individual tutoring, group review sessions and supplemental instruction.

- During the 2014-15 academic year, 339 Carolina student-athletes earned spots on the ACC Academic Honor Roll, a recognition that requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year.

Jonathan Campbell, a first-team Academic All-America honoree, was recognized as a winner of the Top 10 Scholar-Athlete Award for 2014-15.

RICHARD A. BADDOUR CAROLINA LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

IS OF DISTINCTION

Developing World-Class Leaders for a Lifetime of Service and Success

Student-athletes have the opportunity to participate in the Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy, now in its 11th year of ground-breaking leadership training.

As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in their continual quest to become world-class leaders in athletics and life.

The Leadership Academy provides comprehensive and cutting-edge development programming through interactive workshops, one-on-one coaching, peer mentoring and educational resources.

The Richard A. Baddour Carolina Leadership Academy offers five programs for student-athletes:

Carolina CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the first year at UNC. All leadership begins with personal leadership; therefore first-year student-athletes are taught skills to effectively lead themselves. Training consists of monthly meetings featuring keynote speakers and small group discussion.

CREED Mentors Program

Upperclass student-athletes are selected to serve as CREED mentors, directing discussions and helping to build community. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices, ethics and character building.

Rising Stars Program

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

Leadership Lab Program

This level is an opportunity for continued leadership reflection, mentorship, and application. Leadership reflection entails authentically sourced curriculum for leadership workshops. Mentorship is offered by coaches, department staff members, and current team leadership. Leadership application involves a leadership project.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn and reinforce leadership principles as well as share successes, frustrations and lessons.

Five men's soccer players have earned the Tar Heel Leader of Distinction Award, the Leadership Academy's highest honor. They are Michael Callahan, Jordan Gafa (two-time recipient), Scott Goodwin, Boyd Okwuonu and Kirk Urso.

THE CAROLINA CREED

As a University of North Carolina student-athlete I pledge to make every effort to abide by the Carolina CREED as a show of my commitment to the University, the Department of Athletics, my team, and myself.

C I will know and embrace the tradition and culture of this great university and its athletics department

R I will respect myself and others

E I will pursue excellence in my academic work by striving to reach my academic potential while preparing for a career of significance

E I will excel athletically by committing myself to performance excellence, team success, and continual improvement

D I will develop the capacity to effectively lead myself and others

Andy Craven led the nation in scoring in 2014 and was a Hermann Trophy finalist.

Carolina Made 22nd NCAA Appearance

- Carolina made its 22nd NCAA postseason appearance in program history, including 15 of the last 16 seasons.
- The Tar Heels advanced to the quarterfinals in 2014, the sixth time in the past seven seasons.

UNC and UCLA Play Epic Thriller in Quarterfinals

- Despite playing more than 90 minutes with 10 men, Carolina rallied from a 3-1 deficit on goals by Tyler Engel and Andy Craven to force penalties. The Bruins ultimately advanced to the College Cup with a 7-6 shootout victory over the Tar Heels.

Lovejoy Scores Twice in Win Over Clemson

- Senior forward Rob Lovejoy scored both goals for Carolina in the 2-1 win over Clemson in the third round of the NCAA Championship.
- He was named Top Drawer Soccer's National Player of the Week for his efforts last week.

Engel Plays Role of Hero in Downing 49ers

- Senior forward Tyler Engel has scored 25 goals in his college soccer career, but none bigger than the game winner in the 2-1 victory over Charlotte in the NCAA second round.
- Engel scored both UNC goals that day and had 12 game winners in his career.

Four Selected in MLS SuperDraft

- Rob Lovejoy and Boyd Okwuonu were selected in the second round of the MLS SuperDraft.
- Okwuonu was selected with the 27th overall pick by Real Salt Lake, while Lovejoy was taken by the Houston Dynamo with the 36th pick.
- Andy Craven was selected in the third round with the 48th pick by Seattle Sounders FC.
- Tyler Engel was grabbed by Toronto FC with the 81st pick in the fourth round.
- Carolina has had a total of 41 players selected in the MLS SuperDraft since 2000.

UNC Leads Nation In Goals

- North Carolina scored an NCAA-leading 52 goals during the 2014 campaign, and also led the nation with 157 total points.
- The Tar Heels also ranked second with 53 assists, 2.36 goals per game and 7.14 points per game.

Craven Named Hermann Trophy Finalist

- Senior forward Andy Craven was a finalist for the 2014 MAC Hermann Trophy award.
- He led the country with 35 total points, 15 goals and eight game winners.

Craven, Okwuonu Named All-America By NSCAA

- Andy Craven and Boyd Okwuonu were named to the 2014 NSCAA All-America Team. Craven earned first team honors, while Okwuonu was named to the second team, his third-straight season garnering All-America status.

Campbell Named Academic All-America

- Junior defender Jonathan Campbell was named a member of the first team Capital One Academic All-America team.
- Campbell owned a 3.94 grade-point-average as a business administration major. He has been on the Dean's List every semester at Carolina, and has also landed on the All-Academic Team in 2012, 2013 and 2014.
- Campbell and Rob Lovejoy were both named to the 2014 NSCAA Scholar All-South Region team.

UNC Leads League With 8 All-ACC Selections

- The Tar Heels led all conference members with eight players named to the postseason All-ACC teams. Senior defender Boyd Okwuonu earned first team honors for a third-straight season, while senior forward Andy Craven and sophomore midfielder Omar Holness joined Okwuonu on the first team.

Rob Lovejoy was third on the team in scoring in 2014, and earned both All-ACC and NSCAA Scholar All-Region honors.

- Senior goalie Brendan Moore was named second team All-ACC for a second-consecutive year, while junior defender Jonathan Campbell, junior midfielder Raby George and senior forward Rob Lovejoy all landed on the third team.
- Forward Alan Winn earned a spot on the ACC All-Freshman Team.

Carolina Finishing Season Strong

- Carolina had a 10-1-1 record over its last 12 matches of 2015. The Tar Heels outscored its last 12 opponents by a 35-8 margin.
- Andy Craven had 10 goals and four assists for 24 points in the final dozen games.

Helping His Brothers Out

- Rob Lovejoy finished third in the ACC with eight assists in 2014, a figure that ranked him 14th across Division I soccer.
- Lovejoy was third on the team with 18 points on five goals and eight assists.

More Than You Can Handle

- UNC keeper Brendan Moore went 659 minutes spanning eight matches without allowing a goal during the 2014 season.
- He also put together a stretch of 493:44 without conceding earlier in the season, featuring four-straight shutouts.
- Moore recorded a clean sheet in 19 of his 42 career starts at North Carolina.
- He ranked third in the ACC with nine shutouts in 2014.

Holness Called To Jamaican MNT

- Sophomore Omar Holness debuted with the Jamaican Men's National Team on Tuesday, Sept. 9 in a friendly against Canada.
- The Tar Heel midfielder entered the match in the 79th minute in a 3-1 setback to Canada.

- Holness was a team captain of the Jamaica U17 World Cup side and was a vice captain for the Jamaican U20 club.

Carolina Believes in Cleanliness

- Dating back to early in the 2011 campaign, UNC has shutout 49 of its last 87 opponents.

Getting That First One

- Carolina has a tendency to control the pace of play in its matches, especially when the Tar Heels are able to take a lead.
- Before the 1-1 draw at Notre Dame on Sept. 8, 2013, the Tar Heels had won 42-straight games when scoring the first goal of the match.
- UNC is 64-5-3 when scoring the game's first goal dating back to 2010.

Bouncing Back After A Loss

- The Tar Heels have been very successful in avoiding losing streaks over the last six years.
- Carolina has suffered back-to-back losses on only two occasions since late in the 2008 season.

Carolina Boasts Veteran Roster

- Entering the 2014 season, UNC had 560 career starts among its 26 players that have competed for at least one season at the collegiate level. The next closest team was Evansville at 422 starts, followed by Syracuse (409), Virginia (363) and UNLV (345) in the top 5.

In Memoriam

Kirk Urso

March 6, 1990-

August 5, 2012

North Carolina,

2008-11

Kirk Urso was a member of the Class of 2012, a four-year letterman of the men's soccer team, which advanced to four successive College Cups. He wore the captain's band for the 2011 Tar Heels who won the National Championship, Carolina's second in the sport.

In the 2011 NCAA Tournament, Urso scored the tying goal to rally the Tar Heels past Coastal Carolina in the first round, assisted on the game winning goal against Saint Mary's in the quarterfinals and converted the opening penalty kick to lift the Tar Heels past UCLA in the semifinals.

But well beyond these accomplishments Urso manifested a true love for his alma mater, exemplified by his role as a leader of distinction in the Carolina Leadership Academy, as a fixture on the student athlete advisory council and as a gifted student who was the ACC's Men's Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

During his four years on campus, Kirk never met a stranger and his infectious smile in viewed his life with the sense of purpose and resolve that was the envy of all he met.

A member of the Columbus Crew in Major League Soccer, we lost Kirk at the tragically young age of 22.

Boyd Okwuonu earned All-America honors for a third-straight season in 2014.

The founder of the Carolina soccer program, Dr. Marvin Allen (right), with letter-winner Richard Bordogna.

The University of North Carolina men's soccer program has written a long and successful story for itself and enters the 2015 campaign having posted just two losing seasons in the last 57 years. With 22 trips to the NCAA tourney - including 15 in the last 16 years - the 2001 and 2011 national championships and six College Cup appearances in hand, Carolina has established itself as one of the elite men's soccer programs in the Atlantic Coast Conference and the nation. Carlos Somoano is just the fifth head coach in school history, and become just the second coach in NCAA history to win a national title in his first season in 2011.

Tradition Of Excellence Begins With Allen

Elmar Bolowich took over after 12 successful seasons spearheaded by the coaching of Anson Dorrance, a former star player for the Tar Heels, who continues to direct the Carolina women's program to what is now legendary success each fall. Dorrance's men's teams went 172-65-21 from 1977 through 1988, a winning percentage of .708. He retired from men's coaching just two victories shy of becoming the University's all-time leader in coaching victories in the sport. Dorrance's mentor in the sport, Dr. Marvin Allen, was the guiding force behind the founding of the soccer program at Carolina and its head coach for 28 seasons spanning four decades.

Dr. Allen, who also taught in the physical education department at Carolina, scored the first goal for Carolina's club soccer team when it was founded in the 1930s. In 1947, the University elevated the sport of men's soccer to varsity status and Allen, in a most natural decision, was named the team's first head coach. It was a decision by Athletic Director Bob Fetzer that bore fruit for years to come.

Allen coached the Tar Heels for 28 seasons in the period from 1947 until his retirement after the 1976 season. Allen missed the 1951 and 1952 seasons when he was on active duty with the United States Armed Forces in the Korean War. Alan Moore coached the team on an interim basis during those two years. Allen's teams combined for a record of 174-81-23, a winning percentage of .667. Allen's 1948 team won the Southern Conference title, the first of four league crowns won by UNC in its soccer history. Beginning in 1953, Carolina began competing in the Atlantic Coast Conference and compiled a record of 54-41-16 under Allen's leadership.

In 1966, Carolina won the first of its three ACC men's soccer championships, sharing the championship with Maryland as both teams posted 3-1 records. Two years later, in 1968, North Carolina earned the first of its 20 bids to the NCAA Tournament, losing its first-round match, 5-0, to Michigan State in Chapel Hill. The Spartans went on that year to share the NCAA championship with Maryland.

Dorrance Takes Over

Prior to Allen's last season at the helm of the Tar Heel program in 1976, Dorrance was designated as head men's soccer coach at the University, assisting Allen during his last year before taking over the head duties in 1977. It was a wise choice by Tar Heel Athletic Director Bill Cobey.

Under the direction of both Dorrance and Bolowich, the Tar Heels established themselves as a force to be heard from in the ACC and on the national soccer scene. Competing in the nation's toughest top-to-bottom collegiate soccer league, the ACC has helped give the Tar Heel program a high degree of visibility that extends across the nation and all over the world.

Dorrance had some outstanding teams in his early years at Carolina. His 1977, 1978 and 1979 teams all finished second in the ACC while posting overall records of 14-3-1, 12-3-4 and 16-3-5, respectively. The 1981 team finished 15-6 overall and scored a shocking 1-0 overtime upset victory over Clemson in Chapel Hill, the first win for Carolina over the Tigers in 12 years. Freshman Kenny West scored an overtime goal for Carolina that day at Fetzer Field which gave UNC its first win over I.M. Ibrahim's powerhouse team since 1969.

In 1983, the Tar Heels finished the season with a brilliant 16-3-2 record but were snubbed by the NCAA selection committee when it passed out post-season bids. That slight even occurred after Carolina upset No. 1-ranked and undefeated Duke, 2-1, in overtime in the final match of the regular season before a large crowd at Fetzer Field. Mark Devey scored an unassisted overtime goal to give the Tar Heels the win over the Blue Devils.

The breakthrough year for the Tar Heels under Dorrance proved to be 1987. Led by All-America defender David Smyth, the Tar Heels stunned the ACC by winning only their second conference title in history. The Tar Heels accomplished that feat by winning the championship of the inaugural ACC Men's Soccer Tournament, which was played that year before capacity crowds at Duke. UNC used that tournament championship as a springboard to future success and advanced all the way to the NCAA Final Four, while recording 20 victories for the first time in program history.

Carolina had finished fourth that year in the ACC regular-season standings with a 3-3 record, but the Heels defeated fifth-seeded Clemson, 2-1, in overtime and top-seeded Virginia, 3-0, in the first two rounds of the ACC Tournament. Carolina then came back from a 3-1 second-half deficit to knock off NC State, 4-3, in the finals of the tournament. Smyth scored the tying goal for UNC with 4:37 left in regulation and then tournament most valuable player Derek Missimo, a freshman, scored the winning goal in overtime. Advancing to NCAA Tournament play for only the second time in school history, the 1987 team had to win three consecutive games on the road to advance to the Final Four, blanking Duke, 2-0, edging South Carolina, 2-1, on sudden death penalty kicks and beating Loyola (Md.), 1-0, on yet another Missimo goal. The NCAA awarded Clemson as host of the Final Four in 1987. The Tigers defeated Carolina, 4-1, in the semifinals and then went on to beat San Diego State for the national championship. Carolina suffered massive graduation losses off that 1987 team and, despite a preseason No. 1 ranking, started the following season in a sluggish manner. After 11 matches, Carolina found itself with a disappointing 4-6-1 ledger. But the Tar Heels ran off a seven-match winning streak to put them in contention for an NCAA Tournament bid. For a second-straight year, UNC played well in the ACC Tournament, upsetting host Clemson 2-1 in the first round. That marked Carolina's first victory at Clemson since 1968. UNC then avenged a controversial regular-season loss at Duke by beating the Blue Devils 2-1 in the semifinals, a loss which knocked Duke out of the NCAA Tournament. In the finals, the Tar Heels jumped out on top of top-seeded Virginia in the first half, but the Cavaliers rallied for a 2-1 victory to deny UNC a second-consecutive conference crown.

The Heels did earn an NCAA invitation, however, as the No. 2 seed in the South Region. Carolina traveled to Wake Forest in the first round and beat the Demon Deacons, 2-0, before losing at top-seeded South Carolina, 3-1, in the South Region finals in Columbia, S.C.

Bolowich Takes The Reins

Dorrance resigned as men's coach after the 1988 season to concentrate on his duties with the Carolina women's team, and Bolowich preceded to take the Tar Heels to new heights after taking over as head coach in 1989. The 2001 national title may have marked the summit of that climb to national prominence, but his ability to guide Carolina to three successive College Cups in 2008, 2009 and 2010 showed how his program had risen to an elite status in the college soccer world.

After missing the NCAA Tournament in Bolowich's first year as head coach, the Tar Heels returned to tournament play in 1990 and 1991. Surviving a midseason slump in 1990, Carolina claimed a tournament bid on the strength of regular-season victories over third-ranked South Carolina, eighth-ranked Wake Forest and 10th-ranked ACC champion and NCAA Final Four participant NC State. The Heels downed Wake Forest, 2-1, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament under the lights at Fetzer Field before losing at perennial nemesis Virginia, 3-1, in the second round.

Carolina, with a mark of 15-6-1, found itself in postseason play once again in 1991. The Tar Heels played host to UNC Charlotte in the first round and beat the 49ers 1-0 in overtime as sophomore forward Todd Haskins scored in the 99th minute of play. The second-ranked Billikens of St. Louis eliminated the Tar Heels in the round of 16 with a resounding 4-0 victory at St. Louis.

After a disappointing 1992 campaign, Carolina returned to the limelight in 1993, ranking as high as 12th in the final Soccer News poll. Led by freshman sensation Temoc Suarez, the ACC Rookie of the Year, and All-America defender Gregg Berhalter, UNC finished 13-7-2 and advanced to the Round of 16 of the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time in six years.

Berhalter was especially amazing in an NCAA first round victory over Duke as he scored twice and assisted on another in UNC's 3-2 victory over the Blue Devils at Fetzer Field.

The 1994 campaign proved to be another successful one as Carolina finished 13-7 and made the NCAA Tournament for the sixth time in eight seasons. Led by All-Americans Eddie Pope and Temoc Suarez, as well as ACC Rookie of the Year Carey Talley, Carolina's season was highlighted by a 5-1 victory over national champion Virginia, only UNC's second win over the Cavaliers since 1980.

Injuries crippled the UNC team in 1995, but the Tar Heels still managed an 11-8-1 record. Among the injured players was preseason first-team All-America defender Eddie Pope, who was limited to just nine games. Nevertheless, Carolina played one of the toughest schedules in the nation, including eight games against top-15 foes, and reached the semifinals of the ACC Tournament. Junior Temoc Suarez led the Tar Heels in scoring and was named second-team All-ACC. Pope was named to the first-team despite his limited action and sophomore Carey Talley was a second-team all-conference choice.

The Tar Heels went 8-8-1 in 1996. Along the way, Carey Talley was named first-team All-ACC and third-team All-America after leading the Tar Heels with nine goals. Temoc Suarez led UNC in scoring for the fourth year in a row and was named second-team All-ACC.

Saddled with a young team and a lack of depth due to injury problems, Carolina was 6-13 in 1997, its first losing season in 40 years. Senior Carey Talley, one of 15 finalists for the Missouri Athletic Club Collegiate Player of the Year award, was named first-team All-ACC and third-team All-America for the second-straight year.

The Tar Heels lost Talley to graduation and fielded one of the youngest teams in the nation in 1998 but grew up quickly and posted an 11-6-2 record, nearly earning an NCAA Tournament bid. Freshman forward Chris Carrieri was named the ACC Rookie of the Year and second-team All-ACC after leading the team in goals and points. Michael Bucy was named Academic All-America.

In 1999, Carolina brought back all 11 starters from the '98 campaign and returned to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in five seasons with a record of 12-7-1. Carrieri was named first-team All-ACC after finishing third in the conference in scoring, and defender Danny Jackson was a second-team honoree. Bucy tied for the ACC lead in assists and was named first-team Academic All-America.

The 2000 Tar Heels (21-3, 5-1 ACC) shared the ACC regular-season championship, won the second ACC Tournament title in the program's history and reached the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals for the second time in school annals. Along the way, Carolina was ranked No. 1 in the nation for much of the season and won 15 games in a row, the longest winning streak in school history. UNC's No. 1 seeding in the tournament was the highest ever in men's soccer.

UNC won the ACC Tournament with a 1-0 victory over Wake Forest in the semifinals and a 1-0 overtime win over Virginia in the title game. The ACC championship was UNC's second ever and first since 1987. After winning the 2001 national title, Bolowich guided the Tar Heels back to the NCAA Tournament for the fourth and fifth consecutive seasons in 2002 and '03. Carolina posted a 14-7-1 overall record and secured its third-consecutive winning mark in conference play with a 3-2-1 mark in 2002, before going 12-4-4 and claiming the tournament's No. 4 overall seed in '03. The 2004 Tar Heels made it a sixth-straight trip to the postseason with a 10-9-2 record.

In 2005, Carolina was led by an outstanding defense that logged a then school-record 15 shutouts and posted a scoreless streak of over 900 minutes that carried over into NCAA tournament play. The Tar Heels advanced to the ACC tournament final, but lost to Duke on penalty kicks, and reached the quarterfinals of the NCAA championship on wins over Providence and Virginia at Fetzer Field. However, UNC's season ended with a 3-2 double-overtime loss to SMU.

The 2006 Tar Heels went 11-6-3 and earned a record eighth-straight trip to the NCAA Tournament, but UNC slipped to 7-8-5 in 2007 and missed the postseason for the first time since 1998.

UNC finished 15-8-1 in 2008 and returned to the postseason in a big way, advancing to the NCAA College Cup for the third time in school history and first since 2001. Seeded 13th after the occasion with an overtime winner against soccer powerhouse Indiana in the third round.

A 2-0 win over Saint Mary's sent the Tar Heels to their fourth-consecutive College Cup where they locked up with UCLA in one of the most entertaining matches in NCAA history.

The teams would battle to a 2-2 draw, with both Carolina goals coming in the second half, before securing a 3-1 penalty shootout victory. In the championship match, Ben Speas would tally the lone goal as Carolina downed Charlotte, 1-0, to raise the second championship trophy in school history. UNC also became just the second ACC school to ever win the ACC regular season, the ACC Tournament and the NCAA Championship in a single season.

A Rich Tradition Of Tremendous Players

The recent success of Carolina in the sport of men's soccer is certainly no aberration, however. The Tar Heels have had a quality program since Marvin Allen coached that first team back in 1947.

Carolina has had 30 players land All-America honors in its soccer history, beginning with midfielder Frank Nelson in that initial season of 1947. Right wing Eddie Foy starred for interim coach Alan Moore in 1951 to win All-America honors and was one of three Tar Heel All-Americans in the 1950s. After Allen returned from his military service in Korea, he helped develop All-America left wing Pete Cothran in 1955 and midfielder Bill Blair in 1957.

The 1960s saw three All-America selections in Chapel Hill - back Terry Henry in 1966, midfielder Louis Bush in 1967 and midfielder Mark Packard in both 1968 and 1969.

Some of the other greats to play for the Tar Heels include Dave Boak, who led the Tar Heels in scoring twice and paced the team to a Southern Conference championship in 1948; John Ghanim, who scored what was then a school-record 16 goals in 1959, a mark which stood until Missimo broke it with 20 tallies in 1989; Hugh Goodman, the school's initial first-team All-South selection in 1958; Jackie Writer, who scored a then school career-record 26 goals from 1964-66 and went on to coach at Cornell University; Tony Johnson, a striker who is tied for sixth on Carolina's career list with 32 goals; Mark Devey, another striker who is tied with Johnson for sixth on Carolina's career goal list with 32 and is sixth in points with 91; Billy Hartman, a midfielder who is seventh on the career charts at UNC in points with 88 and fourth in assists with 33; Dino Megaloudis, a midfielder who is third all-time at UNC with 34 career assists; Kevin Kane, who still holds several Carolina goalkeeping records set in the late 1970s; and Watson Jennison, who in his four-year goalkeeping career which ended in 1992, established school records for goalkeeper minutes played, saves and consecutive shutouts.

Amongst other accolades, Smyth was a finalist for National Player of the Year honors in 1987 and teammate Donald Cogsville earned first-team All-ACC honors at two different positions — as a defender in 1987 and at forward in 1988.

Midfielder Chad Ashton graduated after the 1989 campaign after becoming the University's all-time assists leader with 43. Meanwhile, Missimo, who played his senior year in 1990, finished with a school-record 138 points and 56 goals.

All-America choices in the 1990s included sweepers Gregg Berhalter and Eddie Pope, offensive wizard Temoc Suarez, heady midfielder Carey Talley and forward Chris Carrier.

Carrier was a two-time All-America who in 2000 shattered school records for goals and points in a season. He was the top overall pick in the 2001 MLS SuperDraft. Defender Danny Jackson also was named All-America in the 2000 and '01 seasons.

The Tar Heels also saw three players taken in the MLS SuperDraft in both 2003 and 2005 and a record four players were chosen in the 2007 draft, including No. 3 overall pick Michael Harrington.

Midfielder Dax McCarty claimed All-America honors in 2005 and was a member of the 2008 United States Olympic Team. Brian Shriver and Michael Callahan were both named All-Americans in 2008, giving the Tar Heels multiple honorees for just the fourth time in school history and the first since 2000. Shriver and Callahan helped lead the Tar Heels to a national runner-up finish in 2008. All-America Zach Loyd led the Tar Heels back to the College Cup in 2009 before becoming the fifth overall pick in the 2010 MLS Superdraft. The 2010 squad featured four MLS Superdraft selections, including a pair of first round selections in defenders Jalil Anibaba and Eddie Ababio. The midfield duo of Michael Farfan and Stephen McCarthy went back-to-back in the second round after the quartet helped lead UNC to its third-consecutive NCAA College Cup appearance.

The 2011 national championship team boasted four more All-Americans: Matt Hedges, Enzo Martinez, Billy Schuler and Ben Speas, who was named National Player of the Year by Soccer America. Hedges (11th to FC Dallas) and Martinez (17th to Real Salt Lake) were taken in the 2012 MLS Superdraft.

A trio of Tar Heels earned All-America distinction in 2012, led by Mikey Lopez, who was pegged on Top Drawer Soccer's National Team of the Year. Boyd Okwuonu and keeper Scott Goodwin also were named All-Americans. Lopez became the 10th Tar Heel selected in the first round of the MLS SuperDraft since 2000 when Sporting KC tabbed him with the 14th pick in the 2013 draft.

Okwuonu would also earn All-America status in both 2013 and 2014, while Andy Craven earned first team plaudits in 2014 by the NSCAA and was also a MAC Hermann Trophy finalist that same season.

losing five-consecutive matches entering the tournament, the Tar Heels won four straight one-goal games in the postseason, including a 1-0 win over No. 1 Wake Forest in the semis before falling to Maryland by the same score in the title game. UNC was led by a pair of senior All-Americans in Brian Shriver, who topped the scoring charts with 33 points and 14 goals, and Michael Callahan, who anchored the midfield with three goals and five assists.

The 2008 campaign was a springboard for unprecedented success in Carolina men's soccer. The Tar Heels would go on to make four-straight trips to the College Cup, culminating with a national championship in 2011, the second in UNC history.

The 2009 club went 16-2-4 and tied for first in the ACC regular season standings. UNC picked up NCAA victories over Brown, Indiana and Drake, before losing in penalty kicks, 0-0, to eventual national runner-up Akron in the NCAA semifinals.

2010 was more of the same for the Tar Heels, who recorded a 16-4-4 overall record and won the ACC regular season outright for the first time ever. In what ended up being Bolowich's final season in Chapel Hill, UNC earned three-consecutive wins by penalty kick in NCAA play to once again land in the College Cup for the third-straight year. However, Louisville tripped up the Heels in the semifinals, 2-1, in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Somoano Shines from the Start

In the midst of the best stretch of success in program history, the Tar Heels made a coaching change when Carlos Somoano, the top assistant under Bolowich for nine seasons, was tabbed as just the fifth head coach in school history in April 2011. A nationally-recognized recruiter, Somoano's unassuming approach paid immediate dividends by leading UNC to arguably the best season in the history of North Carolina men's soccer.

The 2011 Tar Heels pulled off the rare treble, winning the ACC regular season and tournament championship, before bringing home the NCAA National Championship with a 1-0 win over Charlotte in Hoover, Ala. Somoano was named National Coach of the Year by Soccer America.

2001 National Champs

In 2001, Carolina won the first national championship in program history, going 21-4 overall. The Tar Heels posted a then school-record 14 shutouts and won three-straight overtime games in the NCAA Tournament. The 21 wins equaled the school record set in 2000 and later matched again in 2011.

The Tar Heels led the ACC in scoring offense and allowed just 19 goals in 25 games all season, outscoring their opposition 66-19 on the year. UNC went 4-2 in the ACC for its first back-to-back winning ACC records since 1979-80 and most ACC wins in a two-year period in school history. Carolina went a perfect 12-0 at home, including three NCAA Tournament wins.

Goalkeeper Michael Ueltschey set a then school record with 12 shutouts on the season, while as a team Carolina set a school record with 14 wins by shutout. Ueltschey ended his brilliant career as UNC's all-time leader with 28.5 shutouts.

Tar Heels Win Second National Title

In 2011, Carolina won the second national championship in program history, going 21-2-3 overall. The Tar Heels rolled through the regular season dropping just two matches, both on the road, to claim the ACC regular season crown.

The Tar Heels would go on to post a 58-18 goals scored to goals conceded mark as a high-powered offense fueled by Billy Schuler's 16 goals paired well with one of the top defensive corps in the country. Carolina would add the third ACC Tournament Championship to its trophy case with a 3-1 victory over Boston College in the final to inch one more step towards history.

Carolina's 2001 NCAA Title

The 2001 North Carolina Tar Heels notched the men's first national title in their first-ever appearance in a national championship contest. After a thrilling, late-game comeback win over Stanford to reach the finals, the Tar Heels faced and defeated five-time champion Indiana, who entered the tournament having given up just six goals all season. In addition, the Hoosiers had knocked UNC out in the quarterfinals the year before in Chapel Hill.

The Tar Heels used an early goal 12 minutes in off a header by junior Ryan Kneipper to establish a 1-0 lead and set the tone for the game. Kneipper beat an Indiana defender and goalkeeper Colin Rogers to a long cross from Matt Crawford and headed a shot from six yards out just inside the right post.

The Tar Heels then turned to their defense, led by senior captains Danny Jackson and Chris Leitch, senior goalkeeper Michael Ueltschey and sophomore David Stokes, who was assigned to Indiana all-everything player Pat Noonan for most of the game. The Hoosiers put pressure on the Heels, but could not find a way to even the score against the stalwart Carolina defense.

At the 75 minute mark freshman Marcus Storey was fouled in the box, leading to a penalty kick by Jackson into the top left of the net, giving Carolina a 2-0 lead. The score would hold up as Carolina claimed its first-ever national title.

Carolina's chances of even reaching the finals looked bleak with less than 10 minutes on the clock in its NCAA semifinal versus Stanford. Carolina trailed 2-0 at the time, when forward David Testo bent a left-footed shot from 25 yards out just inside the far post to breathe life back into the Tar Heel attack. Less than two minutes later the Tar Heels found the back of the net again, as Crawford knocked in a rebound to tie the score at two with around eight minutes remaining.

The two teams would go at it for the final eight minutes of regulation and through four overtime periods until Carolina finally broke the deadlock when Mike Gell took a long pass from UNC keeper Michael Ueltschey and chipped a shot over onrushing goalkeeper Andrew Terris in the 136th minute. The goal gave Carolina the 3-2 victory and a place in the title game.

Drama was no stranger to the Heels in the 2001 NCAA Tournament. Carolina needed and received overtime goals to defeat both American and Farleigh Dickinson along its march to the championship. For the season Carolina finished

HOOVER, Ala. - Junior Ben Speas turned in the goal of the tournament to provide Carolina with a 1-0 edge in the 65th minute and the Tar Heel defense stepped up in the final minutes to give UNC its second national title in school history with a 1-0 win over Charlotte at Regions Parks in Hoover, Ala. The title came 10 years after UNC won the championship in 2001.

Speas gathered a free ball in the middle of the field and attacked a retreating 49er defense. After making a run at the right corner of the box, Speas reversed course and dribbled the ball to his left before unleashing a left-footed shot over Charlotte goalkeeper Klay Davis. The ball dipped over Davis and below the cross bar to give the Tar Heels a 1-0 advantage it would not relinquish.

The goal was Speas' third of the tournament and earned the junior forward Most Valuable Offensive Player honors.

Speas nearly put the Tar Heels ahead just minutes before his goal as he worked his way down the left flank before moving to the middle of the field and floating a ball to the far post. Sophomore Rob Lovejoy was making a run down the right and connected on a diving header as the cross got over the Charlotte defender but Lovejoy's header sailed wide of the target.

The Tar Heels struggled to control possession early on as Charlotte controlled the tempo. The 49ers had four shots in the opening 17 minutes of play but the Tar Heel backline made sure that nothing reached goalkeeper Scott Goodwin. Center backs Boyd Okwuonu and Matt Hedges combined to block three of the early opportunities.

Neither team was able to register a shot on goal in the opening 45 minutes.

The Tar Heels finally broke through in the 65th minute when Speas turned in a goal with his shot from 25 yards out that changed the momentum of the match.

Carolina held possession after the initial tally and were looking to add to their total before Charlotte mounted a late charge.

The 49ers earned a corner kick in the 84th minute and nearly found the equalizer when Thomas Allen ripped a shot from eight yards out. The ball was destined for the back of the net but defender Jordan Gafa was the last man on the line and headed the ball clear.

The line clearance started a flurry of shots from the 49ers that the Tar Heels continued to turn away. The 87th minute saw Charlotte rip a shot that was saved by Goodwin, the rebound was crossed to T.J. Beaulieu who headed the ball off the crossbar. Jordan McCrary forced his way in front of the next shot opportunity before a shot went side of the goal for a goal kick.

The Tar Heels became the first ACC team since Virginia in 1995 to claim the treble as UNC won the ACC regular season and tournament titles in addition to the NCAA title. Carolina finishes with a 21-2-3 mark which equals the school record for wins with the 2001 team.

Head coach Carlos Somoano became just the second coach in NCAA history to claim a national title in his first year.

Carolina is in the midst of one of the most successful runs in collegiate men's soccer history. Over the last 16 seasons, UNC has participated in the NCAA Championship 15 times, reached the quarterfinals nine times, advanced to the College Cup on five occasions and won national championships in both 2001 and 2011. Overall, the Tar Heel men's soccer team has competed in 22 NCAA tournaments, compiling a 33-18-7 record.

The Tar Heels made their first NCAA Tournament appearance in 1968 in a game played on a wet and muddy Fetzer Field. Unfortunately, the defending national co-champions from Michigan State spoiled the debut. The Spartans outshot the Tar Heels, 37-6, and won 5-0 on three goals by Tony Keyes and two from Tom Kreft.

The next time Carolina returned to the tournament was 1987. It wound up the most successful run prior to capturing the 2001 national title. Coached by Anson Dorrance, the Tar Heels entered the NCAA Tournament as the eighth-ranked team in the nation after winning the ACC Tournament. In the first round, Carolina defeated archrival and defending national-champion Duke, 2-0. The Tar Heels then battled South Carolina through two overtimes and a shootout before winning, 2-1, on a penalty kick by Derek Missimo.

In the quarterfinal against Loyola (Md.), Missimo scored on a header to give the Tar Heels a 1-0 victory, making Carolina only the fourth team in ACC history to achieve 20 wins in a season. Carolina then went to the Final Four but fell 4-1 to eventual champion Clemson on the Tigers' home field. The Tar Heels were ranked sixth in the final Soccer America rankings and placed sweeper David Smyth on the All-America team.

In 1988, Anson Dorrance's final year as the men's coach, the Tar Heels defeated Wake Forest, 2-0, in the first round of the tournament. Both Tar Heel goals came in the first half as Adam Tinkham scored on a breakaway and Marc Buffin kicked one in from 25 yards out. For Carolina, it was the 10th win in 11 games, the only loss coming to Virginia in the ACC Tournament championship game. The Tar Heels then advanced to the South Region championship, where they lost 3-1 to South Carolina.

Under coach Elmar Bolowich, Carolina again defeated Wake Forest in the first round of the 1990 tournament. Freshmen Chris Lyn and Brent Walker scored to give Carolina a 2-1 win and improve the series record against the Demon Deacons to 9-1-2. In the second round, the Tar Heels were defeated, 3-1, by Virginia at Charlottesville.

In the first round of the 1991 tournament, the Tar Heels defeated UNC Charlotte, 1-0, at Fetzer Field. Todd Haskins scored the winning goal on an assist by David Moore in the first overtime period. The Tar Heels then travelled to St. Louis, falling 4-0 to the hometown Billikens.

In 1993, the Tar Heels were once again victorious in the first round, holding on for a 3-2 victory over Duke. Gregg Berhalter scored a pair of goals off free kicks, and then Chapel Hill native Greg Caiola came off the bench to score the game-winner in the 69th minute. In the second round, the Tar Heels were upset, 2-1, by Air Force after ACC Rookie of the Year Temoc Suarez suffered a broken ankle midway through the first half.

Carolina returned to NCAA Tournament action in 1994 for the sixth time in eight seasons. Despite possessing the home-field advantage, Carolina was beaten by James Madison, 3-0, in the first round. The Tar Heels made an NCAA Tournament appearance in 1999 after a four-year absence. UNC played at No. 3 Furman and gave the Paladins, who eventually reached the NCAA Quarterfinals, all they could handle before losing, 2-1, in overtime.

In 2000, Carolina was the top overall seed in the tournament after winning the ACC championship. UNC hosted three games at Fetzer Field, coming back from a 2-0 deficit in the first round to defeat William & Mary, 3-2, in an overtime game played in a driving snowstorm. The Heels downed Rhode Island, 3-1, in the second round before losing to two-time defending NCAA champion Indiana in the quarterfinals.

The 2001 Tar Heels notched the men's first national title in their first-ever appearance in a national title game. After a rousing, late-game comeback win over Stanford to reach the finals, the Tar Heels faced and defeated five-time champion Indiana, who entered the tournament having given up just six goals all season.

The Tar Heels used an early goal 12 minutes in off a header by junior Ryan Kneipper to grab an early 1-0 lead. Kneipper beat an Indiana defender and goalkeeper Colin Rogers to a long cross from Matt Crawford and headed a shot from six yards out just inside the right post.

The Tar Heels then turned to their defense, led by senior captains Danny Jackson and Chris Leitch, senior goalkeeper Michael Ueltschey and sophomore David Stokes, who was assigned to Indiana all-everything player Pat Noonan for most of the game. Indiana put pressure on the Heels, but could not find a way to even the score against the stalwart Carolina defense.

At the 75 minute mark freshman Marcus Storey was fouled in the box, leading to a penalty kick by Jackson into the top left of the net, giving Carolina a 2-0 lead and its first-ever national title.

The Tar Heels made their fourth-consecutive tourney appearance in 2002. Carolina opened its title defense with a 6-0 win over Winthrop in Chapel Hill, paced by Kneipper's school-record tying five goals. In the second round, UNC fell on the road to Penn State, 1-0, in double overtime.

In 2003, UNC earned the No. 4 national seed and a first-round bye but lost to the nation's highest-scoring team, Coastal Carolina, 3-0, at Fetzer Field in the second round of the tourney.

The Tar Heels hosted a postseason match for the fifth straight year in 2004, but fell to George Washington, 1-0, in the first round.

Carolina was the tournament's No. 4 overall seed once again in 2005 and advanced to the quarterfinals for the fourth time in school history and third time over the last six seasons. The Tar Heels opened with wins over Providence (2-0) and Virginia (2-1) behind four goals from Ben Hunter. UNC was eliminated in the round of eight by SMU, 3-2 in double overtime.

UNC hosted once again - as the No. 14 seed - in 2006 but suffered a 1-0 loss to Old Dominion in its first match.

After missing the 2007 tourney, the Tar Heels returned as the No. 13 seed in the 2008 and made a run to the national title game with four straight one-goal victories and a stout defense. After opening the tourney with a second round win over Jacksonville, Carolina posted a 3-2 rain-soaked, overtime win over UIC to reach the quarterfinal round. All-America Michael Callahan tied the match with a 12-yard rocket in the 87th minute. In overtime, Brian Shriver sent a cross from the left flank to Garry Lewis at the far post for the game-winning header in the 95th minute.

The Tar Heels punched their ticket to the College Cup with a 1-0 win over Northwestern at Fetzer Field on freshman Kirk Urso's game-winner in the 61st minute.

UNC met No. 1 Wake Forest in the semifinals and jumped in front with a Brian Shriver header in the fourth minute. Zach Loyd made a run up the right side and found Shriver in the box for what proved to be the game-winner.

The Demon Deacons pressured the Tar Heels for the rest of the match, but goalkeeper Brooks Haggerty, who made a career-best seven saves, and the back four withstood the pressure and advanced to their second national title match with their third shutout of the 2008 NCAA Tournament.

In the final, Carolina suffered a 1-0 loss to Maryland, ending their memorable run through the postseason.

Carolina made a return trip to the College Cup in 2009 where the Tar Heels squared off against undefeated and unfied No. 1 Akron in the semifinals. The Tar Heels held the Zips scoreless for the first time on the season before falling, 5-4, in penalties.

The Tar Heels opened the NCAA Tournament with a first round bye before dispatching No. 25 Brown by a 2-0 margin. Indiana came to Chapel Hill next and left in similar fashion as Alex Dixon tallied the lone goal in UNC's 1-0 win. Next on the docket was No. 24 Drake who was the lone team to tally against Carolina during the 2009 NCAA Tournament en route to falling 2-1. Kirk Urso and Dixon scored in the win, as Dixon became the first player in school history to score in three consecutive NCAA Tournament games.

North Carolina advanced to its third consecutive NCAA College Cup in 2010 in remarkable fashion as the Tar Heels became the first team in NCAA history to advance in three consecutive rounds via penalty shootout.

The Tar Heels opened with a 0-0 draw against Georgetown before advancing 5-4 on penalties. In the second round, sophomore All-America Enzo Martinez delivered the goal of the tournament by scoring with nine seconds remaining in regulation to tie Michigan State before UNC advanced 5-4 on penalties once again. Another 1-1 draw in the quarterfinal round against SMU resulted in a 4-2 penalty win to send Carolina to Santa Barbara, Calif.

In the semifinal Carolina went up against undefeated and No. 1 overall seed Louisville. The Cardinals took a 1-0 lead early in the second half before Stephen McCarthy headed home a cross from Alex Dixon four minutes later to knot the score at 1-1. In another match looking to head to penalties, the Cardinals scored a last-minute goal to drop the Heels in heartbreaking fashion.

The 2011 season saw the Tar Heels reach the College Cup for a fourth-straight year and finally knock down the door to claim the second national championship in school history. Carolina claimed a 3-2 win over Coastal Carolina in the second round before Billy Schuler sent the Tar Heels through with an overtime winner against Indiana.

The Tar Heels downed Saint Mary's 2-0 in the quarterfinals to earn a trip to Hoover, Ala., where Carolina locked up with UCLA. The Tar Heels fell in an early 1-0 hole but netted a pair of goals in the second half to force overtime and an eventual penalty shootout that the Tar Heels claimed, 3-1. Ben Speas was the only person to tally in the championship as Carolina downed Charlotte to claim the 2011 National Championship.

Carolina reached the quarterfinal round for the fifth-straight season after picking up wins over UMBC (3-2 in penalty kicks) and Fairleigh Dickinson (1-0 in overtime) in Chapel Hill, before falling 1-0 at home to eventual national champion Indiana.

After a rare second round exit in 2013, UNC quickly regained its footing on the national scene with its sixth quarterfinal appearance in the last seven seasons. A 6-0 home win over James Madison was followed by a pair of 2-1 road wins over national seeds Charlotte and Clemson.

A cross-country trek ensued in the quarters at No. 2 UCLA in what turned out to be a match for the ages. Despite playing more than 90 minutes with 10 men, Carolina rallied from a 3-1 deficit on goals by Tyler Engel and Andy Craven to force penalties. The Bruins ultimately advanced to the College Cup with a 7-6 shootout victory over the Tar Heels.

Berhalter, Pope Play For U.S. In 2002 And 2006 World Cup

Former University of North Carolina men's soccer stars and long-time U.S. National Team members Gregg Berhalter and Eddie Pope were members of the 23-man 2006 United States World Cup team after also earning spots on the U.S. squad in 2002.

The two defenders both started games for the U.S. team during its 2002 qualifying campaign and World Cup run, and Pope started two matches in the 2006 World Cup.

Pope, who lettered at Carolina from 1992-95, made his third World Cup appearance, having started three World Cup games in 1998. Pope was a regular with the U.S. team throughout the last decade before retiring from international play following the 2006 World Cup.

Berhalter lettered at Carolina from 1991-93 and played professionally in Europe since leaving Chapel Hill until joining the MLS' LA Galaxy this season. He entered the 2006 World Cup with 44 career caps and was an injury replacement for Cory Gibbs. Berhalter started three games as a central defender during the USA's 2002 qualifying season and that year's World Cup was the first of his career.

Dax McCarty was a member of the 2008 U.S. Olympic Team in Beijing.

Defender Eddie Pope was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame in 2011.

TEAMMATES WANTED

THE RAMS CLUB

At Carolina our team has lofty expectations. Over 780 student-athletes start each year ready to sweat for straight A's and national championships. And as fans, you'd expect nothing less. To support those ambitions, The Rams Club and its members commit to fund scholarships for 450 student-athletes. It's an aggressive goal, but one that our members have accomplished every year.

The collective generosity of all Rams Club members makes a significant impact. It is an investment with a considerable return. Your support allows these tremendous future world leaders, teachers, doctors, artists and athletes to pursue success in competition and in the classroom.

You too can help sustain Carolina's tradition of excellence — show your pride, passion and support by joining The Rams Club.
